Chapter 145

Chapter 145

They brushed this topic in the past and when Lilac said she needed time to know the truth or whether or not she wanted to know her real father at all, Hunter put down the matter.

However, for him to bring this topic again made Lilac frowned, especially when this topic came out of nowhere.

“Do you want me to know my father because of the ceremony? Is there a tradition here to have a family to attend or do something?” That was the first thing that came to her mind, it made sense since they talked about the ceremony earlier.

Hunter chuckled lightly, he knew he shouldn’t do that, but the look on her face was very adorable when she was being this clueless. “There is no such thing, little one. It has nothing to do with that. Even if there was and you didn’t want your father there, no tradition could force you.”

“Really?” Lilac frowned. “It’s so wrong to go against tradition.” See? Luna Jasmine always taught her that and now it became part of her personality. That luna had dug so deep into her life and she couldn’t get her out of her mind completely. She was the one, who had molded Lilac into the person she was right now,

“I am the alpha of the pack, I can do as much for my woman.” Hunter looked calm and collected, but when he spoke again, he was serious with his offer. “This is nothing to do with the ceremony, but there is decision to be made and I need your standpoint in this matter.”

Lilac scrunched her brows. “And this matter related to my father?”

“Yes,” Hunter replied. “This matter related to your father.”

Lilac thought about it for a while. “Okay.” There was no harm of knowing her father, right? She only didn’t want to deal with him after knowing how he had abandoned her when she was little, but right now Hunter asked for her help and she could do something to alleviate a little bit of his headache, so why not?

“Are you sure?” Hunter wanted to back down now Lilac agreed to him. He simply didn’t want to hurt her even more, since she was having a bad day early in the morning.

“I am,” Lilac said, she could sense his uneasiness and then pecked his lips. “Tell me about him. I am ready.”

Hunter stared at his woman and smiled. “Can you kiss me a little bit longer?”

Lilac laughed at his childishness, but she did it anyway. But, she forgot how insatiable this man could be, as he deepened the kiss and placed his hand on the back of her head to steady her.

However, thing heated so fast when he flipped her body and hovered above her. Their bodies felt very hot and every touch felt like a burning inferno that needed to be tamed.

It was uncertain, who started it first, but a moment later they were already on the throes of passion. Lilac curled her body under his impatient thrust, as they found pleasure in each other.

“Hunter...” Lilac called his name when she came undone and he followed after. She could feel how warm she was after that and how embarrassing her position, followed by her concern about what if someone else was listening to them right now.

Hunter laughed when he heard all of that and kissed her forehead. “So what if there was someone listening to us? They should be the one, who was ashamed, not you little one.” Hunter licked her sweat and cradled her in his arms.

There was not a single fabric that attached to their bodies at this moment and this made Lilac felt even more embarrassed to see his naked body pressed against hers.

When they were on it, she didn’t think much about it, she even wanted to see more, but right now when her mind was clear, she didn’t think this was appropriate.

However, Hunter didn’t seem to mind it and this put her mind at ease, he even licked her body, which Lilac found it weird, but she didn’t object it since she felt good with his aftercare...

Hunter pulled out and Lilac winced a little when he did that. “Did I hurt you?” Hunter asked with concern/in his voice and was glad when Lilac shook her head.

They stayed like that for another minute before they brought back the topic that was being postponed because there was another urgent thing they had to be done first, such as their desire for each other...

Chapter 145

“So, who is my father. His identity must be the main point of this, right?” Lilac snuggled against him, as she looked for a comfortable spot to hug his big body.

“Your father is Kellan.”

Hunter held her closely against him when he said this. His voice was calm, but steady, as he stared at her expression after she learned this truth.

51%

“Your father is Kellan and Grace is your step sister.” Hunter watched the serenity in her eyes turned from shock into mortified when he told her that.

This was the truth that she had to learn, he needed her to know this because he would take her feeling into consideration when he made a decision about what he was going to do with Kellan and Grace.

“You are not serious, right?” Lilac felt her throat was tightened when she asked this.

She knew how ridiculous it sounded when she questioned him, because this was not time for a joke and Hunter didn’t have such bad taste for humor. There was nothing humorous about it anyway.

“What it made me?” Lilac looked at how calm Hunter was when he explained it to her. How this whole thing would affect her.

“Kellan will be punished as a traitor after we got all the information we needed, but a punishment for a traitor will implicate the whole family. They need to be executed too.” Hunter caressed her cheek. “In this case, no one should know about the truth, but because of that too, you can’t tell anyone about the fact you have lived in this pack when you were little. No one should pull the string between you two.”

Lilac understood the complexity of the situation, she nodded. “I understood.”

However, even if by some twisted fate people knew about this fact, Hunter was willing to bend the rule for her. There was no one could touch her or even demand it. He would make sure about that.

Therefore, that was not the main point of why he wanted Lilac to learn the truth about it, because his aimed was for her to understand the decision he would make and he wished she wouldn’t have any regret in the future.

“Once everything was done, whether we knew the truth or not, I am going to execute Kellan, Grace and Tania” Hunter caressed her cheek lightly. “Which meant, I will kill your whole family, your real father. How you feel about it?”

How Lilac felt to be with someone, who killed her own father? That was the real question from Hunter.
