Chapter 1091 Kill the Heart!

Leah's face turned pale and stiffened suddenly. She realized what the other party was about to say and let out a desperate cry, "No, no, please don't say it! Please, I beg you, don't say it!"

But no matter how she cried and pleaded, she couldn't stop the filthy truth buried deep in the darkness from being exposed and completely revealed to everyone.

From the moment the truth was exposed, Leah's name was destined to never survive in the world again.

"Although Miss Leah did not have the ability to participate in the murder of Lady Nevaeh, she was involved in all the abuse inflicted on Lady Selena throughout the entire process."

"Leah had a teacher who taught her all the atrocities she committed against Lady Selena."

"From the moment Lady Selena lost her mother until she was nineteen years old, during the fourteen years, they intentionally caused all the harm, abuse, control, and mental torture to Lady Selena."

"And that teacher is the real culprit who killed Lady Nevaeh!"

As the dark and ugly truth was gradually revealed, the scene suddenly fell into a suffocating silence. Everyone widened their eyes, their expressions turning blank.

In the Turner family mansion, when Patrick heard this, he suddenly bent over and coughed violently.

Jason was shocked and hurriedly patted his back, "Young Master!"

Since Black Crow came to the capital, Patrick had not been sick for a long time.

Suddenly hearing this infuriating truth, even a man with such incredible self-control could not contain his emotions.

Patrick lowered his head, his eyes becoming unusually cold.

No wonder...

Chapter 1092 Incident

If Selena hadn't said those words to him in the beginning, he might have taken action to save Leah. But now, Leah was ruined and the woman behind her could no longer hide. Once the truth was known to the world, the woman's reputation and fate would be even more tragic than Leah's!

With just a few words, Selena had taken away Leah's biggest protection. "So, Clark, if you want to go against me, what will be your outcome?" Selena smiled.

Clark looked at Selena, who was surrounded by a group of bodyguards and police officers in the middle, and let out a sigh. "Although it's a pity, but..." He showed a gentle smile on his face. "Lady Selena, you shouldn't block the way for my master!"

At the same moment that the man finished speaking, a bullet suddenly pierced through the glass and flew towards Selena's position at lightning speed. Selena's eyes suddenly turned cold. Before the people around her could react, her slender body suddenly leaned back, and the deadly bullet barely grazed her cheek as it flew past.

At the same time, intense gunfire erupted from many directions in the quiet press conference venue. The bodyguards brought by Selena and the police officers at the scene protected the people around them for the first time. The police officer standing on the high platform drew his gun and shouted sternly, "Get down!"

Most of the people at the press conference were still immersed in the truth of Lady Nevaeh's death and hadn't come back to their senses yet, and they were immediately knocked to the ground by someone.

When they realized what had happened, countless people covered their heads and screamed in fear. The scene instantly turned chaotic.

At the same time Selena dodged the bullet, Clark took out his gun from his pocket and aimed it at Selena. He was just about to pull the trigger when a lucky cat suddenly smashed onto his wrist.

The light cloth doll seemed to weigh a ton as it landed on his hand, causing the gun to fall to the ground with a loud "pop."

Under this overwhelming speed of clearing the scene, the noisy press conference quickly settled down, and even the screams gradually subsided.

Ten minutes later, most of the assassins on the scene had been subdued, and the chaotic order gradually returned. The ordinary people who had encountered this kind of situation for the first time were sitting on the ground, breathing heavily, crying and laughing, all showing a post-disaster look of relief.

Just when everything seemed to calm down, suddenly countless people rushed out from the crowd protected by police and bodyguards.

They pulled out guns from their bodies, countless black holes aimed at Selena on the high platform at the same time, and pulled the trigger.

The scene screamed again.

The bodyguard standing beside her almost instantly stood in front of Selena, intending to use his own body to block the imminent danger.

Selena snorted coldly.

As she watched the rain-like bullets about to be fired towards her, a group of people suddenly rushed out from behind those people, and knocked them down first.

Selena stared at Clark with cold eyes, her voice chilling to the bone, "What do you want?"

It was well-known that the person who asked this question first in a game of chess meant compromise.

Clark smiled gently, "Lady Selena, although my master is not a good person, he doesn't like to kill innocent people."

"His goal has always been only you."

"If you are willing to take your own life, then this thing will lose all its value."

"Is it using the lives of so many innocent people to exchange for your life, or using your death to exchange for their peaceful lives?"

"The choice is in your hands."

With Clark's calm words, the already silent scene became even quieter.

Everyone was looking at the remote control in Clark's hand.

Even the ignorant could understand the meaning behind the remote control.

Once Clark pressed the remote control, everyone could be blown up and die here.

