Luna Lola-The Moon Wolf by Park Kara

Chapter 141

Adrian's POV

“You want us to mate in our wolf forms?” I asked her to be sure she wasn't hallucinating because she was feeling tired and maybe high from our concluded session.

“Yes, I'm very sure. I'm sure Daxon wouldn't mind mating fully with his mate either”, she said tiredly. “No, no, we can't do that“, I gently removed myself from her and paced the length of the room.

She sat up with a look of hurt on her face and tears formed in her eyes. “Adrian“, she said gently but I wasn't having any of it.

“No, no, Lola. We can't mate in our wolf form, I'll never allow that. You can't want that for us. Do you even know what the consequences are?” I asked her partly in fear and in anger.

“How can she try to do this to us?” Daxon growled lightly in my head, mirroring the way I felt too. Unable to think properly, I hurriedly put on my shorts and went out into the cold night, disregarding the bone freezing temperatures outside. The turmoil inside my heart right then weighed more than whatever nature decided to do.

I contemplated running off in my wolf form but I couldn't leave her all by herself and it might take a while for me to return back. I stood by the lakeside and looked up to the moon, silently questioning the moon goddess.

Why can't I have a normal relationship with my mate like every other wolf? Why does it always boil down to making decisions between life and death? I screamed into the night and kicked the sand beneath my feet as I breathed heavily.

I smelled her before I heard her and took deep breaths to calm myself down. I already fucked up royally by running out on her, I can't afford to make more mistakes that will make her unhappy.

She wrapped her dainty hands around my stomach and I heard her sniffing which broke my heart. I didn't mean to make her cry.

I'm such a stupid idiot. I should have at least listened to her before acting like a psycho and running off on her. I placed my hands on hers and turned around to face her.

She refused to look up at me and wrapped her hands tightly around my midriff, sobbing quietly. We stood like that for a while, I rubbed her back while she silently cried, breaking my heart into a million pieces.

“Should we just give in to what she wants?” Daxon asked in my head and I sighed. “You know we can’t, we can’t do that bud“, I replied to him.

“I’m so sorry, Adrian“, she finally spoke after a while. “No, I should have listened to you. I overreacted, I’m sorry. I just don’t like the idea of our wolves mating. It seals a lot of things, a lot of things that I can’t put you through“, I whispered but I knew that she heard me.

She shivered and that was when I saw that she was just my thin t-shirt. I carried her bridal style and went back to the tent. The walk back was awkward because I did not know what to say to diffuse the tension. I don’t think she had anything to say either.

After we entered the tent, she was still shivering, so I got up to turn on the heater. I was half expecting her to say something like she had been doing the whole night but she remained quiet. I sat down beside her and held her hands while the silence stretched on for miles between us.

“Why?” She asked softly and I sighed. “Because I can’t put you in that type of situation”, she raised her head, looking at me with questions in her eyes and my breath caught in my throat.

Her eyes were puffy and her nose a darker shade from her face, which meant it was red from all the crying she had done.

“You don’t know the circumstances surrounding it, do you?” I asked her and she shook her head.

“Why the fuck does she want to mate when she doesn’t even know how it works?” Daxon growled in my head and I had to take deep breaths to calm myself down and not shout at her again.

“Why do you want Jasmine and Daxon to mate then?” I asked her with contained rage and what I hoped was a gentle voice and she shook her head.

“I want to know, Lola. Talk to me“, I tried to make her look into my eyes but she refused. “Lola, I need to know who is putting this idea into your head“, I said sternly but she still refused to look at me.

“For the moon’s sake, who was it?” I was already raising my voice at this point but I couldn’t care less. I needed to know who gave he idea. The person could be another person trying to ruin both of us at once.

r that

“Who was it, Lola? Mom?” She shook her head, “Lyla?” She shook her head. “Damon? Alysia?” She shook her head while her lower lip trembled slightly. “Fay?” I asked and she looked at me with anger in her eyes.

“How can you even ask if she’s the one?” She spat at me. “Heck, she risked her life to allow me to escape. She might be dead because she wanted me to come back to you and you dare to question her?” She screamed at me.

My anger flared up at her words and I just spoke without thinking. “Why won’t I suspect her?? You’ve been fucking weird since you got back. I tried my best to know what is going on with you but you keep avoiding me“

“You’re my mate for the moon’s sake, you’re supposed to share your problems with me. Now, you’re asking for this ridiculous thing and you just expect me to agree to whatever you ask for? Without knowing wh at the consequences might be or if I might be okay with it?

” I raised my voice at her.

“Why the fuck does that even matter? What is the stupid consequence that comes with our wolf mating? Why are you making a fucking big deal out of it?” She screamed at me also.

“Because if one of us dies, the other will follow soon after. That’s why. I bet you didn’t even know that “, I said gently, rubbing the bridge of my nose and she became quiet.

Lola’s POV

I couldn’t believe my ears and looked at Adrian in disbelief. Could it be that he mistook it for something else. “What do you mean by that? I’m sure you must be mistaken, there can’t be such consequences” I said as I shook my head in disbelief.

