Chapter 1261 The Couple

Selena instinctively replied, "I'm waiting for you to come out..."

Oswaldo's thin lips slightly curved up, "Wait for me to come out, and then what?"

"Then..." Selena instinctively turned her head to look outside the door, "I found a doctor to come and check your body."

With Selena's words, the room was pushed open from outside.

A somewhat familiar woman holding a medical kit stood at the door. Her gaze slid over Selena's body, and her expression looked quite respectful, finally falling on Oswaldo, "Young master, I am here on orders to help you check your body."

Selena was stunned.

Subconsciously, she thought that Leia would find a male doctor, but unexpectedly, it was a female doctor...

Selena felt that something was wrong.

She thought about it all over again, but couldn't find out what was wrong.

Oswaldo looked at Selena's dazed expression and his expression turned into a smile, "Come in."

Elodie walked in, carrying the medical kit and walked towards Oswaldo.

Selena watched this scene.

Oswaldo had just come out of the bathroom, his hair was still semi-dry, covering his eyebrows and eyes, exuding an inexplicable charm.

Only half of the buttons of his shirt were buttoned, and the top two were not buttoned. She could clearly see the delicate collarbone and the chest below it that was slightly visible.

Selena blushed and, facing Osvaldo's teasing gaze, gave a very lame excuse, "... I forgot."

Osvaldo chuckled lightly and touched her face with his slender fingers, his tone cold. "Get out!"

This "get out" was clearly not directed at Selena.

Standing on the side, Elodie was slightly pale, but she still maintained the posture of a subordinate and turned to walk out.

...

Elodie walked out with her medical kit, and Leia glared at her fiercely. "I called Dr. Wilkinson. What are you doing here?!"

"Dr. Wilkinson had something come up suddenly, so I came in his place," Elodie said calmly.

"I see you're clearly here on purpose to cause trouble because you heard that the Young Master might be angry with Madam Selena!" Leia sneered. "Use your brain and think, how could the Young Master really be willing to be angry with Madam Selena for someone else's sake and let her suffer?"

"Their relationship is very good. Even if they really have a disagreement, the Young Master would not allow Madam Selena to be wronged for someone else's sake!"

"I already said it was an accident-"

Leia gave her a disdainful glance. "Do you think the Young Master can't see through your tricks?"

"Young Master still hasn't settled your disrespectful account with Madam Selena last time. After you leave, I don't think you'll have another chance to come back!"

Elodie's expression suddenly changed. "I didn't violate any rules. The Young Master is always clear about his public and private affairs and won't punish anyone for no reason!"

Any discerning person can see that there must be officials involved in this matter behind the scenes.

Because the situation is too serious, public opinion in various countries is demanding a thorough investigation of the truth and the exposure of those responsible.

...

In the room, it took Selena half an hour to reluctantly examine Osvaldo's body because he wasn't very "cooperative".

After confirming that Osvaldo was really not injured, Selena breathed a sigh of relief and stood up from the carpet, blushing.

She hadn't even steadied herself when the man scooped her into his arms.

Osvaldo held her tightly, burying his face in the scent of her body, his voice husky and frightening, "You little rascal..."

Selena tensed up nervously, but didn't push him away. She rarely acted so obediently and let the man be intimate with her.

Osvaldo looked down at his wife sitting on his knee and smiled, "You are being good today."

Usually, when he wanted to hug and kiss her, she would resist, but today she was unusually obedient. Although she was trembling with nervousness, she didn't stop him from getting close.

A girl who was so obedient and well-behaved was too good for the man to let go of.

Taking advantage of this opportunity, he certainly took full advantage of it.

Under such intense public opinion, even if M Country wanted to protect the other side, it was impossible.

Moreover, among the victims, there was also the son of the Speaker of the House, which added to the internal pressure. In addition, someone had to be pushed out to quell public anger.

That afternoon, an official announcement was released on M Country website stating that the other party had been formally arrested.

Shortly thereafter, Horus personally recorded a video and posted it on M Country medical college website.

With a serious face, he stated that he would personally watch the executioner being put to death and avenge his deceased medical colleagues.

At the end of the video, Horus thanked H Country's heroes for their efforts and thanked H Country for saving his life. He also apologized for M Country's past words and actions and promised to use his own hands to atone for the medical profession's past dereliction of duty.

This video was like a signal, and immediately after, F Country, D Country, and survivors all posted gratitude videos.

