“You have expected this to happen, right?” Lilac asked in low voice, she had to tiptoe, so she could reach his ear.

Right now, she was walking on the mountain road, while the warriors had gone ahead to chase after Aiden. Lilac didn't need to come, but Hunter asked her and the way he looked at her, she knew almost immediately that this mischievous alpha had planned something. “Lower your voice, people can hear you,” Hunter said, whispering back to Lilac.

She looked around, but the people nearby would be out of earshot from them. “Tell me, what is your plan?” Lilac couldn't help with her curiosity. “What is it? Why didn't you tell me anything about this?”

“To surprise you.”

“I am more annoyed than be surprised.” Lilac narrowed her eyes at him.

“You are so adorable when you are annoyed.” Hunter kissed her cheek. “I should have done it more often.”

Lilac made a face when she heard that and this caused the alpha lycan to laugh, despite their current situation, he seemed not care enough with the fact Aiden had run away and all the people around the looked at at the couple with curiosity. What they were talking about until that scary alpha lycan could laugh like that?

“Tell me what is your plan?” Lilac then touched her stomach. “I think the baby too.”

Wanted to know

Hunter kissed her even more, until she laughed and asked him to stop. From outsider perspective, the two of them looked like they were going to a picnic instead of helping them searching for Aiden.

Yet, Hunter had never said he was coming here to search for Aiden. It was too good for him to be searched by him and his pregnant woman. There was no way he would put Lilac into that arduous effort only to look for him.

Of course, the alpha lycan asked her out like this because he wanted to know more about her.

“I have showed you the places that dear to me, why don’t you show me yours?” While they were here, Hunter wanted to see how Lilac lived after she left the lycan pack because of her shitty father. “Have you been here before?”

“Of course,” Lilac said, she pointed her finger to her left side. “There is a river over there and I used to go with Aria,” she said. She grimaced with the mention of her name. It still hurt her to know that the person she considered as friend had betrayed her, not only once, but twice. Even after her convincing apology toward her.

The sadness in Lilac’s eyes didn’t go unnoticed by Hunter. “Do you care to show me the river?”

Lilac’s eyes flickered and the smile returned to her lips when she realized, she was no longer alone now. She had Hunter with her and this man would always be by her side. He would never betray her.

“Sure.” Lilac was happy again, as she guided him toward the river under people’s scrutinized eyes.

They couldn't tell why Lilac was so happy to be with the lycan when that was actually not her place to begin with. Wasn't the lycan was so barbaric it would make you trembled once you knew them better?

Hence, they couldn't comprehend how Lilac looked so free to be the luna of that kind of pack.

"Now, tell me." Lilac showed him the river.

The surface of it glinted under the sunlight and this place was exactly the same like the last time she was here. The gentle wind that swept her dress and cheeks and the warmth light of the sun, the smell of the grass and wet soil. It brought a lot of memories for Lilac.

Because she didn't remember her life before this pack when she met with Hunter, thus her childhood memories started here and the first person that would appear when she remembered the past was; Aria.

Therefore, Lilac wanted to distract her mind from thinking about her childhood bestfriend and looked for her, wanting to know whether she was alright after that night. She shouldn't have cared about him anymore.

"I will tell you only if you kissed me."

Lilac tiptoed, but he back away before Hunter could grab her and prolong their kiss. "Now, tell me."

"You are being cheeky," said with a sigh. In the end, he told her about the plan between him and alpha Ramon and what would happen after this. "You don't need to worry, alpha Ramon's people will catch him. With him trying to escape the trial, it will put him in the worse position and the punishment will be more severe."

Hunter took the roundabout route to take down Aiden, but he actually enjoyed this deliberate game himself.

"What did you offer to alpha Ramon in return?" Lilac asked her curiosity away.

"Your help?" Lilac furrowed her brows. "What kind of help did you offer to him." This must be a big of a deal because there was no way Hunter's help would be something cheap. There must be more into it.

"His claim to this pack," Hunter finally replied, which shocked Lilac. She was unable to uttered a single word for a while, which made Hunter frowned. "What?"

Lilac shook her head. "Hunter, you went too far."

Hunter furrowed his brows even harder. "I thought you wanted to get your revenge."

Lilac shook her head again. "In what way do you think I want revenge?"

"They hurt you. I don't like people hurting you."

"But, you sacrificed the whole pack, Hunter. Do you know that?"

"I know."

Lilac opened her mouth, but she couldn't even string a sentence to talk him out of it. Hunter didn't see his action was wrong.

Yes, lycan was a cruel creature and they were very possessive to their woman, but then... should Hunter take this too far?

