

Chapter 157 Train and declare war

Chapter-157

AMALTHEA'S POV

"Hey, are you sure you are going to be alright? You can come and stay at the same hotel as me if you feel uncomfortable," Throb said, and I shook my head.

"I am already grateful to you for understanding me and not making a fuss about it. It's going to create a big fuss when the word goes out about this, but till then, I am just going to enjoy some peace," I said, and he placed his hand on mine.

"No matter what happens, just remember that you have a friend right here, who is ready to help you through all the situations. And I mean it from the bottom of my heart. No matter what happens in the future, I will always be by your side," Throb said, and I nodded at him.

"I'll just go and relax a bit," I said before nodding at him and then walking towards the large gates of the Lycan's palace.

"Amalthea," I heard a voice as soon as I entered the palace, and my emotions turned cold again.

"Antonio, what are you doing here? Can you really not let me have a minute of peace? Are you and your Siren group so hellbent on making my life hell?" I asked, as the rage that had calmed, started to surface again.

"Amalthea, look, I know what I said in a fit of anger might've hurt you, and I am sorry about that, but if you think I can leave you alone, you are completely wrong," Antonio said, and it wasn't long before his friend arrived.

"Call me Justin," Antonio's friend said, and I raised my brows.

"I don't think I have any business with you guys. You can leave," I said.

"I have called them here," I heard Augustus's voice, and I turned to my left, observing Augustus's every step as he came towards us with a cold look on his face.

"I have called them here to train you. I heard what happened in front of the hospital after you ended the call. As much as I want to support you, I think you should train these powers. I won't force you for anything. The decision will be completely yours," Augustus paused before standing in front of me and looking into my eyes.

"You want to take down Blake's father, don't you? Don't you think these powers are going to be very useful if you can use them to manipulate the minds of the people who will be standing against us?" He paused.

"From what you've told me, Blake's father is meeting witches and rogues, then I am sure he is preparing for the war because he also has a premonition that we are going to retaliate soon," Augustus said, and now that he was saying things like this, I think he was indeed right.

I didn't even have to touch those rogues and just scream to die with the tones going in my head and their limbs started to scatter like someone was pulling out the limbs from some toys.

There is no doubt that these powers now belong to me, and no matter how hard anyone tries, no one, including the leader who gave me these powers will be able to get these powers from me because now they have been activated and incorporated in my mind.

The safe has been broken, and like a drug, these powers are running through my veins now.

So what are the odds that I might actually win against everyone if I manipulate those rogues who will be fighting us from Cane's side? Or better, won't it be better if I can Kill Alpha Cane directly?

"Have you given it enough thought? I think you should do this. We both know that these powers are yours forever, so why not learn the correct method to use them more efficiently," Augustus said as he pecked my forehead when I nodded my head.

"Also, I don't think anyone, and I literally mean anyone can stop you from using your powers without creating a problem for themselves. Because if that were the case, then they wouldn't be standing here, trying to plead to you on how they are sorry for hurting you," Augustus said, and I looked at Antonio and Justin, who just rolled their eyes before sighing and nodding, making me smile faintly.

"Well, if that's the case and you want to train me because you want to help me through this mishap, then I am okay with it. Let's train," I said with a sad smile before looking at Augustus.

"I wanted to leave for my pack today itself. I want to finalize the divorce tomorrow morning so that I can confront all those people and officially declare war," I said, and Augustus looked at Antonio and Justin, who nodded their heads at me.

"We can always train while moving," They said, and Augustus nodded before we went inside the palace.

"What is happening, Augustus? Tell me what you did?" I asked as soon as we reached our room, and Augustus looked at me with raised brows.

"What do you mean, sweetheart? I don't understand," He said as he sat on the edge of the bed before pulling me onto his lap.

"Don't try to act innocently, Augustus. I know you did something. There is no way these two sirens, who were against me and fighting me by saying all kinds of things about why it's my fault everything is turning worse, would change their decision in just four hours. Their presence here and you agree with the training when you know how risky it can get is all linked," I said, and he sighed.

"I didn't realise it sooner, Amalthea, but when did you become so suspicious, huh? Don't you think you have started to know and understand me a bit more than needed?" He asked as he slid his hand above my top slowly, as his lips met my mark.

