Chapter 51

"Forget it, Sean!"

Carlisle patted Sean on his shoulder. This was a time when evildoers hadn't been completely eradicated.

No one was willing to offend those criminals.

That being said, Sean's words guilt-tripped them.

"Don't cry, Lily. It's more important that you're safe!"

Carlisle had changed the tragedy that he had foreseen. Lily had survived. This was the silver lining.

"My school fees are gone. Without that, I won't be able to attend university... What should I do?" cried Lily.

She sat on the ground with her head buried between her knees.

She had 4000 dollars in her bag. 3000 dollars was from the hard work that her parents put in by working day and night for half a year. The other 1000 dollars was from her grandfather's sale of their cow.

Carlisle spoke up, "I'll put in the money for your school fees first..."

After all, Lily's past had changed because of him. Helping out with her school fees was his way up for the guilt he felt in his heart.

Lily looked up at Carlisle. She was teary-eyed. "You have that much money?"

of making Carlisle smiled and replied casually, "I earned some money from gaming over the summer holidays!"

Lily looked at Sean doubtfully. In a croaky voice, she asked, "Is what Carlisle said true?"

A smile broke on Sean's face. "Yeah. He's a rich man now!"

"But... I might only be able to pay you back after a long time!"

Lily started crying even harder. She didn't interact with Carlisle much. Even so, he was willing to fork out the money for her school fees first.

It was not a small amount. Even if she worked part-time, it would probably take her years to pay him back.

"There's no rush in paying me back. Wait till you get a job next time!"

Carlisle didn't think of having her return the money. He even decided to include her in his money-making plans in the future.

After a moment, the police arrived. Carlisle and Sean accompanied Lily to make a report and get her statement taken.

After that, they returned to town for dinner.

Carlisle made a trip back to the hotel to take 5000 dollars from his luggage. Although it wasn't considered a small amount during this time, he didn't feel the pinch at all.

At the seafood restaurant, Sean ordered eight dishes in one go. Chapter 51

Lily was stunned. She knew that Sean had a good family background. But wasn't this over the top? How were the three of them going to be able to finish eight dishes?

"Mister, you hurt your arm. Do you want to go have your wound cleaned?" a waitress asked politely. She had noticed the scratch on Sean's arm.

"It's just a minor injury. It's no biggie!"

Sean waved his hand. Then, he added, "I'd like to add a shrimp gumbo!"

The waitress asked, "Are you waiting on anyone else?"

Sean nodded. "One more person!"

The waitress was taken aback. "Only one more person?"

They ordered nine dishes for the three of them. She figured that Sean was born with a silver spoon in his mouth!

At this moment, Sean realized that he might have ordered too much.

He thought of canceling a few dishes but was afraid of being looked down on by the waitress.

Lily was sitting next to him. So, he linked arms with Lily and boasted "I'm treating my girlfriend to a meal. What's wrong with ordering a few more dishes?"

Lily widened her eyes immediately. She blushed. She wanted to push Sean away but was afraid that she'd hurt his pride.

She was reminded of the scene where Sean leaped ahead to save her. She flushed red and lowered her head.

"Sorry, I'm sorry. I misspoke!" the waitress apologized immediately.

Such a situation has indeed happened before. There were those old money who ordered more than ten dishes for themselves!

After the waitress left, Carlisle opened the door to the private room and walked in.

He saw that Sean had linked arms with Lily. He smiled slightly and commented, "Good on you, Sean. It's only been a while, and you've managed to chase Lily?"

Sean turned red. He retracted his hand immediately and stuttered, "Lily..."

Sorry... I didn't mean to!"

Lily had flushed red in embarrassment. She hung her head low and mumbled, "I-

It's alright!"

They were both very shy. They hung their heads down low and didn't say a word.

Carlisle took out 5000 dollars and put it on the table in front of Lily. "Here are your school fees, Lily!"

Chapter 52

Lily glanced at the cash. They were all brand new 100-dollar bills. She wasn't able to tell how much there was just by the thickness of the stack.

"Thank you very much, Carlisle!"

Lily was brought to tears again.

She had mocked him when he switched places with her. Even so, he was helping her without holding any grudges.

formal!

"We were schoolmates. You don't have to be so for

"I will return it to you as soon as possible," Lily uttered, choking back on her tears.

Lily pressed the money against her chest. If it weren't for Carlisle and Sean, her life would have changed.

"Alright, hurry up and put the money away. You shouldn't keep your money exposed like that. You were probably robbed because you revealed your money somewhere!"

Carlisle picked up the cup from the table and took a sip.

Lily shook her head. "I've never revealed my money!"

Carlisle continued his analysis. "Then, there's a second possibility. Those robbers knew that there would be freshmen with money on them during the new school term. So, they simply struck at random. It was just your bad luck that they targeted you..."

