

Chapter 129 Future wife

129

AMALTHEA'S POV

"So? Have you taken your baby in your arms? What does it feel like?" I asked, and Scarlett smiled with a beautiful look on her face.

"It feels like magic. When I took him in my arms a few minutes ago, I cried so badly that the doctor didn't know who to quieten first, the baby or me," Scarlett said, and I nodded.

"Well, that explains your swollen eyes," I said before looking towards the baby and then at Augustus, whose gaze was fixated on the incubator.

Judging from the soft look in his eyes, I am sure he would make a great uncle.

'And even a better father, no?' Crystal said, and I rolled my eyes at her.

'Shut up. I am sure Augustus was just joking. Don't take these things so seriously. And don't you dare think about bothering and teasing me with these,' I said, and she sighed before rolling her eyes.

'You know, you are the first human who has such authority over her wolf, and that to be over the wolf of the world. The other couldn't even handle my energy,' Crystal said, and I sighed before looking at Scarlett, who was smiling at me.

"Have you decided on his name already?" I asked, and she nodded her head.

"I talked to Charles about it. We have decided on the name Theron," she said, and I squinted my brows.

"Theron? Any meaning behind the name or have you thought about it before?" I asked, and she smiled at me.

"Yeah, it means Hunter in Greek. Since he hunted down such a good soul and brought you to us and also because it's from your name Thea," Scarlett said, and I felt my heart warm at her explanation.

"This is the best reward you gave me for saving both of your lives. You have no idea how happy you've made me," I said, and she smiled at me.

"It's nothing. I always wanted to have my baby's name after someone, and you are that great personality for me," she said, and I smiled at Augustus, who looked back at me with a reassuring look.

"Hey, if you guys are done meeting the patient. I would suggest you let her sleep and have some good rest," a doctor entered the room before speaking to us.

"I am sure our little Scarlett and her baby can sleep and rest peacefully now that she has seen Amalthea, right?" The doctor asked, and Scarlett looked at me.

"Brother, can I talk to her in private?" She asked, and I looked at her with squinted brows.

"You can talk in front of me," Augustus said, and Scarlett pressed her lips into a thin line.

"Augustus," I said as I looked at him, and he sighed before nodding.

"Fine. Don't give me that look. I am going. You better make it quick," he said to Scarlett before pulling the doctor out of the room with him.

Once they were out, I sat on the chair again before holding Scarlett's hand.

"So? What is that you wanted to talk about, Scarlett?" I asked, and she sighed.

"I had a dream. After the accident, I had a dream in which I fell down the stairs just like that, and there was no one to save me in that dream. I saw you there, and you tried to help me, just like you did in real life. However, in my dream, I fell on the bottom stair and hit my abdomen hard, making blood gush out of my vagina. I had a miscarriage," she said as a tear fell from her eyes.

"In that dream, even when everyone was present, I could only look at you. I mouthed, 'help me and save my baby to you'. It scared me really badly, and that's why I wanted to see you so badly. That's the reason I am so grateful to you for saving me. Maybe if you hadn't saved me and acted on time, I wouldn't have been alive. That's why I cried when you asked me how I was feeling. I know it sounds all pathetic, and it was a nightmare caused by the accident, but I wanted to share it with you," Scarlett said, and I bit my lips before smiling at her as I squeezed her hand in reassurance.

"It was a nightmare, and those are not real. That's why you are alive, and your baby is healthy too. Don't think much into things," I said, and she nodded.

"I am just amazed by the fact that only you were able to help me both times. Maybe after you saved my life from those rogues like a cool heroine, I put a bit too much trust in you? I also know that you are L.J. It stands for Luna Jade, right? I had always believed that you are not someone simple. Maybe you are out there on some kind of revenge plan, but can you please accept my brother?" Scarlett said, and I was about to tell her to not worry about these things and that she should focus on her health when she shook her head.

"Please let me speak. I have seen the way he looks at you. I have never seen my brother being so happy and concerned about someone. Earlier, I used to think that he was merely infatuated with you because of your looks and attitude, and that's why I never said anything, but it's different now. He is madly in love with you, and anyone can see that," Scarlett said before smiling.

"My brother had a hard life. Our father died in a rogue attack, and our mother died in the grief of the loss of our father. He had to handle the whole kingdom when he was only seventeen, and because of the pressure and dealing with so many scary incidents and people, he became heartless. His best friend also left him because he didn't agree to marry her and make her queen. She was greedy. He was heartbroken, and I didn't notice that my brother forgot how to smile," she said before taking a deep breath.

"It was all before you came. Now he smiles, throws tantrums like a kid, gets angry, reacts emotionally, feels jealous, and goes around you like a love-sick fool. He has started to show emotions that I didn't even know he was capable of," Scarlett said, and I sighed.

"I know what you are talking about, Scarlett. However, wouldn't it be better if you leave this matter to your brother and me? I care about your brother a lot, and if you can judge his emotions and love for me, I am sure you are able to see my emotions too, don't you? Do you think I am the type of a girl who would go around with any man if she wasn't serious about him? I know he is a good guy, and he has suffered a lot in life, but I don't want to rush things. Love is a slow and lifelong process. Don't you think so?" I asked, and she nodded.

"I know, but will it sound selfish if I say I want you to choose him? You know Lycans can choose their mates themselves, and once a Lycan chooses a mate, it nullifies all other bonds, right? I heard about what happened with Blake, and I also know you haven't met your chosen mate yet. That's why I want to be selfish here and want you to choose him. He has suffered so much in his life that he deserves only a great girl like you. And I know with what you have gone through, you deserve nothing less than him," Scarlett said, and I smiled at her.

"Scarlett, I like your brother a lot. And you don't need to worry about these things. I have made up my mind about him, and I am sure you'll hear the news once you get better and come to the palace. Either I'll become a permanent member of the Lycan Kingdom, or I'll leave forever. I have heard your reasons, but I think it's my life, yeah? Look, I respect and like you a lot, but I don't want to choose my life partner just because of that. Now have a good rest and think about yourself and your baby before you think about your brother," I said, and she sighed before nodding.

"I just wanted to let you know so that you keep these thoughts in your mind," Scarlett said, and I nodded before looking at the baby one last time and exiting the room, raising my brows when I saw the scene in front of me.

"What are you guys doing?" I asked, confused.

"You are Amalthea Jade, right? It's a pleasure to meet you. I am this jerk's friend," The guy on the floor said, and Augustus looked at me with an awkward smile before getting up from that guy.

"Were you guys seriously fighting in the hospital?" I asked, and Augustus scratched the back of his head.

"We were just saying hello," He said, and I nodded.

"Anyway, what did she have to say?" Augustus asked, and I shrugged.

"It's a secret talk between girls. I don't think I am obliged to tell you," I said, and he squinted his brows.

"Are you keeping secrets from me now?" Augustus asked me, and his friend patted his shoulder.

"Calm down, dude. Why are you acting like this? Someone would think you are dating her. Stop acting like a jealous husband, will you? She is not your -" his friend stopped before looking at me and Augustus.

"Wait. Now that I think about it. I have never seen you with a girl before. This is the first time I am spotting a female, and that to be a werewolf with you. What's going on here? Don't tell me you guys are seeing each other," His friend said, shocked, and I wanted to ask him what was wrong about that when Augustus beat me to it, shocking his friend and me at the same time.

Chapter 129 Future wife

"She is my future wife," He said without a second thought.

 Exclusive Offer For You

Claim Now

Our ads aim to provide better support for authors.

 I want no ads >