Chapter 1251 Villain!

Horus' mind was blank, and he had no idea how to deal with the storm that M country was about to face.

As he was lost in thought, his companion's phone in his pocket suddenly vibrated.

The call was answered, and the person on the other end seemed to be shouting something. Even through the screen, the caller's despair could be felt.

Upon hearing the other person's words, the person who answered the call's face turned pale in an instant. Then, their incredulous gaze fell squarely on Eden, who was on the screen.

Seeing his reaction, the people from both teams instantly thought of something, and their gazes bore down on him.

The person who answered the call looked at Horus' inquiring eyes and said with a pale face, "It's a call from Lyon. His test results are out, and he has late-stage stomach cancer..."

The people from both teams recalled what Eden had said earlier and looked at him with eyes that seemed to be staring at a monster.

Locke quickly composed himself and led the team from the F country out, "As expected, not everyone can graduate successfully from Lab 717."

"Nor can just anyone develop the 'genius disease'..."

Horus closed his eyes again and gritted his teeth, "Make a call and bring all the medical professors within the alliance here!"

In fact, Horus didn't need to make the call himself. The news of such a big event in the competition had already been received by all the medical professionals within the alliance.

In the meeting room at this moment, everyone was staring at Victor with a peculiar look in their eyes.

Then, like a little tail, he ran after Selena.

Selena had just reached the door and was about to open the door, but the door suddenly opened from the outside.

Selena was startled and looked up to see Osvaldo standing at the door, still in the same posture as when she had entered.

His deep black eyes were fixed on her face, exuding a gentle and longing fragrance.

Selena blinked.

Although they had only been apart for a few hours, she suddenly... missed him a bit.

She didn't suppress her longing and joyfully threw herself into the man's arms.

Osvaldo held his wife tightly, lowered his head, and kissed her eyes, "Congratulations, Selena."

Selena hadn't felt much before, but when she heard the man's words, she became happy.

She hugged his slender neck with her delicate wrist and had a sweet smile on her face, "Thank you, honey."

Osvaldo slightly lifted his thin lips and directly lifted Selena up, turning to walk to the side. As he passed by, everyone made way for him.

Although the media and onlookers who were gathered around wanted to interview Selena desperately, facing the man's overpowering aura, not one person dared to approach them.

Selena was brought back to the room by Osvaldo and rested for forty minutes.

At two o'clock in the afternoon, the H Country team, led by several old professors from the Alliance, re-entered the venue.

As soon as Selena appeared, there was a deafening scream from the audience.

The onlookers were fortunate enough to witness the birth of a genius and a miracle, and they were extremely excited.

Ignoring the cheers and applause around her, Selena walked with Eden and the other three people towards the podium.

Most of the other countries' teams had already arrived.

At the moment Selena stepped up, everyone's gaze fell on her in the first instant, with various complex emotions.

But without exception, no one dared to look at them with a hint of disdain or contempt.

Selena stood in the area designated for H Country.

Eden and the other three people stood beside her.

In order to see H Country's jokes, the organizers specially placed H Country in the middle of the teams from M Country and F Country before the competition, in order to achieve the purpose of using the two best teams to set off H Country's embarrassment.

Countless medical workers celebrated and shouted loudly. Principal Chow and his group of elderly people laughed excitedly.

After twenty years, H country finally once again showed its brilliance in international medicine, surpassing all others.

And inside the competition venue, thunderous applause rang out.

Selena saw this scene and smiled.

Eden, due to severe social anxiety, always wanted to hide behind Selena, but because of Osvaldo standing motionless below the stage and staring at Selena, he reluctantly stood shyly next to Selena, the closest person to her.

Hamish stood upright beside Eden.

Eduard and Zachary stood side by side to the left of Selena.

The four young men had joyful smiles on their faces as they collectively turned their heads, their eyes shining as they watched the judges solemnly place the shiny golden trophy into Selena's hands.

With a click, a photo was taken and captured the moment.

At this moment, most people's attention was focused on the grand award ceremony, and no one noticed that many people in the venue were quietly disappearing.

