Chapter 131 - Book-2 -46

Chapter-46

“Calm down, my tiger. We won’t want you to waste your power now, do we? Look, everyone is ready to listen to you.” Daniel Neptune said, hugging her close to his body, as he was the only one who dared to go close to her, being a witch-king of the dark world.

Seeing that everyone has calmed down and was not fighting anymore, Victoria finally calmed down, all the furniture getting back in its place.

Laila, on the other side, who saw this form of Jasmine for the first time, fell to the ground, looking at Victoria with horror-filled eyes.

Well, it was a good decision that I had decided to not come in between her and Alexander’s relationship, or what she would’ve done to me? Laila thought in her head before looking at Victoria, who was standing there with her eyes closed.

“Leave me and Laila alone in the room. I want to talk to her without being interrupted. You guys can do that, right?”

“But, Jasmine-” Alexander started, making Laila roll her eyes at him. She knew she was Victoria only and to say they had been trying to pretend that she was Jasmine. Anyone could see the change in the way he looked at her after that party. Terrible actors.

“I think, we should give her some time. It’s better than her using her energy and harm herself in the process, right?” Ashton said, and though Alexander was not willing to leave her alone with Laila, he still complied.

“Alexander? What is happening there? Is our daughter okay?” Martha immediately stood when she saw everyone coming back, including Ashton and Daniel Neptune this time.

“Respect to the King of the dark witched and Vampire species,” Martha said before nodding her head, making both Ashton and Neptune nod at them before all of them sat in the hall, dreading the situation in the room.

Meanwhile, in the room, Laila sat by the door, not daring to budge from her earlier position. After some time when everyone left, and she checked with her energy and Magna that no one was trying to eavesdrop on their conversation, Victoria turned towards Laila with an annoyed look before she asked her to come and sit on the chair rather than the floor.

“Hahaha... I think I am good here.” Laila said, fidgeting a bit now, not knowing what to say to her.

“Well, are you waiting for my invitation to start speaking again? What did you want to say? Make it fast. I am not in a very pleasant mood today.” Victoria said, tilting her head and looking at Laila with her predatory eyes.

“I, actually, came to say thank you to you for bearing me for so long, and sorry for all the things I did with you and Alexander, and all the times I tried to come between you guys,” Laila said, her eyes showing nothing but remorse.

“And?” Victoria asked, knowing there was more to it.

“And I am also sorry for eyeing the throne. I was filled with greed that my father had planted in me, that if Alexander doesn't find his mate, then I can become his queen, and that he will have no choice but to marry me because his parents had promised my dad about it. However, now that I have found my mate and experienced a little of mate bond, I know that there is nothing more important in the world than living with the love of your life happily.” Laila said with a dazed look on her face, and Victoria knew that whatever she was saying was from the bottom of her heart and was not making up things to trick her.

“I have decided to leave the Pearly Canines and start afresh with my mate. I have told my mate about everything I did in the past, and though he was angry a bit when I explained it to him, he forgave me after some time.” Laila said, making Victoria nod at her in understanding.

The things that Laila has done in the past were not something that could be easily forgiven, From trying to drug her Alpha king and trying to bed him to kill her Luna queen, she has done everything, and if a person is willing to forgive her then it is already a blessing for her.

“You don’t have to leave the kingdom, you know,” Victoria said after thinking for a long time. This place has been her home since she was born, and though she was a bit evil in the past, it doesn’t mean that she can not be given a chance to start a new.

‘She is too soft, I am telling you. I don’t approve of her decision.’

“Well, no wonder that everyone was giving her such a hard time for so long. I don’t agree too.’

‘Don’t judge her like that. She is a queen, and she will have to think about others before she thinks about herself. This is her own decision.’

Her powers said in her head, making her roll her eyes at their opinions. As if she was dying for their approval.

‘Who allowed you guys to talk in my head? Am I not having enough hard time already because of you guys?’ Victoria said in her head, making everyone roll their eyes at her before they started chatting with each other again.

Good. Now they are ganging up on me and ignoring me. Just amazing. Victoria thought, annoyed.

Blocking their voices in her head as they were enjoying their own personal party, Victoria focussed on the girl in front of her with a soft smile on her face.

“Honestly, I have wronged you soo much that I don’t think I’ll be able to live with it without feeling guilty about it. It will be worse if I’ll see you guys daily and it will make me feel bad. Alexander is the best king, and you are the best queen this kingdom can get, and seeing that I once tried to kill you, I don’t think I’ll be able to bear with it.” Laila confessed, making Victoria nod at her in understanding.

“Also, my mate doesn’t belong here. He is a beta of a pack, and it’s better I move with him rather than making him leave his position and come to me. His name is Blake.” Laila said with a soft smile on her face, an indication that she was already deep in love with that Blake guy.

“I understand,” Victoria said before standing from her seat and going towards the window. Tracing her fingers on the window, she opened it with a jerk, closing her eyes frustratingly when the window glass broke and fell in the garden.

She is still to get used to her extended powers and witch powers entering a new domain.

“If you don’t mind, can I ask you what is happening to you? I mean, you just floated in the air when you were angry, and that Vampire and that witch were trying to calm you, not to mention Alexander, who looked scared as hell.” Laila asked, and though Victoria knew that Laila wasn’t asking with mal intentions, she still refused to tell her anything and just smiled at her.

“It’s better if you do not know anything about it. If you’ll know, then it will put your life at a risk, and that’s the last thing we want after you've found your mate only recently, right?” Victoria said, making Laila nod her head as she stood to leave the room.

However, once again before she could leave the room, Ashton and Neptune barged inside the room, with alert eyes.

“What happened? What was the noise? Why did I hear the sound of something breaking?” Neptune asked, lifting Victoria in the air to check for any wound.

“I opened the window, and well, it broke,” Victoria said with a sad look on her face, making Ashton and Neptune look at each other before both of them sighed loudly.

“Don’t worry, we’ll help you control these powers, okay? And for that, we are taking you to somewhere else.” Neptune said and was about to say further, however, stopped when he remembered the presence of someone else in the room.

“Why don’t you leave if you are done here?” Neptune asked with a hard gaze, his dominant king’s voice replacing the soft tender voice that he uses on Victoria.

Feeling scared all of a sudden, Laila practically ran out of the room without even looking back.

She was sure about one thing at least. Whatever has happened to Victoria has made her ten times stronger than before, and it was a good choice that she has decided to give up on Alexander, or she can't even imagine the cruel ways in which Victoria might've killed her.

MY PERSONAL LYCAN KING

Chapter 132 - Book-2 -47

Chapter-47

"So, what's the plan?" Victoria asked after she saw Laila running out of the room like her pants were on fire.

"We will discuss the plan later. Someone is waiting for you downstairs, whom I think you will be enthralled to meet." Neptune said with a soft smile on his face.

