Lucky Collision ( Evans and Martin Robinson ) Chapter 25

Chapter 25 Youthful Spirit

The law enforcement officers arrived on time. They loaded everyone into police cars. Evans wiped away the blood near his mouth. When he and his roommates charged toward Benny, he took a few hits, resulting in his gums bleeding.

Larry and Elmer were in a sorry state. After all, they were typical students without much fighting experience.

If it weren't for Evans insisting on confronting the representatives of the online loan company, Larry would have compromised. This event made Larry feel the fervor of having loyal friends.

This sentiment was not something that money could buy.

It would be a cherished memory when they look back after many years.

It was the youthful spirit filled with joy.

Larry would remember this sentiment dearly.

After arriving at the police station, everyone was taken in for questioning. The police officers had a grasp on the situation.

However, this matter was complicated since a debt dispute was involved.

The police officers lectured the students before sending them back to campus.

The students had to return the money no matter what. It was up to both sides to negotiate.

Benny's men were unscrupulous. They threatened to hurt the roommates at the police station.

These people didn't pay any mind to mere students.

After leaving the police station, Elmer asked, "What if they take revenge on us?"

Evans handed Elmer and Larry cigarettes, "There's no turning back now. We'll stand our ground till the end."

"We will be in deep trouble."

"What to do?"

Larry lit his cigarette.

"Let's talk about it after we head back."

Evans thought about the evidence in Zoe's hands, so he gave Zoe a call.

Zoe was worried, "Are you alright?"

"I was about to seek help from my dad."

"We're fine, and we have left the police station. We haven't resolved the matter yet."

"Alright, we'll come back to meet you up later."

Evans, Larry, and Elmer returned to the campus. The first thing they did was to meet up with Zoe.

After Zoe showed the video to the three of them, Evans downloaded a copy to his phone.

"I'll take care of it, so don't worry."

Then, Elmer added, "Call me if you need my help."

Larry put his arm around the shoulders of Evans and Elmer before saying, "Thank you, brothers!"

"You will forever be my true friends."

"Let's grab a drink together!"

The fight shifted their mindsets.

In the past, they wouldn't dare to confront the thugs head-on.

However, they became fearless now.

The three dudes invited Zoe to join them for a barbecue.

"Should we invite Kiana too?"

"Let's not do that. It isn't suitable to involve her."

Zoe was invited along because she was involved in this matter.

At the barbecue stall, Larry shouted, "Boss, give us beers!"

"Bring me all the items available on the menu."

Zoe quickly interjected, "Have you lost your mind? Let me make the order."

Zoe removed the order for the unappetizing food. She was not as foolish as Larry.

Stop acting cool. Later, the boss will bring out all the unsold items to you.

Pop!

Larry opened the beer bottle, "Cheers to my brothers!"

"After what happened today, my life belongs to you guys."

“Cheers!”

Evans, Larry, and Elmer raised their bottles. Zoe got herself a cup of beer too.

They clinked glasses and tilted their heads back, chugging down the drinks...

They downed their drinks in a single gulp.

After finishing their drinks, they put the bottles back onto the table, “That hit the spot!”

“Such is life!”

“Cheers, my brothers!”

Gurgle...

They chugged their drinks in one go.

Zoe looked at Evans, Larry, and Elmer without saying anything.

Zoe did not want to ruin the mood by asking them to drink less.

Zoe felt it was better to let them drink to their hearts' content.

Zoe had prepared herself for the aftermath if they got drunk.

After downing three bottles, Larry burped, “Scott is unbearable. I'm done being friends with him.”

Scott had always been an unfaithful friend. He was only around to exploit others, especially when food was involved.

Evans suggested, “You don't need to be harsh about it. We can't expect everyone we meet to be close friends. We will only meet a few truly trusted and close friends.”

“Having few true friends is enough for a lifetime!”

“Scott is merely a passerby in our lives. There's no need to boycott him either.”

Zoe glanced at Evans with surprise, feeling that her boyfriend was special.

Zoe had indeed discovered a unique vibe around Evans.

Only a few people had this mindset.

Elmer nodded, “That's right!”

While the group enjoyed the meal, Larry blurted, “Zoe, feel free to order whatever you want for yourself. Don't worry about us.”

“Don't worry about it!” Zoe smiled politely, showing her maturity in dealing with people.

Zoe sat beside Evans, occasionally passing him a skewer of the barbecue she had eaten.

“I have tested it, and there's no poison. You can eat without any worries.”

When the couple publicly showed affection, Larry and Elmer showed disdainful expressions.

Evans, Larry, and Elmer enjoyed their time together.

Evans glanced at Zoe before saying, "Can you help us with the bill?"

"Sure!" Zoe was fine with it since she was already prepared for that.

During that night, everyone had two bottles each, except for Zoe.

Seeing them swaying and unable to walk steadily, Zoe simply smiled.

That was the uninhibited youthful spirit.

Zoe was glad to see their youthful energy.

Zoe quietly paid the bill without them noticing. They stumbled along the roadside.

As Zoe approached, the guys started peeing in public.

Da mmit...

Zoe quickly turned around, pretending nothing had happened.

Fueled by the alcohol, they put their hands on each other's shoulders, and they started singing.

They sang songs to celebrate the camaraderie.

Zoe envied the guys having fun together, being wild and carefree.

The guys got to do so, but it was not allowed for the ladies.

After sending back to their dorm, Zoe went back to her place.

When Scott saw them return, reeking of alcohol, he couldn't help but complain, "Dammit, you guys went for late-night supper without even calling me."

Larry was infuriated upon hearing it. He was already quite intoxicated, and he glared at Scott, scolding, "Shut up. What else can you do besides leeching off others for food and drinks?"

"Scott, I have no respect for you anymore."

"You lack the courtesy as a human being."

"Do you know what happened to the three of us today?"

"We broke into a fight with the debt collectors. I'm still feeling sore from it. If the police officers hadn't arrived in time, we would have long been dead."

"Where are you when we are in trouble?"

"Yet, you are shameless enough to complain to us for not bringing you along for a late-night supper."

“Even if I invited you today, do you have the guts to eat our food?”

Larry scolded Scott harshly, causing Scott to fall on his bed. Evans quickly intervened, saying, “Relax, man. Let’s drop this matter from now on.”

Scott was stubborn, and he retorted, “What? I didn’t know you guys were going to fight. You never asked me to join you. Otherwise, I would have been there.”

Elmer could not stand it anymore, “Did we not ask you? It was your choice not to go.”

‘Stop trying to act cool.’

“Alright, let’s drop this matter. It’s time to sleep.”

They were roommates. Creating a fuss was unnecessary when they could resort to stop talking to each other.
