

Jessica's confession

Chapter 29

It was so nice seeing Lee and the warriors I had trained and became close with, but sad when we had to say goodbye to them the next day. We gave Lee messages for everyone he was allowed to talk to about seeing us, before hugging him goodbye and wishing them all a safe trip.

Talia decided we were going to enjoy the rest of our weekend and deal with Jessica on Monday morning. She didn't want her to mess with our mood when she wasn't going anywhere anyway.

So I met more of Talia and the twins family on Saturday afternoon, Talia was right. Diana is a total irt, much to her mate Dean's annoyance. He knew she didn't mean anything by it. He was just playing it up for the sympathy from her.

Both of their families are great. I have never seen so many ranked members who are so down to earth and fun to be around. They are such a fantastic group of people, I wish all ranked members were like that. They could really learn a thing or two from them.

I knew who most of them were straight away from their descriptions, Talia had shared her story with me since being here. She has denitely had an interesting life. People did not make it easy for her to get to where she was.

I think it helped her growing up as a human. That's why she doesn't look down on others like some people. Although even if her family brought her up, I think she would still be like that as her brother is the same way.

Jayden and Tara are fantastic Pack leaders. They treat all their members as equals and are very caring and supportive.

On Sunday Talia wanted to have some time with me and Dalia together to see if our powers could interact. I was looking forward to working with another special wolf after Talia and I had managed to combine our powers so well.

"Right what I want you to do Aurora is to call up your storm in a small area as erce as you can get it. Then I want you, Dalia, to push your electrical power through Aurora" she tells us.

"Are you sure? Won't I hurt her if I do that?" Dalia says, worried.

"I am hoping it will give her the kick-start she needs to get her lightning going. She is having trouble calling it, I am sure it will be ne" she says unconcerned.

"I will be ne, I have probably felt worse anyway if it goes wrong" I say, laughing.

"Well if you are both sure" she says, shrugging, still not looking convinced.

I call up my rainstorm in a small area. I have it going really wild. The rain is pouring, and the wind is howling.

"Now Dalia" Talia instructs.

I feel this electrical pulse owing through my body. It is strange but not painful. "I know what to do" Athena says to me.

I feel the energy crackling around me as the rst piece of lightning strikes, then I manage to bring forward another slightly bigger one, gradually building it up and up.

"Feel the electricity in the air from the lightning Dalia and see if you can use it to push your power out at a distance instead of having to touch the person" Talia instructs her.

I continue to call the lightning storm, making it more powerful for Dalia to use, I feel her energy interacting with it as she throws an electrical charge at a target. At the same time, Talia is drawing the rain to make weapons and throw them at the targets.

"Now call back the storm and let it dissipate" she tells me.

I draw back my power, and the lightning fades, then the winds calms. Finally, the rain stops, and the clouds are cleared.

"How did that feel?" she asks us.

"Fantastic, as soon as Athena felt the charge, she understood how to call the lightning" I told her.

"I really enjoyed that. It will be really handy in battle to be able to project my power like that" Dalia says.

"Yes I was really hoping it would work that way, I thought it would when I could interact with Aurora's powers. It seems we can work together in some cases" Talia says.

Everyone was pretty excited to hear how our powers could work together like they did. Dalia's mate was really impressed with her, I mean, I think he always is. You can see how much love he holds for her just the way he looks at her all the time.

It's been a great weekend nally getting to grips with all my powers, seeing Lee and the warriors, and meeting new friends. Shawn has really enjoyed himself getting to know everyone better. He knew most of the people before, from attending events.

Now it's Monday and time to confront Jessica, like before Shawn and the Kings want to be there, so they go into the adjoining soon to watch through the 2 way mirror. While Talia and I interrogate her, she is already in the room cuffed to the table when we enter. She looks up, surprised to see me when I walk in.

"What is that bi.tch doing here?" Jessica shouts as I chuckle at her outburst.

"You have a bit of a cheek don't you? I won't have you insulting my friend now shut the fu.ck up until I ask you a question" Talia says angrily.

We both take a seat across from her as she scowls at me. She looks like sh.it. The time in the cells has obviously not been kind to her.

"You know it is serious getting in between mates to break up their relationship, plotting against a Luna or future Luna?" Talia asks her.

"I didn't, and she's not even a Luna, Lucian wanted me, not her" she argues.

"Really that's not what the evidence suggests. There is also the fact that you have gone against the moon goddess, not just in her choice of mates, but also by trying to harm one of her special wolves" Talia accuses.

"I didn't do anything to a special wolf" she argues.

"Oh you stupid stupid girl. Aurora is a special wolf, I am sure even a weak wolf like you have managed to feel and sense the power she holds. Did your wolf not warn you to stop your dangerous behaviour?" Talia mocks.

"No its not true. She was supposed to be woless, then her wolf can not be that strong" she argues.

"Well we are moving away from the point. Why did you try to set Aurora up and ruin her and Lucian's relationship? Now remember I have proof, your father has already talked and I can order you" She says.

"Lucian is mine. He wanted me. He shouldn't have changed his mind. She does not deserve him" she yells.

"And you do, a weak wolf like you?" I ask.

"I am a beta's daughter" She argues.

"And I am an Alpha's Daughter, I am also an Alpha, you on the other hand are no Beta" I sneer.

"Of course I am. How could I not be" she argues.

"She is right. You are an omega. Not that there is anything wrong with that. You shouldn't have rejected your mate. Although I am sure the moon goddess has blessed him with someone more suited to him" Talia says.

"Now let me ask you, was this the only time you plotted against Aurora?" Talia asks rmlly.

"Yes" she says stubbornly.

"The truth?" she commands.

"I spread the news about her being woless and Lucian not wanting her, I told people he was forced to marry her, and she wasn't his mate. I organised the rogues to attack her and slept with Lucian so she couldn't defend herself. Then I kept trying to seduce him after he told me he wanted to make it work with her, and he wanted us to only be friends. I also tried to get his family and friends on my side" she says, unable to stop herself.

"Good I am glad we eventually got the truth" Talia says with an evil grin.

"Now how much was your father involved and was anyone else involved?" she commands her to answer, knowing she won't get the truth otherwise.

"He just encouraged me, I had got in touch with the rogues myself. He supplied the money but he didn't know what it was for until after. No one else knew of my plans" she says.

"Now we have that sorted. You can get settled in your nice comfy cell until we decide what to do with you" Talia says cheerfully.

"Are you really a special wolf?" Jessica asks.

"She is, and you have ruined not only her life but Lucian's who you profess to love" Talia says.

"What do you mean?" she asks.

"You have caused him to do great harm to Aurora, because of this if she decides to reject him a third time the moon goddess will grant her wish and he will not get a second chance mate due to the damage he has done. Aurora was meant to be a Luna, so she will be one. She is needed for the future of us all. Lucian will live in pain and regret all his life. I hope it was worth it?" Talia says.

"Wait, you can't blame him for my choices" she pleads.

"He made his own choices, I said that to you before you threw yourself down the stairs. I didn't want a mate who didn't believe or trust me" I tell her before walking out.

Although I have not totally made my mind up yet about Lucian. There is no way I will let Jessica know he has any chance with me. She can spend her days living with the thought that she has taken away his only hope at being happy.

All we can hear is her scream and shout as we leave the room.