"What are you talking about? Who is waiting for me downstairs? Is it Alpha Sam and Catherine or Milly?" Victoria asked as she checked her reflection in the mirror to see that she looked presentable.

"None of them. Someone of more importance." Neptune said before nodding at Ashton, who smirked at him, and put a blindfold around Victoria's eyes.

They knew that they were going through some tough situations, but it's moments like these that should be cherished and well-loved. Thus, they couldn't miss the opportunity to see a flabbergasted and amazed Victoria when she'll see her parents in real for the first time.

"What are you doing Ashton? I am not a kid." Victoria said and was about to remove the blindfold from around her eyes when Ashton's whisper in her ears stopped her from doing so.

"I know, sweetheart. You are far more mature than a kid, and we all can see that, but we want to surprise you. You can do that much for us, right?" He said, making Victoria blush at his mature comment that didn't go unnoticed by both the men who just smiled at her.

Even though she loves Alexander, it doesn't mean she won't feel the attraction towards them. She is bound to fall for both the men because of the bond that her powers feel. She will feel every bit of it as if it's her feelings.

"Let's go now," Neptune said, making Ashton nod, who guided her out of the rooms.

“If I fall from the stairs, I swear, I’ll make you guys pay for it.” Victoria threatened, making both of them chuckle before she was lifted in the air by Ashton, who carried her downstairs, bridal style.

Entering the hallways with her in his arms, Ashton smiled at Alexander, who had a stiff expression on his face.

The emotions he was feeling right now were beyond jealousy. However, understanding the condition Victoria was in, he knew he needs to keep control over his emotions, or he will screw things really bad.

The more he watched their interaction, the stronger his resolution to find the cure was becoming. He was now becoming more adamant than ever to find the solution to this mate thing because he was sure about one thing at least, and that thing is, he won’t be able to share Victoria with anybody.

Honestly, he wasn’t even sure how Daniel Neptune and Ashton were cooperating so well with this mate thing.

“That’s because we have a deal between us. We won’t touch her inappropriately and beyond limitations, until this mate thing is solved,” Daniel whispered in Alexander’s ears, annoying him more when he realized that Daniel has read his thoughts once again.

“Are you ready, Victoria?” Ashton asked, placing her on the ground. And Alexander knew, if her eyes were opened, then she would’ve rolled her eyes at his childishness already.

“If you are done with your childish attitude, then can you remove my blindfold now?” Victoria asked, smiling at his behavior.

“Fine, I am going to remove it now,” Ashton said with a sigh before removing the blindfold from around her eyes.

Adjusting her eyes to the light, she turned around as she noticed she was facing the opposite direction. However, as soon as she turned around, she felt like she was in a dream again. There standing in front of her was none other than her parents, that she remembered from her dream and the photo in Daniel's house.

Gazing closely at them, she smiled before looking at Alexander for approval or hint that she wasn't dreaming again.

"Does that mean, the voice that I heard when I was in the dream and struggling witty Madeline-"

"-Was of your mom," Alexander confirmed, making her smile in delight.

"Mom, Dad," Victoria said in a small voice, afraid that they will disappear if she says their name loudly.

Seeing their beautiful daughter up close for the first time, Nelson and Martha were no better. Their eyes tearing as Martha whimpered her name softly, "Victoria, my child,"

Walking closer to where her mom and dad were standing, she stood a few meters away from them before stopping completely. "Why are you guys here?" She asked, her eyes tearing but expression becoming harder than before.

"Victoria, what do you mean by -" Martha started but was cut off by Victoria's next words.

"What I meant was, why are you here now? You were not here when Jenny and Harry died, and I was on the verge of killing myself. You were not here when I was fighting off these things transitions from human to different species alone. You were not here when I was feeling lost and thought my life was worthless. You were not here when I was dying because of that sacrifice spell. You were not here when my body was rotting, and my heart was almost destroyed. You were not here when I didn't wake up for 6 months straight. You weren't here!" Victoria screamed, her powerful scream echoing in the hall and whole mansion, making Theodore and Rsolaine, who didn't know what was going on, come out of their rooms.

"Victoria, calm down. They had a reason to do so. They didn't want your grandfather to know where you were, and that's why to protect you from him, they sacrificed their love and kept you away from themselves for so long." Alexander tried to console Victoria, however, what he didn't know was that there was more truth and secrets to their reasons, of why they always kept her away from themselves.

"That is not the prime reason why they kept me away from themselves. Right, mom and dad?" Victoria asked, and though they were shameful of what they did and what happened, they couldn't help but nod their heads, not wanting to hide the truth from their daughter anymore.

The truth, that was a secret between Azrael, Martha, and Nelson.

MY PERSONAL LYCAN KING

Chapter 133 - Book-2 -48

Chapter-48

"What secret are you talking about?" Alexander asked with squinting brows, Victoria's bitter smile, saying stories.

"I think my parents would be thrilled to tell you about that," Victoria said before leaning her head on Ashton, who was standing the closest to her, not wanting to sit down beside her parents.

"She is talking about the secret of her birth. The secret that only her grandmother, Nelson, and I knew about." Martha said with a sad smile.

“I think it’s about time you tell them the truth,” Nelson said, placing his hand over Martha’s shoulders in a reassuring manner.

Nodding at her husband, Martha looked at Victoria, then the rest of her three mates before sitting on the couch.

Rosaline and Theodore also joined them in the hall. Though they had many questions about their presence and many other related things, they kept quiet nonetheless, not wanting to add fuel to the already tense environment between the children.

“Honestly, Victoria wasn’t supposed to be born in the first place. What I mean to say is, she is the product of a spell going wrong.” Martha said, heaving a shaky sigh, making Victoria close her eyes as she felt hurt and pained just by her mother saying those words.

“The story started when the hundred years of our relationship were completed, and I was still not able to conceive. I loved kids, and since we had betrayed our parents and I had left the throne even after knowing that I was the sole heiress of it, I was excited with the idea of having children that could take the position on the throne.

I knew that my father would forgive me when I would give him the new heir or heiress because the main concern of my father was who will inherit the kingdom. However, even after trying for so many years, I just couldn’t conceive.” Martha said before a sad smile made its way on her face.

“After finding no way out, I consulted a witch about the matter, and she told me that my powerful powers are rejecting the werewolf genes, and that’s the reason I might not be able to have a child with Nelson. And maybe, I won’t ever be able to become a mother. I was devastated by the news. I knew that though Nelson was consoling me, he was broken by the news too.

After that, we went to all the powerful witches in the world apart from the dark witches to find the solution to it. I wanted to be a mother, and the fact that I won't be able to become one was killing me. Victoria wasn't my first child. I had become pregnant 20 times in these 800 years, and none of them worked. You can understand my desperation till now. I wanted a kid, and I was beating myself for not being able to have that capability.