Lily pouted. "They're nasty. I hope the police will be able to catch them soon!"

Carlisle only responded with a smile. There was nothing wrong with Lily's perspective. However, the reality was usually very cruel.

The security was bad during this period of time. The authorities were probably incapable of doing anything even if they wanted to. If capturing them was such an easy task, the robbers wouldn't have threatened them with knives.

The staff members served up their food. After all nine dishes were served, Carlisle was flabbergasted.

"You're a nouveau riche indeed. This meal is on you!" Carlisle glared at Sean unhappily. Sean responded nonchalantly. "My treat it is!"

Out of the 20 thousand dollars that Carlisle gave him, he only used some of it to buy his phone. Other than that purchase, he had never touched the money again.

Sean opened a bottle of beer and poured a glass each for Carlisle and Lily.

"Cheers to our freedom..."

"Cheers!"

Chapter 52

Carlisle lifted his glass with a smile on his face.

Lily glanced at Carlisle and Sean, whom she was now indebted to. It didn't feel right to refuse them, so she also lifted her glass and clinked glasses with them.

Carlisle and Sean chugged it all in one gulp. As for Lily, she only took a sip.

Right at that moment, the MSN messenger notification rang from Carlisle's phone in his pocket again. He put his cutleries down and took his phone out.

He thought that Sweet like candy had messaged him. As it turned out, it wasn't her.

Goldfish memory: "Carlisle, have you arrived at Riverland?"

It was Christine Goodman.

Carlisle typed, "Just arrived not long ago. How about you?"

Goldfish_memory: "Hehe, I've just arrived too. Where are you? Can I treat you to a meal?"

Bygones_b_bygones: "I'm near the University of Science and Technology..."

Goldfish memory: "Oh, what a coincidence. I'm nearby, too!"

Bygones_b_bygones: "Come over to A1 Seafood Restaurant then. Sean and I are dining here!"

Goldfish memory: "You've already started eating? I'll treat you another day then!"

The name, A1 Seafood Restaurant, sounded posh. She didn't dare to treat Carlisle to a meal at a place like this.

It wasn't that she was being stingy. Rather, she couldn't afford it.

She had tried really hard to gather the money for her studies by asking her neighbors for it.

Bygones_b_bygones: "We can talk about that another day. Just come over first.

Sean ordered an entire spread of food. We won't be able to finish everything!"

Goldfish memory: "Alright then!"

Sean was eating the lemon butter come fish when he suddenly asked "Garl, to to think of it, how did you know that Lily would be in danger at that time?"

Upon hearing that, Lily looked toward Carlisle in surprise. "You already knew that I was going to be in danger, so you asked Sean to save me?"

Both of them stared straight at Carlisle. With a serious expression on his face, he said "I willet you both in on a secret. You have to make sure that you don't tell anyone!"

Chapter 53

The two of them nodded their heads repeatedly. Carlisle leaned in and whispered, "To be honest, my grandfather is a psychic. I've been exposed to it since I was young, so I've managed to pick up some physiognomy. When I saw Lily's dark forehead, I predicted that she would encounter danger soon!"

He knew that Sean would ask him this question, so he came up with a perfect explanation.

Sean grew up in a big city, so he was rather skeptical of Carlisle's words. He turned toward Lily and asked,

"Do you believe him?"

Lily nodded. "I do. The psychics in our village are extremely reputable!"

Sean picked up his beer and took a big gulp. He said with a grin, "Then, can you predict if I'll be able to find a girlfriend in university?"

Carlisle scanned Sean's face, picked up his palm, and studied it carefully.

After a while, he closed his eyes and began counting his finger joints.

Seeing Carlisle so serious, Sean couldn't help but feel nervous.

After a brief moment, Carlisle finally opened his eyes and exclaimed, "Oh my!"

Sean looked at him with wide eyes. "What is it?"

see a great love life ahead of you. In the next few years, there will be lots of women pursuing you!" Carlisle said as he looked at Sean with an envious gaze.

"Really?"

Sean excitedly took a big gulp of his beer.

Carlisle then pursed his lips and said, "However, none of them will genuinely like you, and they will just be after your money!"

Sean's excitement instantly withered. "Looks like I'm destined to be single in university!"

Carlisle glanced at Lily. He then leaned back in his chair and chuckled. "There's an opportunity right in front of you. If you can grasp it, you might just be able to turn the tide in your favor!"

Sean instantly perked up once again. "So, you're saying I still have hope for finding true love?"

Carlisle nodded with a smile.

Sean eagerly asked, "Please give me some advice!"

Carlisle smiled as he turned his gaze toward Lily.

