

Luna & Joshua 3077

Chapter 3077

Luna froze in shock for a long time.

Finally, she regained her composure and grabbed Robyn's arm excitedly. "Are you saying that your brother was the one who saved the man everyone had been searching the entire city for?"

Robyn did not expect this reaction from Luna at all. She took a small step backward in fear and nodded. "Yes... Yes."

Why was Luna so excited to hear this?

She furrowed her brow and asked, "Miss, do you...know my brother? Or are you somehow related to the old man from last night?"

Luna was just about to say yes to both questions when Tara piped in. "Of course she's related to the old man. She's my cousin-in-law, which makes her a relative of the old man your brother saved. She's just excited to meet the man who saved his life."

With that, she glanced at Luna. "Isn't that right, Luna?"

Luna froze for a moment, then nodded. "Yes, I'm just happy he's safe and sound now."

With that, she turned to stare at Robyn once more. "How's your brother doing now?"

"He's fine." Robyn smiled. "The gunshot wound is on his shoulder, so it's nothing major."

With that, she could not help but ask, "Do you want to come in and visit him?"

Luna was silent for a moment before finally replying, "No, it's okay."

She knew everything would change if John laid eyes on her.

Before coming to Sharnwick City, she promised Joshua she would not intrude on John and Sammie's lives. Therefore, as much as she wanted to, she would not willingly see John in person.

However...

She glanced at Robyn. "Tell your brother the man he saved is very rich and won't even notice the seventy-five thousand dollars. He should keep it and not overthink the meaning of this gift. If you don't take the money, we'll interpret it as being simply too little and will try to give him even more gifts in the future to compensate. We might even go so far as to harass you every day and perhaps even send some women to him as offerings."

The color drained from Robyn's face. "Um..."

"Tell him that." With that, Luna turned and strode toward the elevator.

"Just tell him what she said." Tara patted Robyn's shoulder before finally turning to follow Luna.

The elevator doors slid shut.

Robyn let out a sigh as she watched the elevator disappear, then trudged back to the room.

Meanwhile, inside the elevator, Luna narrowed her eyes at Tara.

Finally, Tara could not stand it anymore. She first frowned, then grinned mischievously at Luna. "Are you staring at me because you think I'm pretty, Luna?"

"What do you think?" Luna resisted the urge to roll her eyes. "When did you know about John?"

Tara had just gotten to know her and Joshua for a little over a month, whereas Anne had passed away about half a year. Tara would never have known Anne or John. The only explanation was that Tara had secretly investigated Luna and Joshua's connections, or perhaps...

Perhaps Joshua told her everything. If this were the case, he certainly would have also told Tara about Gwen and Luke!

What was he doing, divulging all of Luna's secrets to his cousin?

"Luna." Tara gave her a sheepish smile. "Would you believe me if I told you I'd known about all this since your friend Anne's death?"
