

Luna Lola-The Moon Wolf

Chapter 162

Lola's POV

The whole room turned to look at us and everywhere was silent, you could hear it if a pin dropped. I scanned everyone's faces and saw quite the number of emotions.

Happiness, shock, amazement and the one that broke my heart, anger. Amidst everyone's frozen state, her small body walked to me, anger radiating from every pore in her body.

“Lyla”, I said her name as I plastered a smile on my face. “Is the surprise you have for the whole pack?” She totally ignored me and faced Adrian who looked angry also.

“Yes, it is. Do you have a problem with that, Beta?” He said with his Alpha voice which made Lyla bow her head in submission. “Not at all, Alpha”, she said with spite and gave me a glare before she walked away from the garden towards the house.

“You shouldn't have done that. Everybody deals with grief and emotions differently”, I chastised him through our mindlink but he just shrugged his shoulders. “I couldn't stand the way she was trying to be rude to you”, he said and I rolled my eyes.

“I'll be back”. With that, I walked in the direction I saw her go, not looking back to see what other pack members thought. I followed her scent and found her in her former room, no surprise there.

“Lyla”, I called out gently as I entered the room but she refused to answer me. “Are you mad at me for leaving abruptly?” I asked and she sniffled.

“You left without even saying proper goodbye”, she voiced out in a very small voice. “You know things like death do not come with a notice, right? I couldn't have known”, I told her before going to sit beside her.

Before I could say another word, the door opened to reveal an upset Avianca. Oh goddess, I was so distracted by seeing Lyla upset that I forgot that Avianca must be upset too. What kind of friend am I?

“Avianca”, I made to stand up but she held her hand out to silence me. “I'll just pretend like I'm not here, you can have your reunion without me”, she crossed her hands over her chest and leaned against the door.

“I had no say in if I was going to die or not. I wouldn't have left you guys alone if I had the choice, you have to believe me”, I told them, my voice breaking towards the end as I tried not to cry.

“You had a choice, Lola”, Lyla said with a voice so calm, it scared me. A very loud and angry Lyla, I could take but I can't stand her being so calm about things that hurt her. It is usually a bad sign.

“Yeah, Serena told us that you knew you were going to die. She told us that you could have lived if you hadn't gone ahead to play hero and save Fay”, Avianca spoke up from where she was leaning by the door and I sighed.

I guess there's no point in keeping it a secret, they already know everything.

“I couldn't bring myself to tell anyone, I'm so sorry, guys”, I said in a small voice and Lyla scoffed. “You had different opportunities to tell me, to tell us, but you kept mute”, Lyla said, her voice rising with every word.

“You promised to be my daughter's godmother, guess who wasn't around when I gave birth to her. Because Adrian blamed himself for what happened to you everyday, he refused to touch my daughter for 3 months”, she was basically screaming at this point.

“He is her godfather. Do you know how much Nathan is hurt that his best friend avoids his daughter? Do you know how much your selfishness has cost us?” Tears were streaming down her cheeks as she screamed in my face.

I cried as I realised just how hurt everyone that matters to me was because of my selfishness. “I'm sorry, I'm so sorry”, I kept on repeating while crying.

“I can't even stay mad at you for long”, Avianca said before coming to wrap her hands around me. “I missed you so much. Every day that you were not here was a torture. Don't ever do that again”, she cried into my neck and I hugged her back.

“Never, never again”, I smiled through my tears and we pulled back from each other. Lyla was still sitting away from us crying but I could see that her eyes had softened.

“Are you going to be mad at me forever? Even when I'm your daughter's godmother?” I asked as I held my arms open for her. She rolled her eyes before she hugged me.

“I missed you so much”, she said in a small voice. “I want a hug too”, Avianca said before hugging us, making it a group hug.

“Oh goddess, the ceremony. Everyone must be waiting for us”, Avianca exclaimed but Lyla just waved her off. “The star of the show is here, the ceremony isn't going anywhere without her”.

“The ceremony is for me?” I asked in confusion and they both nodded. “It's your 19th birthday, of course, Adrian threw a party for you. Eveb though no one knew you were going to come back to us today”, Lyla said and my heart swelled.

“We got the best man in the universe”, Jasmine said happily through our mindlink. We sure did.

“Let's not keep the whole pack waiting then and I also have to see my goddaughter. She looks exactly like you, I can't wait to hold her in my arms”, I said exactly.

“Did Adrian already tell you all about her? I knew he adored her every though he refused to carry her”, she clapped her hands together like she just discovered the biggest secret of the century.

“Not Adrian, the Fates showed me”, I laughed. “That's not to be discussed now”, let's get this show on the road, shall we?” I asked while fist pumping the air and we all cheered.

“Thank the moon that I left some make up around here, we all look like casts for a horror movie”, Lyla said and we all laughed about it.

We fixed our faces and stepped out of the room chattering amongst ourselves while they tried to catch me up on all that i missed.

I'm so glad I chose to come back.