It was one day when my mother was finally able to find a spell that would low down my powers and let me conceive successfully." Martha said before looking at Victoria, her eyes tearing a bit.

Looking up in the air, Martha tried to gain control of her emotions before she started again.

"At that time, my mother was so thrilled about helping me that she took the help of the sacred books without the knowledge of my father and didn't even check if the witches of the white world were allowed to perform that spell or not. And guess what? It was a sin for the witches of the white world to even see that spell, let alone perform it.

On the day she performed the spell, something disastrous happened. The spell demanded the sacrifice of life, and for that, she killed a female wolf that was roaming the forests. However, she was so consumed by that spell, which was because of the darkness of the spell, that she didn't even check the wolf. That she-wolf was pregnant." Martha said, her eyes tearing.

"The wolf had been knocked unconscious, and only when she was placed in the fire did she gained her consciousness back. The wolf was pregnant with three pups, and thus, it was the sacrifice of four souls. Before we know what was happening and she had the time to tell us, the fire had already consumed her. It was because the fire was created for the chanting of a dark spell, and thus, it 100 times more powerful than the normal fire.

It was a powerful sacrifice.

I don't know what happened after that because the fire was so powerful that I was knocked unconscious because of that. However, grandma told me that the spell was successful, but before dying, that wolf cursed me." Martha said, breaking into tears, making Nelson look at her with concern. However, they knew that this story needed to be completed thus, he stood and continued the story.

MY PERSONAL LYCAN KING

Chapter 134 - Book-2 -49

Chapter-49

Taking a deep breath, he placed a hand over his wife's shoulder to console her before he stood and continued the story that his wife started.

"The curse was for our child, to be precise. She cursed that our child will lead one of the most painful life in the world, and our child would suffer in the pain just like that wolf did. It was the same reason why Victoria was punished so hardly in that sacrifice spell. She is paying for our karma. For the sins that we did." Nelson said.

"The curse you are talking about, it's not so short, right? There is more to it, right?" Neptune said, his eyes softening when he noticed the ray of tear that fell from Victoria's eyes.

"You are right. Everything that has been happening with her is part of that curse. How she wasn't able to live with us and gain her parent's love, just like how those kids weren't able to gain their parent's love. How she suffered so much in that sacrifice, the way her child was sacrificed in that spell. The reason why she is having four souls in her body, and the reason why she is struggling so much to get the love of her loved one. It's all because of that curse only. And it doesn't end here." Nelson said, taking a deep breath.

"What do you mean that it doesn't end here? What more is left? What all have you written in the life of your daughter with your ignorance?" Ashton said, getting angry while Alexander was too shocked to react.

He doesn't know why, but he felt like the female wolf they were talking about was the rogue that Robert's father had raped and left in the forest alone. After which he was exiled.

He had heard from his father once that the rogue wolf that Robert's father Leonardo had raped went away just like that, and after they searched for months as it was questioning the royal family, they found her burnt body, and only then did they come to know that she was pregnant with three pups, and if not for her death, those pups would've considered royalty because of royal blood in them.

So it wasn't the sacrifice of just normal pups. It was the sacrifice of royal wolves.

"I am not sure about it, but I think the infamous curse of three souls that is also called the curse of the cursed girl will also take place," Nelson said, and Neptune, who had been looking at Victoria with saddened eyes, immediately looked at Nelson as if he had grown two heads.

"Are you insane? Do you even know what that spell is for you to blabber about it like this? Do you even know what that spell is and how powerful it is?"

Daniel Neptune shouted at Nelson, knowing that he was just a former werewolf king who doesn't know much about the world of witches and their spells.

Turning to look at Martha, he gazed at her, waiting for her reply in the matter, however, when she didn't make any comment to reject the statement, he couldn't help but look at both of them as if they both were insane.

"How can that happen? Wasn't that spell just a random blabber of an old witch? Who knows if that spell is even true or not," Neptune said, but now that Nelson had mentioned this, he was somewhat scared of that curse.

Here, Neptune was going crazy over the new piece of news while Alexander and Ashton looked at him, not knowing what to say as they didn't understand what this curse was all about and why Neptune was worrying so much about it.

However, unaffected by all of this, Victoria was still lost in her trail of thoughts.

Rosaline and Theodore, on the other hand, were finally getting a grip on the situation, and couldn't help but look at Victoria pitifully.

Just how much this girl has suffered because of her parents' ignorance, and just how much is she going to suffer more? They both thought before looking at each other with a sigh.

Everyone was lost in their trail of thoughts when they heard a sad cold laugh in the air, coming from in front of them.

"I think the story is yet to be completed. You didn't mention all of it, did you? That's not the whole truth," Victoria said before laughing mockingly.

"You hated me when I was born, right? You hated me that it was me, who was born from you. You never wanted me to be born, right?" She said, her question directed to her mother.

"What do you mean, Victoria? I never hated you." Martha said, hesitating at the end as if already understanding what she was talking about.

"You did. That was the main reason why you tried to kill me just after I was born. You didn't tell father about it, did you?" Victoria asked, her words shocking Nelson, who looked at Martha with a shocked gaze.

"You tried to kill me because my birth reminded you of the illegal unethical spell that you guys did. It reminded you of the four lives that you took, right? It reminded you of the pregnant wolf you killed. It reminded you of your greedy self. It reminded you of how self-centered, evil, and cunning witch you were at the time when you killed that wolf. You hated that you became a selfish and evil witch, something you never wanted to. And I was a living reminder of all of it. So, you couldn't bear the sight of it. Am I right? " Victoria said, standing straight now.

"You tried to kill me when I was born. However, because of my birth and most of your powers transferring and merging with mine, you were not powerful enough to kill me.

Then, you came to know that I was a hybrid after Grandma Azrael came to meet me. And you thought, why take the blame for killing your daughter when Christopher can do it perfectly in the name of killing the illegally born hybrid. Am I right?" Victoria said with a cold look on her face, though deep down, she was feeling sorrowful.

"This isn't true at all. I had indeed tried to kill you once because I was afraid that the curse will ruin your life anyway, and it's better to free you from the cursed life rather than making your life a living hell that you are living now. I am sorry for that, okay? I am sorry for trying to kill you, but I never tried to do it because of the reasons you mentioned. I am sorry." Martha shouted, her words shocking Nelson more and more before she fell on her knees and started sobbing.

Each tear creating a small fire on the ground before disappearing.

"Honestly, I wasn't sure if it was true or just my illusion when I had seen those images two years back when Azrael tried to make me believe that I was a witch. But, now that you have confirmed it for me, I feel better.

I didn't want to live in false hopes and lies anymore.

