Chapter 61

Luke looked at the number, it was the PR department calling, and he hung up.

But it called again almost instantly.

Luke pressed the answer button, raised his eyebrows to look at Selena as he listened to what was saying over the phone, his expression appeared a hint of obvious surprise.

Selena was staring at the script, and she noticed the gaze, lifted her eyelids to look over, revealing a smiling face.

Luke placed the phone in her hand, his voice dripping with oddity, "Someone from your school called Olympus Group's PR department and asked Olympus Group to inform you, school has started, it's time for you to go back to class."

But Olympus Group staff are smart people, they couldn't figure out what kind of relationship Selena had with Luke, so they consulted those who had met Selena in the entertainment department, and after a few deliberations, they finally called Luke.

As it turns out, those who make it to Olympus Group are smart.

In the whole of Olympus Group, it is estimated that only Luke would dare to say this to Selena.

Selena's expression abruptly went cold.

The previous mobile phone of Selena was lost, after that she spent some effort to find the evidence of Leah and Dominic cheating, and found it back, but only kept the evidence, the contacts are not continued in use.

The mobile phone she was using now was the new one given to her by Osvaldo. The school could not find her, so they even called the Olympus Group's company, and they called the public relations department, which was specifically responsible for handling internal news.

This is a fair reminder to her "top boss" and colleagues of how much she has embarrassed Olympus Group's name at school!

If it were the real Selena, she would probably be blushing with guilt and be ashamed of herself at this moment.

Not exactly a clever trick, but disgusting enough.

Selena looked straight at Luke, no anger could be seen on her face, "Mr. Jordan, I'm going to school to deal with some personal matters, I'll come in the afternoon."

When she finished, she stomped on her heels towards the outside.

Luke raised his eyebrows, it looked like the group of students really annoyed her.

But why did a girl with such a strong temperament show her weakness over the previous ten years?

In a matter of moments, it was almost like two people.

Selena took a taxi to Creephia University.

At the moment the new students are not yet enrolled, and the older students are coming. Selena is nineteen years old and is in the second year of medicine.

It had rained not long ago and the air was unusually hot and humid, and sun in the summer afternoon was so hot that people wanted to get into an air-conditioned room and never come out again.

Selena forgot to bring her umbrella. She walked alone on the boulevard, her long blue skirt covering her knees, her long hair scattered over her shoulders, her temperament was outstanding, her beauty was unparalleled, and she became one of the most beautiful scenes on campus.

People passing by frequently look back and comment on whether this is this year's new student.

Selena crossed the boulevard, seeing her feet about to step into the sunlight, a sudden voice came from behind her, "Wait a minute!"

Selena's footsteps paused and she looked over with a slight sideways glance.

A boy in a white shirt and hat ran over to her, his face was slightly flushing, his eyes were bright, he handed her an umbrella, "It's too hot, you'll get sunburn, this umbrella is for you."

Selena stared at his badge, "You're from the student council?"

The boy nodded his head and smiled, clean and bright in the sunlight, "My name is Billy Gibson, I'm the vice president of the student council, and you are..."

Selena lowered her eyes, as if she was thinking about something, after a moment, she looked up at him and spoke, "I am a student of this school, if you are not busy, can you do me a favor?"

Chapter 62

Billy froze, his face flushed and he nodded, "Of course."

Selena smiled, took the umbrella handed to her, held it open and walked towards the medical school.

All the way into the area of the medical school, there are various herb gardens all over the place, even the air is flooded with a hint of medicinal fragrance and there is a calming serenity.

Billy was surprised, "You are a student of the medical school? I thought you are a new student who just came in this year." Selena walked up the steps and turned to look at Billy with a faint smile, "You should have heard of me, you just haven't met me."

Billy blinked.

With a look like Selena, she was quite prettier than Leah, so if she was really a student of Creephia University, how could he have never seen her before?

He had doubts in his heart, but looking at Selena's dark and beautiful eyes, he did not ask, "What do you want me to help you with?"

"Testify."

"Testify?" Billy frowned, "Did someone bully you?"

Selena smiled, her tone dripping with a touch of pity and tenderness, "You will know when you see it."