Sean followed his gaze, and his face instantly flushed red.

Was Carlisle suggesting that Lily was his true love?

Lily also sensed the suggestion in his tone, making her instantly lower her head in embarrassment.

She deeply believed in fortune-telling.

ind Otherwise, how else would Carlisle have known she was in danger?

Now that Carlisle was claiming that she and Sean were destined, she believed that it was likely true.

That being said, Lily still wasn't ready to be in a relationship!

Beep beep!

It was a message from Christine, asking which private room Carlisle was in.

Carlisle texted her the private room number, After a while, Christine arrived and knocked on the door, Sean walked over to open it. The moment he saw Christine, his eyes instantly lit up. "Christine! What are you doing here in Riverland?"

Christine said with a smile, "I got into Riverland University."

"I knew you'd make it..."

Sean stepped aside and gestured for her to come in. "Come on in, Christine!"

Christine was dressed in a white short-sleeve shirt paired with white jeans. She had her hair pulled back a ponytail, and her youthful face radiated with innocence.

"Carlisle..."

With her cheeks flushed, Christine greeted Carlisle shyly.

Carlisle replied with an awkward smile, "I'll feel weird if you call me in a spy manner. Please have a seat!"

Christine took a seat beside Lily. She glanced at the table full of seafood ve dishes and sighed, "You all sure have high dining standards. I don't think I could ever afford this in my entire life!"

Sean sat down between Carlisle and Lily.

Chapter 54

Chapter 54

Sean had just sat down when he suddenly remembered the day of the SATS when Carlisle saved Christine. With an intense gaze, he asked, "Carl, did you also predict that Christine would be in danger that day?"

"Yup!" Carlisle said with a nod Christine's tragedy was entirely based on his memory from his past life.

Lily, on the other hand, had her fate altered because of him. His psychic abilities had predicted her tragedy.

Sean was now fully convinced of Carlisle's psychic abilities. His breath hitched, and he continued to ask, How about the Heavenly Sword in The Legendary Tale? Did you predict that, too?"

He finally knew why Carlisle dared to boldly set a goal of earning one million dollars.

With such an extraordinary ability, why would he need to worry about not making money?

Carlisle rolled his eyes and said with discontent, "Do you think I can predict everything through fortune telling? Getting rare weapons in games is all about luck!"

Sean chuckled, "It doesn't matter. Having such an ability is more than enough!"

Christine couldn't understand a thing they were saying. She asked in puzzlement, "What talking about?"

Lily looked at Christine in surprise. "Did Carlisle save you too?"

are you DUNG you guys Not wanting them to continue delving deeper into the topic, Carlisle said with a smile, "That's enough. Let's eat first. It would be a shame if all these tasty dishes become cold!"

Just like that, the four of them ate and happily chatted away. Sounds of their laughter resonated in the private room.

It wasn't until around 10:00 pm that they finally took this leave.

They packed up the leftovers, giving most of them to Christine and Lily.

Sean had a little bit too much to drink and seized the opportunity to get Lily's messenger username.

He even insisted on booking a hotel for Christine and Lily for the night. The both of them firmly declined, but that only made Sean upset. He complained that they were being overly courteous.

Carlisle said with a sigh, "Why don't you two just stay at a hotel? It isn't safe for two young ladies to stay at a motel."

Thinking about what had happened before, Lily felt a tinge of fear. She grabbed onto Christine's arms and said, "Christine, why don't I stay with you tonight?"

Christine nodded. She, too, wanted to ask Lily about how Carlisle saved her.

Sean proceeded to use the girls' names to book a double room and then accompanied them toward the elevator.

Outside the hotel, Zachary had just parked the car. He was prepared to unbuckle his seatbelt when he heard Wanda's trembling voice from the passenger seat. "Zac... let's switch to another hotel!"

"What's wrong with staying at our own hotel? I've been driving for the entire day. Can't you pity little old me?" Zachary twitched the corners of his mouth several times.

Wanda quietly lowered her head. Tears began to stream down her face and landed on the back of her hand.

"Oh, no. Don't cry. Alright. We'll go to another hotel..."

Zachary couldn't bear to see his beloved younger sister, Wanda, cry, so he hastily turned the car around.

After driving for another hour, they finally arrived at another chain hotel.

Without saying a word, Wanda got out of the car and took her luggage from the trunk.

Zachary parked the car and quickly caught up to her. He snatched the luggage from her and said, "Wanda, what's gotten into you?"

Lately, he had been finding it increasingly difficult to understand Wanda's thoughts.

She had been completely fine during the day but was now so moody.

At the hotel front desk, a man and a woman were seen to be checking into the hotel.

The man was fully dressed in designer clothing, while the woman was dressed in slightly more modest apparel.