At least now I know why you never contacted me. If grandma Azrael could come and go without leaving a trace, I am sure she would've told you about it too if you would've asked her. However, you never tried because you were afraid. You were afraid that one day I'll come to know about the truth and I'll loath you.

You were afraid to face your daughter, who you had once tried to kill." Victoria ended before swirling her hand in the air and bringing a chair out of the blue to sit on.

Her words piercing Martha more and more, who just kept on shaking her head in denial.

Nelson, on the other hand, just looked at his wife, not sure what to say anymore. There were soo many things that he came to know after twenty years, and he wasn't even sure anymore if he still knows the whole truth.

"I understand your concerns and fears. And I forgive you." Victoria said after taking a deep breath, her words shocking both Martha and Nelson.

"I am sorry, mom and dad, for being so rude to you. I knew only half of the truth, and thus, to know the whole of it I was acting like this. I am sorry for making you cry. Please forgive me." Victoria said, with a soft sigh.

"Won't you guys hug your daughter even after twenty years of separation? I mean, I know you disliked me at a time, but now that I am alive, you can hug me, right?" Victoria said with a sheepish smile, making Martha and Nelson stand and hug her tightly, almost squeezing the life out of her.

“Well, is this a new way to squeeze the life out of me?” Victoria asked, making all of them chuckle at her choice of words before both of them released her.

“You are such a bad daughter, Victoria.” Ashton joked, making all of them chuckle when Victoria agreed to it with a sheepish smile.

MY PERSONAL LYCAN KING

Chapter 135 - -50 Writing After So Long

Chapter-50

"Dear Diary,

It's been soo long since I last wrote something. I had even lost your track, and if I hadn't gone to Aunt Marla's house, I wouldn't have found you again. I know you were the only thing keeping me sane in my life, and it was really mean of me to abandon you as soon as I found some friends.

A lot happened in these past two years.

Let me start with the most important thing, the thing that had kept me anti-social for so long. Now I know why I had those powers and mind-reading capabilities.

I am not human. Can you believe that? I won't hold you accountable if you don't. Even I had a hard time believing it. I am a supernatural being, and not just any normal supernatural, I am the cursed one. I have the powers of a werewolf, vampire, and witch. But the funny part is, rather than being happy about it, I am extremely puzzled and sad.

After I stopped writing, I got a mate for myself. An Alpha king. It was one of the good things that happened to me since I am born. You know how much I yearned to be loved by someone, and he was everything I wanted in a guy as my life partner.

I felt blessed to have such a wonderful mate, but then again, the cursed ones aren't supposed to be happy, and maybe that's why just after we became intimate with each other, things started to go haywire.

We got separated.

First, his cousin brother came to separate us, and then the sacrifice spell.

Can you believe that I almost died? I even lost my child. Something that I can't forgive myself for. I have not told anyone about this, but the pain of the loss of the child was something I used to feel even when I was in the state of a coma. It used to feel like someone was trying to tear open my heart, and those vague images of kids haunted me everynight.

I was in a coma for six months and then under the control of my witch powers for another few months. It wasn't long before I was able to get control over my body.

I was losing hope in my life again but like a ray of sunshine, I met him again. My mate.

I found Alexander again. I should be happy, right?

Then again, things weren't exactly blossoming for us. This time the mate bond wasn't there. His wolf had sacrificed the mate bond while saving him from some incident, and now we are not even mates anymore. However, I was still happy that I found him back, and he still loved me.

But didn't I mention that the curse ones aren't supposed to be happy? That's exactly what happened.

Before I could do a happy little dance, I came to know that I don't have a single mate (his wolf) but three mates. Every power of mine has a separate mate. Crazy, right?

Now since that wasn't enough, I am completing my twenty-two years soon, and I have a crazy grandfather tailing to kill me. And if that wasn't worst enough, then the original owner of these powers, who was the original and first hybrid, wants to me kill in my sleep so that she can take over my body and enjoy the powers again.

In short, my life has been fucked up, and these useless powers can't help me with anything. I am fed up."

"Victoria, I hope you are not asleep yet. Please stay awake. You are not supported to sleep, remember?" Alexander came into her room, making Victoria close her diary as she made the diary disappear in thin air so that Alexander couldn't see that.

"I know. With the state of my mind, I don't think I would've been able to sleep even if I was allowed." Victoria said, making Alexander sigh loudly before he sat beside her with his eyes trained on her face, an indication that she had his undivided attention.

"Honestly, I am a bit worried about this plan. Will it work?" Victoria asked Alexander, who sighed at her again, knowing where all of this was coming from before placing her head on his lap as he made her lay on the bed.

It wasn't only Victoria who was questioning the feasibility of the plan. He wasn't so sure about it either. But knowing that it was kind of tier last hope, they don't really have any other choice in the matter anymore. Her life was the most important thing right now.

"Are you afraid?" Alexander asked, combing her hair with his fingers.

"I am not exactly afraid. I just feel numb. I have never been to anyplace like this. Coming to Pearly Canines was already a major change of place for me, and now going to Ashton's kingdom when things are like this, I am not sure if my mind and body will be able to take so many changes like this. I know that he will try to tend to me with utmost care and will make sure that I have the least interaction with people there that would make me less uncomfortable. However, it's not been long since I came back here and now I have to move again." Victoria said, closing her eyes, feeling sad.

Combing his fingers through her hair, he tried to make her feel relaxed when he remembered the plan that they had discussed in the morning. Something that he doesn't really support but had to follow because he doesn't really have any other choice or better plan either.

MY PERSONAL LYCAN KING

Chapter 136 - -51

Chapter-51

In the morning, after they have sorted out their feelings and problems, they finally decided to talk about the solution that could help them buy some time and protect Victoria from both Madeline and Christopher.

Martha suggested going into hiding, but the question was, where could they possibly hide Victoria, where Christopher won't be able to find her? Theodore suggested asking Azrael for help, but Martha told them that her mother had been unreachable for a few days, and they didn't know where she was. They were also afraid that Christopher was now keeping a track of Azrael after that throne incident, and that was the main reason why she wasn't contacting anyone, canceling Theodore's idea.

After thinking for an hour and trying different ideas, they finally settled on sending Victoria to Ashton's kingdom.

Daniel Neptune wanted to take her to his kingdom, but since he was the king of the dark witches, the place wasn't suitable for Victoria's living, and he couldn't bring her to the Himalayas where the temperature is beyond bearable conditions for a hybrid like her. If she was a witch, then it wouldn't have been a problem for him to take her there, but her human form will find it hard to survive in such harsh conditions.

He wanted to make her live comfortably and not add more difficulties to her life than they already were. They wanted to change her place of stay temporarily because they knew that Christopher was clear that Victoria is in the werewolf kingdom, and it won't take him long to come here as soon as the time comes.