A journalist struggled to push through the crowd, holding up his mobile phone and preparing to take a picture of Selena, when suddenly a hand reached out from behind him and quickly covered his mouth, dragging him out of the crowd.

As Dillon was about to leave, Victor asked, "Where are you going?"

Dillon moved his neck and stared fiercely at Osvaldo on the screen. "I will use this man's blood to wash away the shame of the 'Seal'!"

As the leader of the "Seal," he had never suffered such a big loss before.

He had sent out so many people, but not only did they fail to achieve their goal, but they also did not even bring back a single survivor.

For the "Seal," who were known for their cruelty and cold-bloodedness, this was an absolute humiliation!

Dillon stared at Osvaldo's handsome and delicate face, sneered, and walked out of the monitoring room.

And just as his figure disappeared, Osvaldo on the screen suddenly turned his head and seemed to glance in his direction.

His deep and eerie eyes were filled with a trace of inorganic coldness.

Victor, who had been staring at the monitor, shuddered at the man's gaze.

When he looked back again, Osvaldo's eyes were still fixed on Selena without moving.

The professor finally confirmed, "Yes!"

He personally took a brand new microphone and handed it to Selena. "If you can use your father's research results to benefit all of humanity, I, on behalf of the entire medical community, thank you and your father for your efforts!"

Selena was not surprised.

Although Julian is not within the alliance, this is his territory, and he will not let her struggle in this aspect. Selena took the microphone and faced everyone. In that instant, her aura suddenly changed. The gentleness and warmth belonging to a doctor were completely gone, replaced by cold elegance and dignity.

Selena stood below the platform, overlooking the dense audience below, her cold and elegant voice echoing through the microphone, clearly audible throughout the venue.

"Professor Victor, the respected and beloved 'father of the neurosurgery field' in M country, is he trying to prove to everyone that all his research achievements in the field of neurosurgery over the past 20 years belong to him alone? Where is he now?"

In the face of Selena's overwhelming strength that completely crushed Victor's research theory, even the people of M country dared not insult or curse her as before.

They racked their brains, and even couldn't find a reason to defend Victor.

Over the years, Victor has given many lectures on neurosurgery in major hospitals and universities, repeatedly mentioning the issue of artificial vascular replacement surgery.

But his research has remained in the initial stage until now.

Selena, on the other hand, has actually used her strength to prove the success and release of "artificial vascular replacement surgery" to everyone.

At the competition venue, in the next second after Victor gave the order, someone in the audience suddenly lifted a gun and aimed at Selena.

Unfortunately, before his bullet could even leave the barrel, it was pierced through his wrist by a sudden flying knife.

Half of his hand was almost cut off, but the pain didn't stop him.

With a grimace on his face, he took out another gun with his left hand and aimed it at Selena, repeatedly pulling the trigger, vowing to kill her here!

With a bang, the bullet suddenly shot into his forehead, and he opened his eyes wide, falling down straight.

The sudden explosive scene frightened the audience.

After realizing what had happened, the people around the corpse were frightened and fled.

On the high platform, Selena looked at the enemy who finally revealed his despicable and fierce true face, and laughed with interest.

At this moment, the body had been taken away from the competition venue, and a large number of security guards were added. The frightened ordinary people finally settled down.

Selena looked at Victor who was forcibly brought in, her eyes full of disdain, "Why don't you leave earlier? Do you have to make such an ugly scene... coward!"

Victor looked at the podium, but he was unwilling to go up no matter what.

Dillon the madman always did what he said. A few minutes later, this place would definitely explode. Wouldn't he die with them then?

But no matter how unwilling and frightened Victor was, he could not resist the two black-clad bodyguards who were holding him. In full view of the public, he was thrown at Selena's feet.

Victor fell to the ground in a miserable state, his face twisted, "I am the father of the field of neurosurgery, a hero of M country, and a great man in the history of world medicine. How dare you treat me so rudely?!"

Selena sneered, "Wrong, you are a disgrace and shame in the history of M country's medicine!"