She finished and turned towards the classroom.

Billy looked at the slender and thin back of the young girl, his heart was getting heavier and heavier with doubts. As the vice president of the student council, he was naturally not bad in all aspects, and he vaguely felt that this pretty girl should want him to see something.

But at school, most of the students' minds are innocent and harmless, and the slightly bad ones are at best mischievous pranks, nothing worth pursuing.

But he had promised Selena, so naturally he would not go back on his word.

Billy found a corner that was very close and not easily noticeable, and looked towards the classroom where Selena had walked over.

Selena lowered her eyebrows, hiding the coldness under her eyes, her hands folded in front of her body, her blue skirt swaying slightly with the wind as she walked, her movement carrying a pleasing elegance.

She walked up to the classroom door and looked at the closed room in front of her with a look of boredom, coldness, loathing and inexplicability sweeping across her eyes.

With a slight push, the closed door was opened with a creak.

There were deliberately low, excited sighs from people in the classroom.

A corner of some nightmare in Selena's memory was slightly lifted.

In the next second, under Billy's dumbfounded gaze, Selena raised her foot and kicked heavily on the door panel.

"There was a clang and something fell violently from above the door.

She moved backwards quickly enough, but still got her skirt wet from the water splashing down.

A bucket of water crashed to the ground with a loud clang.

At the same time, there was a steep burst of laughter from the classroom.

"Did it hit her?"

Then there was an angry voice.

"Damn Selena, why did you hide?!"

Chapter 63

“You have the guts to seduce my brother and cause Leah to be humiliated and sad, and you don’t have the guts to accept the punishment?!”

Accompanied by this arrogant and domineering voice, Angie rushed to the door with a group of people, glaring viciously at Selena with a cynical and irritated look.

Selena lowered her eyes, looking at her wet skirt and shoes, and did not move for a long time.

When Angie saw that she didn’t say anything, her tone became increasingly mean, “Answer me, are you mute?!”

Selena finally raised her eyelids, her eyes fell behind Angie, the group of young men and women, and at that moment her gaze was filled with boredom, or hatred.

Her fingers ruffled her hair, her voice was too soft to be heard, “Angie is from another department, I am from this class, but you help her bully student from your own class, do you know what this kind of behavior is called?”

The group of students who were staring intently at Selena froze at the sound of their words.

They had a moment of weakness, but after a moment, a girl standing behind Angie sneered meanly, “Don’t say you are a student of our class, we don’t have such a disgraceful student like you in our class, Selena, look at yourself and see if you are worthy of being my classmate?”

“That’s right, don’t flatter yourself, we’re outstanding students, you’re a cheating student who stole your sister’s boyfriend, how dare you say shamelessly that you’re in the same class as us?”

A few boys probably didn’t expect that Selena, who was always heavily made up and silent, to be so beautiful after removing make-up, but they didn’t say anything bad like a few girls did, just stared at Selena with shock.

Selena slightly tilted, her head, looking at the group of righteous young men and women, and who had expounded the vicious phrase “If one person hates you, it’s her fault, but if a group of people hate you, it’s definitely your fault”.

Under Leah’s brainwashing, their loathing for Selena was almost so deep in their bones that it was unreasonable.

This girl makes them loath her no matter what she does, even if she just sits quietly in the classroom.

They isolated her, ostracised her, did not inform her of any school events, and none of them would even speak to her except to make sarcastic remarks and insult her.

After years of cold violence, the more depressed the girl became, the more emotionally disturbed she became, and even autistic for a time.

From kindergarten to university, for more than ten years, Leah used the same method to expel all those who came near Selena.

This nineteen year old girl had never even made a real friend since she was a child.

No, there was once a so-called “real friend”.

But –

Selena’s eyes swept through a trace of bone-chilling cold, but her gaze was empty and cold, the people who saw those eyes felt inexplicably panic.

She sneered, and said softly, “In Creephia, everyone knows that before yesterday, Dominic was my fiance, it was Leah who was shameless and seduced her brother-in-law. Can’t you group of college students who claim to be outstanding students see clearly who the shameless one really is?”

Chapter 64

Mostly because they had not expected that Selena would refute, everyone froze.

