

Chapter 147 Boston

Chapter-147

AMALTHEA'S POV

"Are you sure we are ready to go?" Throb asked me and I looked at him before smirking.

"Under normal circumstances, I would've said that I am not sure if we are ready or not," I said.

"And now?" He asked me and I looked forward.

"Didn't you say you want to see my carefree attitude? You want to meet the girl who doesn't fear anything and just goes with what her heart wants, right?" I asked and he scrunched his brows.

I didn't bother to answer him any further as I looked at the shapeshifters who were changing their shifts now.

I was confident that I would be able to get that Boston guy anyhow. If these people don't agree to cooperate with me then I am going to agree to get caught by them. As far as I know, Antonio will send his men or women to free me if not come himself. Or better, maybe my powers will call her descendants herself.

Nodding at my plan in satisfaction, I nodded at Throb before walking towards the security team of the shapeshifters with a confident look on my face.

"You! Stop right there!" One of the security guards said and I saw how two of the shapeshifters immediately changed into leopards as they looked at me with animosity.

"Judging from your attitude, I guess you don't know who I am. I am here to meet your leader. Tell him Amalthea Jade, the daughter of Matthew and Thea Jade and the former Alpha of Callisto pack is here," I said and Throb looked at me with raised brows as if he heard my introduction for the first time.

That might not be the case. He came to me with the information about my parents after Alven asked him to do that, right? It isn't possible that Alven didn't tell him who I am and Throb didn't look into the file or is it the case?

Well, now is not the time to think about these things. Judging from how many times I have told him what happened to me, he must've gotten a tough idea anyway.

"Amalthea Jade, what brings you here? And why are you with a rogue? And that to be such a strong one?" The guard asked me and I gave him a lopsided smile before tilting my head.

"Do you want me to be rude to you? I am not the most patient person out there and I am definitely not in the mood to waste my time and energy here," I said and he looked at me for a few seconds before nodding and looking behind me.

"Our alpha said he would meet you," the guard said and I shrugged.

"Your name has quite the power," Throb whispered in my ears and I nodded as I looked forward at the shapeshifters who were looking at me warily.

"Luna Amalthea Jade, to what honour did we have the pleasure to have you here?" The alpha of the shapeshifters asked me and I looked towards his beta before scrunching my brows.

"I wanted to look into the matters in your area. As you must've already heard, I am colliding with the Lycan King on a few projects and your area is one of the projects where we are trying to extend our security. Since I am free from my pack duties at the moment, I am helping the Lycans and the council chambers," I said before looking at Throb, who nodded.

When I was coming over to meet Throb, I had already asked Augustus for permission to use the lycans' name if I needed any kind of help in my missions and this was the perfect opportunity to show my alliance with them.

"He is my friend who has been helping me find the places where the rogue attacks have been the worst. I wanted to have your perspective on the matter with the rogues since you have been constantly complaining about their attacks. However, I don't think it is needed anymore," I said before standing from my place.

"Wait, Luna Jade. What do you mean it's not useful? We still need Lycans to help us protect ourselves from the attack. If you are here to know about our perspective, we are ready to tell you everything you ask for. Why are you leaving without asking us anything?" The alpha asked and turned around to look into his eyes.

"Alpha Walter, I came here because I wanted to help you send your earnest message to the Lycans about your helplessness against rogues, but how can I do that when you are rearing a rogue yourself?" I asked and he widened his eyes slightly before evening his expression, but that slight shift was enough for me to know Throb was right.

Well, at least now I know we are at the right place. Once I get this Boston and save Lady Cera, I will be able to accomplish one of my many goals.

Once she'll be free, I will help her get back to her normal life.

That's the least I can do for the last who loyally served my mother for such a long time.

"What? Do you think my senses are weak? I have Alpha blood running in my veins, Walter. What were you thinking when you allowed me to enter the pack even after knowing I would be able to sense the rogue the moment I get into a parameter of 2 km as him?" I asked Walter.

"Since you guys are yourself colluding with rogues, I don't see why the Lycans should waste their resources on you. I really sympathised with you people when I heard what those rogues were doing to your ladies, but I guess you guys deserved that. Pathetic," I said, and I noticed how Walter's eyes changed colours, a clear indication that he was getting angry now.

Come on, get more angry. That's exactly what I want. Open up to me about that rogue and tell me where he is.

