

MY PERSONAL LYCAN KING

Chapter 90 - Book-2 -5 She Is Like Her But Not Like Her!

Both Brittany and Tiffany were too shocked to react to anything. They understood that Jasmine always finds a way to trouble, but how could she be this unfortunate?

First, she almost died when she fell from that cliff, and now she bumped into the feared alpha king, and not only that, she even cursed at him.

"Apologize! Or I am going to tell Danny about it!" Milly threatened, making Jasmine widen her eyes before she hurriedly turned around to apologize.

Damien, Chris, and Sean who were observing their interaction, couldn't help but frown slightly at them.

The girl was acting as if she didn't know them and her attitude, character, scent, look everything was so different from Victoria's. Only her face matched with Victoria. Apart from that, she was really nothing like her.

"I am sorry, Mr?"

"Damien. Damien hunter." Damien completed, making her widen her eyes once again.

She looked at Milly for confirmation, who nodded at her with a pitiful expression.

'No wonder Milly was having such a strong reaction. It looks like he is the alpha king." She thought before checking her attitude and turning it 180° completely.

"I am so sorry, Mr. Damien, I mean, sir Alpha. I wasn't looking back and didn't know I would bump into you. I was walking backward while talking to my friends, hoping that anyone who would see will turn their path on their own. I am not saying it's your fault. It's completely my fault because I was walking like this.

I hope you can forgive this measly girl who is nothing in front of you. Please forgive me, this one time. I have heard stories about how grateful and large-hearted you are. Please be the bigger person and forgive me, please? Pretty please?" Jasmine pleaded, making her best innocent face she could muster.

Not only Damien, but Chris, Sean, even Brittany, Tiffany, and Milly, wanted to cough blood at her apology.

She indeed has a way of putting the person in front of her in a dilemma.

She apologized to him but also made sure that he forgives her at any cost, along with blaming him that he didn't look at her walking like this or nothing like this would've happened.

Damien, who was immediately reminded of Victoria's blabbering when she had first seen his wolf, could not help himself as he laughed out aloud, shocking everyone standing there.

Even the people who were walking from there stopped, and looked as they saw their alpha king laughing like this.

Jasmine, who thought that he was laughing at her, pouted annoyingly before looking in another direction.

"Don't worry, I have forgiven you. It was indeed my fault for not looking that you were coming from there. Are you happy now?" Damien asked as he bent and brought his face in front of Jasmine to gaze into her eyes with a mild smile.

Jasmine, who was not at all prepared for this beautiful handsome man to suddenly appear so close to her, inhaled deeply as she felt struck smitten with that beautiful smile.

She didn't know why she was having this strong feeling to touch his face, however, remembering that he was 'The Alpha King', the drop-dead gorgeous man that everyone was gushing about, she knew it was all his charm, and thus, stopped her emotions just in time.

"Indeed." She smiled a genuine smile of her own, gazing in his eyes mimicking his actions.

The onlookers Chris, Sean, Milly, Brittany, and Tiffany, didn't know what to do and say at this moment.

Why did it felt like these two were flirting in broad daylight?

"You have a beautiful smile. Can I have your name?" Damien asked, straightening his back.

"Jasmine-" She was about to say her full name when she was called from behind by Alpha sam, who has just come out of the hotel.

"Jasmine? Milly? What are you guys doing here? " Alpha Sam asked casually, however, when he noticed Alpha king Damien standing behind Jasmine, he immediately stiffened and rushed towards them, thinking that the girls made some mistake again.

"Alpha king," He bowed respectfully before looking at Jasmine and mouthing, 'What did you for now?'

'I umm... ' Jasmine smiled awkwardly, proving Alpha Sam's suspicion right.

"Alpha king, I don't know what she had done to anger you, but I hope you can forgive her. She has still not recovered properly from her head injury and acts as a mental patient sometimes, I hope you can forgive this mentally ill child of mine." Alpha sam spouted whatever reason he could find.

When Jasmine heard his words, she looked at him wide-eyed and pointing at herself, not knowing what to say.

'When did I became a mentally ill patient?' Jasmine thought, wanting to retort back, however, when Alpha sam saw the flicker of emotions in her eyes from shocked to resolute, he understood what she was going to do and immediately looked at Milly indicating her to take her away, who nodded at her father and looked at the other two girls.

"Alpha Sam, what-" Before Jasmine could say anything, a hand was clamped on her mouth and she was dragged away by the girls.

"Hahaha... These girls are naughty just like that." Alpha sam awkwardly laughed again.

Damien, who was observing him from the moment he entered, couldn't help but feel that something was amiss in the situation. He felt like they were hiding something. However, thinking that it was his imagination only since he still missed Victoria he shrugged his suspicions.

"That's fine. It was partially my fault too." Damien said coldly, all his softness and smile from earlier evaporating in thin air.

"Thank you, Alpha king." Alpha sam said.

Nodding at Sam, Damien started walking inside the hotel, followed by Chris and Sean.

"Hey, don't you think that she looked a lot like Victoria? What if she is Victoria?" Sean asked in a hushed voice.

"Are you crazy? She is dead. I know I was swayed earlier, but we all saw her cremation ceremony didn't we?" Chris asked.

As they both were talking among themselves, they didn't notice that Damien had stopped walking and almost bumped into his back.

"Are you both done gossiping?" Damien asked in a cold tone, immediately making both of them sober.

"Sorry, Alpha." Both of them said bowing their heads simultaneously.

Ignoring them, Daniel started walking again, his own head filled with confusing thoughts.

Though the girl he met right now was oddly like Victoria, her scent was speaking a completely different story.

He was having the feeling that she indeed looked like Victoria but was not her.

However, remembering her smile, the way she blabbered, he could not help himself as a slight hope was sprouted on his heart today.