Thinking of this, some timid girls became weak and subconsciously looked at Selena.

"After ten minutes, even if you want to make a choice, I won't be able to change the outcome."

When they heard that they only had ten minutes, the expressions of the ordinary people on the scene became even more fearful and desperate, and the voices of the young girls became louder. Some people glared at Clark, while others looked at Selena.

Selena's white face seemed to turn even paler. She lifted her beautiful, quiet eyes and stared at Clark, her voice icy and sharp as a knife, "I ask you, who was it that conspired with Cassius to kill everyone in my the Turner family?!"

Clark was stunned. It seemed that, at this critical moment, Selena's first concern was not her own life or death, but the enemy who had slaughtered her the Turner family.

However...

In the face of such a tragedy that had befallen the the Turner family, it was not strange for a Miss of the Turner family to ask such a question. After all, the blood of the the Turner family was indeed powerful. Every son and daughter was an admirable child of heaven.

If it were not for being on the wrong side, Clark almost wanted to applaud the courage and wisdom of the Miss of the Turner family.

There was only such a girl in the entire capital who was worthy of their the Anderson family's young master.

Clark may not be a good person, but he was not someone like Leah who had no sense of right and wrong. He would kill Selena, but he would not insult or disrespect her.

So when he heard Selena's question, Clark smiled, "I'm sorry, Miss Turner. Although I would like to fulfill your wish, in our respective positions, I cannot tell you the answer."

Pausing for a moment, he added, "But if I have the chance in the future, I will go to your tombstone and tell you the truth."

With Matthew's words, the young girl who was about to speak and plead with Selena suddenly choked up. She stood there frozen, her face turning white as she watched the tearful girl on the stage. She opened her mouth several times, but in the end, no more words came out.

For millions of years, human beings have evolved with manners, morals, and laws to restrain their desires and shortcomings in the hope of living a better life. Today, the vast majority of this group have already purged the evil within their nature and become longing for freedom and kindness.

Moreover, the majority of those who came to the scene today were fans of Selena and "Breaking Ground." With the tragedy of the Turner family and the news of Lady Nevaeh's tragic death, and the truth that Selena had been abused for so many years, no one could, in good conscience, shout out that Selena should die for them.

Clark frowned but remained calm, "To you all, using Miss Turner as a bargaining chip to exchange your right to live is an uncomplicated choice."

"After all, as long as you speak up, Miss Turner, as a member of the Turner family, will not just stand by and watch so many people die for her."

This sentence once again made the pleas that had just been silenced by Matthew start to stir again.

Suddenly, Estrella stood up and glared at Clark in anger. "If we really do that today, Lady Selena's family and fiance will not let us go!"

"Lady Selena has so many people protecting her, and if we have the idea of sacrificing her, we don't even need to act. Those who protect Lady Selena will silence us first!"

"Sir, don't waste your time trying to sow discord among us!"

"We may be selfish, greedy, or afraid of death... but we will never do something as depraved as sacrificing someone else!"

Estrella's words froze the faces of those who were just about to speak and plead with Selena.

As soon as she spoke, everyone's eyes turned towards her.

The people who were crying in fear had a glimmer of hope in their eyes.

Clark pressed the red button on the remote control hard and his tone finally became cold, "Miss Turner, do you think I dare not act or are you too confident in yourself?"

Selena smiled and walked towards him calmly, "You can try."

Clark sneered and pressed the remote control in front of the terrified crowd.

Many people's hearts tightened and they screamed with their hands over their heads.

Nothing happened!

Clark's face finally changed, his smile disappeared, and he stared at Selena coldly.

Selena's smile was cold and arrogant, "I already said that playing a praying mantis catching cicadas game with me comes with a price!"

Luke, who had been silent the whole time, finally spoke up, "Clark, don't you even know whose territory Creephia is?"

Everyone knew who "she" referred to--Leah!

After Selena finished speaking, she got into the car.

The black sports car sped towards the airport.

Inside the hotel, Luke's expression darkened as he watched Selena hurriedly leave. The only thing that could cause such an abnormal reaction from Selena was if something had happened on the capital's side.

And there were only a few people that Selena truly cared about.

The chances of something happening to Patrick were minimal.

That left only Miss Hattie, who had a psychological disorder.

Luke rubbed his temples.

Had they still not been able to prevent this?

Matthew watched as Clark and the assassins were all arrested. He turned to Luke and said, "Mr. Jordon, Lady Selena she--"

Luke raised his hand to stop Matthew from continuing. "Let's leave this place first!"

After Luke spoke, he and the people from the Olympus Group turned and headed back to the company.

Miss Turner's return this time would certainly result in a reprimand.