"Hunter, you need to stop this."

Chapter 162

Lilac didn't expect at all that thing would turn out like this. She didn't even realize since when Hunter was holding a grudge toward this pack on her behalf. Of course, she was flattered for him to be angry for her, but then the implication of what he was going to do was so great.

It would change the whole pack completely and what he meant by helping alpha Ramon to claim this pack? Would there be another war?

Lilac didn't want that to happen. The last war had left her miserable, not only her but also a lot of people. She didn't wish for that to happen again, no matter what the reason, especially if she was the cause of it.

"Hunter, I don't want you to do this, are you going to cause another war?" Lilac approached him, the beauty of this place was overlooked by her anxiety. She stared at Hunter's dark eyes.

The man actually raised his hand and touched her cheek. "I will destroy everything that hurt you. Anyone, who hurt you."

The only reason why he had not yet killed Killian was because of Lilac, but once she was no longer wanted him anymore and was sure with her decision. The man would have long gone before anyone could notice it.

Hunter was thinking the worst death ever, the humiliated one, but he couldn't make it public, since Lilac wouldn't be able to watch it, her heart was too kind to witness such cruelty.

Maybe his method was indeed too barbaric for her and that was what Lilac was thinking right now.

But, if you remembered, Hunter was the man, who had killed his own father, just because he always acted playful, it didn't change that fact at all.

"Hunter, please... no more war..." She didn't expect this from Hunter.

The narration about him was always this playful, but stern man, scary, but warm at the same time. But now, Lilac could see it clearly why people at the lycan pack feared him. There was the reason for them to fear their alpha and obey him without question and now, she was able to understand.

However, before they could talk further, they could hear the commotion in the distance.

"What is that?" Lilac instinctively looked at the direction where the loud noise came. "Is that part of your plan?"

If there would be a commotion, it would happen not here. More so, from the sound of it, it didn't feel right.

"What is going on?" Lilac frowned, she could see the warriors turned into beasts and from afar there was this heavy sound like hundred of beasts came approaching. "Hunter? Are you sure this is not part of your plan?"

"No." Hunter narrowed his eyes. He could already smell the scent of hundred different beasts, all of them were heading here, but from the reaction of the other warriors, it seemed, they didn't know who were coming too. "Go back to the pack house. I will meet you there."

Hunter mind link Gavin, the warrior that was in charge for the safety of the luna. The man came with four other warriors and they escorted Lilac out of here.

"Hunter, come with me too, I don't feel good about this," Lilac said hastily, she grabbed Hunter's hand and pulled him with her. She didn't want to leave him here.

"I will be fine, little one. I will return as soon as I learn what is happening there." Hunter kissed her forehead. Just earlier, she reprimanded him because of his plan with alpha Ramon to take down this pack.

He thought, he had made a grief mistake for making that decision and Lilac was going to hate him for it, but who would have thought that this woman would be scared so much to leave him behind.

"Hunter, you said it yourself, this is not part of your plan, it meant there must be something wrong. Let's go. You can't be here." Lilac felt like she wanted to cry, while the loud noise was getting closer, not only that, she could hear vicious roar and growl from the beast that approaching them.

"Go now, Lilac."

Lilac shook her head, she was going to cry. It seemed, her fear was greater than her anger toward her mate.

On the other hand, Hunter couldn't make her leave in this rate, unless he used this reason. "You are pregnant, Lilac. Do you want to hurt our baby?" Hunter hugged her and whispered to her ear.

Lilac was still in the early stage of pregnancy, thus her scent changed very subtly, aside from her own mate, no one would notice this.

"Go to the carriage now. I can protect myself." He let her go. "Take her with the carriage." He spoke to Gavin this time.

Lilac was torn, but Hunter was right. He was a great fighter. Whatever happened, he would be fine, right?

+5

Leaving with no other choice, Lilac went with Gavin and the other four warriors. She didn't shift into her beast, because it would harm her baby, thus she chose to enter the carriage as per Hunter's instruction.

Gavin was a little bit confused why would Lilac take the carriage, since she could shift and it would be faster if she ran in her beast, but he didn't question it, after all, the alpha had told him to do so.

Once Lilac was inside the carriage, Gavin took her away from there as soon as possible, while the other four warriors had shifted into their beasts and ran along the carriage for protection from all sides.

On the other hand, once Hunter was sure Lilac had been away, he turned around and shifted into his beast. His lycan beast looked larger than any normal werewolf, and then faster. In no time, the alpha lycan had reached the center of the commotion.

But to his surprised, the battle had started. From the look of it, they were under attack... but, wait?

