

Love Rats 141

Chapter 141

It was an empty basement.

The man's body was trembling as he was dragged out.

Two rows of imposing bodyguards with murderous faces stood in place like a pilgrimage, frightening, while at the end of the corridor, a handsome man walked in.

The moment he saw this man, he was frozen in awe, temporarily forgetting his fear.

It was only when the man's grim gaze fell on him that he returned to his senses, his entire body trembling.

The man slowly walked over, his entire aura sharp like a thin blade, captivating, ghostly and evil, "Who gave you the guts to run her over with your car?"

Under the powerful pressure emanating from the man, he didn't even dare to have words of sophistry, crying and begging for mercy, "Please spare me, it's just that someone gave me a sum of money to drive into her, I never dare again, please spare me."

He thought that even if he failed and when he was caught by the police, he could call it an accident and at most be jailed for a few days, but he never expected that the moment he hit that girl, he would be punched to the ground by the black-clad bodyguards and were brought here with no chance of escape.

The man had bloodshot eyes and he lifted his hand.

The air in the basement was cold and creepy, thick with the smell of blood after a miserable cry.

Oswaldo stood there upright, like a king, handsome and compelling.

He did not even look at the puddle of blood at his feet, turned and walked out, his black trench coat almost merging with the darkness.

The moment he walked out of the basement, a bodyguard approached him, bent down respectfully and handed him the phone, "It's from Mr. Jordan."

Oswaldo picked up the phone.

Luke's soft laugh came over, "Watch the TV, your wife is going to be famous in Creephia."

...

Selena lazily leaned back in her chair, her eyebrows slightly furrowed, and just when she was impatiently waiting, someone finally stepped forward.

Seeing that person who walked out, there was another uproar.

The president of the student council, Ronin.

The most recognized student of Creephia University.

The sunlight was strong, Selena's face was haloed with light. She squinted her eyes slightly, her lips curved into a sweet smile, "President, I didn't expect the first one to stand out to be you."

Ronin stood in front of her, his face handsome and cold, he stared into her eyes, "I've lost to you."

Selena was surprised.

She didn't know that.

Ronin said, "That year for A-Levels, it was the first time in my life that I came second in the exam."

He had been number one since he was a child, and the only time he had lost was at A-Level.

Chapter 142

That was why he had looked up the name of the first place and knew about Selena.

Selena smiled and nodded her head, not very sincerely comforting, "It's okay, I often got the last place."

She was known to be the notorious fool of Creephia.

Ronin pursed his thin lips, "I won't show mercy."

Selena was expressionless, her eyebrows curved gently, "If you treat me as a real opponent, then showing mercy is a humiliation."

Ronin meant it when he said there was no mercy.

As they all know, Ronin was from the finance department and Selena was from the medical department, two extremely strong but unrelated majors. Everyone was curious about how Ronin would come up with the question. He then took a pen and papers, drew a line chart down.

Selena took a look, "This is the house price of Creephia in the past three years, the overall trend is slightly upward, from last year, there is a significant upward trend, but..."

Selena looked up at Ronin with a smile, "President, what do you want to ask me?"

Ronin stared closely into her eyes, "I want to know the price of housing in the second half of the year will it go up or will it go down."

Hearing this question, not only the students, but the media and the audience were all in an uproar.

The question of whether house prices will rise or fall is similar to playing with stocks, there are so many factors that affect it, and there is never a fixed answer. Was he making it difficult for a student from medical department with such a question?

This was not even the way exam questions were raised.

Selena nodded, indicating that she understood, and gave a shocking conclusion directly, "According to this trend chart, in the past two months, it will fluctuate slightly up and down, and then, it will usher in a wave of decline."

The whole room was in an uproar.

Down?

Although the people of Creephia had been shouting all day long about house prices falling, but for so many years, there had never been a fall, yet Selena said with certainty that house prices would plummet, was this not nonsense?

Some people already snickered and shouted, "What kind of joke is that? Creephia is a first-tier big city, the house price has not fallen for so many years, and you are here talking about empty words, only those brainless will believe you."