"There's only one room left, Sarah.

room?1

Why don't we just share a room? Kill sleep on the couch!

With her face flushed, Sarah shook her head. "That won't do. It isn't appropriate for a man and a woman to share a room. I'll just stay at a motel. Apart from the mosquitoes and slightly poor environment, it's just as good. Besides, I've already gotten used to it from when I was in high school!"

Chapter 55

Chapter 55

"Then, why don't you stay here while I go to another hotel?" Kelvin suggested with a hint of disappointment.

Sarah nodded. "That would be great. Thank you, Kelvin!"

Kelvin was the mysterious person who had arranged for someone to deliver breakfast to Sienna and her.

She and Kelvin weren't in the same class. Kelvin was the top student in Class 3C and was also the class monitor.

There had also been rumors circulating in school that his father was a senior executive in a listed company and had an annual earning of nearly 100 thousand dollars. That amount was enough to buy a house in town.

Had she known earlier that Kelvin had a crush on her, she would have never gotten involved with Carlisle. Kelvin took out a hundred-dollar bill and placed it on the counter. "Get her the most luxurious room!"

The receptionist immediately accepted the money and handed over a key. "Room 608!"

Sarah took the key and headed toward the elevator. Before entering, she turned back to bid Kelvin goodbye, flashing him a charming smile. "Bye, Kelvin! See you tomorrow!"

Kelvin nodded with a smile.

As the elevator door closed, Zachary and Wanda arrived at the front desk.

Zachary said, "Give me the keys to room 908 and 909!"

Noticing that it was their boss, the receptionist quickly took out two brand-new keys from the drawer, Kelvin was left momentarily stunned. Upon noticing Wanda, he taunted, "Wanda, you always looked so innocent. Who would have thought that you would also be messing around with men...."

Smack!

Before Kelvin could finish his sentence, Zachary delivered a heavy slap to his face.

Kelvin instantly blew up in anger. "How dare you hit me!"

Thud!

Zachary delivered another kick to his chest.

Kelvin was sent flying to the ground. With his hands clutching his chest, he yelled at Zachary, "How dare you hit me! I'm going to call the cops and have you arrested!"

With that, he took out his phone and made a phone call.

The security guards who were standing guard outside heard the commotion and quickly rushed in.

Kelvin exclaimed, "Guards, this man hit me! Quickly kick him out!"

Chapter 55

Zachary impatiently instructed the security guards, "Get this piece of trash out of this hotel!"

Covering his swollen face with his hand, Kelvin yelled, "Do you think you own this hotel? Do you expect them to throw me out when you were the one who hit me?"

Zachary scoffed as he looked down at Kelvin. He then glanced at the two guards who had walked in and said casually, "Why don't you guys tell him whether I own this hotel or not?"

"He owns this hotel!*

"Young man, you seem young. It's best if you just leave on your own!" the head of the security team said coldly.

Kelvin was left absolutely dumbfounded.

Did he really just insult the owner of this hotel?

"Are you still not leaving?"

The guard yelled, causing Kelvin to scramble out the door.

With his hands in his pocket, Zachary strode toward the hotel.

In the luxurious suite, Sarah turned on the air conditioner and sprawled on the two-meter-wide Simmons bed.

She sighed. "Rich people truly live a great life! How I wish I could stay in a Kelvin room like this every day? Kelvin might be rich, but he isn't as handsome as Carlisle!"

Sarah continued to mutter to herself,

"Who should I choose? If Carlisle's dad earned as much as Kelvin's dad, I would surely choose him! It's a shame that I can't have them both!"

Sarah contemplated for a moment before taking out her phone to check if Carlisle had sent her any messages.

Yet, to her surprise, Carlisle did not contact her.

The only message she received was from Sienna. "Sarah, something came up.

I'll only be able to go to Riverland tomorrow."

Sarah texted back. "Got it!"

Since Sienna was currently not online, Sarah put her phone down and prepared to take a bath.

Chapter 56

Chapter 56

Just then, Sarah received another phone call.

It was from Kelvin.

She picked up her phone and answered it. "Is something wrong, Kelvin?"

With his face swollen, Kelvin mumbled incoherently, "Sarah, I have some major news!"

Sarah asked, feeling intrigued, "What is it? Are you eating? Your speech is unclear."

"No. My gums are just a bit inflamed, that's all."

Kelvin was obviously unwilling to admit that his face was swollen from being punched, so he randomly came up with an excuse.

Sarah didn't think much of it and continued to ask, "What news?"

"Your high school class monitor, Wanda, has a boyfriend!"

"What?"

Sarah immediately thought of Carlisle. Her eyes widened as she asked, "Did you see them?"

Kelvin asked in surprise, "You already knew about this?"

