

Luna & Joshua 3081

Chapter 3081

"Yes, there is."

Tara remained silent for a while, but eventually decided she shouldn't keep it from John. "The girl we just bumped into, Robyn... she was adopted by John's parents in the past."

Luna frowned and paused for a moment before nodding. "I know."

When Anne married, she told her about John's family. During his childhood, John's elderly parents adopted a little girl. Her biological family, however, took her away when she was in her teens, and she never returned. Even after John's elderly parents died, this daughter never returned.

Anne had previously lamented that John's parents were good people who had adopted an ungrateful daughter. She ignored her adoptive parents as soon as she returned to her wealthy family.

"I've investigated the information about Robyn from when she was with John's family," Tara sighed. '

Robyn comes from a prominent family in Sharnwick City; she is the Hughes family's daughter."

"When she was young, an accident switched her with the nanny's daughter. The nanny's daughter was treated as the Hughes family's heiress, and she was abandoned in Banyan City."

"Later, she was picked up by the Young family and raised by them."

"For some reason, when she was around fourteen or fifteen, the Hughes family discovered that the heiress they had was an imposter and brought her back."

"However, when Robyn returned to Sharnwick City, her life was no easier. Her family had lavished love on the girl named Abby for over a decade, and despite the fact that she was their biological child, there was no way they could give her more."

"A year later, after the grandmother who had advocated for bringing Robyn back to Sharnwick City passed away, Robyn was kicked out of the Hughes family and forced to live on her own."

Tara couldn't help but think after she finished her explanation, "When Robyn was kicked out of the Hughes family, she was only fifteen or sixteen, with no source of income." She could only rely on the assistance of others in society."

Luna's heart sank slightly as she heard the woman's words.

It's no surprise Robyn hasn't kept in touch with the Youngs for so long. Perhaps she didn't want the Youngs to feel sorry for her. Furthermore, Robyn was fifteen or sixteen years old at the time, with no financial means, and she would not have been able to travel hundreds of kilometers back to Banyan

City on her own.

Luna's preconceived notions about Robyn gradually faded as she reflected on this.

"Perhaps due to her years of hardship and homelessness, Robyn's health has deteriorated significantly," Tara continued. "I looked into it, and Robyn quit her job and began seeking medical treatment the moment John arrived in Sharnwick City."

"The total cost of her surgeries for her various organ failures has already exceeded several million dollars."

"However, there are still many unresolved health issues, and she needs to continue with surgeries and treatment."

"The recent surgery she had probably cost around three to four hundred thousand."

"As a token of gratitude, I gave them a $50,000 bank card, hoping it would help a little."

Luna sighed quietly. She couldn't believe Robyn's health was in such bad shape based on her appearance.

After Anne's death, it appeared that John's life had also been extremely difficult...

With this in mind, she asked Tara, "Help me think of a way to compile a detailed medical history for Robyn."

"I have a well-known general practitioner as a friend." "Perhaps she can assist."

Rachel had treated many diseases related to organ failures while treating patients in a vegetative state, if she remembered correctly. Perhaps she could assist John and Robyn in their time of need.