Selena had argued before, but never once with such force as now, even to the point of putting them under great pressure. “That’s because you used despicable and shameless means to snatch Dominic from Leah’s hands, causing Leah to only endure the pain of breaking up with Dominic!”

The girl who spoke first opened her mouth again, and the more she spoke, the more righteous she became, almost pointing her finger at Selena’s nose and scolding her, “They were a nice couple, but because you interfered in the middle and stole Dominic. Leah put up with you because you are her sister, but how did you treat her?”

“That’s right, you’ve been calling her a daughter born of a mistress, looking down on her, humiliating her and bullying her because of your status as the Riddle family’s daughter. Selena, how can you be so vicious?”

“Leah even gave up the man she likes to you, but you still are always working against her, making things difficult for her, slipping notes in her pockets to slander her for cheating, Selena, how can you be so shameless?”

Selena looked at their righteous indignation to seek justice for Leah, her face became colder and colder, and the aura that seeped out around her made those students who were screaming righteously, without any reason, more and more afraid. “Oh? Wasn’t Leah the daughter born to a mistress? As for me bullying her and framing her, have any of you seen it with your own eyes?”

The group choked again.

Leah was indeed the daughter of a mistress, and there was no way for anyone to refute that.

Over the years, she has caused Selena to suffer countless times by relying on this so-called “weak status”.

“It’s her mother who’s the mistress, not her, she’s innocent!” Someone defended her, “You’ve pushed her so many times in front of us, she comes to school with bruises all the time and doesn’t want us to see them, especially yesterday when you put her in such a bad way. Do you think we’re all blind?”

Selena licked her lips and gave a cold smile, giving up talking.

Angie had been holding a grudge against Selena for the two slaps she received in public yesterday, and had long been impatient, saying to the people behind her, "What's the point of talking to her so much? Teach her a lesson!"

Selena's eyes fell on Angie's face and moved away again, looking at the group of stupid students, lowering her eyes, she said, "You are already adults, don't you know that beating someone up is against the law?"

"Who beat you up?" Angie laughed delicately, her face full of domineering malice, "It was you who fell down by accident, who is to blame? Besides, Selena, you've been naive for so many years, haven't you understood a single truth? Even if you tell everyone that we bullied you and beat you up, who do you think will believe you in this campus?"

"We didn't call that beating you, we called it punishing evil, so that you'll learn a lesson before you bully Leah next time!"

"That's right, when people are as bad as you are, it's better to die."

"You girls rest, we'll help you catch her!"

A few boys said, about to pounce on Selena to grab her. Selena's breath was cold to the extreme, she stood in place, her eyes cold, somewhat intent on watching this scene, not saying anything, nor moving.

Seeing that a few boys were about to touch Selena, a voice suddenly rang out from not far away, the tone was calm, "What are you doing?"

The group froze collectively, the girls' smiles suddenly froze on their faces.

Chapter 65

They turned their heads to see a figure slowly walking out from behind a pillar, his eyes raking heavily over each face, finally landing on a few boys with extreme shock and disbelief.

The group instantly froze, not feeling at fault, but still subconsciously feeling timid from what they had been taught since childhood.

"Billy, we, we're not doing anything, we're just joking around between classmates."

"Right, senior, we didn't do anything, we were just joking around with Selena!" The girl who spoke, gave Selena a vicious glare, and she clasped her arms and once again stood tall.

Angie even never felt she was at fault, standing in place with a petulant face, glaring at Selena and threatening in a small voice, "Don't try to run!"

Selena gathered her hair behind her ears and stood in place, her face still with that expression that could not be described as boredom or abhorrence.

Billy didn't say anything, he used a calm to disturbing sight from the dozen or so students who were justified and seemed to really not feel that bullying their classmates was a wrong thing at all.

He glanced again at Selena, who stood there, her eyes weary. She was nineteen years old, but without the slightest trace of the vivid and indulgent air that should be present at that age.

He remembered again her words, "You must have heard of me, you just haven't seen me."

He had indeed heard of Selena.

The rumour at school was that she was vicious and domineering, always bullying her sister on account of her family background.

