

Belong to the Lycan Alpha

Chapter 104

When Aiden went to see the war prisoners and checked on them, he met Lilac's eyes for a brief second before the woman averted her gaze and stared at the man beside her.

The sight of her ignoring him made his blood boiled with anger. How she could do that when she used to look at him with so much love and devotion, but right now, even the sight of him alone couldn't make her stayed to look at him.

Did you hate me that much?

Aiden wanted to ask that. He wanted to stretch out his hand and reach to her, but her rejection hurt him.

He only made one mistake and Lilac had forgotten about their feeling. He only made one mistake and Lilac despised him this much.

Why wouldn't you want to look at me?

Steeling his heart, Aiden shifted his attention back to his duty today. He was the alpha of the pack now and he had to act like one.

All of the war prisoners were there, they had this fabric that covered their face, but without doubt, it was them and their number matched the one that Hunter gave to them when he offered to release.

However, there was this gnawing feeling in Aiden's heart. He couldn't put his finger on it, but sure enough there was something not right with the whole thing. He couldn't put his finger on this weird feeling.

Aiden glanced at Hunter, who was smiling at him, but in his eyes, the alpha lycan was actually mocking him.

"I want to see their faces," Aiden said and he caught the way Hunter chuckled, as he ordered his warrior to open the fabric that covered one of the war prisoners' face.

Only then Aiden realized where that feeling came from! He couldn't even believe his own eyes and for a moment, there was no word that he could utter.

"What is it? What happened?" Ga mma Danny, one of the representatives of the five packs, immediately approached Aiden because he could see his face became very ashen, as if he just ate a heart of a bear. "What is going on?"

The other representative also approached Aiden and were too shock to speak.

"What have you done?!" Aiden's rage hit the roof when he saw the war prisoners were blind! He opened the fabric one by one and realized all of them were blind! Hunter burned their eyes and cut their tongues! All of them! "How dare you to do this to our people!" Aiden and the other five representatives were fuming. They were very livid. Even enraged couldn't describe what they felt right now.

"I promise to give them back to you, didn't I?" Hunter asked, he put an innocent face when he said that, which only made all of them became even angrier. "Now, I give them and you complain. Don't you feel what you have done is very ungrateful?"

However, it was not only Aiden, but also Lilac, who was caught in shock to see the condition of the war prisoners! She covered her mouth with both of her hands when she witnessed this dreadful sight before her eyes. Lilac whipped her head to look at Hunter, but all she could see was a smirk that curled on the corner of his lips.

Lilac knew people in the pack house respected him to the point they were scared of him as their sovereign, but because Hunter always acted goofy and rarely intimidated her, until she felt in danger or unsafe, she didn't think much about it.

But right now, she witnessed it with her own eyes the extend of his cruelty.

Lilac was still in disbelief that Hunter could do such extreme things like this, but then she felt like she didn't know him well enough.

For a split second, Lilac was afraid of him, until he rested his hand on her waist and closed her eyes with his palm, as if he could sense her distress.

There were a lot of things that Lilac wanted to ask him, but she needed to swallow her question because right now Aiden charged forward to demand an explanation from Hunter for what he had done to the war prisoner.

“I keep my word. I deliver them to you. Isn’t that not enough?” Hunter asked lightly, as if he was talking about the weather.

“What you have done is unacceptable! You have made them blind and mute!” Gam ma Danny roared as well. Thirty percent of the war prisoners came from his own pack, thus he felt so bad to see his fellow warriors in such condition. “How shameless you are to torture them like that?!”

Hearing that, Hunter’s eyes grew cold, which actually made them held back all the curses they wanted to spit out.

“You called shameless because I tortured them?” Hunter raised his brows, his voice grew colder and colder, but he didn’t hold back when he scoffed at them. “What about the lycan warriors that you decapitated? Do you have any war prisoners for my pack?”

They were stunned when they heard this. Hunter was right. They didn’t even think to capture a lycan warrior alive, but even when they did so, they would annihilate them right away, getting rid of them in the most brutal way because of how afraid they were to this kind of shifter, since they were too strong.

Therefore, when Hunter had a good number of war prisoner, they didn’t have any. It was a contrast that they just realized it now.

However, Aiden couldn't accept it. "If you returned them back in this condition, what the use of them?!" he roared angrily. His eyes held so much hatred and enmity toward Hunter.

And yet, the alpha lycan only chuckled. "That's not my business. If you don't want them, you can leave them here. What? Do you want me to manage your pack's affair too? Don't you have enough affair already?"
