Chapter 341: Staff Expansion Plan

Not only that, but Ye Qing also numbered the outer packaging of each ionizer and strictly recorded the sales of each ionizer, so as to prevent employees in the company from reselling the ionizer.

Before the robot was acquired, of course, this hadn't meant it was not wanted as he is. Because before the robot is purchased, strict real-name authentication was required, and the user's change description needed to be submitted to the Monster Heavy Industry during the transaction. Only a few people got the spot for the time being, and the high price was prohibitive for those who wanted to speculate.

After half a month of orders for robots, it became the second most sought-after item.

After reading the user trends, Ye Qing called the managers to the conference room to hold a regular meeting.

Ye Qing first talked about auntie cleaning in the elevator and asked the managers: "Are employees in various departments very tired recently? I heard even the little girl was drinking Red Bull refreshingly?"

Looking around the managers, Ye Qing is now facing Yang Lily the manager of the propaganda department, who was very energetic with the eyes of the panda no longer lively.

Then... All the managers complained.

Complained there was a serious lack of manpower especially Kong Tao, the sales manager who also complained to Ye Qing with a heavier dark eye, saying their department was now busier than dogs and those employees responsible for sales statistics hate to split themselves into five parts.

There were 400 employees in the company, and there were 50 logistics personnel who were not involved in the company's business.

Now 350 people in several departments are not only responsible for the business but also involved in the packaging of hundreds of thousands of products. It was completely conceivable they will become busy.

"So we must expand the enrollment." Ye Qing thought for a while and said, "Expand the company to a thousand people. After discussing with your managers, the number of people in each department that needs to be expanded, the final report will be submitted to me."

The entire company was also the busiest one. Indeed, since the launch of two new products, all employees in the company had entered a state of readiness. But in the future, they would only get busier. They were not robots and should recruit new employees to share the work.

"In fact, the report was written in the morning." Kong Tao smirked and submitted the report to Ye Qing.

"It seems you have been prepared." Ye Qing coughed twice and opened the report carefully.

The report would recommend the recruitment of another 300 employees, of which 100 were workers in the reservoir area, and the rest was expanded according to the business of various departments. The sales department of Kong Tao and the network department of Ji Ke needed the most manpower.

This report was slightly conservative. Since the recruitment was made up of a whole lot, the company would only get busier anyway.

With the increase in the number of employees, the office area would become insufficient. The report recommended that existing office areas should be re-planned and temporarily crowded.

"I think the Starlight Import and Export Trading Company upstairs is going to close down. They have occupied the entire floor of the office building. After a while, if you go to him to talk to us, we can offer a suitable price and sublease the upper floor. "

"It shouldn't be difficult. The Starlight Trading Company upstairs heard it had already owed two months' salary to employees and owed a lot of loans to the bank." Yu Huali, the manager of the personnel department, took the task and then scratched his head: "Just after the expansion, the area of the underground reservoir will not be enough. "

"Putting it into the civil air defense project, I'm letting the engineering team at the entrance of it, and I can move in two days."

Regarding the expansion of the company's recruitment of employees, Ji Ke, the manager of the network department, reported another thing that Ye Qing would win.

"When our department checked the order this morning, we had a rather suspicious order for ionizers, and the total number reached hundreds."

"Suspicious order?" Ye Qing put down the report and looked up in confusion.

"In the beginning, in order to prevent a large number of people from stocking up to raise prices, we formulated very strict purchasing rules. For example, if the order has a similar delivery address and the same mobile phone number, we have the right to cancel the order."

"You can submit another report, which lists hundreds of receipts separately."

"The delivery address is all in Liangjian."

"The delivery address is all in Liangjiang City, 100 kilometers away. And there are many people with the same last name. Although the delivery addresses are different, there are nearly ten account numbers in it. They are named by a very regular robot. Many are fake addresses. "

"The cities with normal orders are evenly distributed. Even with Shanghai, which has a population of over 10 million, only more than 70 users have grabbed ionizers."

Ji's searchable tone asked: "Basically it can be concluded that these account numbers are held by associates. President Ye, do you want to cancel their order?"

"Hundreds of accounts can obtain from thousands of troops to the ionization purifier. How did they do it?"

Ye Qing also understood that this group should be friends, but this technology was too powerful. Others were struggling to find ionizing purifiers and someone could already grab hundreds.

"Gigabit fiber, hardware NAT, more 2G backplane bandwidth. As long as computer performance is up to speed and can keep up, they can use little programs written by themselves and use humans from that their products are deployed. At the time of our product shortage, with the degree of their harsh reaction, they can seize enough stock of ionizer purifiers. Do not respond, let them seize a sufficient amount of the inventory of ionizer purifiers. "

Ji Ke expressed his emotions to Ye Qing and these managers. "In fact, grabbing an item is not a matter of luck, but a test and a look at the technology. First, it takes two people from the point of order to open the product to the time of payment. Second, the software can be completed in 0.2 seconds. "

"The people with real skills want to grab the ionizer. Most of them are already waiting for the express delivery. I believe there are still many orders for our products, but some people have been fully unprepared and robbed like this group of people. It has reached hundreds of units. "

"Hundreds of units. According to the current offline purchase price, they can make five million if they change hands." Ye Qing said in a tone: "Pure customers are reselling, and we can't stop them, and there's no reason to stop them..."

"Is anyone ignoring the rules and deliberately using our products to make five million from our customers?"

"I just dare to think about things that have been done by others?"

"Haha... It won't be long, I will let these scalpers who drive up prices lose their pants."

In the information industry park of Qingyang District, Liangjiang City, there were a total of six employees in the office area named [Jiantuoluo Information Company]. At this time, they were working with drug addicts who have taken certain illegal drugs, and they were trapped in a constant euphoria.

Their faces flushed, their breathing was short, their hands danced fast on the keyboard and some people yelled: "It's a pen again" and then immediately continued to work excitedly.

Jiantianluo Information Co., Ltd. is a formal company that provides software development and information consulting services.

In fact, until the company was established, this software has been unopened for customers.

Chapter 342: The Ox-Bud Party

Jiantongluo Information Company, with more than 200 square meters of office area, was mostly occupied by rows of computer hosts. The main unit has been completely disassembled, and a professional water-cooling system has been installed. Countless device indicators are flashing and blue light is shining.

Yes, these hosts are all-powerful tools they use to grab tickets or grab a popular product because the train tickets could be sold out in seconds.

After the hot-selling mobile phone brand was listed, ordinary users faced only three big words sold out after a few minutes of buffering. Most of it was the credit of these people.

And now they were enjoying a profiteering experience like never before. Grab the products, and they could make 50,000 yuan as profits by changing hands. In just a few minutes, they snapped up a hundred units of this product, which was equivalent to not having to do anything. As long as they talked to the buyer, they could make five million.

Last month they grabbed an Apple phone, and Taiwan made a few hundred yuan. They joined up to raise the price of bright black. As a result, the price of bright black had fallen sharply before the week, and they did not want it.

"Mom spicy chicken, Apple phone simply fail."

Yan Feixin, who also made a single business, stretched his loins happily. He stayed awake all night: "Apple products are getting worse and worse in value. When the sixth series came out, we could keep the price for more than ten thousand months, but when it came to the Seventh Series, no one bought it at all and the ordinary seven felled to the official sales price in three days."

"Fortunately, I have foresight. After watching the Monster Heavy Industry Conference, I immediately gathered the resources at hand to snap up their ionization purifiers. Look..."

Yan Feixin almost lifted Erlang's legs to the sky, and the deputy high king acted like this: "This time we didn't have enough funds to grab a hundred units. Next time there will be new products at Monster Heavy Industry, we will directly vote for the big one, and work forever."

The remaining few people quickly stopped their work to compliment Yan Feixin. In just a few minutes of snap-ups, they have made more profits than in previous hard years. Naturally, they should compliment Yan Feixin.

When recalling the scene in which Yan Feixin made up his mind to rush to buy the ionization purifier, he would feel surging for a while. There were only a few hours to make up their mind from their product distribution meeting to the online sales of the ionization purifier.

