

LOVE OF A BILLIONAIRE

Chapter 8 The Special Treatment He Gave Her

Although this was an expected answer, Allen looked at Arya and added, “My principle is that once it starts, it won’t end.”

“I have heard of the way Dahua Entertainment’s Director Allen Jones does things. I married you. I will be your wife with all my heart, but I have a request.”

Her clear eyes were captivating. Allen looked at her, “Speak.”

Arya answered firmly, “I will settle my grudge with Daniel myself. I want to settle it myself and not use the power of Dahua.”

Allen nodded in agreement.

This woman was indeed different. He also wanted to see how far Arya could go. Was this woman worth his love?

The two of them walked into Allen's mansion together.

"I have a document to look at. Take a rest first." He took steps forward and raised his left hand. "My bedroom is over there."

Arya blushed. "Alright."

He seemed to open a door to her, the only door she could enter.

Her cell phone vibrated. It was Luna.

"Arya, everything's done. We'll soon see the news of Caroline buying a role with a lot of money online. She used her relationship with Daniel to seize the company's resources and bully the newbies."

“Luna, thank you for your hard work.” Arya thanked her sincerely. Luna was still willing to follow and support her all this time. She was deeply moved.

“You don’t have to be polite with me. You definitely don’t know, this evidence was given to me by the employees of the company. They were always bullied by Caroline and told me that they are willing to help you. Arya, do what you want and we will all support you.”

“Thank you, Luna. Have you leaked the news about Caroline’s pregnancy?”

“Not yet. Have you really thought about this? What will you do then?”

She thought Arya still had feelings for Daniel.

Arya slightly raised her gaze and looked in the direction of Allen's study. With a relieved smile, she said, "I just found out that my fate isn't with him."

"Who is that? Is it....?" Luna's sharp eyes noticed something different about Arya. Just as she was about to ask, she was interrupted by a call to her cell phone. "It's Wind Speaker's reporter. I have serious business to attend to first!"

"Alright, I'll wait for your news." Arya put down her cell phone. Her mood has now completely changed from before.

One must always take a step forward in life in order to know what kind of scenery is out there.

She didn't know when Allen had appeared behind her. He didn't mean to listen to that phone call, but it wasn't too far away. Plus, he was also an Emperor level figure in the entertainment industry, so he briefly thought about Arya taking the initiative to marry him. The truth was easy to come by.

“You heard it?” Arya turned around and looked at him nervously. She was suddenly afraid that she would leave a bad impression in his heart.

“You are decisive.” Allen approached Arya and lifted her chin with his hand. A dangerous gaze swept across her face.

“I only do what I think is right!” Arya looked at him bravely. There was no hesitation in her eyes as she said, “Don’t misunderstand...”

“Is my idea important?” He smiled seductively, released her and turned to open the refrigerator. “I only believe what I see.”

With these words, Arya's heart seemed to have been moved by something, and was indescribably warm.

Her new husband could score 99 points.

After Daniel received the news, he slammed his phone down in anger, "Can anyone tell me what's going on?"

In less than half an hour, Brilliant Entertainment received a lot of calls from countless reporters. The news of Caroline buying up a role and a lot of anonymous posts had spread online, revealing the fact that she was bullying newbies and seizing resources after her debut.

The investors also chased after Daniel for an explanation.

At this moment, due to Arya replacing Caroline and trying out the audition, Brilliant Entertainment's reputation was greatly affected.

Caroline looked at him and frowned. "You still can't see that all of this is Arya's doing. She just doesn't want me to be happy."

"No, if she finds out I'm with you, she'll come looking for me." Daniel thought that he knew Arya very well. "I will have someone to investigate this."