Thus, after keeping all the things in mind, they settled with Vampire's Kingdom, and to say that Ashton was happy with the decision would be an understatement. He was ecstatic about the news since this would be the first time his queen will be entering the Kingdom, therefore, he went back to his kingdom ahead of time to arrange everything for her.

Daniel Neptune was responsible for taking Victoria to Ashton's palace safely, and the worst part of it for Victoria was, Alexander wasn't allowed to come with them for two reasons.

First, he was an Alpha king, and it won't be suitable for him to go and live in the palace of the vampire king when they don't even know how long will it be.

There were still a good 27 days to Victoria's birthday, and knowing that she will have to stay there were more than 27 days, everyone suggested that Alexander don't go there.

Second, Daniel Neptune wanted Alexander to stay back in his palace because he was afraid that Christopher will send his loyal witches to see if the hybrid was in the Royal werewolf palace or not, and if they reported that the king was not in the palace, then he will be alerted that the king has shifted the hybrid again. Moreover, his disappearance will be a clear indication that he is with the hybrid, and then, he might try to track Alexander through his powers.

Though Daniel said something about creating a shield around Victoria that will stop anyone from locating her, with her strong powers that were increasing day by day and her birthday approaching, he knew that the shield won't be effective for too long.

"I am sorry," Alexander said after a long pause, making Victoria open her eyes as she looked at him with confusion-laced eyes.

"Why are you apologizing?"

"I am apologizing because I can't be with you at such an important event. Because I can't protect you from all the troubles that you are feeling. Because I feel like I am not enough for you." Alexander said, and Victoria couldn't help but smile stiffly at him.

'Only if he knew the truth about the whole matter, then things wouldn't have been this complicated.' Victoria thought.

'You do realize that you are taking a tough chance on yourself, right? If they don't find the solution soon, then it won't be good for you. You do remember that, right? Why don't you tell them the truth so that they can try harder?' Carla asked, making Victoria close her eyes again as she concentrated on her mind.

'I can't. You know why I am not telling them. I have already created so many problems for them. Everyone is on their toes because of me, I don't want to pile up things on their platters anymore. If they came to know the truth, I don't think it will remain as easy as it is, and knowing how possessive a mate is, not forgetting that these are king's we are talking about, they'll start fighting each other, and it will be a havoc for the world.

I don't want to end up as another Madeline.' Victoria said, making Carla sigh loudly before she went back into the dark corner again.

"Victoria, you are not sleeping, right?" Alexander fidgeted when he noticed her still body.

"Don't worry, Alexander. I won't sleep. I think you should take some rest now." Victoria said, getting up from his lap, however, before she could move ahead, Alexander pulled her back, hugging her tight.

Whimpering at his loving and caring hold that was saying a thousand words to her, her eyes watered as she felt the sadness and loneliness radiating from his body, her own sadness surfacing again.

Letting her tears fall on her palms, she sobbed in his arms, and Alexander, who had always acted strong and cold in front of everyone, couldn't help but feel his heartbreak at the sobbing girl in his arms.

If only he could do something about her twisted fate and help her change it. He thought before pulling her infinitely closer to himself, letting her vent her sadness out while he let his tears fall.

Something, he didn't know he was capable of.

Chapter 137 - Book-2 -52 How He Met Victoria

Chapter-52

As Alexander and Victoria cried with their love and longing pouring out of their eyes, Daniel Neptune, who was about to enter her room and was about to knock on the door, stopped midway when he heard Victoria's sobbing that sounded more like a mournful cry.

Leaning his body on the door, he felt extremely helpless and lonely when he heard her mournful cries that were speaking millions of words of sadness and buried frustration.

Feeling helpless that he wasn't even able to support his mate at a time like this when she needs someone's support, he couldn't help but feel a little bit of envy towards Alexander, as, among the three of them, he was the closest to Victoria, and she trusted him the most when it comes to things as small as sharing her emotions.

Honestly, if he would've been the one to find Victoria first, then he wouldn't have let them fall for each other in the first place and had taken her away from this white world into his dark world forever. A place where these people wouldn't have been able to find her.

However, luck wasn't on his side.

He still remembers the day he had seen Victoria for the first time when he was passing through the skies to meet someone.

That day he had decided to travel the distance, and thus, he thought flying through the skies while being invisible was a better option rather than going through some transport or directly appearing there.

Satisfied with his head idea, he had decided to take the longest route towards his destination so that he could enjoy the view.

At that time he didn't know that he was going to meet his mate that day.

When he was passing through the Pearly canines, he had felt Magna of deep attractions radiating from a particular house, and not being able to control himself, he had allegedly trespassed the Werewolf kingdom. He knew he was going against the laws, but he also knew, that for a Magna to attract him this strongly, it surely meant something.

Following the Magna, while keeping his eyes for the werewolves patrol, he had stopped at the balcony of a random House with a cute chime on the window. Feeling the texture of the window chime, he couldn't help but smile when he felt some of the Magna on the chime too. It meant that the person who had made this chime was the person whose Magna had attracted him here.

Through the glass, he tried to look at the person who was inside the house, and it wasn't long when a girl entered the room. She was singing a random tune while bouncing with every step she took, clearly happy.

It was at that time he had seen Victoria for the first time, and to say he was blown by her beauty would be an understatement. It was something beyond the mate bond. It was the kind of attraction he had not felt even 600 years ago. He knew his heart had been stolen by that girl.

He wanted to go there and greet her, however, when he felt and smelled the smell of the alpha King on her, he couldn't help but clench his hands. There was surely more to the story than it was meeting the eyes.

He knew he had fallen in love at first sight only, and after that, he had made many random visits just to see her.

For him, it was like a sweet teenage love where he was the teenage boy in love, who would look at his crush secretively and would wish her good in all the circumstances. He even used to get jealous when he used to see Alexander waiting out of her window, who used to come there randomly to check up on her.

There was this one time when he was almost caught by Alexander when he had entered the room, and he was standing on the balcony. Luckily he teleported himself just in time, or he would've surely be listed as a creep in Victoria's mind before they could've even met properly.

Smiling at the thoughts, he leaned his forehead on the wall, feeling a deep pang of pain in his heart as Victoria's sobbing was increasing in intensity. He was feeling sad for the smiling girl, she used to be.

He knew that her emotions were getting to her, and although they needed to be stopped because of her reactive powers, he also knew that their releasing was also important.

It was epic how he has the power to rule the dark World, yet, in front of this girl, he was nothing more than a powerless human. His mate was crying inside the room in the arms of another man, and he can't do anything about it.

Taking a deep breath as he felt his own emotions getting out of control, he was about to leave the place when he heard a crashing sound from inside the room, and as much as wanted to give both of them their privacy, he knew something wasn't right when he heard Alexander's howling in pain.