It was in these short hours that Yan Feixin sniffed out huge business opportunities, and then smashed the boat, mobilized all the cash in their company and wrote spike software on the spot. When most of his peers did not respond, he grabbed more than 100 units. The ionization purifier has become the object of envy.

They were the most sought-after professionals in the ox party, but they were actually the masters who did not see rabbits and eagles.

Although the product of Monster Heavy Industry will be more popular and the official message will be more, when they did not see the response of customers' real feedback, they could not spend a lot of money to let go.

Was this scene of ten thousand is created by the Monster Heavy Industry at its own expense?

After all, they had to be cautious in order to keep the value of a brand-new product that no one has ever seen before. The previous Apple 7 series was bright black, and they were already hanging.

Yan Feixin was different. In fact, this was not the first time Yan Feixin has contacted Monster Heavy Industry.

Just the day before the conference, the start of a huge reconstruction project was held in Haitang Island, a famous scenic spot in Liangjiang City.

During the National Day Tourism Golden Week, this ground-breaking ceremony was turned into a lively party by the way.

The entire leadership team of Liangjiang City attended all the crowds who watched the light on the bridge at night, all shouting big words and big scenes.

However, the real big scene was not a firework show or several art schools in Liangjiang taking turns on stage. The countless looks were beautiful, and the girls of the water snake waist performed wonderfully.

It was the reconstruction project of Haitang Island, which was a submerged flood wall purchased from Monster Heavy Industry.

Originally, these flood prevention walls were only intended to be erected behind the stage like a screen background wall although this was already shocking enough, the 12-meter-high alloy city walls had smooth surfaces as if they were made of alien metal.

But the accompanying little old man, with the Monster Heavy Industry engineer's nameplate on his chest, brought the technician in charge of stage sound and light effects from Liangjiang City to the drums in the background for a long time...

These huge alloy city walls could even undulate with the music on the stage.

Yan Feixin was taking his third girlfriend to Haitang island. The huge crowd of metal walls such as girls' lightness and dancing on the music, almost failed to lift the sky.

Especially those foreign tourists exclaimed in various dialects that even Mandarin has forgotten to say.

Especially for those foreign tourists, the gods from all walked of life from different countries were called together, and the leaders of Liangjiang City almost burst into tears.

[Jiang Qiongrui was strangely colored, and it was suspected that the immortal brought jade.]

This beautiful poem describing Haitang Island had also been painted with colorful artistic characters on an alloy city wall that could be called a work of art.

Haitang Island was completely on fire. The foreign tourists who came here the next day were all lined up on the bridge. The row of alloy city walls had to be kept there, and they were afraid to dismantle.

Yan Feixin guessed that the leaders of the two rivers would be just like themselves, and they would wake up with a smile while holding a woman to sleep.

It was exactly the same that Yan Feixin was very impressed with the Monster Heavy Industry. After the Monster Heavy Industry had released a new product, he dropped the blood and originally purchased the ionization purifier.

The facts had proved Yan Feixin has achieved great success. Those who knew it later had to pay high prices. So, he bought them for ordinary users for resale.

The sound of information prompt of the array didi interrupts Yan Feixin's surging fantasies.

"Another stupid bird came to the door." Yan Feixin sat up sharply, his hands trembled and in an instant the news that had already been written passed away.

"Sixty thousand units of ionizer purifiers are in stock, and the store has a credibility guarantee. you can go to Taobao stores, Crown stores, and the most conscientious sellers in the industry."

Yan Feixin was very experienced and send the article. After finishing this message. In less than three seconds, a message came from the very kawaii girl's head.

"So expensive? Can it be cheaper?"

"Dear... We already have the lowest price in the market. We possess more than 50,000 sets of such ionization purifiers."

Sure enough, women's thinking is always so simple.

Yan Feixin didn't have to wait for her news. He took the unpacked ionization purifier and took photos on the spot with his mobile phone.

The next step was no need to guess they want to connect their stores, and everything was in Yan Feixin's expectations.

Seeing there was a copy worth 60,000 in the background, a tall Shanghai software product compiled by them was purchased.

Yan Feixin smiled proudly, with a little arrogance. These people, who despised him at the time he entered the millionaire circle for years and he had three girlfriends. What are you thought?

At this time, the communication software rang again and Yan Feixin glanced at it which turned out to be an information prompt from his own buyer account.

Opening the information prompt, Yan Feixin was even more surprised.

The source of the news is the official customer service of the Monster Heavy Industry.

During this time, the official customer service of Monsters Heavy Industry is even more mysterious than the GM in the game, and countless people can't reach them.

How...

Would he give him the information?

"Well, I have received customer service information from Monster Heavy Industries."

Not only Yan Feixin, but several other associates also received information.

I don't know why suddenly Yan Feixin had a bad feeling.

Chapter 343: On the Train

I did not know why suddenly Yan Feixin had a bad feeling when he opened his own buyer chat tool and found an introduction which was a very formal announcement.

Hello user: According to our staff's investigation, there is an abnormal operation of your account. After verification, we have decided to process your order for a refund. At the same time, we also detected Nan Fuhu, Jiu Shang, Shijianfang, Xinminchang, Qili Station... There is a total of one hundred and thirteen accounts, and there are also abnormal operations. We will uniformly cancel the order. You can choose to return the application on your own, or we can cancel it unilaterally.

In this passage, Yan Feixin had a kind of cold winter and lunar weather, and he pulled open his collar and poured into the cold heart of Bingxin.

For the one hundred and thirteen accounts, Yan Feixin had only swiped down and knew it took him a long time to apply for them. Then, in order to avoid software detection, he had logged in to the host computer separately and then through the seckill program he wrote, he started to rush to buy the account of the ionizer purifier. These account numbers were lying on the ionization purifier waiting for the goods.

He had been selling ionizing purifiers for a while, but now, his ionizing purifiers were out of stock. Originally, they would be available today when the next day arrives, he could sell these products to those fools at high prices. But now the other party had said they want to cancel all the goods.

The other associates also stood up. They received the same message, and all looked at Yan Feixin in amazement.

They did not take the announcement of Monster Heavy Industry Cloth at all. Was it not a sales promotion method for merchants to restrict purchases? They put on a much sought after looking, then made consumers think that if they had bought before, they won't be able to buy it again. Even if they were really in demand, they could only return the goods they have obtained based on their ability. What would happen to the more than fifty ionizing purifiers they have sold? If the order was returned this time, wouldn't they lose all their word of mouth in five years?

After thinking of this, Yan Feixin had responded to customer service angrily, asking them why they returned the goods?

After five minutes, the customer service had not replied. Yan Feixin's ghost fire had burned his eyebrows and began to leave a message.

"What evidence do you have to return it?"

"I don't even know your long list of accounts. We haven't stolen or snatched the money. We paid for it. What do you mean?"

"Answers me, what is your evidence?"

"Rely on the goods, and you can return it if you want to return it. We don't order a refund here. Do you think you can return the goods, believe it or not, I will complain to you?"

Yan Feixin had asked his accomplices to join him, but all the information was still sinking in the sea without any response.

"They cannot return the goods. It's not easy. We do not ask for a refund. They do not complain about us." Yan Feixin had gritted his teeth, and some snarled in desperation: "Let's change the IPs to different places. "

When Ye Qing had received a call from the company, saying the collective login account of those people was complaining about the flagship store, he was in the factory office of Longxi Beach, watching the electronic resume files in the mailbox, he had not taken the complaint seriously because he had sufficient evidence here to prove that the other party had used illegal means to obtain a large number of orders and sold them at high prices.

The ox party yelled at almost everyone, and no one would favor them.

It turned out to be true. In the evening, in the presence of evidence issued by the company's employees, the account numbers of the orders that were seized by illegal means were all refunded.

This news had diving Yan Feixin into incredible despair. Losing five million wholes, this huge drop from heaven to hell made him shake and turn pale and Ye Qing felt very happy, and the gang of Guangniu was crazy.

If it weren't for their false price hikes, ionizing purifiers would not have been so expensive. In a few days, when the full-motion assembly platform is ready, it is the end of the scalpers. But before that, Ye Qing still had one important thing to do. The expansion of company personnel.