A wave of discontent surged through Sarah as she muttered to herself, "Have they really gotten together?"

But Carlisle clearly liked her first!

Wanda merely tutored him for a month.

There was no way Carlisle couldn't possibly be interested in Wanda.

Apart from her studies and family background, she surpassed Wanda in every aspect.

*Her boyfriend owns the hotel you're staying in! I never imagined that the seemingly innocent Wanda would find herself a sugar daddy!"

Resentment was on Kelvin's face. He planned to spread this news to their class group chat.

Sarah's expression eased up.

It was just as she had thought, Carlisle was clearly interested in her, so how could he possibly like Wanda?

"That's right. After you went upstairs, Wanda and a man walked into the hotel. The hotel's security guards claimed that the man is the owner!"

Kelvin deliberately left out the part where he was beaten up.

Upon hearing this, Sarah clicked her tongue and exclaimed, "No wonder Wanda is so rich. It's because she found herself a sugar daddy!"

Kelvin rubbed his swollen face and said sinisterly, "Sarah, you should share this news with the class chat. I want to end Wanda's reputation!"

"Do you have bad blood with Wanda?" Sarah asked.

"She annoys me!" Kelvin huffed.

"I think you should look for someone else. I'm not fit to share this news!"

group

Wanda had quite the influence in their class. If Sarah were to spread this news in their class group chat, the classmates who supported her would surely bad-mouth her behind her back.

Kelvin sighed, "Alright. I'll think of something else!"

Meanwhile, Carlisle and Sean were sitting in front of the computer playing The Mystical Journey.

Sean wasn't really interested in these types of turn-based strategy games and complained, "These games are no fun at all! It's so boring!"

"Go play The Legendary Tale, then!"

Carlisle didn't force Sean into playing. After all, in the future, their studio would be divided into three departments anyway.

If really necessary, he could just assign Sean and Owen to manage The Legendary Tale.

"You aren't mad, are you?" Sean chuckled awkwardly.

Carlisle blankly replied, "Why would I be mad? The only reason I'm playing The Mystical Journey is to understand the market!"

Sean looked at Carlisle with a deep gaze. He suddenly felt as if he couldn't quite understand Carlisle.

Ever since Carlisle decided to move on from Sarah, he began studying hard and went from an underachiever to a top student. Later, he was lucky enough to acquire the extremely rare Heavenly Sword in

As for Carlisle's psychic abilities, it was something Sean found hard to believe. Yet, Yet, he couldn't seem to find another explanation for Carlisle's accurate predictions.

"Carlisle, you aren't some sort of time traveler, are you?" Sean asked jokingly.

Carlisle's hand paused before he turned to Sean with a smile. "If I said I am, would you believe me?"

Chapter 57

Chapter 57

"I wouldn't believe you you!"

Sean shook his head.

He'd rather believe that Carlisle had psychic abilities than entertain the idea of him being a time traveler.

Metaphysics and mythology were two different things.

Carlisle had previously added the player who taught him how to play The Mystical Journey at the internet cafe.

His username was The Sly Knight.

Suddenly, a notification flashed on the game interface. Carlisle clicked it open and saw that it was a message from The Sly Knight, The Sly Knight wrote, "It's been a while since you last came to the internet cafe!"

Carlisle replied, "I've come to Riverland to study!"

"You're a university student?"

"Yup!"

"If you don't mind, can I ask you something?"

"Ask away!"

"Could you lend me a hundred dollars?"

"Have you encountered some problems?"

"My sister broke her leg. I've already sold all my in-game machinery, but I'm still short on funds for the surgery. I've already borrowed as much as I can! I'm truly out of options!"

Sean glanced at Carlisle and The Sly_Knight's conversation. He immediately said, "You must not believe him, Carlisle! He's obviously lying to you. If his sister truly needs surgery, how could he still be online?"

Sean pondered for a moment before replying. "Is a hundred dollars enough?"

The Sly Knight immediately typed back, "No, but I only dare to ask you for this much. You're still a student, so even a hundred dollars must be a stretch for you!"

Carlisle asked, "How much more do you need?"

"Five hundred dollars..."

"Carl, you can't possibly be thinking of lending him the money, are you? Five hundred dollars is equivalent to an ordinary person's monthly salary!"

Sean was starting to grow anxious. He reached out to switch off Carlisle's computer, but his hand was immediately swatted away.

"Better to be safe than sorry. If something were to happen to his sister just because of five hundred dollars, I'd never forgive myself..."

Sean exclaimed, "Are the two of you even close? There are so many people in need in this world. There's no way you can help every single one of Just because you have some money, do you think you're now some sort of philanthropist?"

Carlisle knew that Sean was just looking out for him, worried that he might be scammed.