Jason remembered what Selena had done after returning to the capital and wiped the sweat from his forehead.

When Miss Turner publicly challenged Capital University at Creephia University, he thought it was shocking enough, but he never imagined she could be even more amazing.

Although it was a bit scary, it had to be admitted that with such a young lady in the Turner family, it might be possible to quickly regain the glory of the top family in Capital by recapturing the research institute.

In the small villa, Leon threw away his cigarette and walked into the room, looking at Hattie shivering on the bed. He spoke softly, "Selena is fine. She's already on her way back, and you'll be able to see her soon."

Hattie's trembling seemed to stop momentarily but quickly resumed its previous state.

Leon's eyes flashed with a hint of tenderness, and he gently smoothed the covers for his sister before turning and leaving the room.

He stood in the hallway and focused his attention on checking Hattie's phone.

This was the villa that Osvaldo had bought for Selena.

No matter how long those people's hands were, they couldn't place someone close to Osvaldo, especially someone close to Selena, whom Osvaldo could be one hundred percent sure of their loyalty to the Anderson family.

Therefore, if something happened to Hattie, it was unlikely to be the people around her who had done something.

It could only be this phone.

Leon stared at Hattie's phone for a moment but didn't find anything worth noting.

When Leon walked out, Daphne hurriedly greeted him, "Leon, how is Hattie?"

Leon looked at the worried old lady.

If it weren't for the two deceased lives of Nevaeh and Selena, no one would probably believe that she could do such a cruel thing, judging from Daphne's expression right now.

Daphne's heart trembled as she felt Leon's gaze on her, and she asked in a trembling voice, "How is Hattie? Leon, please tell me!"

Leon lowered his eyes, "Grandma, what are you doing all of this for..."

Daphne's heart tightened, "What do you mean, Leon? What are you talking about?"

Leon's tone was icy, "Aunt Nevaeh is your own daughter. You lost her when she was young, and when you finally found her, shouldn't you compensate and love her doubly?"

"But what have you and grandpa done?!" Daphne asked.

"For the sake of Kiera, you ignored and hurt her, abandoned her, and even caused her death. And for Kiera's daughter, you and grandpa could be so heartless to ignore her for so many years..."

Downstairs, in the lobby.

Patrick stood there, listening to the maid report what had happened. He stood by the window, remembering Selena's icy coldness when he picked her up at the airport, and his heart grew cold as well.

When the maid finished, Patrick remained silent for a long time before suddenly asking, "Where is your young master?"

He had left Selena in Creephia, feeling relieved because Osvaldo had gone with her. But with such a big incident happening in Creephia, Osvaldo had not shown up at all.

The maid choked and shook her head. "I don't know."

Patrick turned to look at Leia.

Leia had always been by Selena's side, but this time she really didn't know where Osvaldo had gone. Afraid of upsetting the Turner family by taking their daughter back, Leia said, "The young master is fine and absolutely wouldn't want to leave Madam Selena."

"Before he left, he left the best people by his side to protect Madam Selena."

"Madam Selena won't be in danger."

Patrick looked away and was silent for a moment before finally saying, "When Miss Riddle wakes up, let Selena go back to the Turner family."

Leia looked worriedly upstairs and nodded. "Okay."

All of the dirt from her past 20 years had been exposed by Selena, and on top of that, at the press conference earlier today, she had joined forces with Clark to commit such a big case, which was destined to face legal sanctions.

And with Selena... after the truth about Lady Nevaeh's death was revealed, and given what that woman had done to Hattie, Selena would definitely not show her any mercy.

Leah knew that once she was arrested and thrown into jail, she would be facing a dead end. Dominic pushed her hand away coldly and said, "I can't save you!"

Everything that Leah had done was beyond despicable, and at this point, there was no one who could save her.

His expression was just like when he despised Selena!

Cold and heartless to the point of being frightening!

Leah's eyes were red, and she smiled sadly.

This was the man she had snatched away from Selena at all costs, spending more than a decade to do so!

Leah remembered what her teacher had told her.

After the regretful wedding, the reason why Dominic suddenly changed his attitude towards Selena was that Selena had a 20% stake in the Riddle's.

And this big threat, Dominic had never told her anything about it.

From beginning to end, this man had roasted her over the fire!

The reason why he tolerated her, Leah, for so long was not because of any so-called liking.

He just wanted to use her to control the Riddle's!

Dominic had never loved her, nor had he loved Selena.

Dominic looked at her belly and his heart trembled.

After all, it was his flesh and blood inside.

In the end, Dominic walked over, lifted his hands, and hugged Leah's cold body. "Turn yourself in, Selena is not a cruel person. As long as you stop being a troublemaker, maybe she will give you a chance to have the baby..."