"House prices will fall. With all due respect, this question is a bit over the top, because no one can prove what Selena said is right except for the fact that it is about to happen in the future."

Ignoring the whispers, Ronin's expression turned colder, "Why do you come to such a conclusion?"

Selena was used to being independent and authoritarian, she really wasn't a person who liked to explain, she said to him, "Wait a moment," then turned back and said to the nurse behind her, "Miss Pretty, please bring me a bottle of water."

The nurse was coaxed into smiling by Selena's words and took the bottle of water from the table, thoughtfully unscrewed the lid before handing it to Selena.

Selena held the glass of water and took two sips before picking up the microphone again, asking, "Senior, you asked me this question, because you have found something unusual in it, right?"

"Yes," Ronin admitted dryly, "I think it will go down, but my teachers and most of my classmates think it will go up, and you are the second person who thinks it will go down."

Selena explained with a smile, "If my observations are correct, that should be the case, for the past three years, there is a group of people in the real estate market who inflate the price of housing, the price of housing is not rising greatly, but it is rising every month, it is still within the citizens' acceptance range. Even if they know it is rising, because of the rapid development of the economy, no one would think there is anything wrong with it."

"But at the beginning of this year, house prices hit a point of slightly unusual volatility, especially in the last five months, and the volatility was greater than it had ever been before, and if I'm right, this is the government doing macro-control, hoarding housing stock. Once the government has built up enough strength, they're going to step in and wipe them out all those greedy people."

Chapter 143

The people at the bottom looked at each other in disbelief.

Most of them couldn't understand how on earth Selena could see such a complicated issue through a scribbled line graph, while the teachers and students of the finance department were all going to analyse the house prices of the last three years at the moment.

But one question remains difficult to determine, and no one can be sure where her answer is right or not.

Selena continued to explain, "Actually it is not that complicated. The economic base determines the superstructure. With the rapid economic development, housing prices will naturally rise. The government can't just sit back and let the real estate developers raise the prices too high so that the real grassroots can't afford it. At a certain juncture, it will naturally take the means to suppress it, and coincidentally, this year is just that juncture."

The reasoning is indeed simple, but the question is, how can Selena conclude so on the basis of a few data fluctuation points?

While some people bowed their heads in contemplation, those barbarians didn't even think about it before they opened their mouths.

"There's no correct answer to a question, she can say what she wants."

"That's right, what kind of question is that? Who knows if she has conspired with students she knows in advance to deliberately come up with such specious questions, which sound impressive, but are actually just bluffing."

Ronin looked over coldly, "I came up with the question, I think she is right, she is right, is there a problem?"

The man was stunned for a moment, and then said with sarcasm, "You are classmates, if you say she is right, of course she is right. You are just fooling us around."

The teachers from Creephia University all looked angry. Ronin was extremely popular in the school, a great talent in the finance department, and he had discussed this issue with other professors and students at Creephia University before, only they all came to a different conclusion than he did.

"And what if I say that she is right?" A deep voice interjected.

The crowd parted in two lanes from the outside and a middle-aged man with a slightly chubby figure walked out smiling accompanied by a group of people, and the crowd at the scene took one look at the middle-aged man's face and exclaimed in shock.

"The mayor of the city?"

"Why is the mayor here? And what did he just say? He said what Selena said was right?"

Those few people who had just shouted at Selena, seeing the mayor arrive, were frightened, fearing that they would be held accountable, all blushing and lowering their heads never daring to make a scene again.

The headmaster and others saw the sudden arrival of the mayor and were about to walk down, but the mayor waved his hand, his eyes fell on Selena and began to applaud, "You have such keen observation at this young age, you will have a bright future."

The crowd at the scene was surprised to hear that.

They were shocked not that the mayor himself came. Creephia University is the signature of Creephia, such a big thing happened, it would not be impossible to alarm the mayor, but they were shocked by what he said.

Is there anyone else who knows more about people's livelihood than the mayor of a city?

"Selena is right? House prices will really fall?"

