

Love Of A Billionaire

Chapter 71

Chapter 71 Remember What You Said

Davina used her audition to get Caroline in the reality show, slandering her in front of Assistant Director Jason, letting her spiral to a rejected actress, taking advantage of her, using such malicious tactics

After Arya returned back to home, there would no chance for her to survive this and make a comeback.

If Arya didn't know all this in advance, she would have been taken surprised.

What a meticulous plan!

They are going to pour all the muds on her head!

Compared to Davina's ruthless schemes, Caroline was not as dreadful as her.

However, Arya was a veteran and she wasn't someone to be targeted at.

Arya was confident in her abilities so she challenged Jason and Davina. She was also confident that the directing team would want her to represent East Asia in the reality show.

"Arya, do you still want to continue fighting over this now?"

Daniel frowned as he looked at Arya like a stranger. Not long ago, Arya would have listened to him and followed his instructions but now that was no longer the case. She had completely changed!

"That's right, why would I have any objections if Jason and the other agree to your participation. After all, you are also an artist under Brilliant Entertainment and it won't damage the company's image."

"That's right, why would I have any objections if Jason and the other agree to your participation. After all, you are also an artist under Brilliant Entertainment and it won't damage the company's image."

"Sister Davina!"

Caroline shouted as she could not bite her tongue any longer. She won't have a chance if they were both in the same scene.

"Then it's settled. With the tight schedule, if Jason hasn't changed his mind by 8 o' clock tomorrow morning, then we will arrange someone send to you back home." Davina said calmly.

She was aware Jason always hung onto grudges. Since Arya embarrassed him in front of so many people, he definitely won't allow Arya to participate in the show.

At least then, Arya won't be their problem anymore.

"Remember what you said!" Arya stood up and left the conference room.

When the door closed, Caroline pulled Daniel aside and asked anxiously, "What do we do if Jason finds out we were the ones that spread the rumors? Then ..."

"Shut up!" Davina snapped at her before Daniel could say anything. "Watch what you're saying. Do you think this is your home and you can say whatever you like? Daniel, get her out of here!"

"Okay, sister." Daniel did not dare to disobey Davina and quickly dragged Caroline away.

In the conference room, Davina's expression became wicked. She called the hotel to have the cameraman meet with Arya first.

Once the scandal is exposed, Arya would have to lower her head!

However, the hotel staff told her that Arya had never checked-in and her room has been empty.

"What? How can that be possible?"

If she is not in the hotel then where is she?

Davina hung up the phone and immediately arranged someone to investigate Arya's residence. They would know where she resides if they were to follow her.

Because Arya was not easy to deal with, the investigation did not go smoothly.
