

Love Of A Billionaire

Chapter 72

Chapter 72 Stunning

At the manor.

Arya looked at the invitation that Allen handed out to her and smiled. “Are you worried about me again?”

“It’s no big deal. I just rescheduled the event a week earlier instead.” His profile was very charming.

It was a film exhibition hosted by Dahua branch. All attendees were renowned actors and professional directors in the industry. Arya did not need to be concerned about her marriage with Allen made public as artists under Davina’s umbrella were not qualified to attend.

“You’re always thinking of me.” She walked towards him and put her arms around Allen. She relaxed when she leaned on him.

“If I don’t think about you then who do you expect should I think of.”

Allen smiled as he lifted Arya’s chin. His deep gaze glazed her face. He caressed her eyes, nose and finally stopped at her rosy lips. He leaned forward and kissed her passionately.

A bit of invasion and possession, they immersed themselves in their passionate kiss.

When Arya was breathless, Allen reluctantly released her. Filled with disappointment, he took a deep breath to surpass his desire.

“If you weren’t busy tonight, I wouldn’t have let you go so easily.”

“Oh really? Then I should thank Mr. Jones for showing mercy to me …” Arya smiled sweetly and let go of his hand.

She liked their interactions together. They were intimate, respectful and supportive of each other. This was the ideal marriage. No one possessed the other but still being their most important person in the world.

Who else other than Allen, could give her such happiness?

“I will send someone to take you there. I won’t be appearing tonight. I’ll leave the matter up to you.”

Of course if Allen was at the exhibition, he would be the center of attention. He didn’t want to dominate the whole matter but only wanted Arya to have a fighting chance against Caroline, Daniel and Davina.

Of course if Allen was at the exhibition, he would be the center of attention. He didn’t want to dominate the whole matter but only wanted Arya to have a fighting chance against Caroline, Daniel and Davina.

With his reputation, if he was to say a word, the Directing team would not dare reject Arya.

However, Arya would not be satisfied with that outcome as she wanted to use her own abilities and stand on her own two feet.

“Alright.”

Arya kissed him back sweetly, her eyes filled with happiness. This man knows her heart and knew what she wanted.

In the evening, luxury cars started to fill up the parking lot.

Arya had bodyguards surrounding her. She walked slowly into the exhibition hall with the guidance of the event staff.

Arya wore light makeup, dressed in a silver evening dress that Allen specially prepared for her. The exquisite design of the dress showed her sexy figure perfectly. Paired with her hair accessory and necklace, she looked like an angel that came down from above the clouds. Her expression was very calm and her attitude was graceful which attracted a lot of admiring gaze from everyone but she did not shy away from it.

“An Asian actress?”

“She looks very familiar. I can’t remember where I’ve seen her before. Who is …”

Arya’s appearance attracted a lot of attention. After all, she had once been awarded the best actress who attended red carpets of international award ceremonies and fashion weeks. The natural temperament she emanated was not something anyone could do.

But she retired for a few years and new faces showed up. Therefore, her face was now wrapped with a layer of mystery.

Just as everyone was speculating who she was, a voice was heard in the crowd.

“Arya!”

She turned her head towards the voice and saw Nasha pushing a few people aside who were blocking her way. She cheerfully walked over to Arya and hugged her. “What a surprise! I didn’t think I’d see you here! We haven’t seen each other in three years! How have you been?”

“I’ve been good. I’m sorry I arrived late.”

Arya smiled with a polite smile. She had always been very grateful to Nasha for her care and support. She is where she is today was mostly because of her extensive parts in the first few films working with Nasha. She walked this road on her own. If she chose the wrong path, she would have had a different outcome.

Since seeing Nasha and Arya were familiar with each other and hearing Nasha call out Arya’s name, many people started to recall the best actress from years ago.

“She’s the Chinese actress Nasha worked with before!”

“I remember the big blockbuster she was in that took ten years in the making.”

“Then later, she seemed to have retired and went back to her hometown. I didn’t expect I would see her again. She still looks so stunning. Is she planning to come back?”

Although all the guests were very curious about Arya, they all maintained their manners and did not disturb Arya’s conversation with Nasha. Expect one person, the assistant director Jason, who believed the rumors from Davina in the conference room and misjudged Arya.