"Oh my god. Just by a line graph, she saw the trend of house prices in Creephia, with such a keen and intelligent mind, if Selena runs economics in the future, it's so scary."

Leah heard the voices of those praising and marveling around, her face turned pale, she looked at Selena in shock and uncertainty, squeezing her palms tightly.

Was the mayor's appearance an accident, or was it a deliberate attempt to back up Selena?

This was a question that Selena was pondering.

The timing of his appearance was coincidental, as if he was deliberately here to relieve her of the situation.

Under the bright sun, Selena squinted her eyes slightly.

Ronin looked at her bright and beautiful face, and his cold voice softened slightly, "Selena, you win."

He had studied finance for such a long time and could see the problem only after observing it for a long time before coming to a conclusion, but Selena, a medical student, had actually seen the crux of the problem at a glance.

It was he who had lost.

He was convinced.

Selena smiled faintly, "Thank you."

Chapter 144

Ronin turned around and walked back to his position in the student council, reverting to a cold expression.

Those who could get into Creephia University were originally the best of the major schools, proud and distinguished.

Although Selena had always been light in tone and reserved and polite, but to crush the entire school, this was ultimately too rampant and gave people the feeling of being too arrogant.

With Ronin taking the lead, there were quite a few proud students who came forward at once.

"I am Eloise Atkinson from medical department, nice to meet you, Selena."

Leah stood in the crowd and watched as Selena confronted the geniuses in various subjects.

She knew that Selena was intelligent and had good academic performance, if not, she wouldn't be using cold violence to combat her.

But she did not believe that Selena alone could resist the talents of a school.

It was something impossible to do.

Although the process was unexpected and made her suffer, Leah picked up her confidence again.

At best, Selena's actions could show that she was not bad in her studies and had not cheated.

But she still had an ace up her sleeve.

The matter of Selena wrongly accusing her of cheating had long since been untraceable, and even if Selena investigated, it was destined that nothing would be found out.

She had cleared her name of cheating.

But she still had a way to pin this one charge on Selena head with deadly force.

Leah's gaze was sinister, it was just a pity that this time she hadn't been able to completely ruin Selena.

Those who dared to stand up and give Selena a question were all confident in their own strength.

Moreover, the questions they asked were all extremely difficult, with questions that they themselves might not even be able to answer.

But even so, Selena still answered them right, she didn't even have to think, she just blurted out the answers.

The crowd gradually caused a stir as they watched Selena overcome the hurdles.

Time slipped by, the sun grew higher and higher, and soon, noon was approaching.

When dozens of students with the highest grades in all subjects in the school combined failed to defeat Selena, the crowd at the scene became extremely suspicious of Selena's cheating.

"I am Esther West from Spanish Department, Senior, nice to meet you."

Selena nodded her head with a smile, "Please."

Esther looked at her, "Our professor has assigned a project this semester, a translation of Rabindranath Tagore's 'Stray Birds', with a context, very few people in our department can do it. May you, Selena?"

Selena blinked her eyes and turned back suddenly. Zachary thought she was looking for water again and handed her a bottle of water, then Selena said with a smile, "Senior, please find me a collection of poems from Stray Birds."

Zachary goggled the poetry for her.

As Selena sat there lazily and translated the contextually beautiful 'Stray Birds' in the world's top ten languages, at this moment, everyone was deeply shocked, both in front of and behind the stage.

There was a dead silence.

Chapter 145

This was a true genius.

She majored in medicine, but she was proficient in other courses. Her logical thinking was strong and sharp. The depth and breadth of knowledge had long exceeded the university level, and she had mastered top ten languages of the world.

Not to mention the students, the school professors might not be able to have such learning ability.

She had not long been not on a level with them.

With such strength, how was it possible that she get such a bad grade in the final exam?

At this moment, both the crowd at the scene and the viewers watching the live broadcast all looked at the girl sitting lazily on the high platform with wide eyes, and a dead silence fell over them.

Although Selena had won over so many people, there was no happy look on her face, she raised her chin, her expression was even vaguely sad.