If it weren't for the people sent by H Country to secretly protect Selena when the disaster occurred, who were nearby at the time and saved them, who knows how many people would have died this time.

At this moment, it seemed as if the whole world's thanksgiving was being directed towards H Country.

And at this moment, Selena was being led by Osvaldo into the airport.

Fearful of attracting attention, Selena wore a hat and a mask. She lifted her head and smiled slightly when she heard the sound coming from the big screen. Then she said to Osvaldo, "Let's go home."

Osvaldo's slender fingers brushed her cheek as he led Selena into the cabin.

Why does it feel like he's treating her like a child?

Selena couldn't help but smile as she walked to the dining table. Just after finishing breakfast, Patrick's call came in.

"Selena, are you going home today? I'll come pick you up," Patrick asked.

After thinking for a moment, Selena realized that there was nothing for her to do at the Turner's, so she said, "I'm going to Capital University's lab to check on White Crow's progress."

Patrick sighed, "You just got back from outside. You need to rest."

Selena smiled, "I'm fine. There's nothing wrong with me."

Oswaldo had really taken good care of her.

Patrick knew that Selena had made up her mind, so he gave her some more instructions before hanging up the phone.

At the same time, Selena received the complete report from A on yesterday's incident.

She held the investigation report in her hand, her expression off.

As a commander of the Federation, she had naturally heard of the "Seal" assassination squad. This group of people were all cruel and violent maniacs who didn't care about the consequences when they went crazy.

Yesterday's incident was the best example.

M Country specifically sent such a squad to assassinate her. The previous assassination attempt had been resolved by the people sent by H Country. But yesterday, it was the leader of the "Seal" who appeared in the fire to block her.

Oswaldo had faced off against the leader of the "Seal" alone, along with three elite subordinates, and not only successfully took her away but also did so unscathed.

Leia turned around and ran

Those old guys from the research institute were so difficult for Selena before, and now, after only a short time, they want to make peace with her?

She did not allow that to happen.

After casually dismissing the people from the research institute, Selena went back to her room to study the materials before driving with Leia to Capital University.

As soon as Selena and Leia entered the school gate, there was a loud "bang" sound overhead.

Selena was showered with flower petals.

Then, there was a deafening applause.

Selena looked at this familiar and enthusiastic scene, feeling both amused and helpless, "Aren't there any classes today?"

"Going to class is not as important as welcoming the goddess!" Cheers came from the crowd, "Lady Selena, thank you!"

After twenty years, H Country has finally made its mark on international medicine. For every H Country medical student, this is a huge cause for celebration.

But the students of Capital University were obviously very sensible. After the welcome ceremony, they ran back to class, giving Selena the greatest freedom.

Selena had originally planned to go straight to the laboratory, but she was intercepted by the Cooke sisters and taken to the principal's office.

Principal Chow seemed to have become ten years younger, with a smile that couldn't be contained on his face as he looked at Selena, "Selena, what do you plan to do next?"

This girl is so smart.

Principal Chow was worried that after Selena finishes studying what Callum left behind, she might have the idea of "changing her career".

Selena smiled sweetly.

She followed Osvaldo into the training room after dinner and continued her diligent practice.

The researchers from the institute seemed to be getting impatient as they sent people to see Selena every day, but Selena kept ignoring them. She didn't say whether she would return to the institute or not.

The top officials of the institute were faced with the eager greetings of many researchers every day, and they were annoyed.

During the day, Selena went to the Capital University laboratory to help White Crow and returned home with Osvaldo to train at night, living a peaceful and fulfilling life.

However, this peace did not last long. One morning, Selena was about to leave for Capital University, but she met Patrick, who came to pick her up. "Selena, come home today," Patrick said gently.

Selena blinked and then remembered that she hadn't been back to the Turner family for a while. She nodded and said, "Okay."

Then, she turned to the butler to give him some instructions.

Patrick sighed slightly as he watched Selena carefully instruct the butler.

She was clearly his family, but the Turner family couldn't keep her.

The main reason was that Selena was too busy. Apart from Osvaldo, whom she spent her days and nights with, it was difficult for others to see her.

After Selena finished giving instructions, she went back to the Turner family with Patrick.

Although Patrick had never met Diego, he laughed when he heard Selena's question. "Selena, if my father dares to let you go see Diego, he will definitely not let you suffer any injustice."

