

Lusting For Ralph Chapter 20 - Tips

0 5 minutes read

Campus was a no-brainer for Ralph, he was back to his schedule just like there was nothing wrong with him. While Madison was actually struggling with her feelings. She knows exactly that she had pushed him away, and she was hating herself because of it.

“Ms. Moore, how are you feeling today?”

“Professor Hastings, I’m better. Thank you for asking.” She was startled when the handsome professor caught her in the middle of her daydreaming.

“You know I’m good for a talk if you ever needed someone to hear you out, right?” he was to her side when all the students have left his class. She was looking out the window pondering about her life when he sits at her front.

But what she didn’t know was the open door leading to the class corridor where Ralph could clearly saw her as she talked to her professor. The jealousy came on too strong for him, though she was just talking he was thinking the worst already.

“Madison?” he decided to come to her, not wanting to let the older man sway his way to her again.

“Hey,” she greeted Ralph while she hasn’t finished talking to professor Hastings.

“Are you ready to go back home?”

She knows Ralph was jealous of her professor and she decided that she didn’t want to deal with more drama than she was already in, so she decided to go with Ralph and excused herself from her professor.

And being in a secret relationship, the professor knows how to keep quiet and let her leave with the male student. Though he has questions for her, he decided that he would call or text her later and get the answer that he needed.

“Ralph!”

They were walking to his car at the parking lot when Kendra called him out. Madison was upset to see the cheerful-looking woman, but he took her hand in his and keeps her to his side knowing that she might leave him if he let her go.

“Kendra,”

“There’s this party tonight, you want to go? everyone is going to be there.” She stated placing her hand to his chest, totally ignoring that he was keeping Madison to his side. And Madison was furious, she was trying to let go of his hold on her hand.

“I’m with Madison, Kendra. Please be more respectful. We’re done.”

Kendra took one look at Madison, but then was back to Ralph and told him she could also come to the party, and that just made him more pissed off with her attitude.

“Come on Madison,” he wrapped his arm to Madison’s shoulder and leave Kendra cursing lowly at both of them and stomped away to join her friends at the other side of the car lot.

“You know she’s going to cause you trouble right?” Madison finally let out her words when they were both in his car.

“Madison, don’t you get it by now? you’re all I care about, have been for a very long time. I don’t give a dam about her or anyone else.”

“Ralph...” she stopped her words when he took her hand and kissed her knuckles.

“Though I might ask the same thing about your professor, what did you talk about?”

“He was checking out on me, making sure that I was good? I think he was concerned about my illness and you know... if I ever need to talk...”

“So will you?”

” What?” she asked knowing that he was going to ask the question.

“Have the talk with him?” he finally asked the double-meaning question.

“Ralph...please...”

“What? I ended everything with Kendra, you heard me.”

“So? what do you expect that I tell the world that I’m with you just to level out the playing field?” Madison was starting to get upset with him and pull her hand away from him.

He let her be and concentrate on the late afternoon traffic and gave her some space, up until they finally arrived at the parking lot of their apartment building. He turned off the engine and hold her face to him.

“I love you Madison, I’d do anything for you...”

“I love you too, but...”

“But what?”

“Exactly, then what?”

“Jezz, baby I don’t get why are you making this so difficult. I just want you. I love you and I want you.”

And that’s was when she gets out of his car and walked faster, she could hear him behind her and he was staying behind up until she opens her door and he was inside her apartment pushing her in and locking the door behind him.

The k!ss was light, yet it was so passionate that she could feel all his love for her. He was holding on to her body delicately, trying not to let her go away. But she was wanting more.

Her mind was crazy for him, she has been in love with him for far too long and to have him love her too was scaring her.

“Talk to me...” Ralph backed away from her k!ss and keeps her in his arms.

“I love you so much that it scares me, I think we should go back...”

Ralph knows where she was going with it, and he was not letting her go. Not when he has her in his grasp already, not when he had taste her and received her love.

He would do anything for her, and that was when he made up his mind that he was keeping her.

His hands trail down to her body and reach underneath her top to unclasp her bra.

“Ralph...” she was resisting him with her flimsy effort, and he smirked to the crook of her neck as she let out her sexy moans knowing he could easily make her wet for him.

“The only way we’re going is forward, baby.” He said with all certainty.

And she was lost in his kisses the second he latched his lips and pleased her between the legs. She was clouded with her lust when she lets him carry her to her bedroom and strip her naked. Madison was wooed by his love to the point where she surrenders her all to be cherished by her long-life best friend.

“I can’t get enough of you Madison, I need you in my life.” He was holding her close and thrusts deeper while she clenched harder wanting more of his passionate loving.

“Ralph, baby please...” she wanted him deeper and that was when she pushed him down and started riding him. They both moan louder when she pushed herself from on top of him.

He was groaning and holding her thighs tighter. She was moving her hips to her liking, taking both so much closer to their climax.

“Enough!” Ralph voiced his word harshly and pulled her down telling her to get down on all fours. She kissed him hard and let him position her to his front.

Then they were moaning again within seconds, his hand reached between her legs, and she climaxes seconds before he pulled out and smeared her back with his cum.

“Stay with me...I’m sorry.” She reached out for him and kissed him deeply moments after he took care of his mess on her back.