She didn't look at anyone, her eyes falling on a certain point in the void in front of her, with some empty mournful silence.

All Selena had ever wanted was a chance to prove herself.

But that chance, until she died, had never been given.

Even though she had cleared her name of cheating in such a sensational way, that girl, however, was no longer alive.

She still died in injustice.

Leah stared deadly at the radiant Selena, her heart overflowing with jealousy at this moment.

Why would Selena be the Miss Riddle from the very beginning, while she, Leah, could only be an illegitimate daughter?

Why would Selena be prettier and smarter than her when she already had a good family?

She was jealous of Selena and had spent so much effort to put the cheating label on Selena's head, and now that she had seen Selena clear her name in such a sensational way and become a genius who had set the whole of Creephia alight, how could she not be furious?

Dominic's eyes were complicated. He had always thought that Selena was a fool and uneducated, not only he thought so, the whole noble circle of Creephia thought so.

But it turned out that Selena was not only not a fool, she was even unparalleled in excellence.

Why had he not noticed this before?

After a minute long of dead silence, Amber led a group of people from the student council and was the first to start applauding.

The applause brought back the sanity of the stunned people, and in an instant, thunderous applause swept through the whole of Creephia University.

From this moment onwards, under such powerful and terrifying strength, if anyone in the whole of Creephia and even on the internet really dared to say a word about Selena cheating and being a fool, they would definitely be drowned by the spittle of the crowd.

People who are truly outstanding in strength deserve to be defended and respected from their hearts.

In the midst of a large crowd of awe, the student who had just given Selena a question stepped forward, bent down to her, and said sincerely, "I'm sorry, Selena, I was wrong to blame you for listening to the rumours before, you are the best genius in Creephia University."

When someone took the lead, more people came forward.

Chapter 146

"I'm sorry, Selena, when you were caught cheating, I was in that examination room, I even despised you for that, please forgive me."

"I'm sorry, Selena, I believe you didn't cheat. You are better than all of us, you are a deserved genius."

As long as the people who had given Selena questions, they all apologized to her one after another, even the professors and the president of Creephia University couldn't help but stand out and clear her name, proving her excellence and outstanding.

Selena's lips hooked into a faint warm smile. She looked at Leah with a smirk, who lost her smile but carried uncontainable panic.

"So, Selena is so outstanding, why would she be caught cheating and become the "academic scum" "human scum" that the teachers and students of Creephia University have been passing around?"

At this moment, everyone's eyes were like knives scraping at the students of Class 10 and the teachers of Class 10.

In this supposedly beautiful ivory tower, why would such an outstanding and beautiful student be subjected to cold violence on campus and carry such a stigma for a year?

Several substitute teachers of Class 10 were instantly thrust into the limelight. They were adults and could not escape, but could only stand there, their faces ashen as they looked at Selena, intense remorse and fear pervading each one's heart.

Such an excellent student was destined to have a bright future. As her teachers, they should have been proud of her, but they were ashamed of what they had done.

All the teachers were desperate and deeply aware that their teaching careers, from this moment on, were completely over.

What other school would want a teacher who was so blind as to leave such a wonderful jewel in the dust, and who was involved in cold violence against the students?

The students of Class 10 had originally only felt guilty, but after seeing Selena easily win against all the top geniuses of Creephia University, these students, who had always considered Selena a "waste" and themselves the pride of school, began to tremble under the countless pairs of disgusted and cold condemning eyes of Creephia.

Not to mention the students of this age could not bear such cold and disgusting eyes, even the parents had a chill down their spine.

They subconsciously stepped forward to protect their children who were shivering all over.

One of the parents, who was straightforward, said in a cold voice, "Our children are just being used, the real culprit is standing over there."

With a lift of her chin, she gave a disgusted glance in the direction of Leah and Angie.

In a flash, all the eyes in the entire Creephia University campus were focused on Leah and Angie.

Angie was still jealous and cursing Selena a second ago, but now when she faced those disgusting gazes around her, she was so scared that her face turned white and she immediately hid behind Dominic.