"If you hadn't taken my father's research materials for yourself, but had kept your promise to H country back then and made it public, letting medical practitioners all over the world study and overcome it, the artificial blood vessel replacement surgery might have been available long ago."

"Because of your stupidity and selfishness, medical research in the field of neurosurgery has been stagnating for nearly 20 years, causing countless people to lose the opportunity to save their lives!"

"You are not only a criminal of H country, but also a criminal in the history of human medicine!"

Victor shook his head frantically and glared at Selena, "You're lying! I am the father of the field of neurosurgery! All the glory belongs to me!"

"With this, I will truly become the father of neurosurgery! Give it to me! Give it to me!!!"

Without needing Selena to continue proving her point, Victor's reaction had already told everyone who the despicable liar was.

The audience on-site looked at Victor with disgust upon seeing his crazed expression. Meanwhile, viewers from all over the world flooded the live streams with curses aimed at Victor.

Looking at Victor's frenzied expression, Selena raised an eyebrow, suddenly seemed to have thought of something, and her eyes revealed a hint of disdain. "Do you think we, the H nation, tampered with the data we handed to you?"

This sentence accurately struck Victor's greatest indignation, which probably meant he knew he couldn't escape the fate of ruining his reputation.

Victor glared fiercely at Selena. "You accuse me of being despicable, but what about you H nation people?"

"Although you openly agreed to hand over the data related to the field of neurosurgery to our M country, in reality, what you gave us was just a pile of rubbish!"

"If I had the complete follow-up data, the first person to conquer artificial blood vessel replacement surgery would never be someone like you!"

"You people from the H nation are the most despicable and shameless existence!"

Hearing Victor's self-righteous accusations, except for Selena and Eden, the other three members of the H nation's team looked at Victor with a sympathetic look.

Selena sneered, "We, the H nation, have acted righteously. What my father's original data looks like is what we gave you, and not a single word is missing."

The professors from the Alliance who were beside them were even more dumbfounded. Locke suppressed the tremors and fear in his heart and stared at Eden, asking in a trembling voice, "Didn't you start studying things related to neurosurgery from a young age?"

Eden looked at him strangely, as if he had asked a strange question. "Why do you have to start studying such a simple thing from a young age?"

Locke couldn't help but clench his fists.

Eden didn't get an answer and turned to look at Selena. Selena probably didn't understand what was strange about these people, but she could guess from their blank expressions. After thinking for a moment, she explained, "My father left behind very complete information on this topic. As long as you follow his train of thought, it's basically not difficult."

"The reason why everyone thinks that artificial replacement surgery is difficult to overcome is probably because of this scum..." Selena glanced at Victor. "He's too stupid, so he makes everyone think that this problem is difficult."

A sinister silence echoed in the large conference hall.

Not only were the on-site audience stunned, but the medical students who had been watching the live broadcast in the capital university were also left stupefied.

"Mr. Turner's things are actually very simple?!"

"As long as you follow his steps, it's basically error-free?!"

The crowd was speechless.

This was no longer a simple critical hit; it was a soul-crushing blow.

If this was the graduation standard for 717, could they even hope to graduate from 717 in their lifetime?!

A group of geniuses stared at the beautiful and fair-skinned girl on the screen, sinking into deep doubts about their own lives.

At the competition site, upon hearing Selena's words, Victor was in complete despair. "This can't be! Absolutely impossible..."

Seeing his devastated expression, Eduard sneered. "It's true. The entire H country knows that Miss Turner was only recognized by the Turner family three months ago and entered Capital University to access the research materials left by Mr. Turner. The research topic on artificial blood vessel replacement surgery was only encountered for the first time a week before the competition. Because we considered it a terminal illness, we did not study it in depth during our review. They only looked at it twice."

But even they didn't expect that these two "gods" would actually be able to learn it after just two readings! This fact was too much to bear.

Victor's expression was insane, and he refused to believe that something he had been researching for twenty years could be learned in just two readings. He grabbed his hair and knelt on the podium, letting out beast-like roars.