Hunter didn't immediately jump into action, where he started to fight as well, but he took his time to observe the situation.

It didn't take long for him to understand what was going on and where he had miscalculated his plan. He cursed himself in his mind.

What agitated the alpha lycan was the fact of their attacker was the lycan! There were hundred of them charged forward to fight their way to the pack.

Was this only a coincidence, or someone pulled the string from behind?

Chapter 163

Chapter 163

The situation in the pack house was not really great, because they already heard about what happened when they looked for Aiden.

They were attacked!

It was still not sure who had attacked them, because the battle was still going on and right now Lilac could only stand in front of the door, staring at the entrance of the pack house, so she would know right away when Hunter returned. She couldn't be calm and no matter what Gavin said, she didn't want to listen until she saw Hunter with her own eyes that he was fine.

In the end, Gavin, Rye and the rest of the warriors, could only stand there by her side. Needless to say, they were also worried about their alpha.

Especially when the sun was almost set and the sky was painted in red color that reminded you of blood.

Lilac didn't budge from her spot and Rye was amazed of how she could do that. He tried to lighten up her mood and make a joke, but that was not the thing that Lilac needed right now.

And then she caught that scent. She was familiar with this scent because they were so close in the past and a second later, she caught her figure. She was standing not too far from her, looked a little bit fidgeting and when she was about to smile at Lilac, she simply looked at different direction.

It made her stomach churned to see Aria was there. She was the last person that she wanted to see at this moment when her mood had hit the bottom.

However, as if she couldn't get the cue, Aria instead walking toward Lilac and tried to make a small talk with her, but thankfully, Rye stepped forward and dealt with her before Lilac showed her anger.

"Lilac..." Aria called her, her voice was shaking, but Lilac ignored her completely, treating her like a wind. She was nothing in her eyes and she made sure she displayed the message clearly. "I know it will be hard for you to forgive me, but can we talk for a while? I will explain to you about everything."

Lilac didn't see there was the need to hear the explanation, thus she waved her hand, indicating for the warrior to take her away.

Aria was surprised by how cold Lilac was. She looked like someone else at this point, because Lilac from her memories wouldn't turn her away without even a single glance.

"Lilac! Lilac! Will you forget about everything that we have gone through!? You are like a sister to me, I know I am wrong, but can't you give me one more chance to redeem my mistake?" Aria still tried to fight against the warrior, but there was no way she could win that. They were warrior and what was important was; they were lycan. "Lilac! Forgive me! Give me second chance."

But, the lycan dragged her away faster and Rye could only shake his head and glance at their newly appointed luna. "Are you okay?" After all, Rye had learned that Aria was her childhood friend.

"I am fine."

Thankfully, they didn't need to wait for long, because when the sky had turned completely dark, the commotion sound in the distance finally ceased down and the information came flooding. They managed to make their intruder left the pack and now they were in pursue mode, where they would chase them into the forest.

"Where is Hunter?" Lilac asked immediately to the messenger. "Do you know what happened to him?"

But before he could answer that question, he suddenly nodded politely to the person who was standing behind Lilac.

"Looking for me?" Hunter's voice suddenly could be heard from behind her.

He was this close, but she couldn't smell his scent at all and when she turned around, she could understand why.

His body reeked of blood and this gave Lilac a fright, but Hunter immediately explained to her.

"Don't worry, this is not my blood." If this was not his blood, it meant, it was the enemy's blood. Just how many enemies that met their demise under his hand?

But, Lilac didn't want to talk about that, she was only glad to have her mate back, thus despite how dirty and the bloodstain on his body that could make you crinkled your nose, she threw herself at him and hugged him tightly without saying anything.

"And now you also got dirty," Hunter said helplessly. He couldn't help, but hugged her back.

Initially, he didn't intend to see her and wanted to wash himself first, but he saw her worried expression and then overheard the question, thus he didn't want to prolong her suffering further

Rye, acted like a good gamma he was, dragged the other warriors to leave their luna and alpha and gave them some privacy.

"Now because you are gotten dirty too, let's take a bath together." Here, Hunter's playful side came to the surface.

Lilac wanted to ask what happened and who had attacked them, but she swallowed back all the question down her throat, because her question could wait.

The pack was in uproar because of the attack and alpha James was so busy to order his warriors around to heightened their guard.

Meanwhile, a few other people were injured, some were dead and the other alphas demanded to know what was going on and whether or not Aiden was part of it.

However, here they were, the alpha and the luna of the lycan pack, undressed each other and dipped themselves under the tub.

Hunter was very careful with Lilac, as he let her to rest her back against his chest after he thoroughly cleaned her and himself.