Rumour has it that she is uneducated, cheats in exams and is an unabashed fool.

Rumor has it that not only did she not study herself, but she snuck notes into Leah's coat pocket before the exam, smearing her sister, who is a good student, for cheating.

Everyone mentioned her with a look of disgust.

Those who do not know Selena will automatically conjure up an image in their minds of a girl with a gloomy look and a fierce face that makes people not want to approach her.

Billy closed his eyes.

He didn't say anything, and the atmosphere was unspeakably silent.

Angie was impatient to wait, if not for the fact that Billy was the vice president of the student council and had an extraordinary family background, she would not have had the patience to wait. As she was about to express her dissatisfaction, Billy took out his mobile phone from his pocket.

He dialed a number, his voice carrying a booming anger, "Zachary, get your ass down to the medical school complex right now!"

After saying that, without waiting for a reply, he hung up the phone and made another call, "Kash, you'd better come over medical school complex right away!"

After hanging up this call, he called a third mobile phone, "President, no matter how important things you have on your hands right now, put it aside, there is a very serious matter at the medical school that needs to be dealt with immediately!"

Billy finished three phone calls without interruption, not giving those students a chance to stop him at all.

By the time those students reacted, his call was over.

Hearing the three people Billy called, the students finally panicked.

"Vice President, what are you doing? We, we were just joking around with Selena."

The school's student council is serious.

Chapter 66

If they receive a major demerit, their overall grade will plummet, or worse, they may not even get their diploma or degree.

They didn't want to do anything to Selena, they just wanted to teach her a lesson, and if they were counted for a major demerit, it would be worthless.

Billy gave them a cold look.

A group of college students was completely panicked. Those can be admitted to Creephia University have good academic performance, which is the capital of many people bragging, if they can not get a diploma and degree, may be their future have to be destroyed.

The girl who had been shouting the most, glared at Selena viciously, "Selena, tell the vice president, we're just joking with you!"

Selena looked down at her fingertips, her eyes arrogant and cold, glancing at her, "Idiot!"

The girl's face was white with anger.

If it were usual, Selena dared to scold her like that, she would have thrown the book at her face long ago, but this time Billy was watching and she didn't dare to make the situation worse but could only hold her tongue.

When Angie saw that she couldn't teach Selena a lesson, she was so angry that she stomped her feet. She was always lawless because of her family background, she raised her chin and shouted, "It's just a vice president of the student council, what's the big deal? I don't care about that diploma! If you protect Selena, you are going against the Walson family, Billy, have you thought it through?"

When Angie said this, Billy's face turned white.

Zachary, who had just been summoned by his cousin and was running in a hurry, opened his mouth, "Miss Walson, how dare you come to my medical school and make a scene? You can try to touch my people of the medical school!"

Billy coldly gave him a glance, "No need for her to do it, you medical school people help the outsiders do it!"

Zachary was confused, "What?!"

Soon, both the president of finance department and the student council arrived, and after listening to Billy's account of the whole process, the faces of all three turned incomparably white.

Zachary gritted his teeth as he stared at the group of students in Selena's class, "You guys claimed to be excellent student. If you go out to society, you're all traitors!"

The group of students were scolded and each of their faces were very indignant, but they did not dare to speak back for fear of being counted major demerit.

Kash's face was unpleasant. Angie used to look innocent and lively in the past, but at this moment only felt domineering and vicious, he uttered, "I am not qualified to discipline Miss Walson, call the Walson family!"

Angie thought of Cyril's pale, stern face. Although she was a young lady of the Walson family, she was not the only young lady in the Walson family, there were several other houses and the competition was fierce.

Cyril was very upset with her family these days because of what happened to Dominic, and thinking of her mother's stern instructions, Angie held her anger and did not scream.

Anyway, there were plenty of opportunities to teach Selena a lesson!

The president of the student council was a cold and handsome boy, his eyes fell on Selena's face, he was lost in thought, and finally frowned and decided on the result, "Everyone will be counted medium demerit once, if they do it again, they will be reported to the school and directly expelled from the school!"

At these words, everyone present breathed a sigh of relief.

Luckily it wasn't a major demerit!