The Turner family always protects their families.

Constance's current situation is entirely her own fault, and no one else can be blamed for it.

If it weren't for Dante protecting her, the Turner family would never have let her off the hook so easily for her previous framing of Selena.

Selena nodded to show her understanding. "Then let's meet him."

Patrick smiled at her obedient expression. "Take a break, I'll call my father." He turned and walked halfway up the stairs before suddenly remembering something and asked, "Selena, do you know Eden's background?"

A hint of something flashed in Selena's eyes as she looked up. "I only know he's an orphan raised by a hospital director in R City."

"I asked him about his father, but Eden doesn't remember anything about it."

Patrick frowned.

Selena didn't wait long before Patrick came down and told her the time that had been arranged with Diego.

Selena had lunch with the Turner family and spent the afternoon reading in her room. In the evening, Leia drove over to pick her up.

"The young master is a bit busy and will be home late, but he called and said it will rain tonight, so let me pick you up, Madam Selena." Leia said.

Selena remembered the sullen faces of the Turner family when she left, and couldn't help but smile. She looked at the beautiful night scenery outside the window and thought of Osvaldo's exquisite and handsome face, smiling slightly.

When Selena returned to the villa, Osvaldo had not yet come back.

Selena didn't see Osvaldo but saw a stranger in the villa.

He was a young man between adolescence and adulthood, with a clear and indifferent face, as if frozen.

He stood in the center of the hall, heard footsteps, turned around, and his empty eyes looked towards Selena.

Selena looked at the servants around her with indescribable expressions and guessed the other party's identity.

Selena didn't react much, nodded in greeting, and walked upstairs.

Suddenly, a cold voice came from behind, "I'm sorry about Constance."

He leaned against the door and watched for a moment, then walked over and embraced Selena from behind, and accurately grasped her wrist.

Selena paused, turned her head, and saw the man behind her. She smiled slightly and said, "You're back."

Oswaldo stared at the girl's face with a heavy gaze, seeming to want to say something, but not saying it.

He touched Selena's hair and said, "Selena, you should rest."

Selena was startled and looked up at the clock on the wall, realizing that it was already 11 o'clock.

It was already so late. Selena put the sword back, obediently went back to the room with the man, and went to sleep.

On the other side, in Constance's villa, since hearing Marley mention that name in the morning, Constance had immediately left the Baxter's.

She sat on the sofa with an expression on her face that was completely different from her usual demeanor, showing a hint of viciousness.

Why did Grandpa have to bring Kyra back to the country at this time?

Constance clenched her fists.

If she was still the Lab 717 genius mechanic she used to be, she wouldn't be afraid of anyone.

But this time, the trouble she had caused was too big.

Selena led Hattie and followed Patrick into the gate.

In the hall, besides Oscar and Cillian who she had already met, there was an unfamiliar old man. After Selena greeted him, she took Hattie to sit on the other side.

Diego looked at Selena and smiled, "If Wilfred was still alive, he would be so happy and proud to see such a beautiful and outstanding granddaughter."

Suddenly, Diego turned and said, "Kyra, come and say hello to Miss Turner."

Selena was startled and followed Diego's gaze, only to realize that there was someone sitting behind him.

It was a young woman in her twenties, wearing a black long dress with a slender and fragile body and a sickly pale complexion.

When she heard Diego's words, she lifted her head and looked at Selena silently, but didn't speak.

Diego said to Selena, "This is my granddaughter, Kyra. She's sick and a bit shy. Don't mind her."

Selena stared at the girl's lifeless and desolate black eyes.

She had been here for so long but didn't notice that there was someone else sitting next to Diego. Selena smiled slightly, "I don't mind."

Diego seemed to breathe a sigh of relief and said to Kyra, "If you feel too stuffy, go for a walk in the garden."

But Selena only learned today that there were people who had helped the Turner family back then.

Principal Chow had been a living target for twenty years to protect Callum's research data.

Milana, a weak woman, had defected from her family to save the virus data that Callum had sent out and remained unmarried for life.

And this old man before her, who would rather carry the reputation of being ungrateful for twenty years than let the Turner family lose their last thing.

In that situation back then, if the Baxter family had not intervened, the control of the research institute would have been divided between the Shaw family and the Poole family sooner or later.

Seeing that the last thing of the Turner family was about to be lost, the Baxter family had no choice but to intervene. Using the identity of a special researcher, Diego seized control of the research institute on the surface.