Opening the door with his powers, he looked at Victoria, cooped in the corner with her head hidden between her legs, as she held her legs close to her body, and then, he looked at Alexander, who was at the other corner of the room with the wound on his hand healing slowly.

Seeing the scene in front of him, he knew what had happened, and he immediately ran towards Victoria, pulling her hands away from her head so that she doesn't end up hurting herself.

"Alexander, give me a hand here. We need to make her lay down straight. Her hands need to be kept in control because they are the main source of release of power for a witch." Neptune said, however, before Alexander could even stand properly, Victoria disappeared from under Daniel.

"What the-," He thought, horrified. Looking around himself, he looked at Alexander, who had an equal stunned expression on his face.

"She must've teleported herself somewhere to get some space. She does that more often these days." Alexander commented, making Daniel shake his head.

"She hasn't teleported herself. I can't feel her anymore." Daniel said, closing his eyes and was about to use his spell to find her when she came back in the same position again.

"Victoria, where did you-" Daniel started, but Victoria disappeared again, and he immediately understood what was happening.

Something was trying to call her.

He waited for her to return herself this time, sitting in the same position.

It wasn't long before Victoria came back into the room, drenched in water.

Chanting some words in a foreign language that was beyond both Alexander and Victoria, he placed his hand on top of Victoria's head, making her go into a state of temporary sleep.

Because of the spell, Victoria, who was standing earlier, fell on the ground, unconscious.

"What did you do to her?" Alexander asked, rushing towards Victoria's side.

"I just used my spell to-" Daniel started but was cut off when Victoria woke up and went straight to the bathroom.

Puking the excess water from her stomach, Victoria looked at her reflection that was becoming paler than ever.

Closing the door with her spell, she lifted her top as she felt some prickling pain in her stomach.

Seeing no visible signs of any injury when her body had hit the large rock, she sighed loudly before puking more water.

"Carla, Jasmine, Emerald, what is the meaning of this? Do you guys have any idea what is happening with us?" Victoria asked, making all of them shake their heads at her.

Neptune, on the other hand, felt shocked, thinking about why that spell didn't work on Victoria as she woke up just after a few seconds of his spell. Normally a person isn't even able to wake up from the spell for years until the spell is broken, and knowing that Victoria was a strong supernatural, it should've at least worked for several hours if not for days.

"Alexander, keep Victoria company today. I need to check up on something. I'll come back by tomorrow morning to take her to the Vampire's Kingdom. Don't let her sleep. I repeat, Do Not Let Her Sleep." Neptune said before disappearing into thin air.

Victoria, who had been puking water for as long as she could remember, not knowing where it was even coming from, opened the door of the bathroom after thirty minutes before looking at Alexander with a timid smile.

"Xander? Can you call Neptune? I need him right now." Victoria said, and though Alexander's heart broke into million shards when he saw his love asking for another man, he still managed to give her a soft smile before nodding and going out of the room.

MY PERSONAL LYCAN KING

Chapter 138 - Book-2 -53 Using Telepathy Once Again.

"Hello? What is it, Alexander? Is everything okay with Victoria?" Neptune asked as soon as picked up when he saw Alexander calling him.

"Everything is fine. She looks a bit paler than before. Maybe from the earlier event of appearing and disappearing.." Alexander said.

"If everything is okay, then why did you call me?" Neptune asked, confused while flipping through the pages of random books as he was sitting between a pile of books currently that looked like the history of dark witches.

"This, Victoria wanted me to call you. She said, she wants to be with you right now. I don't know what it is, but she looks like she needs you right now." Alexander said, leaning on the wall with his back facing the door of Victoria's room.

The more he was talking about Victoria needing Neptune, the more pathetic and angry he felt.

Feeling his emotions through his words, Neptune smirked before mumbling a yes incoherently.

"Okay, make it soon," Alexander said before ending the call, his eyes lingering on Victoria's door for a few seconds before he shook his head, disappointed in himself.

Walking towards his room, since he wanted to give Victoria her privacy, he scoffed at himself, feeling more pathetic by each passing second.

Sitting on her chair, Victoria closed her eyes and smiled when she went through the memories of Alexander and herself. This was the best pastime to keep her from sleeping.

Clicking her fingers, she brought out her diary from the space again. Opening a blank page, she started writing the words that were appearing inside her head randomly.

"Dear diary,

I think I have finally found a solution to the miseries through which we all are going. I am not sure if it will work, however, it's still some kind of hope that had enlightened me.

I am making a blind shot in the dark, but I am hoping that it will hit the target this time.

I hurt Alexander again. I didn't miss the look that passed through Alexander's eyes when I said that I needed Neptune and wanted to stay with him. However, it was necessary.

I need to discuss this with Neptune first before we start with any conclusions. Neptune is the only guy right now who will understand these things because he is the king of the dark witches, and thus, I needed him right now. But who will explain Alexander this thing? Of course, I will have to explain this thing to him.

I will tell him everything eventually. Although his angry face is too cute to be ignored, I think I'll have to sort this out before I go to Ashton's kingdom, or I am afraid, he will make these Innocent werewolves' life unbearable with rules again.

This is all I wanted to share with you.

I will write what happens next again. Till then, keep my secrets."

Victoria ended her words, her magical pen stopping after making a full stop.

Sending the diary back to the invisible space again, she smiled when she remembered Alexander's offended look once again, her heart panging with slight pain at the image of Alexander's forced teary smile.

"Victoria, I heard you needed me more than you need Alexander right now?" Neptune appeared by the door, startling Victoria, who was busy in her Lala land before she squinted her brows at him.

Looking at his bright turquoise eyes that were shining with his amused smirk, she couldn't help but roll her eyes at him. How is he even able to make fun of Alexander in a situation like this was beyond her.

"I may have your mate inside me, but I am still a woman that doesn't belong to you. Next time, don't you dare to come inside without knocking on the door. What if I was changing or something?" Victoria scoffed before plumping on her bed, making the mattress bounce with her.

"Well, that will be like a dream come true. To see you changing, I mean. Besides, whether you agree or not, all of you belongs to me, Victoria, and I will make sure to have every essence of you when we will be having our mates separately." Neptune flirted, making Victoria blush a little before she pretended like his words didn't affect her at all.

Seeing that she wasn't talking anymore, Neptune sighed loudly before looking at her deeply.

"Jokes apart. Why did you call me? I thought you would've been wanted to be with Alexander, given how you will be going away from him, the first thing in the morning, and won't get to meet him before thirty days or so." Neptune asked before roaming his hands through her things, smiling when he felt her Magna through her things.

"I want to be with him, there's no doubt in that. But before that, I need to tell you something." Victoria paused, looking at Daniel, who turned around and sat in front of her, his undivided attention on her now.

"I think I find the solution to this curse thing," Victoria said, making Daniel raise his brows.