In the future, of course they would not be stupid enough to make a direct move against Selena again, they would naturally think of other ways to take a breath of anger for themselves.

The cold violence and isolation was their usual attitude towards Selena, who had played a trick on them and caused them to be taken advantage of and deserved their revenge!

Selena smiled expressionlessly, "No need, I've already called the police."

Chapter 67

Selena's words were like a thunderclap in everyone's ears.

Not to mention the group of students, even the president of the student council was stumped in place.

He pursed his lips, his gaze deep as he gazed at Selena, "Do you know what will happen if you call the police?"

Selena was smiling, but her tone was light.

"School violence is a section that has been severely cracked down on in recent years and is extremely hot. When news of me calling the police gets out, journalists throughout Creephia will be shocked by it, and then the incident of vicious school violence at Creephia University will be on the hot seat and a national sensation."

"If it gets any bigger, this incident will become a negative example for major schools and will be spread by word of mouth, the students of this class, you, the teachers, even the headmaster, the board, will be thrust into the limelight and face the verbal condemnation of the entire community."

"At this time, it is just at the beginning of the enrollment season, and it will have a negative impact on the enrollment of Creephia University this year, and even in the next several years. If the nature is rendered worse, Creephia University will be thrown behind Olnrith University, with which it is ranked, and within the next ten years, it will be trampled by Olnrith University!"

“In order to reduce the impact, every student involved in this incident will be punished with unprecedented severity, they are all adults, expulsion from school is the lightest punishment, the most serious, will definitely go to jail.”

“Their youth will be ruined, left far behind by their peers, in this life, may never get up again.”

With every word she said, the group of students’ faces turned pale.

By the end, everyone was frozen, looking at Selena with eyes that had become vaguely frightened.

The president of the student council stared into her eyes, “Even so, you’re choosing to call the police?”

He swept a glance at the group of ashen-faced students, “You know full well that calling the police could ruin their lives.”

Selena smiled and looked down at her hand, her tone was light, “Senior, have you ever tried being treated with cold violence?”

The president froze and his lips pursed even tighter.

He was a good-looking man, with excellent grades and an extremely good family background, he grew up as a star-studded existence, naturally, he had no taste of it.

“The whole class of fifty students obviously see you, yet everyone has to pretend they don’t see you, like you’re just a ball of air. Have you ever tasted what it’s like to be ignored?”

“Your books had to be carried home every time or they were sure to be in the trash the next day, your stool would be covered in glue from time to time, and the moment you made a scene of embarrassment would be greeted with laughter from the entire classroom, or you wouldn’t be able to find your stool.”

“When the teacher sees you standing there in class, she won’t even ask you why you don’t have a stool, she’ll just coldly lecture you and tell you to just stand in class.”

“No one ever informs you for class events, the whole class of teachers and students who don’t seem to have you as a person except for the thankless things they throw at you all in one fell swoop.”

“Then will deliberately lock the door after you’re done and leave you in a cold, dark classroom all night, only to be confronted the next day with a smugly arrogantly glib explanation that I’m sorry I forgot you were still in the classroom.” “You get caught cheating and framing another person for cheating, no one will give you any chance to explain yourself, the teachers and those so-called fellow students will just use that hideous mouth to insult you as a shameless, cheating person and spread the charge throughout the school so that everyone mentions your name with subconscious disgust. “They may even be vicious enough to call the company where you work and tell your colleagues and your top boss that you cheated at school. Have you ever tasted this?”

Everyone listened in awe.

They stared in awe at this beautiful young girl.

She lifted her head and smiled slightly, a light seemed to flicker in her eyes, and her bright face had a bitter sadness in this moment.

“Who are you to stop me from calling the police, if you have not tasted and experienced it?”

“This school, the teachers here, everything here, hasn’t given me a single gift, I don’t owe anyone anything, and why should

I care about them and choose to continue to condemn myself? This group of people-”

Chapter 68

Her gaze was cold as she swept her eyes at the group of students behind her, “Your so-called punishment will only expose more of their vicious nature, intensifying their bullying of me, and even if they get me killed, they will not feel they are at fault, they will only curse me for deserving of death.”