Based on the few interactions he had with The Sly_Knight and his two life experiences, he believed that the person was not a scammer.

Carlisle patted Sean's shoulder and said with a smile, "Five hundred dollars isn't that much. It's not that big of a deal!"

"Do whatever you like!"

Seeing that Carlisle had already made up his mind, Sean no longer continued to persuade him.

Carlisle took out his phone and called the Internet cafe's owner, Ivan Sanders. "Mr. Sanders, this is Carlisle..."

"Carlisle?"

Upon hearing Carlisle's voice, Ivan nearly dropped the cigarette in his mouth.

Why was Carlisle suddenly calling him?

Could Carlisle have seen the price of the Heavenly Sword posted on the forum and regretted it?

Damn it...

It was too late now.

If Carlisle dared come looking for him, he would simply give him a piece of his mind.

However, thinking about how he had decided to turn a new leaf and his pregnant wife, Ivan was hesitant.

If there was no other option, he was willing to give him a portion of his earnings.

"Mr. Sanders, could you lend me five hundred dollars? I'll go to the bank and transfer the money to you tomorrow!"

Using a passbook to transfer money could only be done at the bank's counter.

The bank was already closed, so he could only turn to Ivan for the money.

Ivan let out a sigh of relief.

While five hundred dollars wasn't a small amount, considering that he was about to make fifty thousand dollars from selling the Heavenly Sword, this amount was nothing.

Carlisle cradled his phone between his ear and shoulder as he asked The Sly_Knight which computer booth he was at.

Chopte: 57

"I'm on the first floor. Booth number eight!" The Sly Knight immediately replied.

Carlisle told Ivan about The Sly Knight's situation.

Upon hearing that his customer's sister had leukemia, Ivan immediately said, "You're a good person, Carlisle, How about this? I'll give him an additional five hundred dollars in my name..."

"Thank you so much, Mr. Sanders..."

Carlisle couldn't help but look at Ivan in a positive light.

He was unaware that the Heavenly Sword had now risen to an exorbitant price of 130 thousand dollars. Ivan NO hung up the phone and went to his bedroom closet to retrieve the money.

Chapter 58

Cameron sat at booth number eight, his gaze fixated on the chat log he had with Carlisle.

He had originally approached Carlisle for money with faint hope. Never would he have expected a stranger, whom he had only met once, to actually agree to lend him money.

His sister was saved...

With the one thousand dollars in hand, Ivan walked behind Cameron and patted him on the shoulder. He placed 500 dollars on the table and said, "This is the 500 dollars that Carlisle had me give you..."

Cameron immediately rose to his feet. He accepted the money and thanked him, "Thank you so much, Mr. Sanders!"

Ivan then passed him another 500 dollars. This is from me. I hope your sister's surgery goes well!"

Cameron was completely taken aback. He never imagined that Ivan would also be willing to lend him. money.

Tears streamed down his face uncontrollably as he thanked the man repeatedly, "Thank you, Mr. Sanders! Thank you so much!"

Ivan casually turned around and waved his hand. "Take care of your sister. I hope there will be good news the next time you come here!"

With tears in his eyes, Cameron hastily left the internet cafe without even switching off the computer.

Ivan returned to his seat.

His phone on the table rang once again.

It was a call from the leader of the Makers of Chaos, Steven Ferk.

'Mr. Ferk...'

Ivan immediately grew anxious.

According to insider information, Steven Ferk was from an affluent family in Riverland. The family boasted a net worth that was close to ten million dollars.

"The Whisperwind, I'm willing to pay 150 thousand dollars for the Heavenly Sword!"

"150 thousand dollars?"

Ivan's eyes widened in disbelief.

130 thousand dollars was already his ideal price, yet Steven was now willing to offer 150 thousand dollars.

"What? Is it not enough? The voice on the other end of the phone turned cold.

"No... Not at all. Where are you, Mr. Ferk? I'll come over right now to seal the deal!"

The next day, Wanda woke up early and got herself ready.

She then headed toward Zachary's room and knocked on his door.

However, she didn't seem to get any response.

Wanda muttered, "Stupid Zachary! He must've stayed up all night gaming again!"

She truly didn't understand what was so fun about The Legendary Tale. Zachary would often stay up all night playing it.

Even as an adult, he would always make her worried.

Sean headed to the University of Science and Technology with Lily, while Carlisle and Christine took the cab to Riverland University. As Carlisle and Christine sat in the backseat, she looked slightly nervous, and her cheeks tinted red.

Since Carlisle had risked his life to save her, she often had dreams about him.

She genuinely didn't know what Sarah was thinking for rejecting such an outstanding man.

An hour later, the cab stopped at the entrance of Riverland University.