Lilac felt relax, her anxiety was thrown out of the window now her mate was close to her again.

"What happened, Hunter? Did you know about this?"

Hunter's eyes turned dark. "No. I don't. But, they are definitely lycan."

Needless to say, the lycan that attacked this pack was the same with the one that had attacked them as well, the unknown pack of lycan that worked for Kellan.

Hunter's pack should be the only pack of lycan in this whole realm, but as it turned out, there was another lycan pack out there that they didn't know.

The people from today would be shocked too to learn about this, but thankfully this topic had been- brought up and the existence of another pack of lycan had been known by the other alphas, or else, they would put the blame on Hunter and he would be hard pressed with this issue.

"Now, you are clean." Hunter chuckled sniffing at her and kissed her breast. They were still naked and the alpha was helping his mate to dry herself.

"H

Lilac blushed when Hunter kissed her breast, she used both of her arms to cover herself, which made him laughed.

"What do you want to cover, sweetheart? I have seen everything." In fact, Hunter had kissed every inch of her skin and he would do it all day without getting tired if Lilac let him.

"I am tired," Lilac said sullenly.

She had been waiting for him for a whole day in anxiety, scared if there was something bad happened to him, thus when she finally saw him again, she felt extremely relief and the exhaustion started to catch up with her.

“Sure, let’s rest. You need to sleep.” Hunter kissed her forehead now and diligently wiped her, this time he didn’t try to do anything. His woman was tired and he was not a monster who would force himself on her. Well, at least not today.

Hunter couldn’t continue with his tease too because he didn’t trust himself. Bathing together without doing anything was already his limit, more than that he would have hurt Lilac with his selfishness.

When they were like this, what happened today seemed like a dream, because they were so peaceful, as if they didn’t have care for the world.

However, once Lilac was sleeping, Hunter opened his eyes and got off the bed. There were a few things that he needed to sort out.

Lilac must be very tired, this pregnancy was rather hard on her and she became easily lethargic until she forgot their conversation before this about how Hunter wanted this pack to be reclaimed by alpha Ramon.

“Sleep tight my love,” Hunter said, kissing her forehead and then got off the bed. He told two of the warriors to stay there, making sure his woman was fine and then shifted into his beast, because it would be faster to reach the spot where he promised he would meet with him.

Today event was something Hunter didn't expect at all. It was not his plan and he was also surprised he lost Aiden.

Yes, because of the attack, they forgot about Aiden and he managed to escape during the chaos.

"You are late," said a man from the shadow. He was wearing hoodie that could cover his face, but it was not necessary, since as a shifter, you could recognize your opponent by their scent if you were familiar with the said person.

"My mate just fell asleep," Hunter replied casually and the man emerged from the dark. Upon closer look when the bright moon above their head shone this empty alley, you could recognize the man, who was talking with Hunter. It was alpha Ramon.

Alpha Ramon could only scoff, but he changed his attitude when he spoke under Hunter's glaring look. He was not going to get himself killed today, since he knew how much this man loved that woman, despite the fact that woman was Aiden's destined mate.

"We lost Aiden." Ramon looked troubled when he reported this, but Hunter had expected this result. This situation was out of their hands, they didn't predict the attack from the lycan.

"What have you found out?" Hunter asked.

"Nothing much. The attacker was the lycan. Two alphas assumed they came from your pack, but because you were there to fight them off along with the other warriors and even killed most of them, the accusation was proven invalid."

Their original plan was for Ramon to pretend to help Aiden to run away, adding punishment to his crime because he was trying to runaway from the trial.

However, who would have thought they were going to lose him for real. This was annoying when your plan didn't turn out to be how you expected.

"Do you know where those lycans came from?" Hunter asked, while he was deep in thought.

"I am not sure, as far as I know, I have never seen any new pack nearby. They could be rogue though, not a pack."

That was a possibility.

"What about this pack?"

Hunter stared at him for a while. "Lay low. Alpha James is not as stupid as his son."

After saying that, Hunter turned around and left the scene. That was his order for alpha Ramon. That was right, Hunter was ordering one of the alphas.

Lilac was not even aware there was this kind of relationship between the two, because the next morning when she woke up, she started to throw up for an hour straight until a healer was being called and she finally could drink down her concoction.

"Feeling better?" Hunter asked, he wiped her sweat and put a cold wet towel on her forehead, so she would feel good.

"Hm..." Lilac curled her body.

"Rest, I will ask someone to prepare your meal."

Because of her current condition, she forgot again to ask about yesterday and now she fell asleep again.

Not long after, Rye knocked on the door and informed Hunter that alpha James wanted to see him in