“I don’t want to be completely ruined by them, so I’ll just have to be ruthless and destroy them!”

“I was right, it was them who were wrong, I called the police with a clear conscience! They should pay for what they did and deserve it!”

The handsome face of the president of student council seemed to shake, the next second he turned his face away, “I know, if you want to report it, do it before it’s too late, once others are here, you might not have a chance.”

“President!”

The students in Selena’s class snapped back to attention and screamed in horror.

Zachary, who had already been in anger, sneered at them, “You have the guts to do it, but not the guts to bear the consequences? Are you cowards?”

“No.” The group of students were in a complete panic.

They were indeed indifferent to Selena.

But it’s just indifference.

The things that Selena said were all little lessons that a few of them had given when they saw how poorly Leah was bullied by Selena and were indignant.

At this moment, hearing Selena say it, some people suddenly realized that they had indeed been too cruel to this girl, it seemed.

But at the time, when they watched it, they all just felt gloated.

“Selena, don’t call the police, I apologize to you, I will never bully you or isolate you again, please don’t call the police.” Someone was terrified and pleaded out.

Calling the police is a completely different thing from counting the major demerit.

The topic of school violence has become too hot in recent years and once it gets big, they will become notorious throughout Creephia.

If Selena is more ruthless and sues them, at that time, not to mention the diploma and degree will be obtained or not, in serious cases, they may really go to jail.

Selena smiled faintly, "You can dislike me, isolate me, reject me, and even watch my wretchedness with cold eyes, but why you have to follow the executioner and ridicule and humiliate me together?"

No snowflake is innocent when it comes to avalanches.

Even on the battlefield, when faced with the corpse of an enemy, a true soldier would take off his hat and give true respect to the dead.

Those who dare to step forward in the face of a scene where the weak are being bullied are heroes, and there is nothing wrong with indifference because it is not a sin.

But those who can still laugh in the face of scenes of bullying of their fellow are in no position to speak of innocence.

It is a waste of resources that these students, after so many years of schooling and good education, do not even understand the most basic respect and reverence.

Those students, faced with Selena's rhetorical question, could not find the words to refute it.

Because they suddenly felt that the young girl opposite them was terrifying, and when they met her dark, cold eyes, they could not even speak with the utmost restraint.

There is a part that is adamant that they are right.

The girl who ostracised Selena the most became even more paranoid after a moment of panic.

"Go ahead and report it, see if we are afraid of you. It's just as well that all of Creephia knows your character. We did bully you, but compared to the evil things you did to Leah, what we did was humane enough!"

Chapter 69

"Senior, Selena only said what we did, but do you know what she did?"

The girl sneered, looking at Selena with disgust, "She is always at the bottom of every exam, lowering our class's grade, stole the man Leah likes relying on the fact that she is the rightful young lady of the Riddle family, and being repudiated by her fiancé for "promiscuity", the whole Creephia knows her misbehavior and her bad character."

Selena faced her sharp accusation, slightly inclined her head, with a bright smile, "More than that, you preach to everyone, saying that I am ugly beyond belief, but am I ugly?"

"You-" the girl was so angry that her face turned white.

There is no doubt about the beauty of Selena.

Anyone would be able to see that Selena is many times more beautiful than Leah.

Such a stunning beauty is proclaimed as ugly by this class, so how much of the rest of it can be true?

Facing the questioning gaze of several people from the student council, the girl became extremely angry and almost grimaced, "Selena, you bitch, you-"

"That's enough!" Billy interrupted her, looking at her with a cold, icy look, "Charlotte, you are a student of Creephia University, and in the future you will be a doctor, a legendary angel, but look at the way you act the moment. Are you worthy of these honorary titles?"

Charlotte's face stiffed in a moment, "Senior, I..."

"Selena has said that she has already called the police, what is the truth, who is right and who is wrong, the police will investigate, now please show your basic qualities as Creephia University students!"

The air fell silent, and the frightened students didn't even dare to breathe a word.

Some of those who were quick-witted took out their mobile phones and started looking for teachers, as no matter how they were investigated, they would at best be expelled from the school, but once they went to court, things would really not end.

Unfortunately, a few police cars were seen before the teachers arrived.