"I just want to end these things sooner, baby. I want the world to know that you are my mate, and we have completed the marking and mating ceremony.

Everyone in the Lycan Kingdom has already heard about the news. I am just waiting for you to get over this revenge so that I can make you happy with my love, care, and affection. Is it bad to wish that?" He asked as he peppered my collarbone with soft kisses before laying me on the bed.

I know what he was doing. He was just trying to distract me from the actual topic, and as much as I hate anyone disrupting my conversations, I kind of liked this method of distraction.

"Augustus," I took a deep breath as my toes curled when he sucked on my mark slightly.

"I want to take a shower first. I don't feel good with all the mess I made on that road," I said, and he raised his head, his amber eyes meeting mine.

"And that makes you even hotter, my love. This smell of power, authority, and confidence is a great turn-on. You have no idea how hard it was for us to not rip your clothes then and there," Kyle said, and I smiled at him before grabbing his face and capturing his lips with mine.

"Also, I know Augustus won't tell you this, but I would. When Augustus heard about what happened in front of that hospital and why you did that, he asked those sirens about why they couldn't stop it. Werewolves and Sirens might actually be enemies, but they are not more powerful than Lycans," Kyle said before pecking my lips.

"That's why when Augustus threatened that he would end all their lives if something happened to you, the sirens came here and offered to train you as a sign of apology. It was their fault for not telling you all these things from the beginning even when they knew something like this could happen every second," Kyle said, and I smiled at him.

"Can you guys stop making me feel like I am the luckiest girl in the world because I got you? I am already overwhelmed by your love. I don't think I will be able to fall in love with you again and again because every time you guys do something like this, I feel like I have fallen harder for you," I said, and he rubbed his nose on mine.

"And? Isn't that a good thing? You are for us to spoil, and no one in the world can take away that right from us. We already have to compensate for so many years of suffering you had to go through. And there is only one way to make you forget about those negative things. We will fill you with our love," Kyle said, and I looked into his eyes before smiling goofily.

"Yeah? Fill me with your love," I said as I looked at him meaningfully, and his smile immediately turned into a smirk.

"I don't know if you meant what I think you meant," He said as he grabbed the back of my head, pulling my face closer to him as his other hand that was resting on my thighs started to travel up as if he was telling me what he interpreted my words as.

"Kyle, I meant exactly what you think I meant. Fill me with your love. Make love to me. I want you to make me feel full. I want to drown in your love and forget about all these negative things for some time," I said, and he immediately lifted me before throwing me on the upper side of the bed.

"Well, your wish is my command, my love. We were already waiting to erase your bad emotions with our good ones," Kyle said before he came above me and started kissing me all over.

Taking off my clothes softly and gently, making me bite my lips in anticipation as I looked at him, who was sucking every part of my body as if I was some kind of sweet candy that he was tasting for the first time, I released a shaky breath when he stopped above my wet core.

"My love, I am honoured to love you," He said before he came above me and kissed the area between my chest, positioning himself in my mound before he went inside in a single go, making me arch my hips as I closed my eyes to match his rhythm, grabbing his biceps when he started to move softly.

"Our hearts are like Firestone, and our love will burn all over the world. It will ignite our souls, and we will ignite this world with our love," the hymn went over and over again in my head, making me put up my mind barrier as Augustus lifted my legs to get better access and go even deeper, making me scream in pain and pleasure.

"Augustus, I don't think I'll be able to take anymore. I am about to -" I couldn't even finish my sentence as my orgasm gushed out of my core, making me scream in pleasure while he pounded inside me faster and harder, releasing his own orgasm after a few seconds.

Laying beside me, he cuddled me in his arms before kissing my forehead.

"Let's just stop at one round today. Have some rest, sweetheart. We will be leaving in an hour. I'll prepare your and mine suitcases. So don't worry about anything else. Just sleep," Augustus whispered, and I smiled at him before nodding.

"I love you more than anything in this world," I said, and I smiled when his heartbeat increased its pace again before relaxing after a few seconds.

I really love him the most in the world, and I will make sure that my revenge plan doesn't coincide with him and hurt him in any way.

I know he loves me a lot too, so I am going to try my best to make sure that nothing happens to me either.

So the only person who is left to get hurt is none other than Alpha Cane and his allies.

Chapter Comments