“That’s why I’m asking you who gave you such an idea, Lola”, Adrian said angrily and I took a step back from him. “I want to go home“, I whispered.

“Are you for real now?” He asked in disbelief and I nodded my head. “Yes, I want to go home now. Please “, I added the latter as a broken whisper and he did not say another word before going to a corner of the tent to bring out new set of clothes for us.

He gave me a sweatshirt and shorts that smelled like him with a simple “put this on“. I reluctantly took them from him and slowly changed into the clothes he gave me.

I wasn't expecting such a twist“, Jasmine said. “Why did Selene ask us to mate in our wolves form if it has such consequences?“ She asked again but kept quiet when I had no answer for her.

“We're leaving now“, Adrian announced and took the lead while I followed behind him. He was cold and obviously hurt but I just couldn't tell him that the moon goddess told me to.

I needed to talk to Selene first.

“Wait“, I called out and he stopped in his tracks. “Are we just going to leave all of these here?“ I asked and watched his shoulder drop in disappointment.

“I'll take care of my own problems, Lola“, he said my name with an icy tone and it felt like my heart was being crushed in my chest.

“But we used it together, I should help you clean it up a bit“, I tried to argue. “The one thing I need help with, you refused me. D on't act like you care", and with that, he went out of the tent.

I clutched my chest and tried to breathe through my mouth. I was angry and hurt but my anger wasn't directed towards Adrian.

It was mostly at Selene for telling me to do something that could potentially ruin my relationship and at me for being a fucking coward and not being able to tell the truth to my mate.

I left the tent with my shoulder hunched and saw Adrian waiting outside. My heart soared with hope and I moved towards him. I felt like I had been punched in the guts when he turned and started walking back the way we came.

"At least, he cares enough to wait for us", Jasmine said in a sad voice and I sighed. It was meant to be a perfect night and I ruined it.

I tried to reach him through our mindlink but he had it put up. I contemplated faking a fall but stopped at the last moment. That wouldn't be fair to him and I already did enough for tonight.

I wasn't expecting Rose to be awake by the time we got back to the house, but there she was, wide awake and excited when I walked in through the door.

Her smile vanished when she saw the look on my face and I almost burst into tears there and then. Adrian went upstairs without acknowledging anyone and Rose looked between the stairs and I before walking towards

1. me.

“Pumpkin, how was your date? Why are you back so late? Adrian told me to have the door open for you, I just decided to stay awake till you get back but everything doesn’t seem well between you. What happened, Lola?” She asked with concern evident in her voice.

“I fucked up, Rose. Royally“, I said and hugged her before moving towards the stairs, unshed tears shining in my eyes. “We’ll talk about it well in the morning“.

She looked like she wanted to say something but decided against it before nodding and bading me goodnight.

I got to the room, thinking that he’ll be there and probably less angry but the room was empty. So was the closet and bathroom.

I sniffed the air and it led me to my former room. I tried to open the door but it was locked and that was my undoing. Tears cascaded down my cheeks rapidly and I held my chest from the force of the pain.

I knocked but there was no reply, yet I could hear his uneven breathing which indicated that he was still awake.

“Ad.....Adrian“, I called out but I was met with total silence. “Adrian, please. Can you at least answer me? Just talk to me, please” I pleaded at the door but still nothing.

“You can lash out at me all you want but this silence is killing me“, I managed to get out through my tears. “Please talk to me“.

I heard ruffling on the other side of the door and heard his footsteps coming towards the door. I was expecting him to open the door but he didn't.

“My silence is killing you but you refused to answer my own questions? How is that fair?” He said, his voice breaking which indicated that he's been crying making me cry harder.

“I can’t, Adrian. I really can’t. I just need you to trust me on this one“, I said hoping to convince him but it had the opposite effect.

“Trust? Did you just say trust?” He asked angrily before he opened the door. I paused at the sight of him and my tears flowed again.

His hair was ruffled like he ran his hands through it multiple times, his cheeks were stained with tears and his eyes looked so hurt.

I caused that.

I tried to touch his face but he pulled back from me, making my hands drop to my side.

“You don’t get to do that? I don’t think I want to be touched by a woman that doesn’t trust me enough to confide in me. You know I’ll burn the earth to the ground if you asked, Lola. Why are you making me feel like I never do enough or I’m not good enough for you?” He asked, pain evident in his voice and I cried harder than I already was, yet I refused to utter a word.

“I see that you’re not going to utter a word“, he sniffled and his eyes hardened. "I'm not having any conversation unless it will bring answers ". And with that he shut the door in my face.

I didn't even bother to knock on the door anymore, it was obvious that only my answers would bring peace to our bond.

I staggered and made my way to our room. Without bothering to undress, I searched my soul for the thin thread that tethered me to Selene and tugged on it.

I did not manage to reach the bed before I was thrown into darkness and lost consciousness.