The company was currently understaffed, and more staff would be recruited. These employees were believed to have no energy and drank Red Bull to provide it.

At noon, the company had already expanded its employee recruitment plan. As a result, those who came to submit resumes had almost crowded the company's mailbox.

With the staff expansion, there was the post of president secretary, and now Ye Qing is in front of the computer to watch the resumes of these presidential secretaries.

Just looking at them, Ye Qing found some wrong taste for these resumes, many of their ability to work was skimmed over but they had introduced a lot about their communication and appearance. Several girls also had very sexy artistic photos attached to their resumes.

Although a beautiful girl has the advantage of having extra points, her appearance was not enough.

Only those resumes with strong working ability and rich working experience are basically over 35 years old. Ye Qing is not sure to call Auntie when walking on the street.

It was just in those resumes that only one with strong working ability and rich work experience was basically over 35 years old. Ye Qing may not be able to call her 'Auntie' on the street. So, Ye Qing turned her resume and found no suitable candidate.

Early the next morning, 66 young men and women in leather suits and shoes continued to come from outside the Blue-sky Building, speaking very politely.

The temperature difference between day and night in Yunshi City in October could be ten degrees like this. The dense fog in the early morning had not completely dispersed. The cold wind blows could freeze people straight.

However, these young men and women who were either wearing a briefcase or using makeup mirrors to make up for themselves were all clenching their teeth, and they have to endure the cramp and cramping impulse.

Monster Heavy Industry had very high efficiency. They had resumed the resume they submitted yesterday and received an interview notice in the morning the next morning. From this point, we could also see how eager for new employees to join Ye Qing's company.

At the same time, in a high-speed train from Wucheng which was heading towards the clouds with a lot of momentum, a young girl had been standing for a long time. waiting for a long time in the cockpit leaning on the seatback near the left window, wearing a sky blue slim trench coat and looking at the view from the side of his cheek. The cluster of silver-gray show draped over her shoulders casually. Made her look unclear. But judging by her long hands catching yellow hand restraint bar, she should be a fair-skinned girl. The silver-gray show was naturally impossible to grow up.

In fact, in this science fiction movie, the show colors were unique to the elves and very few ordinary girls had dared to challenge them. It was beautiful to be beautiful, but if it was not a good-looking, coy and energetic girl to dye this kind of head it was easy to make a fool of yourself and make yourself scary. And...

Fortunately, in big cities, in places where folk customs were conservative this kind of showy-looking show color was most likely to be labeled as a problem girl in the eyes of older people. However, just staring at this girl's silhouette, without further observation, there would be no reason, giving a peaceful and serene feeling, very comfortable and quiet. It seems that she had written elegant poems and needs a fragrant picture scroll. This kind of temperament could usually be cultivated only by being born in Shuxiang Mendi, and carefully cultivated and educated by parents.

It seemed that the classic elegant long dress and the dark black ink show were more in line with her dress. However, this silver-gray had shown that people felt that there was nothing wrong with that, but it seemed very appropriate and it triggered her dusty temper. Not to mention she had a silver-gray show on her head. Even if she had tattoos on her fair arms, no one would label her a problem girl. Her name is Yun Shi, and she is from Wu Cheng in the south of Shuixiu. There was no tattoo on her arm because she was tattooed elsewhere.

In her hand, very few people can recognize the brand of the mobile phone. When she had opened the screen of the mobile phone, the email was opened. It was an electronic notice for an interview. The notice was issued and stamped with the electronic seal of the Monster Heavy Industry.

Chapter 344: Just Leave

Her name was Yun Shi, and she was from Wu Cheng in the south of Shuixiu. If there was a genius in this world, then Yun Shi could be counted as one. She was nineteen years old and had the best prospect of integrity. This was not the point, and the point was that she has graduated from college.

After graduating from University at the age of 19, this kind of genius was usually competed by colleges and universities. Then, she was escorted by the masters to become an incomparable existence for ordinary people.

If it hadn't been for the past few years, some jumping geniuses would burst out, because the emotional swings of adolescence were so large that they can't integrate with the surrounding students. Or due to fluctuations in performance, leading to increased mental stress, and examples of serious psychological problems and other factors.

Yun Shi could complete college studies earlier.

Nineteen years old, three to four years younger than normal classmates, was not too much disparity and was watched as a national treasure.

In fact, if it was not for some accidents, Yun Shi would be now a graduate student and she was recommended to be an exam free graduate student.

Yun Shi!

Just listening to the name, you could guess that most of her parents were the kind of personification with a little romance. The temperament of her body was also consistent with this, and her family history was indeed the same.

Her mother was an associate professor at Wucheng University, and her father was a well-known calligrapher. Occasionally, he could write inscriptions for others and could get hundreds of retouching fees.

Of course, this kind of good thing did not happen often. On weekdays, her father was more invited to have three or five like-minded friends, start tea and discuss the traditional Chinese calligraphy art.

In her mother's words, if it wasn't for her associate professor's salary and bonus, a man like you who were idle has to rest for three times when he goes upstairs. What else could you like to buy? You would go to the street early and took chalk to write for dinner. My mother was really blind at first and was filled with soup by a man who only understands romance but cannot even do housework.'

In a word, the feelings of the couple are harmonious. It may be because of the reason that Yun Shi's father is aware of his own fault. This rather elegant and romantic man never had a red face on his wife.

It was his granddaughter Yun Shi who has dropped out since some time ago.

For example, Yun Shi even gave up the recommendation of exempting graduate students and wanted to go out to find a job. That was in the top five universities recommended by China's top universities for graduate interview qualifications. Many students dreamed of this temple.

If she had given up at the beginning, it was enough, but she had been reading for nearly she and a month had said that it was not fun to go to graduate school.

Fortunately, Yun Shi's father had nothing wrong with his body, otherwise, he would be sighing on the bed.

However, Yun Shi had a reason to go, but she couldn't explain it to her family.

Someone knew her other identity.

That identity was called true words.

Although Yun Shi rode in the computer field, she had unparalleled talent. But she was only nineteen years old and she had not been deeply involved in the world. She really underestimated it. Some interest groups that have been broken by her were trying to find her determination.

The cause of the matter was not complicated. A few months ago, she had received a job offer with a million-year salary from Monster Heavy Industry in a hidden communication forum.

Yun Shi's family could barely be considered a well-off. His mother's monthly income was over 10,000, but his father would dance all day long. So, buying a house with four treasures was worse for a woman spending most of her salary on cosmetics.

Yun Shi had used her knowledge of technology and hid it from his family and continued to earn a lot of money, but most of this money was spent on equipment to network equipment.

This was a hundred times more expensive than her father's hobby. For example, she had rented a foreign commercial computer and had conducted an exhaustive test on the algorithm of the program. The rent was 4,000 yuan an hour.

Large companies such as Monster Heavy Industry which are solidly engaged in manufacturing, earn millions of annual salaries, and no one cares.

My heart went back to my chest because Yun Shi was influenced by her family since she was a child, and she was always upheld the most traditional and faithful belief of China. Never use your own ability to help those unscrupulous companies to conduct actions that harm others.

She loved justice like a knight, and that's why she offended too many people.

Out of the peculiar prudence and carefulness of the girls, Yun Shi had rejected this tempting high-paying position and incidentally helped them drive away from the hackers who came to invade. Unexpectedly, this group of hackers and the company behind them were not ready to give up, and first aimed at her.

It was not difficult to guess that the Monster Heavy Industry last month, invited the real eye to deal with them.

Yun Shi also had reserved many protection software on the heavy industry monster server. The top hacker circle was so small, the other party could guess who it is based on the characteristics of the protection software.

What's more, they had been communicating in the forum before.

They had used their true eyes to be embarrassed and set up a trap.

Yun Shi had lost not on technology, but on psychology and underestimation of good and evil.

At the same time, she had lost in the relationship.

The other party disguised as a small emerging network company, claiming that their software products were violently cracked by hackers and they threatened to give them 100,000 yuan, otherwise they would make the source code of their software public.