"You know, Luna Jade. It's really brave of you to think that you can come into a territory of around 300 shapeshifters and offend them without getting hurt. Are you sure you weren't overconfident when you decided to come here alone with a rogue?" Alpha Walter asked me and I looked at Throb, who shrugged his shoulders.

"For some reason, your words are appearing quite funny to me. Would you like to elaborate?" I asked, and Alpha Walter chuckled.

"The Luna of the Callisto pack isn't so dumb-headed now, is she? You know exactly what I mean. I am sure you are not going to make the mistake of sending any false information about our conditions to the Lycans. Regarding the matter with that rogue. He is an exception," Alpha Walter said as he took a step towards me and Throb was about to come forward, but I held his hand, stopping him.

Taking a step closer to Alpha Walter myself, I smirked before looking into his eyes.

"Look carefully at me, Alpha Walter. Do you sense even the slightest bit of fear or doubt? I am not going to make a mistake?" I chuckled before taking out my phone, all the while looking at Alpha Walter.

"Hello, Augustus. I have something to report to you regarding the shapeshifters. I don't think they need your protection anymore. They are rearing rogues themselves. I am sure everything is a facade to waste your resources and they are colluding with rogues," I said in a single breath and I noticed how Alpha Walter was trembling with anger.

"You!" He growled at me and I turned my phone to him.

"I didn't call him just now, but he is on my speed dial. And let me tell you, I have quite good relations with him. Don't blame me if the shapeshifters from all over the world abandon your people for offending the Lycans and werewolves," I said and he gritted his teeth before taking huffing.

"What do you want?" He asked and I smiled at him.

"Well, now we are talking about business. It's good you understood my motive sooner and I didn't have to get some innocent blood on my hand," I said before nodding at Throb who shook his head and just stood behind my seat as I sat.

"So, as I was saying. I will relay your earnest message to Lycan King, but I want the rogue that you are hiding. I want Boston. He killed my friend's mother and you can say, I am ready to destroy anyone who comes in the way," I said, and before Alpha Walter could say anything, his beta growled at me, making me smile.

Chuckling loudly, I looked at his beta before shaking my head.

"God, this is funny. Why do you guys have such difficulty in understanding that I am not afraid of you and you can't harm me? I really mean no harm. I will make sure the Lycans send a new team to deal with the rogues here and help you secure the borders with tighter security. Just give me that bas*ard," I paused before looking at the beta.

"And I want him alive. I don't want blood on my hands. I don't care who he seduced or is sleeping with. That's not my concern. And there is no other way around this situation," I said and it looked like Alpha Walter was indeed contemplating, but the next moment, I smelt a burning smell from somewhere around me.

"Dad! Get out of the way! I will burn this b*tch alive who has come to take away my love!" A girl screamed as she ran towards me with a burning log in her hand and I stood there looking at her in amazement.

"Are you sure you want to burn me?" I asked as I smiled at Alpha Walter, who widened his eyes.

"How dare she threaten us? It's time to tell them who they are dealing with!" Crystal growled from inside me, and I smiled at her.

"Don't bother. I'll handle it," I said before walking towards the girl who was running towards me.

"Amalthea! Careful!" Throb shouted and I sighed before jumping in the air before she could swing that wooden log at me.

Kicking her shoulder, sending him flying across the backyard as her back hit the tree, I smirked at the beta, who growled at me before pouncing on me.

"I will take this as your answer, Alpha Walter. You brought this in yourself," I said before hitting the beta's neck, rendering him unconscious I stood from the ground before looking at all the people who were coming at us.

"Were you really sure you would be able to handle this?" Throb asked me and I looked at him before smirking.

"Do you believe me?" I asked him and he looked at all the shapeshifters before looking at me awkwardly.

"Well, I am not sure about that anymore. However, I will still trust you to take care of me," Throb said and I chuckled at his choice of words.

"I'll be responsible for your protection then," He said and I shook my head before closing my eyes and opening my eyes.

"Get me Boston!" I released a thunderous growl.

"Why are you so angry, Luna Jade? You could've just asked politely," I heard an unfamiliar voice and I looked towards my left.

"Boston," Throb said and I looked at the scum in front of me before smiling.

Ahhh, this should be fun.

Chapter Comments

 Watch Ads to Get 8 Vouchers