Leah leaned on his shoulder, looking out the window on a dark and stormy night.

There was not a trace of light in the sky. The heavy rain poured down.

Listening to Dominic's gentle voice, her face was cold, "Okay, Dominic, this time, I'll listen to you."

Dominic suddenly relaxed.

Regardless, the child Leah carried was his. Naturally, he did not want to see his child die before birth.

Chapter 1099 Teacher, Save Me

Both Selena and Hattie's faces were so pale that it was heartbreaking to look at.

Leia quietly walked up behind Selena and whispered, "Madam Selena, you should go rest now."

Selena had been at Hattie's bedside since returning from Creephia in the morning, not leaving for a moment. Her health was already not good, and if she continued like this, she might get sick.

Selena's dark eyes moved, and she seemed to have finally come back to her senses from some kind of emotion. She lowered her head and looked at Hattie, who was nestled in her arms with her eyes closed.

After a moment, Selena whispered, "Come and help me."

Leia was stunned for a moment, then immediately reacted and went forward to take Hattie from Selena's arms and lay her down on the bed.

Selena moved her numb wrists and legs until they returned to normal, then stood up from Hattie's bedside and walked out of the room.

After Leia closed the door, she dared to ask Selena, "Madam Selena, Miss Hattie...?"

Selena walked downstairs and said, "She will be fine."

Leia blinked. "But Miss Hattie's condition seems more severe than the previous times..."

Dominic lay on the ground, watching the flames devour everything around him and spread towards him and Angie.

The feeling of impending death was far more fearful than facing death itself.

Moreover, it was such a brutal way to die.

Dominic lay on the ground and felt for the first time the intense hatred and regret.

If he had not provoked Leah, Selena would not hate him and leave him completely.

He went from being a rich and powerful young man to having nothing at all. In the end, he faced the prospect of being burned alive. The flames had spread to him and he watched in horror as the fire consumed his hands, burning them beyond recognition. The excruciating pain caused him to scream in agony. At the same time, he heard Angie's screams of despair and misery.

Dominic fell to the ground, weeping in despair. He thought he and Angie were going to die in the fire, but suddenly a group of people burst in from outside with fire extinguishers and sprayed the flames wildly. Someone approached him and lifted him up from the ground, dragging him outside. Another person went into the room where Angie was and brought out a person covered in blood.

The first thing Dominic saw when he looked at Angie was her bloody appearance. Her face, arms, and body were covered in deep cuts. She was barely recognizable, and Dominic could imagine how Leah had used a knife to inflict those horrific wounds on her. No wonder Angie had screamed so loudly...

Dominic was filled with hatred as the rescuers dropped off the Walson siblings at the door and stood guard nearby. He didn't have time to look at who had saved them and immediately called out to Angie, "Angie..."

It was so cold.

It was so dark.

Chapter 1100 You animal!

Dominic looked up at the person in front of him, staring blankly. It was a face he was so familiar with, yet there was a sense of unfamiliarity that made his heart tremble.

On this cold and stormy night, the person standing in front of him held a black umbrella, with a slender and thin body that had shed its youth and revealed a bit of a man's figure. He wore all black clothing and had pale and gloomy eyes. His gaze overlooking Dominic and Angie was chilling and cruel.

Shocked, Dominic could barely even call out his name, "Talon..."

Talon looked down at him and spoke in a lifeless tone, "Regretting it now?"

Dominic widened his eyes, "You... how did you..."

Become like this?

Both Dominic and Talon were young masters of the Walson family, but while Dominic was the eldest grandson and had both parents, receiving endless admiration since childhood, Talon, who had no parents, naturally had a harder life in a family like the Walsons.

But even if he didn't pay much attention, Dominic still knew what kind of person Talon was. However, the person standing in front of him now, with that same face, had a bloody smell that couldn't be suppressed between his eyes, making Dominic shiver all over.

He looked up at Talon and spoke with difficulty, "Talon, save Angie, I beg you... save Angie..."

In Dominic's mind, Talon would appear here at this moment and rescue them because of their blood relationship as members of the Walson family.

But he forgot that Talon hated him and Angie more than anyone else!

Talon coldly pulled the corners of his mouth and said, "I don't want to hear her voice again in the future!"

Angie's mouth, which had spoken so many hurtful words to her over the past decade, should have ceased to exist long ago.

Before Dominic could understand the meaning of these words, he saw a figure step out from behind Talon and walk up to Angie.

In Angie's terrified screams, the person lifted her chin firmly and poured a bowl of medicine down her throat.

In the future, if the Walson family prospered, there might be a chance for the four of them to return to the