Although he became the public face of the institute, out of guilt and not wanting to see the institute deteriorate any further, Diego had been traveling abroad all these years and had never come back to take a look.

Until the son of the Turner family grew up.

The daughter of the Turner family became famous in the capital.

Oscar returned.

The Turner family was propped up again, once again becoming the first family that everyone feared.

Selena's eyes suddenly sharpened, "Give it to me!"

Leia trembled as she handed the material in her hand to Selena.

Selena lowered her head and carefully examined it. The more she read, the colder her expression became. In the end, there was no warmth left in her eyes.

Leia was trembling with fear as she said, "Madam Selena, don't be angry. It's all Constance and Dante's fault. The young master doesn't know anything about this..."

Selena tore the document to shreds.

She had been curious before why, even though Diego had been away from the country for more than twenty years, the Baxter family was still one of the top aristocratic families in the capital.

With so many people in the Baxter family, why would Diego entrust his granddaughter's safety to an outsider like her?

It turned out that Kyra's situation was related to her, and she was the only one who could save Kyra in the entire capital.

Selena threw the scraps of paper into the trash can, stood up, and walked out without saying a word. Leia followed her and said, "Madam Selena, don't be angry. This really has nothing to do with the young master!"

"If you're angry, call the young master right away, and he will definitely teach Dante a lesson for you!"

Selena walked out without saying a word.

The servants in the villa were shocked to see their mistress with a rare cold face leaving without saying anything.

Leia received the anger of the two mistresses through the phone and was scared out of her wits.

They were not afraid of Osvaldo and Benjamin getting angry, because if these two big shots got angry, as long as they asked the mistresses for help, there was still hope!

But once the two mistresses of the Anderson family got angry...

Lady Lauren's voice was sharp, "Dante is so confused for Constance. It seems that Osvaldo has spoiled him too much!"

Leia was too scared to speak.

Lady Lauren sneered, "He caused this, let him solve it himself!"

After speaking, she hung up the phone.

Leia looked at the hung up phone and trembled.

"She was sent to prison for not showing remorse, being ungrateful, and harming Miss Baxter," Selena said with increasingly cold eyes as Patrick looked on in shock.

"Kyra went crazy at the police station, crying and causing a scene. She used her own blood to draw countless paintings on the walls of the prison to prove her innocence to everyone at the police station."

"Someone at the police station had pity on Kyra and wanted to help her overturn her false conviction, but the Baxter family found out about it," Selena continued.

"Constance convinced Dante to intervene and put pressure on the people at the police station to completely suppress this wrongful case."

"And to preserve Constance's reputation, they cruelly disabled Kyra's hands. She will never be able to paint again in her life."

"It wasn't until Diego heard about his granddaughter's situation and came back to the country himself to plead with Dante that Constance had to agree to release Kyra."

"But she made a condition to Diego that Kyra is not allowed to appear anywhere Constance is in her lifetime."

Patrick listened to the whole story and thought of the girl with the desolate eyes he had seen in the morning. He finally understood why Selena was so angry.

Dante was just an orphan without much power in the capital. His words alone were not enough to make the people at the police station and Diego wary.

But as everyone knew, he had a brother named Osvaldo.

And Constance dared to be so arrogant and vicious because she relied on Lab 717 behind her.

Two wolves colluding with each other, one vicious, the other indifferent, easily destroyed everything of an innocent girl.

And Dante, for Constance's sake, seems to be willing to do anything.

In the end, it will be difficult for Oswaldo.

So Selena removed Oswaldo from the beginning.

At the same time, her actions also sent a signal.

She will never back down when it comes to Kyra!

Selena's gaze became stern, and she turned to Patrick and said, "Contact Diego and have him choose a date to reveal Kyra and Constance's identities to the world."

Although Patrick didn't know why Selena was so invested in Kyra's situation, he agreed, "It's too late now, I'll tell you the specific time tomorrow."

Selena nodded and then went upstairs to her room.

She looked for her phone but realized that she had left it at the villa and hadn't brought it back.

Selena opened the drawer and took out her iPad, logged into Weibo, which she hadn't used in a long time, and found the news about the theft case three years ago.

She forwarded the news link to Bruno and sent him a message before tossing the iPad aside.

Constance looked at Diego with anger and his indifferent expression. "Grandfather, are you really that heartless?!"