"I mean, I think it's close to it. I am not exactly sure about it, but rather than using your plan, which might risk my life and my powers life, I think we can give this plan a try. Only if you can solve it." Victoria said, making Daniel nod.

"You once said that Madeline, who is trying to take over me and is trying to take control of my body, can't read our mind to mind conversations because she is a power outside my body, right? She can hear us and read what I write, but can't know what I am talking to you when I am using my telepathy, right?" Victoria asked Daniel, through her telepathy, like Azrael had done to her the first time they had met.

"That's true. She can't do it because her negative energies won't allow her to get engaged in the negative powers of telepathy and will repel her intrusion to read our minds. This telepathy is negative because this is one of the witch powers that the witches developed over years illegally. Rather than using those gems and crystal balls, they developed a spell that made witches able to do telepathy, and since then, all the generations after them are capable of this thing." Neptune explained her through telepathy.

"Great, then here's the plan," Victoria said, smiling at her idea before she closed her eyes and linked her mind with Daniel's so that he could see and know what is going through her head and what is the idea while she explains him everything through her telepathy powers.

MY PERSONAL LYCAN KING

Chapter 139 - BOOK-2 -54 Waters Can Be The Solution?

Chapter-54

"Jesus! What the hell, Victoria? Are you trying to kill me or something?"

Neptune winced in pain as soon as their minds connected.

Looking at victoria with annoyed and grudge full eyes, he pointed his finger at her before muttering,

"You did it deliberately, didn't you?"

"What happened?" Victoria asked, confused, pretending as if she didn't know what was the problem with her mind linking. However, her amused eyes gave her away, making Neptune look at her with narrowed eyes.

"What happened? Can you ask your powers to shut their mouth if you want me to look through your plan? I felt like I was teleported to a crowded market where a few women are fighting over some dress." Neptune said, making Victoria laugh out aloud.

She had done that deliberately and lifted the mind barrier to his side, just for him to listen to them talking. Smiling at her revenge with him that she had taken because of his earlier flirtatious remark, she looked at him with a quirked brow before smirking openly without a shame in the world.

"Welcome to my world. Now you know not to mess with me." Victoria smiled before squinting her brows.

"Well, at least now you know what I am going through with these powers. I have to keep up my mind barrier all the time to save myself from this thing." Victoria said before sighing loudly.

"Looks like this mind linking won't be working. Let me tell you my plan through telepathy. Try to get as much grip as you can through what I make you see. I will try to remember everything in as much detail as possible about what I saw there." Victoria said before both of them closed their eyes once again.

Through telepathy, Victoria made him see the image of the events that happened a few minutes ago when she was teleported into a foreign water body.

Landing both of them into that water body.

As soon as she landed on a foreign water body, the water which was supposed to be of neutral color started turning darker. Each time she was kicking her legs into the water, the water would become one shade darker. It felt as if that colored ink was coming out from her body itself.

Feeling suffocated and short of breath, she tried to swim upwards, however, the more she tried to swim, the more was the water becoming darker.

Unable to see her surroundings properly, she closed her eyes and tried to concentrate on her surroundings through her witch powers. It wasn't long before she was finally able to see clearly.

The darkness around her cleared and was replaced by crystal clear water. The suffocation and the shortness of breath that she was feeling also disappeared, and she was able to breathe inside the water as perfectly as she breaths on the ground.

It felt like her witch powers had turned her into an amphibian girl.

She was busy with her discoveries of powers and feelings when she felt a bright reflection shining through her eyes at some distance before it disappeared.

Squinting her brows before shaking her head, she thought that it must be her delusion as she was under the water, and it might be because of reflection from the sun, she neglected it and focused on the gems on the ground surrounding her.

Picking up a random gem, she widened her eyes when her body felt excruciating pain, and in a blink of an eye, she was standing there on her four paws, in her wolf form.

What the actual fuck?! She shouted through her head.

Carla? What's going on? Victoria asked, but Carla, who was a werewolf, didn't know what was going on either.

For her, she was just teleported to some foreign water body where she wasn't even able to see anything because the witch powers were limited to Victoria only. Feeling frustrated with the unknown situation, Carla, who was swimming on the foreign water body, flailed herself around, panicking a bit, her paws landing on the water bed.

As soon as her paws touched another gem, her body changed her form again, and this time Emerald was in power and Victoria turned into a vampire.

Feeling her elongated fangs, she scrunched her brows before realization hit her. She has changed her form into a vampire again.

On the other hand, Emerald, who was in control of Victoria's body for the first time panicked, and fell on the ground, touching multiple gems at once, making Victoria turn her forms from one to another before it stopped back to her original form.

From these events, one thing was clear to her. She can't touch those alluring and beautiful gems if she wants to stay sane. Every time she would touch a gem, her body will change its form. She didn't know if this was some kind of magical water or something else, but she needed to stay clear of the things here. Looking up, she smiled at the sight she saw before looking forward again.

Feeling the shiny reflection on her eyes again, Victoria looked towards a flower-like thing that looked like it was made of glass or crystals.

'Should I go there, or not? When I touched these gems, my body reacted by changing into different forms. What if this crystal-like thing hurts me differently?

But then, what if it's something that can help me? Or why would I have been teleported to here when I was thinking about a solution so desperately?

I won't know about it until I go and see it for myself. Besides, I can't die just like this anyway. I have faith in the gods. They wouldn't have written such an easy and painless death for me.'

With that thought in mind, she went towards the crystal flower, her eyes widening when she read the words engraved on the stem of the flower.

der Hybrid(The hybrid)

"dem Fluch der Hybridkraft." (TO THE CURSE OF HYBRID'S POWER)

"die Antworten liegen im Tod des Kumpels." (THE ANSWERS LIE IN THE DEATH OF THE MATE.)

"ist es echt oder gefälscht?"(IT'S REAL OR FAKE?)

"Den Fluch brechen, das Mädchen brechen oder den Hybriden brechen?"
(BREAK THE CURSE, BREAK THE GIRL OR BREAK THE HYBRID?)

Reading the words over and over again, she lifted her hands to touch the engravings, however, before her fingers could touch the words, she was shifted back to her room, drenched in water.

Opening her eyes, she looked at Daniel, who had a weird dark expression on his face. Breathing heavily, drinking the water that Daniel offered her, she looked at him, nodding her head in an indication that she was fine.

"Is that all that you saw? No other thing? Something that could tell us where these waters are? Any hint on if that water body was a lake, pond, waterfall, ocean, river, or illusion?" Neptune asked hopefully, but the shaking of her head lost all his hope, and he sighed loudly before holding her hands.

"So you think that the answer to all of our question and its solution lies in this minute travel of yours to a foreign water body and seeing this weird crystal rose that no one has ever heard of?" Neptune asked, making Victoria nod her head.

