Chapter 120

"This fucking imbecile...!" Hunter hissed viciously when he received the invitation letter from the Golden Claw pack. It was a festivity for the alpha's firstborn. The same festivity like the one they made when they finally agreed for peace treaty.

However, in the letter too, Aiden told Hunter that he would give the necklace to Lilac when they were there. Of course, Hunter could see through him very clearly and it didn't take a genius to tell what this imbecile of shifter actually wanted. This man simply couldn't stop being an ass for once.

Hunter was pissed off with this suggestion.

Because it also meant he couldn't give the necklace to Lilac just like how he had promised her. He told her that he would give her the necklace within two to three days, but now, not only it would be postponed for a week, but they needed to come to the Golden Claw pack too in order to get it, in pretense to attend for the festivity.

Of course, inside the letter, it was well written and actually used beautiful choice of words to conceal the true meaning of it.

"This man is really pissing me off right now."

Rye chuckled when he read the content of the letter and then gave it to Darren to see. "He is indeed looking for death." Rye knew why Hunter was vexed. Apparently, that man still not let go of Lilac and even if Rye could tell let alone the alpha.

It was very obvious that he wanted more and expected more from the luna.

"I really feel like I am going to kill him," Hunter grunted, he walked toward the side of the training ground, taking a towel to wipe his sweat. He looked very angry, even the warriors tried to avoid him, because they could sense their alpha's foul mood.

"Great. Should we plan for a massacre during the festivity?" Rye asked and got a smack behind his head from the beta, as Darren approached the alpha.

All of them knew, Hunter was not serious with what he said. If he wanted many innocent lives met their demise and razed the other pack, he wouldn't have done something so unthinkable like killing his own father.

But really, the alpha was contemplating and entertaining the idea of that... just in case, that man crossed the line. He could lose control too, right?

"So, will you attend this?" Darren looked calm like always. He put down the letter and focused his attention on the alpha.

Hunter contemplated about this for a while, before a mischievous smirk appeared on the corner of his lips when he saw his mate was walking out of the inner training ground with Raya and the other two girls. They were talking about something and this made Lilac laughed.

Her laughter could be heard by the alpha even though his surroundings were very loud. Or maybe, it was only in his mind. He didn't actually hear it, but because he saw her laughter, his mind immediately remembered the sound of it.

Surely, her laughter was his favorite sound.

"If she wanted to enjoy the festivity, there is no reason for me not to go," Hunter said gently, as his eyes met with Lilac, who was smiling back at him.

Lilac now had come to the training ground very often, though it was still so early to see any progress from her, but she could blend with the other well with the help of Rye's sister. The alpha needed to thank her later.

More so, Lilac looked healthier, since she had connection with her beast more deeply. This was how a shifter should be. You should find balance between your beast and human side.

Hunter then walked toward his mate, who looked embarrassed because Raya and Lena teased her.

"Do you want to walk with me?" Hunter asked Lilac, but he didn't wait for her answer when he grabbed her hand and took her away from the other two of her friends.

"I thought you asked me earlier," Lilac retorted. "I have not yet given you the answer."

Hunter looked over his shoulder and grinned. "Will you reject me?" He took her to the forest behind the training ground, the first place, where he trained her before.

"How can I reject an alpha? I will be cursed then..." Lilac replied playfully.

With that the two of them shifted into their beasts and let loose, as they ran alongside the forest. This forest was the place, where Hunter had known like the back of his hand. He knew every nook and cranny of this area, therefore, there was nothing new for him.

However, being with Lilac made things become clearer and as if he just saw it for the first time. Everything he saw was beautiful and to see her smaller beast tried to chase after him, as she nipped on his hindlegs to make him slow down was very cute.

She could her beast form for a little bit longer now. The longest she could beast form was two hours.

After two hours had passed, Lilac shifted into her human form and then panted, but she looked so beautiful under the sunlight, her skin was glowing and her smell was very

Hunter came toward her and then nudged her body, as he shifted into his human form too. "Let's walk there." He pointed to the left side. "There is a river there. We can clean ourselves."

Lilac closed her eyes and he was right, she could hear the stream of the river and more so, she really needed to clean herself because of the sweat from her training and also the dirt when she shifted into her beast form.

"Okay, let's go..." Lilac said lazily, as she stretched out both of her arms, so Hunter could pull her up. She looked like a kitten now.

Very adorable and lovely, Hunter really wanted to devour her...