The cuts were all normal. The techniques of this group of hackers are simply dregs. Yun Shi solved the problem without any effort.

Then the small network company, which claimed to be a college student, had to pay.

Yun Shi only had received 3,000 yuan, and the payment method was safe. Through a network payment account registered with virtual data, the money was transferred with a few turns and then entered into the bank card.

In the following days, the other party often asked Yun Shi for some technical questions.

It was in these small talks that it did not seem to reveal valid information. They analyzed a lot of information. And according to some small means that would not attract Yun Shi's attention and strong social relations, the other party finally had figured out her real name and her school.

Yun Shi had no other choice but to leave.

Yun Shi had already seen the terrible social relationship of the other party. They could even buy the unknown payment company. They simply sorted it and finally locked the number and name of Yun Shi's withdrawal card.

Even if the bank card was not in her own name, enough information had been exposed, such as the card's transfer records and cash withdrawal records.

As long as the relationship was in place, this information could be found from the bank that is next to her school.

Before leaving, Yun Shi has quietly changed her own file in the school except that the name and age were inconsistent, all of them were wrong.

Yun Shi couldn't imagine what she would have when she finally found herself.

These things could not be said to her parents. After a big quarrel with the family, Yun Shi asked herself a little confused, where to go?

Where could she go safely so that she wouldn't have to worry about it every day?

Yesterday, when Yun Shi cleaned up the traces on the use of his mailbox, there was a picture of Zhang who was the president of the Monster Heavy Industry.

In the photo, two bodyguards with cold faces and amazingly strong physiques stood beside the Mercedes-Benz G65. Even custom-made suits can't hide their bodies, which can make bodybuilding champions dwarfed by the explosive muscle lines.

Looking at this photo, Yun Shi remembered the promise made by the former President Ye.

Maybe it was doomed that Yun Shi did not take long to read a large-scale employee recruitment announcement for Monster Heavy Industry.

Yun Shi submitted a resume. In the expected position at the end of the resume, Yun Shi filled the general publicity post, not the network engineer she was best at.

Chapter 345: Start Interview

The high-speed train passed over a few houses and factory buildings and because the train was too fast, these buildings had become indistinguishable blurry images and only by delivering the gaze to a distance could we barely see the scenery.

Yun Shi's heart was abnormal. This was the first time she had left her hometown to work in a completely strange city. Wu Cheng was only a few tens of minutes away from Shang Hai. She had spent her university there and was no stranger to her.

However, the clouds were different. In this city, everything was strange. She should hide carefully and temporarily forget the glory she once had.

After all, behind that group of hackers was a large domestic company. And Yun Shi had offended far more this company. Many interest groups who had broken her good deeds could not help but hang her on the street lamp.

Once the hackers and the companies behind them smash out the information they had. The credit card fraud gangs, money laundering companies, hacker organizations that Yun Shi offended in the past were all blamed.

After staring out the window for a long time, Yun Shi finally turned her head.

Turning on the phone, and looking at the electronic interview notice again, Yun Shi was nervous and calm she thought the Monster Heavy Industry's president is a good man or a responsible man.

Although she had only had a few short email exchanges with this president, Yun Shi can judge this president was different from those former presidents who liked to think hard and pay more attention to dignity.

Working there, Yun Shi was thought it should be pretty good and just look at what that young president looks like.

Fifteen minutes later, the train arrived at the Yungao High-speed Rail Station.

Yun Shi straightened up; her tall figure suddenly attracted the attention of other passengers in the carriage.

When Yun Shi turned her head, the elf-like young girl with her unique outfit won most of the opposite sex's greedy praise in the carriage.

After walking out of the platform, Yun Shi looked at this strange city. The rest, she had to rely on her own ability to be comfortable as a young and beautiful worker. If she did not consider the crisis, for the time being, her heart was actually somewhat proud.

Monster Heavy Industry was just like the sun, and Yun Shi saw several students in the university group who have not yet found a job and tried to deliver their resumes in the past. It was just that they were all brushed, but Yun Shi received an interview notice.

If she was posting for a job as a computer engineer at the Ministry of Networks, it wouldn't be surprising if she accepted Yun Shi without a test.

But she only delivered ordinary publicity posts, and the information was fake except for the name and gender. All of these can be qualified for the interview. Did not that explain Yun Shi's own ability?

This taste of being recognized as soon as she left school made Yun Shi feel very excited.

The company interview area of the Blue-sky Building has been divided into two, and 2,000 people would be interviewed today.

For these two thousand people, at most, only two hundred would be selected to join the company and each person had only two minutes of interview time.

Ye Qing walked around in the interview area. When he sees the interviewee is satisfied, Ye Qing will smile. Some of them are too frivolous or boastful, and Ye Qing will frown slightly.

Ye Qing would walk around in the interview area. One by one the candidates would be passed. When he saw a candidate who came for the interview satisfied him, Ye Qing would smile. Some were too frivolous or exaggerated, so Ye Qing would frown slightly.

Ye Qing would ask two questions only when he meets satisfying employees. Most of the time he did not speak, and when he felt he is not suitable, he would pat the testing officer below. The interviewer knew what to do and would draw an x on the resume with a pen.

"Dear interviewers, I am an undergraduate from Shangnan University. I have previously worked at Wal-Mart for two years. During my work, I was repeatedly praised by the district manager as typical praise for my diligent and serious work style. I also summed up 12 very effective ones based on my experience... "

"District manager?" The interviewer responsible for the review had interrupted with some confusion: "Which district are you in?"

"East China!" The interviewer was proud. "I wrote all the information. Our original district manager still called me from time to time and invites me back to work. "

"Lower position." The interviewer had raised his hand to interrupt the employee's continuous flow, and this one was too good to blow. Two years ago, Wal-Mart had divided the original six regions into five because of the decline in performance, and the corresponding provinces were also transferred to other regions.

This guy was even wrong with the most basic information about the city and the region. Did the district manager invite him to go back to work?

Ye Qing sat and sighed. In fact, this time the staff expansion was not demanding of academic qualifications and work experience he and the monsters were responsible for the most difficult technical research, production, and processing. The work tasks of employees were not too difficult to talk about, and people with basic brains could be competent.

Ye Qing mainly had interviewed the personality aspects of employees through interviews. Such candidates were not the first or the last.

Ye Qing had turned down a few interview areas, feeling a bit exhausted. After watching the time, he got up and left for Longxi Beach.

At the factory, the first full-motion assembly platform was about to be built. Ye Qing had planned to soak it in the factory in the afternoon. When he came to the company to interview these people, he always felt a sense of embarrassment. He was always afraid that the company would recruit any employees with bad character.

Since Ye Qing did not read the mind, he did not see the heart and was not upset.

After making the elevator down to the negative underground parking lot, Ye Qing wiped his pockets and found the car keys were missing.

Going upstairs again, on the first floor the elevator door slowly opened, and a young girl with fair skin and a sky-blue slim trench coat walked in.

She also carried a large suitcase. It was now off-hours. The employee who came for the interview was either upstairs or was about to leave. The girl became the second passenger in the elevator.

Ye Qing couldn't help but look at her twice, this girl who seemed to come from the elven world. She had a beautiful and smooth silver-gray shawl and her face was delicate and beautiful as the eyes under Yue Dai's eyebrows, hiding a touch of sadness.

"Which floor?" Ye Qing's expression did not change much. Appreciation and appreciation, even if ordinary people saw beautiful women few would take the initiative to approach, let alone Ye Qing.

"Excuse me... on which floor is the company of Monster Heavy Industry?" Yun Shi took a lot of effort to lift the suitcase into the elevator.

The suitcase was packed with her second-life treasure, and even if she planned to hide, Yun Shi didn't intend to send these things home.

"Ninth floor." Ye Qing was a little surprised and nodded at her. "I happen to be there too."

Yun Shi nodded in response and took the initiative to chat with the sunny looking and confident boy: "Thank you, do you also go to the interview?"

"I'm going to pick up things." Ye Qing hesitated, still expressing his thoughts: "Miss if you plan to go to the interview... I think... It's better if you dye your head black, not that the office workers should dye it. But if everyone is black, and your head is not the same as everyone else. Isn't it a little too unique?"