Seeing Victor, who was unable to accept reality and had already become a little crazy, all the medical experts present had complex expressions.

Certainly, Selena had a point. If Callum's research materials had not been hoarded by Victor, perhaps the artificial blood vessel replacement surgery would have been conquered long ago.

Although surprised and confused, Patrick carried out the order.

Oscar looked at Eden.

It was not surprising that Selena could easily decipher Callum's research data. After all, she was a rare super genius who had been taught by Callum himself in the laboratory he left behind for a long time. She knew Callum's way of thinking like the back of her hand.

What really surprised Oscar was Eden.

Callum's style of medical establishment was completely opposite to his character, and he was known for being elusive and unpredictable. It was difficult for people who did not understand him to keep up with his thought process.

Oscar gazed at this young boy who suddenly appeared, and a hint of hope surfaced in his indifferent eyes.

At the international competition site, Selena looked at the manic Victor and sneered, "Twenty years ago, the Arctic laboratory incident broke out. My father led a group of H country's most outstanding medical talents to the far north and paid with their lives to prevent that inhumane disaster!"

In the silence, Selena's icy voice was particularly clear.

When it came to the tragedy of the Turner family, Selena couldn't keep a calm mind. She closed her eyes tightly and said, "Do you see it? Your peace and happiness today were all gained at the cost of trampling on the corpses of our H countrymen!"

The elderly medical professors present all covered their faces when they saw this scene. They had always known that in the medical disaster, H country was the real hero.

Twenty years ago, it was their sacrifice that led to the destruction of the Arctic laboratory. They knew the weight of this debt, but as time passed and H country's position in international medicine fell further and further behind, everyone gradually forgot that it was H country that had stopped the disaster in the first place.

It was the brilliant man named Callum.

Some of the old professors couldn't help but shed tears and immediately stood up, bowing to Selena, "I'm sorry, Miss Turner, I should have stood up earlier! Your father is a hero of humanity! We owe H country!"

Selena opened her eyes. She ignored the people apologizing to her and stared at Victor with her dark and cold eyes.

Her gorgeous red lips curled up in a cruel sneer, "And after my father's death was reported to H country, this scum led a group of people from M country to H country, trying to coerce and bribe us to hand over my father's research materials!"

"My father's teachers refused to believe the news of his death and refused him!"

Inside the capital campus.

Principal Chow and his group of people finally saw the long-awaited scene, and tears streamed down their faces.

Since the moment they were forced to hand over Callum's research materials to Victor, this matter had become the biggest heartache for the entire medical community in H country.

They had handed over Callum's materials for the sake of human medical progress. But personally, they all felt guilty towards the Turner family, towards Callum!

The most heartbreaking thing was that they had handed over these valuable research materials to such a shameless scoundrel.

For the past twenty years, they had watched the other party take their H country hero's honor, cheat and bully, and almost never sleep well at night.

It seems like there's nothing she can't do.

With someone like her, will the day when the Turner family avenges their enemies and regains their glory be far away?

For a moment, all eyes in the capital were on Selena.

...

As Selena publicly exposed the ugly truth, everyone was shocked beyond words.

After a moment, a barrage of curses rained down on Victor.

"I always wondered how Victor, who was just an ordinary person when he was young, suddenly became so smart..."

"So all of his achievements and glory were stolen!"

"A disgrace to the medical community! A shameless thief!"

Those who lost loved ones twenty years ago due to cardiovascular disease looked at Victor with eyes full of hatred, wishing they could tear him to shreds.

Once highly respected Professor Victor was now kneeling on the ground in disarray, screaming, "This is impossible! How could I be inferior to a little girl?!"

But the cruel reality proved to him that the so-called impossible was just his own delusion!

Under the extreme contrast and fear, Victor went crazy.

With a crazed and hateful look in his eyes, he stared at Selena and Eden, shouting, "Die! You damned geniuses, all of you die!"

With that man present, Selena would be safe.

Only then did Patrick manage to suppress his panic and said, "How could M country be so ruthless as to sacrifice their own people for this...?"