Leah stood there with a stiff body, her long hair scattered down, revealing only her pale chin. She was still dignified and beautiful, but it was as if she had been drained of life, turning stiff.

Molly looked at her daughter being disgusted, and her heart was filled with more than panic, protecting Leah and saying in a stern voice, "What kind of eyes do you have? What does Selena's matter have to do with my daughter? Maybe she is the one who deliberately set my daughter up."

She was so angry that she said out of turn, "Who knows if she bribed those students in advance and came up with the questions in advance, and deliberately staged this?"

Molly thought that by saying this, she could make people suspect Selena, but she didn't expect that it would instantly lead to a swarm of curses.

"Bullshit."

"Sure enough, she's a mistress who thinks everyone is as shameless as she is."

"So many of us at Creephia University joined Selena to cheat together just to smear Leah? Funny, you really are a mistress, you can just say anything you want to slander people, you are really surprising us."

Chapter 147

"Having such a stepmother and sister, I don't believe it anyway that Selena's matter has nothing to do with Leah. She is treating everyone as if they are playing with that group of students in Class 10. The whole class, except for Selena, the victim, has problems with their mindset and outlook, but she, Leah, is still maintaining her image as a soft and kind goddess. Who dares to believe that she has no problems?"

"According to Molly, Selena not only calculated that she was coldly violated for a year, calculated that she became the study slacker that everyone in the whole Creephia hated, calculated that she had a car accident on the eve of her exams and got scolded, just for the sake of this moment to wrong Leah? Molly, with all due respect, are you out of your mind?"

"More than that, in Molly's thinking, Selena has not only calculated all this, she has discussed the questions with us in advance, discussed the order of the questions, discussed the person who will give the questions, she has controlled the students and teachers of the whole Creephia University with her own power. Although I don't want to lose my manners, I still want to curse at this moment, Molly, you are sick."

Molly didn't expect her hasty remark to have offended the public, her face turned white, but she had already explained forcefully, "Could my daughter still be in control of Selena's exams? It's not like she didn't take the exam, she did it herself with a pen, can my daughter still control how she writes the exam?"

There was some truth to this, but with the previous experience, everyone looked at Molly and Leah with a strong unkindness in their eyes.

"Not necessarily," someone retorted, "have you forgotten what that "Student C" posted? Don't you think it's horrifying?"

There was another moment of eerie silence at this comment.

The night before, she had posted to lead people to believe that Selena was just trying to make a spectacle of herself and might take special measures to escape from the exams, but the next day, Selena was really in a car accident. What would have happened if she had not insisted on coming to school with an injury, and had overcome all the doubters with greater strength?

When they thought about it, chills ran down the spine of the crowd.

Selena still didn't know what was going on on Weibo, and at the moment turned her head to the person beside her, "What's going on in Weibo?"

Zachary's face was cold as he opened Weibo to her.

When Selena saw the two posts on it that were still hanging on the hot search at the moment, the corners of her lips curled up into a cold smile and her expression became even colder.

Before, it was at the entrance of the school, but now it was inside the school.

She really didn't know whether she should say that Leah was stupid or appreciate that she was bold enough.

Selena let out a deep sigh. The sun was too strong and her arms were painful and inconvenient, her whole expression became even more lazy and cold.

It was a good thing that her years of hard military service had honed her patience so well that she did not act rudely by slamming the microphone onto Leah's head.

She held the microphone and her dark eyes looked down at Leah indifferently, "Leah, before we start, I will give you a chance to defend yourself please remember, don't let me hear such nonsense as "you are innocent, you don't know anything", you don't get bored, but everyone will. Make sure you take this chance, because in a minute, I'm going to -"

She said, slowly and coldly, "Have public execution."

Leah trembled, and her heart instantly clenched.

She looked up at Selena on the high platform, the beautiful woman with cold eyes was looking at her. Her eyes did not have the joy of being cleared of wrongdoing, nor did they have the anger of suffering wrongdoing, only a deep, bottomless abyss.

Leah shivered.

When had the timid and reticent Selena become such a stranger?