Chapter 346: Personal Works

"Is Tai Tai's personal independence of conduct?"

"But this color really looks good." Yun Shi looked at the boy next to her strangely: "Isn't hair dye common this year? And the ability to work is not in conflict with being dyeing."

"If you want to pass the interview. It is better to style your head back." The elevator had reached the ninth floor, and Ye Qing smiled at her before leaving.

"I'll think about it." Yun Shi laughed back, then queued with the interview army in the corridor.

"You can't dye it!"

Yun Shi had estimated the boy should be working in Monster Heavy Industry. When the next day,

Yun Shi was classified in the interview area on the 5th, and Ji Ke was responsible for handling this point. Yun Shi dragged a large suitcase to this way and moved around a bit with the crowd of interviews.

In just a few minutes, she tasted a taste she had never tasted. Letting her fully understand how the ivory tower at school felt different from working. Beauty was sometimes a sin of the original, especially when it came to the future. Caught in the crowd, Yun Shi could obviously feel the exclusion of other girls from around.

For example, the girl in front of Yun Shi, who was far away from her in both appearance and temperament had asked her with a stubborn tone. Did you graduate from high school? It seems that the Monster Heavy Industry does not recruit migrant girls without a bachelor's degree.

Yun Shi seemed to have heard of a female interviewer, whispering she is not serious. She always nodded and smiled at the skeptical eyes that had been thrown. Hours later, Yun Shi had lined up outside the waiting line in the interview area. The previous girl who kept talking to her was more gentle than the heroine in the idol drama. She always had spoken so sweetly and politely. She always bent down to pay tribute to the interviewer.

The interview area was a temporary partitioned room. Although the door is closed, the sound insulation was not very good and Yun Shi could hear the faint voice of dialogue inside. That girl seemed to be going well.

Two minutes later, the wooden door was opened, and the interviewer's "lower position" shouted. Yun Shi pushed a large suitcase to pass her and met her glaring eyes and said gently: "Auntie, I graduated from Fuxia University, which is ranked 5th in China. I am 19 years old."

The 26-year-old girl suddenly scanned her body, and her eyes were incredible.

Ji Ke was in charge of the interview area on the 5th. Yun Shi's application materials are lying on the table at this time. This information was true and false, the most serious part of which was false. Yun Shi went to the glorious past, describing himself as a good baby who had missed the profession. Her graduation certificate is [Computer Science and Technology], but her specialties are writing classical studies and calligraphy and painting, and she introduced herself to Fudan's top palace by virtue of this.

It seemed that in order to prove what she said was true, a photo of her personal work is also included in the application materials. The vice was very characteristic and very famous in poetry and painting.

Tang Yin's "Beauty on the Moon."

Xie Yan Jiao'e is lying late at night, and the pear flower wind is quiet and the birds are inhabiting the branches. It is difficult to tell the mind and others and know the blue sky and the moon.

The poem is Hui Molang, sketched on white jade-like rice paper.

As the words are carved, even if the rationalization is almost declining, it is difficult for thousands of young people to find a society that knows how to appreciate ancient calligraphy.

Yun Shi's calligraphy could also make Ji Ke and the other two interviewers breathless, and could not help but admire it.

The unimaginable good character, the seemingly messy vertical and horizontal turns, with a kind of a little vision you could see the beauty of Xiuyi.

If you watched carefully, the fonts on the paper would be thin and thin, and they were three-pointed and feminine.

There was no doubt that those who could write such characters would win prizes in various calligraphy competitions from elementary school.

The words were incredible, and the painting was even worse. Because this was not the traditional Chinese classical ink painting, but the western oil painting style. With white rice paper as the back, the lines were simple and there were only a few dwarf trees with crumbling leaves. Under the dwarf trees, the ladies and gentlemen looked at the bright moon above the treetops.

The interviewers were fascinated by this Western painting of poetry and painting and felt they were good enough to go to an exhibition of personal works.

"Even if she is a primary school student, she can be recruited as an artist."

"Just looking at this calligraphy, even if you were an elementary school student, you could be recruited as an artist."

"Nineteen-year-old Yun Shi majored in computer science?" Ji Ke widened his eyes. Although he did not dare to evaluate the word and the painting, how good it was, he was certain that she could get extra points with this hand.

But normal undergraduate students graduate at the age of 22. Did not nineteen mean that at some stage of her studies, she even jumped to the third level?

Yun Shi dragged a large suitcase into the interview room, and Ji Ke and the other two interviewers looked at Yun Shi very unexpectedly.

The head was silver-gray long. This kind of showy color that may feel fancy on other girls, somehow put on her, giving people a natural, beautiful feeling. Probably the arts were mostly unconventional.

"Good for the three interviewers." Yun Shi set the suitcase aside and nodded.

"Have you come from a foreign country?" Ji Ke looked at the photos and herself, the routine: "I am Ji Ke, the manager of the network department, you are the computer science and technology major in the information. You are very accomplished in classical art. Why do you choose such a job? And why did you apply for our company's publicity department, not the network department? Or Network Manager?"

Yun Shi had smiled slightly and couldn't help thinking. 'You were the guy who shouted in the forum that he should worship himself as a teacher and treat himself as holy scripture.'

"My father has influenced me since I was a child. It may be because of my father. I do have some talent in calligraphy and painting."

Yun Shi nodded and answered several interviewers with the reasons she had already prepared: "I chose computer science because my father's guidance was enough for painting and calligraphy. But I have no other hobbies other than painting and calligraphy. I don't know what major is better, I just choose a computer major. "

"Fudan is a famous university. Their computer majors are well-known in network security and software applications. I don't know how you master these."

Ji Ke carefully looked at the copy of the graduation certificate on the information and said: "Our department is also recruiting staff. If you have a good grasp of professional knowledge, you can also consider interviewing the lower department."

"Mastery of expertise..."

Yun Shi replied with a silly answer: "Is p's hand figure good?"

Chapter 347: Improve 20 Times Efficiency

Inside the Longxitan factory, Ye Qing stared at the equipment in front of him as if walking out of a science fiction movie and said excitedly: "The end of the ox party is here."

After the monsters' day and day efforts, the first full-motion assembly platform was finally manufactured. At the same time, Ye Qing had spent huge sums of money. From many machine tool dealers, the massive machining centers ordered had also arrived. Demag, Trumpf, Mag, Schuler, etc. were all top machine tool brands.

At present, the monster factory ranking in the province has been squeezed to the 31st place with an honor value of more than 3 million.

With the rapid increase in funds, the ranking of the Monster Heavy Industry was also rising day by day. Just following the rising honor value, Ye Qing had felt it was used in too few ways, and accumulated more than 3 million honor values now.

The fourth stage of monsters factory has opened the second kind of honor goods. The camouflage work clothes had been for the monsters and Monster Kit.

A thing similar to the standard tool kit on the market, which had very small portable tools, which could increase the efficiency of maintenance and disassembly. This thing was suitable for monsters to go out, and it could only be used by monsters.

The honor draw was refreshed once, and 10,000 honor draws. Because several products have been drawn, three-dimensional cameras and industrial glasses are the most useful, and the rest were not useful for the time being. Ye Qing was afraid that the honor value would have a greater effect in the future, so he first accumulated there.

Hit the fifth stage with all his strength!

A Mechanical Colossus Type I slowly had opened the door of the workshop and carefully moved the full-motion platform fixed on the metal base of the pulley to the outside by dragging the steel cable carefully. Then the Mechanical Colossus Type I's two robotic arms clamped the base one by one and transported the full-motion assembly platform to a brand new workshop.

The plant located south of the transit warehouse was its new home. One plant could accommodate the supporting facilities of four full-motion assembly platforms, and another assembly platform could be completed in two days.

With the Mechanical Colossus Type I, Ye Qing had walked into this technology workshop with four sets of parts for the system.

The assembly platform could not be created out for anything. The product parts of the ionization purifier need to be passed through the supply system to the interior of the assembly platform at high speed.

This was similar to a magazine.