Looking at the police in uniform, some of the timid students' faces turned white with fear.

The policeman at the head of the group came over, his eyes flicked around between their group of students and finally asked, "Which one is Selena Riddle?"

Selena walked out slowly, her voice softened quite a bit, "I am, those information were provided by me, this entire class of students and teachers- "

She swept the group of students around her, and after looking at several of them and shivering, her lips curled, "are all parties!"

As soon as Selena's words left her mouth, the class teacher, who had been alerted by the student's call, arrived in a hurry. Seeing the situation, she froze, and then her eyebrows furrowed, discontentedly glancing at Selena, "Selena, it's you again! School hasn't even started yet, and you're causing all this trouble again, can't you stop?"

Those students only said in the news that Selena had caused trouble again, and alerted the student council, did not say clearly the original process, so the class teacher had not realized the seriousness of the matter, and subconsciously opened her mouth to reprimand Selena as soon as she arrived.

This indiscriminate reprimand was heard by several members of the student council, who frowned in unison.

The president of student council said, "Ms. Sutton, it wasn't Selena who caused the trouble, it was the other students in your class who joined forces with students from outside the department and openly committed violence against her, and Billy ran into them!"

Ms. Sutton's face changed slightly, she naturally knew how hot the topic of "school violence" had become in recent years, and now it was ran into by the student council and even alerted the police.

Chapter 70

As a class teacher, she is naturally clear about Selena's situation, she was horrified that things will get big.

Freya Sutton's mind was in a state of shock and disbelief, she barely managed to hold down her somewhat uneasy emotions, came over, put on a teacherly attitude and said to a few police officers, "Officers, this is some students in our class playing around, this student..."

She gave Selena a look, barely suppressing her disgust and revealing a bit of a gentle expression, "I will take care of her matter, the school year is just around the corner, so I'm sorry to alarm you guys at this time."

The policeman glanced at her, then at the information in his hand, and asked, "You are Freya Sutton? The class teacher of Selena's classmate?"

Freya nodded solemnly, her tone hiding her disgust, "Yes, Selena is a student in our class who usually does poorly in her studies and always drags feet."

The police officer raised his hand to stop her words, his expression still meticulous, "Then you should come with us too, Selena reported you for taking bribes, openly encouraged other students to isolate her, and bent on judging her for cheating and smearing her for cheating without solid evidence."

A few short sentences were like a thunderbolt that exploded heavily in Freya's ears.

All the students in the room froze.

Selena put on a bright smile.

Freya bad premonition, her face instantly went pale, full of incredulity, retorted in a sharp voice, "Do not listen to Selena's nonsense, her character has problems, she is not only bad in academic performance, even in moral integrity-

The policeman's face sank and he looked at Selena, who was looking at him with an open expression, before his eyes fell back to Freya's face.

"That's enough! Ms. Sutton, if what Selena's classmate said is true or not, we will check it out. If you are righteous, yo have nothing to be afraid, right?"

Cold sweat broke out on Freya's face, her face full of panic and humiliation as she glared viciously at Selena, "Selena, how dare you-"

Without waiting for her to reprimand Selena, the policeman took out a pair of handcuffs and interrupted her in a deep voice, "Ms. Sutton, we are still here, please watch your words. If you are threatening to humiliate her, we can arrest you for resisting arrest!"

Freya's face went white.

When the other students saw that even the class teacher had been arrested, the only luck left in their hearts vanished in an instant and their faces became frightened.

It's over!

Things are really coming to a head and there is no more room for manoeuvre.

Even Angie's face was starting to turn white.

She just wanted to teach Selena a hard lesson, but she didn't expect that Selena would dare to call the police. With the Walson family backing her up, she was confident that the police wouldn't dare to do anything to her, but the matter had become a big deal in Creephia meant that Talon would know about it.

He was so biased towards Selena, if he knew she was bullying Selena at school, he would definitely take the opportunity to tell her grandpa.

Her brother had just made her grandpa extremely unhappy, and with her causing such a scandal immediately afterwards, Cyril would definitely become more and more disgusted with them.

When Angie thought of this, she looked at Selena with more and more resentment.