The mere fact that Selena was sitting there lazily made her feel a tremendous pressure.

How was this possible?

Chapter 148

Selena had always been a mole that she had played with wantonly, stepping on under her feet, and now the situation was reversed. For the woman on the high platform, she had become a mole, and Selena did not even bother to get angry with her, there was no other excess emotion in her eyes other than the displeasure of being offended.

Leah stared deadily at Selena, remembering the woman she had met many years ago when she first entered the Riddle family.

That was Selena's mother.

She was seriously ill at the time, lying in bed, her face so pale that it was bloodless, but even in such a wretched state, facing the scene of her husband's cheating and his mistress bringing her illegitimate daughter to her door, her expression was still haughty and cold.

There was no hysterical displeasure as outsiders might expect, nor did she have so-called begging or redeeming her husband.

She merely held the small Selena and coldly swept a glance at the three members of their family, as if they were just a few insignificant pieces of dust.

Leah even felt that her father, who had straightened his back at that moment, was weak and ridiculous.

Molly was even more nothing in front of her.

She was not defeated by Molly at all, rather, she had lost to her illness.

For so many years, she did not want to admit that she was inferior to Selena, and that was why she had used every means to torment Selena, who was sitting next to her mother like a doll at the time.

She thought she had finally succeeded in defeating her daughter and crushing that woman's pride, but she had not expected to see a similar coldness and arrogance in Selena again after so many years.

Years ago, her mother, in Molly's eyes, was nothing more than a self-righteous clown.

At that time, she looked at her mother, who had succeeded in getting to the top and was complacent, and felt only stupidity and irony, or a strong sense of resentment.

Little did she know that years later, she would become that existence in Selena's eyes that was so foolish as to be unworthy of attention.

Even Selena's eyes were deeper and colder than her mother's, at first glance just pretty and warm, but after looking at them for a long time, they would send chills down the spine.

It was the look of a superior looking down on an ant.

No...

Leah's nerves heard a burst of protest. It was clear that she had won, she had the upper hand, how dare Selena look at her with such eyes?

Selena was the one who had been thrown out of the house and lost everything.

It was she who had won, winning the status of Ms. Riddle, winning over Dominic, winning all the fame and fortune.

Leah subconsciously straightened her back, biting her lips tightly. She stared deadly at Selena, and for the first time her always soft smile disappeared from her face, saying indifferently, "Selena, even if you don't like me, you're not qualified to slander me. Whether you cheat, are a study slacker or a fool, it has nothing to do with me. You can condemn me for stealing your status, but you're not qualified to blame your misfortune on me."

Selena's gaze did not show the slightest emotion, and she softly and coldly asked in return, "Finished?" She nodded, "Then it's my turn."

Chapter 149

"Then let's start with your mouth always saying "you don't know anything, you're innocent", " Selena changed her posture, elegantly straightened her legs, her tone was a hint of laziness, "you joined hands with your mother to kill my mother, you had an affair with my fiancé, sent me pictures to show off, let me see with my own eyes the dirty and disgusting scene of you two in bed, then you explained to me in front of Dominic that you were just drugged and that it was an accident; you spent a year reminding me of this almost every day, saying that you were apologizing to me. You apologized and even slit your wrists because I did not say the words to forgive you, so that Dominic scolded me for being cruel and even hit me, so in the end it was you who was innocent; you had a conflict with me at my wedding banquet with those unpleasant photos you got from somewhere, and during the fight you rolled down the stairs and I was pushed by Dominic and hit my head. "

Selena raised her head and touched her forehead, the wound there had already healed, not even a trace remained, as if those injuries had not existed.

Only Selena knew that just because of that reckoning, that push by Dominic, Selena died.