The parts were pressed into the supply system like bullets, and the full-motion assembly platform was a fully faired machine gun that emitted ionizing purifiers. Ye Qing had no concept of this speed, now he could finally realize it.

Only slightly above the ground, a system with six closed high-speed supply chains was ready to go. The blue cold light on the supply chain had shuttled back and forth and finally converged on the square platform in the center. No matter from which angle, the system in front of Ye Qing's eyes seemed to come from extraterrestrial technology.

In fact, it was more mysterious than extraterrestrial, because aliens could at least be seen in science fiction movies and monster factories were not even in the human imagination.

The Mechanical Colossus Type I had slowly lowered the assembly batch platform as soon as it docked with the parts supply system.

The monster factory phone also came with a prompt and Ye Qing took it for checking!

The parts of this product, more than 70% of the processed parts of the monsters, meet the excellent quality requirements.

Full-motion assembly platform (excellent quality / sale), the operation procedure is written.

Generating skill skills...

A touch of the metal halo passed over the full-motion assembly platform. It seems that the whole body is carved with a whole alloy, and there is no assembly platform without any gaps. With the strengthening of the monster factory, it has a soul.

The cold light in the supply chain stopped shuttles as if waiting for orders.

The reinforced platform silently cut through the forward hatch, exposing a transparent viewing port.

"Boss, all parts supply is ready to start." The Master Craftsman narrowed his eyes, staring at this equipment that had taken them a lot of hard work.

"Isn't it necessary to enter the manufacturing instructions for the ionizer?"

Ye Qing looked carefully at the clever Tiangong mechanical structure through the observation port suspiciously: "The CNC machine tools should be programmed with the feeding steps and steps in advance. The same was not true for the full-motion assembly platform?"

The Master Craftsman nodded and activated the full-motion platform.

A "click" sounded from the metal, coming from all directions.

The chain cabins supplying parts for the assembly platform were all started, and the Master Craftsman stood in front of the control panel wrote the first product program.

At two o'clock, the blue cold light had moved forward one space. Then inside the observation window of the full-motion platform, the round integrated metal panel had slid away, and a snake-like mechanical device had removed the injection-molded housing of the ionization purifier.

At four o'clock the blue light on the chain cabin had moved, and the magnetic induction element of the ionization purifier was taken out.

A hollow probe was carefully moved to the connection between the two by the Master Craftsman. After several slight rotations, the probe was fed into the fixing wire to fix the magnetic induction element on it.

At six o'clock, the magnetic generator was taken out and two snakes-like mechanical devices were moved over, the thin silver-white welding needle was moved and was brought out during the process of touching and leaving the magnetic generator Blossoming welding arc.

In this way, the manual operation was carried out step by step. When the white laser finally melted the gap of the shell of the ionization purifier into a whole, a brand new ionization purifier had appeared in front of Ye Qing.

"The operation steps have been entered."

"The system automatically optimizes, eliminating redundant and invalid actions..."

"No redundant or invalid actions can be eliminated. Is it a preservation solution for fully automatic manufacturing?"

"Fully automated manufacturing begins!"

On the chain cabin, the blue cold light representing the feed speed of the parts had suddenly begun to accelerate.

Within two seconds, he moved forward one frame. In the observation window of the assembly platform, Ye Qing rubbed his eyes so hard that he couldn't see the movement track of the mechanical device inside.

The arc flickered, the laser swept, and the snake-like mobile device danced across the sky.

Ye Qing felt the effort to take two breaths. An ionizing purifier had appeared on the conveyor.

Taking another two breaths, another appeared.

Then when Ye Qing returned from shock, dozens of ionizing purifiers had been added outside.

How long does it take for a traditional production line to make one?

Forty seconds, this was still under the condition that the monsters were full. Now the full-motion assembly platform had compressed this speed by twenty times.

The most important thing was he did not need any monster to stand by!

As long as the supply of parts could keep up, the full-motion assembly platform could produce 40,000 ionizers per day.

The saved monsters can participate in the capacity expansion of spare parts.

With all five units completed, 200,000 ionizing purifiers could be produced per day.

From then on, users do not need to wait and place orders at any time. The artificially high price will naturally follow suit. Those scalpers who had spent a high price and wanted to make a fortune would naturally lose their tears.

Chapter 348: University Dormitory

How many mobile phone units does Apple produce per day?

Take the iPhone 5s with the largest demand in that year. If the Foxconn foundry was fully opened 24 hours a day, it can produce 500,000 units a day.

But this was a hundred high-tech 5s mobile phone assembly line, tens of thousands of people work together.

Although the number of parts of the ionizer was not comparable to that of mobile phones, the technical content was not low.

After working non-stop all night, 20,000 sets of ionization purifiers were ready to go. Ye Qing was ready to make up the order quantity for the month and finally had played the role of users across the country. Those scalpers who could fight this way were caught off guard.

This night, the saved monster hands were not idle but were invested in the manufacturing of the new full-motion assembly platform.

In the early morning of the next day, the second full-motion assembly platform was completed, and another full-motion assembly platform has been added to the production of ionizers.

The monsters started to produce spare parts for the full-motion platforms.

.....

In the university student dormitory of the Department of Business Administration of Yun University, Tu Zhuo lay bored and brushed his mobile phone.

The dormitories were all ranked according to age, but occasionally there were exceptions such as the youngest, but in a very important talent the most outstanding guy was selected as the boss.

"Boss, the boss didn't come back?"

"Hu Ge newly found a sophomore, and it was estimated that he would not be able to come back tonight." The roommate who watched on the cell phone with his face envious: "Hu Ge was really a dragon."

"I want to have the boss's skin; I promise to be more powerful than the boss." Tu Zhuo, who was the second-best child, had pouted and touched the acne on his face.

"Haha... But..." Tu Zhuo had turned sharply, holding the phone and showing the pictures on the phone to the other two lonely brothers.

That was a backorder, and it was by far the most popular order for ionizers.

It was just that the expected delivery time of the order was a little long, and it would still be months.

"After a few months, my ionization purifier arrives." Tu Zhuo had smiled with neuropathy: "If you say I give it away, wouldn't you sleep as long as you want to sleep."

"Second brother, you can wash and sleep. Ionization purifier. Or you should keep acne for yourself. You are willing to give away thousands of things?"

Through the reflection of the mobile phone screen, Tu Zhuo could see his face covered with acne. Thinking about the price of ionizers again made him very frustrated.

Tu Zhuo was going to wash and sleep and the door outside the dormitory was opened lightly from the outside.

A dark shadow had flashed in, closed the door and turned on the lights. It was a little handsome guy with a star-shaped eyebrow and a pretty idol drama actor.

"Boss you did not go to base tonight? It is not your style."

"You haven't slept yet?" Seeing the mobile-phone lights on the nightstand, Xu Xiaohu had subconsciously hidden the box he was carrying with his hands and hid him. This action had suddenly made some other roommates feel energetic.

"Boss... Boss, what's in it, is it the token of love sent by that school sister?"

"I guess there was a meal. The boss felt our bachelors were bitter, so they bought delicious food to compensate us."

"This is... Is this the ionizer purifier package?" Tu Zhuo smashed the pot to sell iron and ordered an ionizer purifier. In the long days of waiting for the arrival of goods, he had already visited the forum for a long time to get the ionizer purifier from the outer packaging with interior details, which was more familiar than the professional courses.

Now that it has been recognized, Xu Xiaohu was not good enough to continue hiding it and took it out of the headbox: "It is indeed an ionizer..."

"Boss, you haven't ordered it from the government. Why is there such a baby?" Tu Zhuo's face was full of question marks.

Because it didn't take long to get to know each other Xu Xiaohu didn't tell the roommates in the bedroom that his cousin was, in fact, the Monster Heavy Industry President.

In the two months of summer vacation, Xu Xiaohu helped the company directly.

From the start of the Monster Heavy Industry, Xu Xiaohu tried to work hard and did his best with dozens of people at the size of hundreds.

At the same time, he had gained a lot of life experiences that could only be sharpened in society.

Now Xu Xiaohu understands that his identity as a cousin could not be said anymore. Because once the students know, he would face helping the students go through the back door.