Not only the M country's team, but also the teams from F country, D country, and more than thirty other countries were on the podium at that moment.

Had M country become so arrogant?

Oscar's eyes turned cold, "Horus is the son of M country's Speaker of the House, and M country won't sacrifice him. This should be the "Seal's" private behavior!"

A few minutes earlier.

After pushing Hamish and Eduard off the stage, Selena immediately wanted to jump off as well. However, at that moment, the overhead wires suddenly caught fire in a bizarre way.

The flames almost instantly engulfed the entire award podium.

All electrical devices exploded one after another.

The live broadcasting equipment overhead suddenly fell, and it headed straight towards the spot where Selena was standing.

Selena wanted to run, but just as she moved, a bullet hit her forehead.

Selena was born sensitive to firearms, and in her training spanning more than a decade, her body had almost formed an instinctive reaction to the trajectory of firearms.

She immediately took a step back, and just in these few seconds of delay, the live broadcasting equipment had already reached her head.

Selena quickly reacted by shielding her head.

Osvaldo carried Selena quickly through the fire.

Selena was held in the man's arms and barely opened her eyes.

The magnificent stage that had just been standing was now completely engulfed in flames.

The scorching heat wave, with the help of electricity, quickly swept through this area.

Crying, screams, the sound of collapsing heavy objects... it was like hell on earth.

Oswaldo took her and accurately avoided all dangers.

Selena saw several burned bodies, and she instinctively held onto the man's clothes tightly.

Suddenly, she heard the sound of bullets whizzing through the air.

Selena exclaimed, "Watch out!"

Oswaldo took a step back with her in his arms, avoiding the bullet. At the same time, his long legs kicked a body that was lying on the ground, colliding with a falling beam above his head.

Chapter 1260 Selena, What Are You Doing?

The hearts of the H Country people present plummeted suddenly.

In front of the live screen, countless girls burst into tears.

At the competition site, several young men were at a loss.

"Lady Selena..."

Selena was only nineteen years old, so beautiful and talented, how could something happen to her?

Several young men pushed away the people blocking them in a panic and walked towards the fire.

This time, no one stopped them.

The fire had already been put out.

Although it was not absolutely safe, if they didn't let these young people go and see, they would never feel at ease in their entire lives.

Several old professors had burst into tears, "Mr. Turner left behind only one child. How do we explain this to the dean?"

As Zachary and the others were about to rush into the fire scene, a person suddenly walked out of the black mist ahead, even in such an environment, he didn't conceal his charm and elegance.

Zachary and the others were stunned when they saw the man, and even more so when they saw the slender figure he was holding in his arms.

"Lady Selena!"

The sudden cheers instantly attracted the attention of everyone, whether on-site or in the live stream.

Then they saw a scene that they would never forget in their entire lives.

After speaking, he pulled Selena's hand down and walked away.

Selena got up from the bed and followed him, "See a doctor, otherwise I won't be at ease..."

Oswaldo walked into the bathroom and turned on the hot water valve.

Selena thought he was angry when he ignored her and went to grab his hand, "Oswaldo, listen to me, the M Country's team was by my side at the time, and I never thought they would dare to be so crazy. I... "

Pushing those four young men out first was just her subconscious reaction.

But she didn't forget Oswaldo's previous instructions.

Everyone can die, except for her!

The man had been angry with her for such things before, and now, when she made the same mistake again, he didn't even want to talk to her!

Oswaldo lifted his hand to undo the buttons of his shirt. With each button undone, a large piece of chest was exposed to the air.

Selena stared at his movements, her eyes dazed.

Oswaldo took off his black shirt and threw it aside.

Then he lowered his eyes, and his gaze fell on Selena's face, with a certain lewd meaning, "Are you staying to check if I'm injured?"

As Selena stared at this scene in front of her, she finally realized what the man wanted to do.

Selena's face instantly turned blushing, and she hurriedly retreated outside the door, pitifully saying, "Then I'll call a doctor and wait for you outside."

The next second, the door was closed in front of her.