She gently touched that piece of skin, the expression on her face became sad at this moment, "Until now no one has asked a single question, whether I pushed you down or you fell down yourself, then I was publicly repented of my marriage, became the most infamous joke in Creephia, but you and my fiancé began to openly pair up. No one scolded you slags, but they thought you were perfect together, and you still remained your pure image. You used specious words and actions to create a position for the students of Class 10 that you were always the victim of being bullied and beaten by me, so that the students and teachers of the whole class were collectively coldly violent towards me, turning me from a top A-level student into a fool and a study slacker known to everyone in Creephia for a year. And you are still the kind and innocent good sister and good student; I was kicked out of my home and left in exile, while you had both parents, not only got my fiancé, got the status of Ms. Riddle, but got everything the Riddle family had to offer, but you were still soft and innocent."

She lifted her eyelashes, her eyes were cold again, as if the sadness and fragility were just an illusion. "Do you have anything to refute?"

The already quiet atmosphere in the room fell into a dead silence.

Everyone looked at the girl sitting on the high platform, with her eyes lowered and looking somewhat sad, and felt their eyes sore.

Selena was only nineteen years old, originally the same age as them, should have been vivid and carefree, but she had experienced so many bad things.

Let alone the truth, at this moment, everyone felt their heart stifling.

And the eyes that looked at Leah turned into an extreme complexity and coldness.

"How can Leah be so innocent as to make me disgusting?"

"These things once put together, I don't think Leah is innocent."

"If she was innocent, there wouldn't be any bad people in the world. This is a typical bitch."

When Dominic heard Selena's words that seemed to be without emotion, but seemed to be an accusation, he clenched his fist, and for the first time, the thought that he had always felt that Leah was kind and Selena was domineering and vicious wavered in his heart.

He had always stood in Leah's shoes, feeling that all along Selena had been aggressive, that she was to blame for what happened to her, and that Leah had always been tolerant and generous, kind and aggrieved, but hearing these words from Selena in person today, even he could not refute them, and standing in Selena's shoes, it was indeed the truth.

The look he gave to Leah became complicated, until now, Leah had not given him an explanation as to why she had sent those photos to Selena at that time.

Chapter 150

Leah stood in place, feeling those cold and disgusted eyes around her, she seemed to freeze off.

Selena said that she would be publicly executed, she didn't even think Selena was that capable, but these words Selena said were all facts that were known to everyone.

She could have had countless chances to save her image by explanation, but all together, the whole thing was completely out of her control.

As Selena said, she could be innocent once or twice, but three or four times, who would still believe her?

Leah squeezed her palms tightly and raised her head, looking at Selena with more than a touch of ice in her eyes, "Regarding your mother's death, my mother and I are not qualified to say innocent, but Selena, she died of illness, and that is the truth, as for me and Mr. Walson..."

Her eyes flashed a trace of heartache and grievance, like she had been forced to the corner, feeling humiliated but had to compromise, "if you really care so much about Mr. Walson, hate me to get involved with him, then I can make a promise in public, I will never marry him."

The moment these words came out, Dominic's face changed dramatically and he raised his hand to grab Leah. The slightest waver in his heart that had just arisen instantly disappeared leaving only heartache and anger, "Leah."

He had already lost Selena and the twenty percent of Riddle's shares that had almost slipped through his fingers, if even Leah left him, he would end up with nothing, how else could he compete with Talon?

Dominic was even flustered at this moment.

Even Angie was panicked, she had heard with her own ears that Talon wanted to compete with Dominic for the position of family head. Because the Riddle family only had one daughter, Leah, and Selena had been expelled from the family, no one took her seriously. If Leah left Dominic, then he would not have any advantage against Talon.

Talon liked Selena, once he got the Walson family, what would he do to her?

Angie shivered and followed suit to grab Leah's hand, "Leah."

Leah darted away from his touch, her expression became cold and seemed to carry a hint of strong stoicism, "Mr. Walson, we were wrong in the first place, after that it was because of some misunderstanding, strictly counting, from the beginning to the end, we have never really been together."

Because of the identity of Selena, the fiancée, up to now, she was just a mistress that everyone hated, and, Dominic did not openly claim that she was his girlfriend.

Leah was full of hatred.

She choked up, her face was full of indifference and stubbornness, "Please let me go, I'm tired, I don't want to upset the family because of you. If this continues, maybe I will not only be "publicly executed"."