The hassle of buying an ionizer.

This ionizer was originally intended to be given to the sophomore's senior sister.

This was pure because Xu Xiaohu likes her, and when he gave this precious gift tonight, she told her carefully that the ionizer was worth tens of thousands and he had worked hard to grab it. So, he might as well sell it and earn tens of thousands. When the price drops in the future, he could buy it later.

This made Xu Xiaohu felt that her personality was very good, and he finally encountered a girl he liked, and Xu Xiaohu was about to have a sweet love.

But first, we have to find a reason to put things in front of us.

Xu Xiaohu said: "It's for a student sister. She covets my beauty."

"It depends on it!"

"It depends on it!"

Tu Zhuo did not say a word for a long time, this answer was most reasonable. Although Xu Xiaohu wanted to give Gao Leng gifts on weekdays, they were rejected by her. But with the ionization purifier could she resist at the temptation?

They shouted to Brother Xu should unpack the package first and they addicted their eyes, Xu Xiaohu said he should keep it for others, and that he could not unpack it.

"Actually, you don't need to worry." Xu Xiaohu, who knew inside information, said to this group of housemates who would not participate in speculation at all.

"When dawn comes, the price of ionization purifiers will plummet, because Monster Heavy Industries has urgently expanded the capacity of the plant. Otherwise, as long as there is patience, everyone can grab the ionization purifier."

"Well, the news is from someone I know. The sister school who worked at Monster Heavy Industry told me."

"That doesn't mean my order won't have to wait for months any longer?" Tu Zhuo's voice was so loud that he almost drew control: "Which idiot do I say, Boss is so willing to take the money? Originally ion purifier's production capacity has expanded. "

Xu Xiaohu nodded in pain.

"At the latest tomorrow, all orders within the month will be shipped in advance."

"The boss's words have never been fake." Tu Zhuo had jumped directly to the bed, decisively: "I decided to wait until dawn, and I want to return to sixteen years old and return to my most handsome moment."

Speaking of which, Tu Zhuo had borrowed a power bank and refreshed the mobile phone interface in bed.

There was no such thing as Tu Zhuo.

Of course, they had no inside information, but they could routinely check the order status every day or go to the Monster Heavy Industry Official Forum to see those lucky people who had received the goods on how to show off the function of the ionizer purifier, not a few.

"50 thousand acquisition of ionization purifier, this long-term artificial top is effective, five-year-old store credibility can be idle fish."

"Acquisition of ionization purifiers at high prices can be face-to-face in Jiangnan Province, and the price is satisfactory."

Now the official forum was like a hypermarket, and those trading posts could not be deleted.

Of course, the administrators did not make many efforts to delete, because these posts would automatically disappear soon.

Chapter 349: Momentary Price

In the information company of Yanjixin Information Co., Ltd., Yan Feixin stayed there and became a rabbit's eye.

When hundreds of single ionization purifiers were canceled Yan Feixin had almost jumped off the building. He wanted to get revenge; he had no intention of giving up like that. So he had cheered up himself and got back on his feet and quickly decided to take corrective action.

Yan Feixin began to join many famous cattle scalpers to join the army of the purchase of an ionizing purifier.

Buying low and selling high, this method Yan Feixin plays very smoothly. He has a lot of customer resources. As long as he had successfully acquired Taiwan's market, he can find a buyer with a higher bid in less than half a minute.

The buyers who had already spent 60,000 yuan on an order with him, promising them to send the goods. If he could not do it, he should find a reason and tell them: "Due to some irresistible reasons, the delivery time will be delayed, and the buyer could naturally quit." But Yan Feixin's announcement of this sentence could scare everyone immediately.

Yan Feixin had told them that if they insisted on asking for the goods, they could only place an order first. Foreign software product which worth 60,000 yuan, the ghost did not know what it was used for in the past, will be added after the arrival of the ionization purifier...

All orders had been returned before, and the shop he had worked hard for was also blocked by complaints.

As long as the capital was preserved, there was a possibility of resurgence if the capital was preserved. If the capital store was closed, there were four other diamond stores as a spare.

I have to say that Yan Feixin was quite clever in terms of crooked ways.

Even like other colleagues, he had to join the army to buy ionizers from users, but he was ingenious and tried to keep the purchase price to the lowest level in various ways.

Every time a user came to inquire about the purchase price, Yan Feixin had always flickered to the other side saying he was not too willing to bid for the acquisition for the time being and it takes two days to observe the market situation.

"Why?" That was almost everyone's answer.

Yan Feixin would tell the other party that they had inside information that Monster Heavy Industry had contacted a number of foundry factories and is expanding the production capacity of ionizers at any cost.

Now the risk of high-priced acquisitions is too great, Yan Feixin still had a few pictures in the past to prove his concerns.

The picture was from the advertising company, the custom-made ionization purifier outer box, more than a hundred neat yards were placed on the table there were several models of the ionization purifier that had been unpacked.

"If you want to buy, you can go to other stores, but you must be careful. Those who could not go idle or pick up the goods in person are scammers. We have encountered several poor sellers who have been cheated."

Yan Feixin had the tone of a deputy conscience merchant, not only telling sellers who wanted to make a pen a few anti-fraud pieces of knowledge but also talking about the ionization purifier. They previously took the price of 40,000 yuan the unit, which was too high for this Can basically be defined as a liar.

There were six people on Yan Feixin's side. Most of the official forums were information about their acquisitions. All post accounts had independent computers to automatically reply to the top.

Almost two-thirds of the sellers who bluff away were likely to find their vest shop again.

For those who were easy to deceive them would offer more than 40,000 yuan, and for those who were not easy to deceive would pay 70,000 yuan, and then they would use the way that was obviously a liar to instigate the other party's transaction.

There was a previous conversation about the conscience acquirer, and naturally, no one dared to sell it at the price below of 70,000.

Looking around, the sellers choose not to sell less than 40,000 yuan in the unit, and the rest was worse and they could earn thousands of yuan above the market price.

Don't underestimate the difference between these thousands of yuan. Those who joined the ox party later could not make it.

It was three o'clock in the morning, and today Yan Feixin, who had received only seven ionization purifiers was preparing to take a break and the chat tool suddenly ringed.

Another seller came.

Yan Feixin had skillfully repeated the previous steps, saying they have inside information that Monster Heavy Industry was expanding production capacity regardless of the cost, and the price of the ionizer has dropped in the past two days.

They had ghostly inside information, all of which are carefully crafted lies to keep prices down.

However, this time, the seller's reply, the man who made Yan Feixin stare.

"Then with how much money can you buy? I'm anxious to use the money and will sell it to you if the price is right."

"I wipe, so easy to cheat?" Yan Feixin came to the spirit and quickly typed the picture, saying that he had collected more than a hundred units here. "If you really want to sell, we can only bid 37,000."

"Forty thousand, we can trade now if possible."

"Oh my god, what a pure seller." Yan Feixin laughed and laughed. All the ionizing purifiers bought today were dumped by 70,000 yuan all of them. This changed hands and made 30,000, not much worse than before.

Although the goods have not yet reached the buyer, the series of transaction processes have been completed, which was not like pressing all the eggs into the Monster Heavy Industry basket before.

For each order was a separate seller-buyer, and the problem may be very, very small. The other party was quick, and Yan Feixin was even quicker.

From verifying the other party's order information to completing the transaction payment, it took only five minutes.

Excited to fall asleep, Yan Feixin had lit a cigarette and sucked it. As a result, the cigarette just had taken two breaths and the chat tool rang again.

Still looking for the door-to-door seller, Yan Feixin had extinguished the cigarette butt and fluttered on the keyboard: "We have inside information...".

"Then you really don't accept it?" The seller directly had interrupted Yan Feixin's swing.

According to the plan planned before, Yan Feixin would not buy it, because the ionization purifier was so hot that blind people could see it. The price was low, others would definitely ask a few more.

However, there was a pure seller before and Yan Feixin thought that if he could come to the house in the middle of the night he should be the one who used the money urgently.

Yan Feixin also offered a price of 37,000.