As much crazy as it sounded, she was 90% if not 100% sure that it was something related to this thing. Or why would she be teleported to a water body like this? Okay, it was a glitch of her powers, she understands that. But what about the crystal flowers? Those crystal gems that were making her turn her into different forms? These things have to be linked, or why would all of these things come into the picture when she was this desperate to find the answers?

"And that's not all. Madeline wasn't allowed to go there. I saw her stuck outside that water body. I could feel her trying to enter my brain so that she can keep a tap on me, but every time she came near me, she was thrown backward by some invisible force. A force so brutal that I could see her getting hurt." Victoria said, surprising Neptune for real this time.

"Why didn't you tell me about this earlier? This is the biggest clue for us. Madeline wasn't allowed in a place like this, which only means one thing, the water is too pure for evil to enter inside. Now, all we have to do is find this pure source of water, which I must say is really hard." He said, releasing a tired sigh at the end.

'The things he was doing for his love.' He thought before looking at Victoria.

"If you don't mind me asking, why do you think that this water thing is a solution. It just can't be because you were teleported there for a brief time. It has to be something more. There is more to it, ain't there?" He asked, making Victoria nod her head.

Of course, there was more to it. There has always been more to it.

MY PERSONAL LYCAN KING

Chapter 140 - Book-2 -55 Alexander Will Always Be The Only One.

Chapter-55

"I think water has always been the solution to my problems. I don't know if it's just my delusion, but from childhood itself, water has been protecting me from all the kind of dangers I came across in life." Victoria paused before looking outside the window.

"You know, when I was a kid, there was this one time when my mom accidentally left me beside a pool to take a Phonecall. I fell into the water, and rather than drowning like an actual kid would've been, I floated on the surface. The lifeguard who saw me told my mom that maybe I was a born swimmer. However, only I knew that there was some surge of energy I was feeling at the bottom of the water. Something that was keeping me upright and keeping me from drowning." Victoria said before standing and going towards the window.

"When I was around twelve years old and has fallen into the water to save Robert from the high-intensity stream, the water has calmed down for some minutes until I was out of the water.

When I first came to know about my powers, it was because a large wave of water protected me from falling on the ground while I was running away after hurting Laila accidentally.

When I was on the verge of dying during the sacrifice spell, it was the water only that saved me. I was kept in the water for a month, and normally a person's body should have started rotting, but mine didn't.

When I entered the water of the fountains, they don't wet me. It's like they are repellent, and they always bow me first. Since I was a kid, water has been a friend that I had never appreciated but has always protected me.

Even right now, among all the elements, why was I teleported into that water body when I was thinking about the solution so hard? And those crystals submerged into the water? This just can't be a mere coincidence, Neptune." Victoria ended, making Neptune smile.

"It's not strange for you to feel protected by a certain element, Victoria. I think you've realized that water is your favored element, and your witch powers will be most powerful with it. Water has chosen itself as your element since you were born, and that's why they always protect you from everything." Neptune said.

"Water is my power?" Victoria whisper asked. However, what she didn't expect was a bucket of water to suddenly fall on top of her head.

"What the-" She wanted to curse, but seeing that she wasn't wet, she looked at Neptune with wide eyes, who just nodded at her in acknowledgment.

"I will try to find out this foreign water body you are talking about. If that's all, I will be leaving now. I am sure you are excited to meet Alexander and want to spend this last night with him. Honestly, I was a bit surprised when Alexander called me and said that you needed me more than him." Neptune said, smiling through his teeth before disappearing into thin air.

Smiling at his words, Victoria closed her eyes before teleporting herself to where Alexander was.

"Jesus, Victoria! Can you stop giving me a heart attack like that?" Alexander shouted when she appeared in the room suddenly.

"Hey! I came to spend my time with you, and this how you treat me?" Victoria said, her eyes not leaving Alexander's chiseled chest.

Her darkened expression not going unnoticed by Alexander, who huffed loudly before looking at her helplessly.

'Does she have any idea what her stare is doing to me?' He thought before groaning as his thoughts trailed to a place where they shouldn't.

"Eyes up here, miss. You are not allowed to ogle at any of us until this mate thing is solved. You do remember that, right? And I am not shouting at you, sweetheart. I was just surprised." Alexander said before wearing a t-shirt, much to Victoria's dismay.

Seeing her disheartened look when he wore his t-shirt, he couldn't help but chuckle to himself.

"Has Neptune already gone? I thought you said you wanted him right now." He said before making himself comfortable on the bed beside Victoria.

"I needed him because I wanted to tell him something. I think I've got the solution to our problems, but I was not sure about it. However, it did help me find out what my hidden element power is." Victoria said before clicking her fingers as a few droplets of the water suddenly appeared out of nowhere and started dancing on her palm.

"Wow! Do you mean your hidden power is water? I've heard about it that some witches have their powerful elements but have never seen it in real." He asked, amazed by her powers.

"Yeah. Now, I don't want to waste any more time. I want to use this time to be with you and talk about ourselves rather than these problematic things." Victoria said, making Alexander chuckle before he kissed her forehead lovingly.

"You know, when you said that you needed Neptune, for a moment I felt a sudden surge of emotions in my body. I wanted to kidnap you at that moment and lock you in the dungeons so that no one can meet you apart from me." Alexander confessed, making Victoria smile at his words.

"I know that. Your jealousy was visible on your face. You looked like a kid whose favorite toy was being stolen and given to someone else." Victoria laughed before tilting her head to look at him.

"No matter what happens, Alexander, my love for you will never decrease. Always remember that, okay? You are my first and only love. I have indeed started feeling a bit attracted and comfortable around Neptune and Ashton, but it doesn't mean that they can take your place in my heart." Victoria said before lifting her head and kissing his lips softly that he returned without hesitation.

"You do realize that we are doing wrong right now, right? We shouldn't be doing this right now. Especially when this mate thing isn't solved yet. If Ashton and Neptune came to know about it, they'll surely be pissed. And don't forget that they are kings of two large species too." Alexander said in between the kiss.

"I know, but a little kiss here and there won't hurt. I am yours before I am someone else's. Besides, if they came to know, then I'll just kiss both of them." She said, chuckling at Alexander's contorted and wronged face.

Lifting her body on top of Alexander, she smiled at him before dominating the kiss. And Alexander, who loved the possessiveness and aggressiveness in her moves, let her dominate him with a smile on his face.

This was how he knew Victoria. Always getting what she wants.

He knew that because of the unfavorable situations, she was under great pressure these days, not to mention with the presence of the three mate bonds, she must be feeling uncomfortable all over.

Hugging her close to his body, he roamed his fingers through her hair, wanting her to relax with his touch.

"Sleep, Victoria. We have a very tough 45 days ahead. Sleep without a tension in the world for the last time." Alexander mumbled, making her sigh before she drifted off to sleep.