Diego remained unmoved. "When it comes to being ruthless and vicious, who can compare to you?!"

Constance's expression changed, and she wiped away her tears, staring angrily at Diego. "Grandfather, are you not afraid that I will go to Dante and ask him to deal with the Baxter family?!"

Diego sneered. "You can try. Let's see if you can succeed this time!"

Three years ago, Constance used Dante to pressure the Baxter family, which forced Diego to kneel and saved Kyra.

Constance looked resentful. "Grandfather, you will regret this!"

After speaking, she turned and ran out, and saw Dante standing outside the study.

Constance was shocked. "Dante, what are you doing here?"

Dante pursed his lips, seeming to want to say something, but he held back. "I was worried about you, so I came to see you."

Constance's expression didn't relax at all, and she stared at Dante's eyes. "Did you see anyone here just now?"

Dante shook his head. "No."

Constance breathed a sigh of relief and turned to him, taking his arm. "I'm fine. Let's go back first."

Constance was stunned when she saw the page. Her eyes widened as she stared at the screen.

It was Selena's Weibo page, clearly confirming her name. The pinned content was no longer the crooked certificate that had been posted before, but a news link.

The link showed a line of text that read:

--The Baxter family's adopted daughter steals the Baxter family's young lady's painting and is sent to jail!

When Constance saw the title, even the crevices of her bones were filled with a chill.

There was no doubt that Selena's traffic was huge. She was the only one in the entire H Country whose fans had surpassed a billion, without a single zombie fan.

Therefore, when this link was released, it caused a huge sensation.

Looking at the millions of comments below, Selena was overwhelmed by despair and panic, and she screamed in terror.

"Why did Selena repost this news?!"

"What is her relationship with that bitch Kyra?!"

"How could she... how dare she..."

If it had been before, when Constance was still a genius mechanic at Lab 717, she would not have been afraid of this news being exposed.

But now, after being kicked off the pedestal by Selena, and being viciously and hypocritically slandered by many big shots from Lab 717 for her misconduct, the impact of this news could be imagined.

Chapter 1270 Punishment for Running Away from Home

Selena changed into her pajamas and lay in bed, staring at the ceiling but couldn't fall asleep. She didn't hide her whereabouts, and Osvaldo should be able to find out that she returned to the Turner family easily, so she shouldn't worry too much.

After a moment, Selena suddenly sat up and walked to the window, locking it from the inside. She couldn't afford to be soft-hearted and let Osvaldo get caught in the middle.

But then she remembered the weather forecast she had seen earlier. It would rain tonight. What if the man really came but couldn't get in and got caught in the rain outside? She was rarely in such a dilemma.

After about a minute, Selena resignedly walked back and unlocked the window again. She then returned to bed, covered herself with the blanket, and closed her eyes.

An hour later, a black sports car parked outside the gate of the Turner family in the hazy rain. The man in black clothes and black hair got out of the driver's seat.

Patrick, who had received the news, walked out of the gate and cast a cold glance at Osvaldo. "She asked me today if you would have intervened if you knew about this matter back then..."

Osvaldo's eyes were cold.

"On matters of principle, Selena will never compromise. This time, Constance must die!" Patrick said in a cold voice.

The Turner family did not want to let Constance get away with framing Selena.

But first, Dante had intervened to protect Constance, and then Osvaldo had also chosen to tolerate him. If the Turner family pursued this matter, it would only make things difficult for Selena.

Second, Oscar knew that the Turner family owed Diego a favor and didn't want to turn their backs on him. But after Constance's true identity as a fake heiress and her malicious nature were exposed, she had lost the right to live.

The man stared into her eyes and a hint of darkness overflowed from his gaze. "Why don't you tell me if you want Constance to die?"

Selena was stunned.

She looked at the man's cold eyes and felt a bit helpless. "No, I just..."

She didn't want to be caught in the middle.

Osvaldo sensed what she wanted to say and his expression became even colder.

He stared at Selena fiercely and the hand that was around her waist tightened unconsciously.

Selena felt as if her bones were being crushed and cried out in pain.

Osvaldo gazed at Selena's tearful eyes, hesitated for a moment, but strangely didn't let go of her.

The next moment, he suddenly turned over and pressed her under him, fiercely biting her red lips with his blood-red, thin ones.

Selena's eyes widened suddenly.