Five minutes later, Yan Feixin, who completed a single transaction again always felt like he was dreaming.

Could it be his lucky day tonight?

His accomplices had returned to their respective homes. Yan Feixin had used the chat group Aite to get everyone up, but no one responded. It is estimated that they had rested.

The cigarette didn't finish, and a third seller came.

Yan Feixin felt something was wrong. Why were there more people at this point than during the day?

So, after Yan Feixin flickered, he directly opened the price to 30,000.

"Neuropathy!"

The other party dropped him and pulled him directly, which had made Yan Feixin feel at ease.

Sure enough, the seller had found their vest shop two minutes later.

It took Yan Feixin two tigers and two tigers to fetch the price of 52,000.

The chat tool was quiet for a while, and Yan Feixin had started logging into the official forum.

For this acquisition, Yan Feixin and several of his associates had taken out all the original books and put together millions of yuan. He naturally had to be careful.

Nothing had changed on the forum. There were very few people online at this point. Yan Feixin had tried a post of 40,000 to buy ionization purifiers and he had received more than thirty messages within two minutes, scolding him for a reply that he wanted to make money and went crazy.

Yan Feixin's anxiety was cut again. As long as he asked his associates if the same thing didn't happen, it means that tonight was really his lucky day. He was about to call each other to wake up, but one had called him first.

"Boss, great event! Just now a fool sold me three ionization purifiers."

Chapter 350: Meet Again

"I just had a fool. He sold me three ionization purifiers."

Yan Feixin had sighed a little.

"With thirty-five thousand, this idiot sold three."

Yan Feixin's heart was a little bit worse.

"What do I do?" "

Another companion even had responded: "Where did you find such a good thing? I just received two, 50,000 and 30,000."

"Haha... Please clean your ears and listen to me." Suddenly someone was online again, with an expression of wild laughter when talking.

"Boss, I used to sleep. As a result, a colleague who knew me called and said he had ten ionizers in his hand because there was no way to continue the turnover and he had to handle all of them for me.

"I ate it all, and I can make more than 200,000 by changing hands. I can't help it, boss!"

"Will we be rich this time?"

"Wait..."

The celebration was just half-spoken and finally, someone had realized something was wrong: "Just half an hour, we received more ionization purifiers than we have opened until now. And the price jumped so hard, the situation seems to be..."

Looking at the hindsight of his associates, Yan Feixin had murmured sitting on the ground, and the most terrible thing has happened.

The price of ionizers had collapsed.

What was the cause of the collapse?

He didn't even have a bit of news. Yan Feixin had dared to guarantee the price of the ionizer was still orderly half an hour ago.

The cell phone resting on the table had suddenly rung and ten consecutive beeps, Yan Feixin had grabbed the cell phone blindly.

Seeing the number, his eyes had suddenly recovered.

The phone was brought by a colleague who had been in a partnership in the early years. The colleague had taken care of him very much that year, and he did more work than him, and there were more than 20 employees.

There should be inside information there.

Yan Feixin had connected the phone like a life-saving straw.

"Hey... Brother Yan."

"I'm sorry to disturb you so late. Brother and I have a problem. I need a lot of money. Can you support me, brother? Of course, I can't treat you badly. I have 30 ionizers Forty-five thousand units are here for you, and you can earn hundreds of thousands if you change hands. "

"Hey... Brother Yan, why don't you speak? It can't be negotiated with 40,000 the unit."

Half an hour later, the Monster Heavy Industry had issued the latest announcement.

Dear users, I have kept you waiting.

After the emergency expansion of the company's production capacity, all scheduled orders for ionizing purifiers would be fully produced within three days. Before six o'clock, after that for next month's orders, it would be the same day.

This announcement had made Yan Feixin fall into the hell he was weaving by himself and could no longer climb out.

The lie he had used to flicker the seller turned out to be true!

When someone cries, someone laughs.

Ye Qing, who was soaking in the Longxitan factory was smiling, and all the employees at the Monster Heavy Industry were smiling.

The Taiwan ionization purifier sells for thousands of dollars. Now Ye Qing could produce 100,000 per day, and he could reach 200,000 per day in a few days.

One hundred thousand units could generate billions of yuan a day, and two hundred thousand was 1.6 billion.

There were also two types of robot income, and the sales volume of the Explorer and the Guardian had steadily increased, which could also bring 300 million yuan in revenue every day.

Ye Qing didn't go to the company for the past two days and went through the video conference to handle the company affairs.

Now that the production capacity of the ionization purifier was basically resolved, Ye Qing could also relax appropriately to meet the fifth stage of the upcoming monster factory.

The monster factory ranking had risen to 17th place, and its full-motion assembly platform had scored the most, and the platform had almost reached the industrial index of 15 processing centers.

The only drawback was the processing centers took a long time to manufacture, and he should pay for the processing heart and raw materials.

And with enough processing centers, he could greatly improve the production efficiency of the two robots.

Almost all of the processing center spot in Jiangnan Province was bought out by Ye Qing. Now it was the time when Monster Heavy Industries had the need to vigorously expand its production capacity. Even if Monster Heavy Industries had purchased more processing centers, it did not worry about being suspicious.

In the past two days, the company has been busy recruiting employees and re-planning the office area. Ye Qing couldn't help even if he was there. Now after two days of settlement, the company has just restored some order.

Early in the morning, when the sun had reluctantly climbed out of the horizon and dispersed the smog that enveloped the ground, Ye Qing had driven its car to the company.

This time with the staff expansion, Ye Qing had issued an order to set up a product research department.

The trading company upstairs had been rented and there was enough space in the civil air defense project opposite to make room for these new departments.

The product research department had mainly strengthened the convenient functions of the product based on the use of user feedback. Just like upgrading the password unlock of the mobile phone to the fingerprint unlocking, and not too complicated technical changes, users could very conveniently protect themselves.

Coming downstairs to the Blue-sky Building, Ye Qing could finally realize the quietness after a long absence because there were no more people around the door of the building, the people walking towards the building were also familiar faces.

The elevator was mounted from the negative to the floor, and the elevator door opens and the young girl with silver-gray hair enters the show.

"Hey... We're meeting again." Yun Shi changed into business attire and was surprised to say hello to Ye Qing.

It was unexpected for Yun Shi to apply for the Monster Heavy Industry on his own. But when she wanted to surprise the little brother, she had not met him for two days in the company.

The company had to continue to recruit hundreds of people for 66 days in the past two days. She was assigned to the new office area upstairs. She did not see Ye Qing, and she did not think it was strange. After all, there were too many people.

"Hi, first of all, congratulations on your successful interview and becoming a member of the company." Ye Qing nodded with a smile.

"Are not you surprised?" An unexpected surprise, which made Yun Shi's heart feel a little frustrated. She took the initiative to ask: "You see, my head has not been dyed back, and Monster Heavy Industries had not rejected me."

"So young people, your thinking is a bit conservative. I have seen several colleagues dyeing in the company, but they are dyed lightly and don't look so obvious."

"You are conservative?" Yun Shi asked Ye Qing:

"Yeah, very conservative."

"My name is Yun Shi." Yun Shi had stretched out her right hand.

"I see... Ye Qing." Ye Qing coughed twice. It seemed that the new girl hadn't heard her name: "You don't need to shake hands. The elevator is monitored, or the security guards do not see it well."

"You are more conservative than I imagined." Yun Shi thought it was both fun and funny. This colleague, who looked a lot less than herself was more conservative than the old school. There was no one in the elevator, but he dared not shake hands.

Too...

An ordinary girl like herself, an ordinary boy would blush with a few words. She could chat with him as usual, and he was very calm. If he really shackled her hand, he would be nervous and blush.

Yun Shi thought so beautifully.

'Ding Dong'

The elevator had reached the ninth floor, seeing that Yun Shi didn't mean to leave, Ye Qing laughed: "Come on."

Yun Shi waved, and she was going to the new office area upstairs.

The elevator door closed, Yun Shi, chuckled: "Goodbye, farewell."

"Good morning, Mr. Ye." The employees saw Ye Qing stepping forward, and all bent down to say hello.