Christine had a large woven bag and a suitcase with her. However, the wheels of the suitcase had already gone missing.

Noticing this, Carlisle immediately offered to help. "Take my suitcase instead. I'll carry yours."

"No.. it's okay. I can manage!"

Christine insisted as she lifted the suitcase with both her hands, struggling with each step she took.

Carlisle gently shook his head and snatched the suitcase from her, leaving his behind.

Christine blushed as she pulled Carlisle's suitcase and quietly followed behind.

Just as they entered the school gates, Wanda got out of a cab nearby.

"Wanda, what a coincidence..."

Sarah stepped out of the car from behind.

She had on a baseball cap and a pair of oversized sunglasses. She was dressed in a white short-sleeve shirt and a pair of mini-shorts.

Her long, slender legs glistened under the sunlight, attracting many passersby.

Whether it was freshmen or seniors, they all had their gaze fixed on her.

Sarah raised her chin proudly

"What a coincidence indeed..."

Wanda smiled faintly and then dragged her suitcase toward the school entrance.

Sarah quickly caught up to her.

Thinking about the juicy gossip Kelvin had mentioned the previous night, she teased, "Wanda, how long have you been with that man?"

Chapter 59

"What man?" Wanda stopped in her tracks and looked at Sarah in confusion.

"Oh, don't worry. I won't tell!" Sarah smirked, Wanda had a reserved personality, so it was normal for her to be too shy to admit. "But I really have no idea what you're talking about!"

She continued to drag her suitcase forward.

Sarah followed closely behind her. "Wanda, I saw you and that man checking into a hotel yesterday night!"

Wanda stopped in her tracks once again.

Sarah stood in front of her and said with a smirk, "Just tell me the truth. I'll keep your secret!"

"He's my brother..."

Wanda's face turned cold.

She had clearly checked into different rooms with Zachary. Why was Sarah making it sound like she did something scandalous?

"Your 'brother, huh?" Sarah's lips curved into a smirk.

Sarah had to find leverage against Wanda. That way, she could use it to keep Wanda away from Carlisle.

"Sarah, would you just quit it?"

Wanda's eyes turned red as tears began to well up within them.

Upon seeing Wanda on the verge of tears, Sarah was even more confident that she had struck a nerve. She shrugged. "Why don't you just boldly admit it? We're in university now. There's nothing wrong with having a boyfriend!"

"His name is Zachary Thompson. He's my brother, not my boyfriend!"

Wanda had a soft nature. Therefore, Sarah's constant accusations and mockery caused tears to stream down her face.

"Don't cry. You're making it seem like I bullied you. With such a wealthy boyfriend like yours, I wouldn't dare to offend you!" Sarah exclaimed as she retreated in fear. She then picked up her suitcase and tried to scurry away.

However, just as she turned around, she was immediately blocked by three tall young women.

The young woman who stood at the center of the group seemed to be in her twenties. She wore sunglasses and was dressed in sexy attire. She was casually chewing on a piece of gum, and her lips were painted with bright red lipstick.

"Are you seniors here to welcome new students? Could you help me with my luggage then? Thank you!" Sarah said sweetly as she pushed her suitcase to them.

Wanda, come over here..."

The sexy young woman beckoned Wanda over.

Sarah was slightly taken aback.

Were they here for Wanda?

"Um...you guys chat. I'll be heading off first..."

Sarah grabbed her suitcase and tried to slip away, but the sexy young lady immediately blocked her path.

"What... What do you want?"

Sarah was starting to grow nervous, her voice trembling slightly.

"Apologize to Wanda," the sexy young lady said coldly.

Sarah took a nervous gulp. "I didn't hit or scold her. Why should I apologize?"

"I told you to apologize! Stop asking so many questions!" Another young woman, who stood behind the sexy one, scolded.

Sarah was startled. She said in a trembling voice, "I. I'm sorry"

"Haven't you eaten? Speak louder!" The sexy young lady ordered.

Tears welled up in Sarah's eyes as she raised her voice. "I'm sorry..."

The sexy young woman said, "Who are you apologizing to?"

Sarah held back her tears and choked out, "I'm sorry, Wanda!"

She had just arrived and had no connections. Hence, she could only back down for now, However, she made sure to remember their faces. Once she solidified her connections, she would make them pay for their actions.

"Wanda, feeling better now?" the sexy young woman asked with a smile.

"Just let her go. I'm alright now!"

They were, after all, high school friends, so Wanda didn't wish to make things difficult.

The sexy young woman glanced at Sarah and said, "Wanda is my m childhood friend if Yever see you bullying her again, I'll make sure your school life is a living hell!"

"I understand!" Sarah complied, but she was burning with anger.

It wasn't like the sexy woman owned Riverland University. What could she possibly do? Expel Sarah from the university?

