

Chapter 145 Queen Amalthea's love display.

Chapter-145

AMALTHEA'S POV

"Okay, on a serious note, are you sure this is what it is?" Augustus asked me for the umpteenth time.

"It's true," I said before looking into his eyes.

"Aaaaaaa...oooooo... Everybody wants to know what I feel like when all I want is to be with you. I don't want to go back to how things were and just want to call out to you. It's not enough to say we are made for each other. So just listen to my tunes and listen to my love blooming around you in the form of petals and large ocean waves. Ooooooaaaaaooo...." I sang the random words in my mind, my own soothing voice amazing me.

"I didn't know you sang this beautiful," he said and I was about to thank him when we heard the sound of water.

Walking towards the balcony, I raised my brows when I saw large ocean waves crashing at the beach and the otherwise dried-up tree blossoming with flowers.

"You did it?" Augustus asked me and I shrugged.

"I don't know," I said, amazed myself.

"Well, judging from the fact that this is exactly what you sang just now, I guess you were the one who did it," He said before looking at me like a child who has discovered something new and I smiled at his enthusiasm.

"Do you like it? I can blossom all the dryness in your garden and life for eternity," I said and he looked at me before grabbing my face and kissing my lips aggressively.

"You know, I am confused about whether to feel happy or embarrassed," He said between the kiss and I squinted my brows.

"I want to be happy that you said those things to me and it made my heart flutter, but I am embarrassed because this is something that a guy should say," Augustus said and I chuckled at her words when he lifted me, hugging me tightly.

"Everyone will be awake soon. Let's have some breakfast and discuss what else you can do with your Siren powers, yeah? Don't worry about anything. We'll figure everything out together," he said and I nodded with a content look on my face.

'Crystal, I am happy,' I said and she smiled at me before nodding her head.

'I am happy for you too and I am sorry I kept you away from your happiness for so long. I knew about everything yet I was ignorant enough to let you suffer all alone when you could've used this happiness and his support to fight earlier,' She said and I sighed.

'It's okay. I don't hold you responsible for everything. I was a bit disappointed, but the wait was worth it,' I said as I looked at Augustus who brought out my shorts and top from the almirah.

"Go take a shower. I will take a shower in my room," He said and I smiled at him before nodding.

Walking towards the washroom, I opened the door before looking at my reflection in the mirror.

It was beautiful. The mark that Augustus has given me is way more beautiful than I had expected. If possible, this is the best mark I've ever seen.

Is this because I am a strong wolf with special Siren powers and he is a Lycan king along with being my true mate?

There were two wolves, one black and white, looking at each other in front of a large moon and it was enough. There was a golden-coloured haze around the white wolf that reached out to the black one too.

It was too good, but more than that, the wolves looked happy. Just like me.

Smiling at the reflection as I touched my marks wincing a little as it was still sore from all the biting and sucking, I sighed as a blush crept up my neck when I remembered Augustus's passionate lovemaking.

'Sweetheart, I can see what you are thinking about. I see you really liked it,' I heard Augustus's voice in my head and I widened my eyes before closing my eyes and putting up the mental barrier in a hurry.

Ahhh! How embarrassing! He is not supposed to look into my mind like that. Does that mean he will know every time I'll think something naughty about him? No, this is too bad. I'll have to be careful about it. I thought before nodding at myself.

~~~~~

"Woah, what's with this aromatic smell in the air? Jake, did you ask someone to cook lasagna and pasta? This smells too good," Charles spoke as he entered the kitchen before freezing in his place as he looked at me.

"You are cooking? Is the food made by you even edible? Can I trust my king at your hands?" Charles asked and I was about to reply to him when Jake hit his head as he looked at me with a raised brow before smirking as he sat on the table, making me squint my brows.

"Hey, Luna Jade, good morning. Are you -" Miley stopped midway as she looked at me before smiling and showing me two thumbs up as she sat on the table.

What's wrong with these guys?

"Luna Jade," Ashton bowed at me and I nodded at him before he froze in his place, clearing his throat as he bowed at me again before sitting on the table, the rest of the people doing the same.

"King Augustus," Everyone stood from their places as Augustus walked inside the dining table and I don't know if I was only noticing now how good he looked in his casuals too.

"Amalthea, what are you doing there? Come eat," he said and I nodded at him.

Walking towards the table, I felt a bit conscious when I noticed everyone's gaze on me.

I was about to take the seat between Ashton and Miley when she put her hand on the seat.

"Luna Jade, don't be so formal now. Everyone can already tell even if you hide it so nicely," Miley said and I raised my brows before she nodded her head towards my neck, making me realise how slow I was.

That's the reason they were giving me the looks. Now, I understand.

"Don't make her uncomfortable," Augustus said to Miley and she immediately widened her eyes before nodding and I sighed.

"Augustus," I said and Augustus immediately looked at his table.

"Woah, our king is already whipped for our queen," Jake joked and I widened my eyes.

"I am sure that's not what it is,"

"Yes, I am. So what? I love her more than anything," I and Augustus said simultaneously and I couldn't help but take a deep breath.

Well, what was I hoping for when I marked the Lycan King? Of course, it means acknowledging our bond in front of everyone and I don't want to look like some pathetic scared girl who has no idea of what's going around her.

Sitting beside Augustus, I smiled at him when he held my hand as I took a sip of my drink.

"Since all of you already know, let me do the honour of introducing the love of my life once again. Meet Amalthea Jade, my true mate and the queen of the Lycan and werewolf species from today," Augustus announced and I coughed on my drink.

"What?" I asked, shocked.

"What?" Augustus asked me.

"Wow," everyone said and I squinted my brows.

"Queen?" I asked Augustus and he supported his face on his hand as he looked at me.

"And what else did you expect? You are going to be my wife soon," he said and though it was giving me jitters because of the sense of responsibility, looking into his eyes was strangely soothing me.

"I think you should stop making us single people jealous, yeah?" Jake suddenly said and everyone chuckled, making me smile as they started a different topic, probably aware that I was a bit nervous about it.

"Augustus, do you want to go on a run?" I asked after some time and Crystal immediately stood from her place, excited about his answer and ready to go out.

"You want to do that? Well, your wish is my command, my love. Let's go on a run," He said before kissing my hand, making me smile as Crystal howled in joy.

Chapter Comments

 Watch Ads to Get 8 Vouchers