"Can I go now?"

Sarah asked cautiously. Right now, all she wanted was to stay away from this problematic woman.

The sexy young woman didn't even spare Sarah a glance. She gently ruffled Wanda's hair and said with a smile, "It's been six years since I last saw you. You've grown so tall!"

"Queenie, you've become much prettier!"

Wanda hugged the sexy young woman.

This young woman was Queenie m

Lane. She and Zachary were childhood sweethearts, and the two had been engaged since last year.

After a moment of embrace, Queenie patted Wanda's back and smiled. "Let's go.

I'll take you to the registration office..."

Chapter 60

It was a hectic day for new students. By the time Carlisle completed the enrollment procedures and settled down, it was already evening.

The dormitory was a room for the place was a steamer.

With only two ceiling fans. The entire room was stifling hot. It felt as if Carlisle had initially planned to take a cold shower to cool down, but upon seeing the long line outside the public bathroom, he immediately abandoned the idea.

He removed his shirt and jeans and changed into beach shorts. He then lay down on the bed to rest.

-He took out his phone and sent Sweet_like_candy a message. "Watcha doing?"

After three minutes, he still didn't get a reply.

He assumed that she must be busy with the enrollment procedures.

Carlisle closed his eyes, planning to take a nap.

Just then, a loud voice suddenly came from the door. "Hello, everyone!"

Kelvin walked into the room with his suitcase in one hand and a huge plastic bag in the other. Inside the huge plastic bag were cans of chilled Cokes.

"Let me introduce myself. My name is Kelvin. From now on, we're roommates!"

"Let me treat you all to some chilled Coke!"

Kelvin placed his suitcase beside him and distributed the chilled Coke to everyone.

"Thanks, man!"

"You're too kind! Thank you!"

"Thanks, Kelvin!"

The roommates who received the Cokes thanked Kelvin with bright smiles.

Soon, Kelvin approached Carlisle's bed. Just as he was about to hand Carlisle a can of Coke, he suddenly paused, "Carlisle, do you remember me? I'm also from Rainville High School!"

Carlisle paused. Then, he replied with a smile, "Of course I do. You're Kelvin, Class 3C's class monitor."

There were only three classes in his high school. Hence, it was natural for him to know all the class monitors.

However, Carlisle was a little shocked that Kelvin would recognize him.

He didn't remember having any interaction with Kelvin before.

"I'm sure you're curious as to how I recognize you, right?"

Kelvin seemed to have noticed Carlisle's puzzlement and asked with a playful smile.

Carlisle quickly figured out the reason. "It must be because of Sarah, right?" "Haha! Have some coke!" Kelvin laughed as he handed Carlisle a can of Coke. "Thank you, but I'm not thirsty...."

Carlisle tried to decline when he suddenly noticed the cold look in Kelvin's eyes. He was certain that they would have a hard time getting along in the future.

Kelvin took a seat on Carlisle's bed and said lowly, "Carlisle, could you do me a favor? I'll give you 50 dollars for it!"

"What is it?"

"Could you spread a message in the class group chat? Tell everyone that someone spotted Wanda checking into a hotel with a man..."

Kelvin had contacted a few of his classmates last night, but they all rejected his request.

Carlisle was also from Class 3A, so having him spread this news was the best option.

"What did you say? His eyes widened in shock as his face turned incredibly pale.

He thought, "Did he say that Wanda checked into a hotel with another man? How is that possible?"

How could the usually shy Wanda possibly check into a hotel with a man?

It was clearly a lie!

Carlisle swatted Kelvin's hand away from his shoulder and said blankly, "Kelvin, it's wrong to spread lies!"

"Who says I'm spreading lies? I saw it with my own eyes last night. That man owns the Four Seasons Hotel!"

Kelvin pulled out his wallet from his pocket and took out a 100-dollar bill. "If you share this news with the class group chat, this will be yours!"

"Damn! You sure are rich, Kelvin!"

"Kelvin, I'll follow you from now on!"

"Me too!"

The roommates stared at the 100-dollar bill in Kelvin's hand.

Most of them came from ordinary m households. Despite being ino university, their monthly allowance was usually only around 300 dollars.

"Put away your money! Nor everyone is as shallow as you are!"

Carlisle still didn't believe Wanda would check into a botel with another man.

Wanda came from a prestigious family and was an extremely well-mannered young lady. There was no way she would do such a thing.

Beep beep!

Carlisle's phone, which was placed on the bed frame, suddenly rang.

and He picked his phone up and saw that it was a message from Sweet_like_candy.

"I've just finished up with everything.

Have you decided on how you'm answer my question from yesterday?

"Stop pretending, Wanda! I know it's you!"
