

M Factory 361

Chapter 361: See how you behave

"As long as your company can produce this cooling system, why not sell it..."

Ye Qing stood next to the Master Craftsman and looked at him with a smile: "Mr. Caswell, it is not a simple matter to produce this system. The copper alloy material for cooling must be integrated into the shape you see. "

"Behind the plate, you can't see the cooling blades that extend above each server unit which are hollow inside, allowing coolant and air to circulate and take away a lot of heat. We had built this system regardless of cost and time. Naturally, we want to get a better operating environment for the server. But if this system is sold as a commodity, it will occupy a lot of manpower and equipment. In our factory, during this time, we can produce more other products to obtain higher profits. The price... is not a problem."

Caswell hesitated and had a nervous sense of reporting to his superiors. He felt the identity of the cooperation with this company, suddenly reversed. He could not do anything, but the server architecture company is much more than a Rachel server engineering company. It also consisted of three other and similar peer companies to their technical strength and has their own strengths in software security. But...

This cooling system was a miracle. Caswell had participated in countless computer room architectures and has never seen or heard of this.

For the price that Caswell thought it's really not a problem, he did not believe that this system was more expensive than the precision air conditioning system responsible for the entire temperature in the computer room.

Even if it was expensive, the annual electricity cost and maintenance price of a precision air conditioner will quickly catch up with its purchase price. This does not count, always keep the server at the best 26 degrees, resulting in improved server life.

Seeing no one take care of himself, Caswell asked cheekily again: "can I visit the water circulation and air circulation main engine of this system?"

This requirement was quickly met, and he went to the two systems that were placed in the equipment room on the fourth floor. Caswell and several engineers who were accompanied by the Master Craftsman were looked forward to entering the equipment room with great expectations.

Caswell was not disappointed and found it's two recycling hosts, it was a high-end structure that he has never seen before.

The water circulation host looked like a small streamlined submarine, which is not filled with water, that's what Caswell thought but with a higher boiling point coolant.

When the boiling point of the liquid is high, the phenomenon of vaporization will not occur, and the heated coolant will be re-cooled by the refrigeration system when passing through the circulation host.

The shape of the air circulation system is more domineering. It is not a traditional air compressor structure, but two sets of complex blade structures like the turbofan engine.

This huge alloy blade with a large radius and large inclination angle makes people feel a very shocking feeling at a glance.

"Do you know what its speed is?" The Master Craftsman patted the Caswell's shoulders much taller than him, introducing: "The maximum can be up to 1,200 rpm. The strong winds can overturn a car. "

Although working normally, this speed would never be used. Caswell also understood that this is just to explain to him how powerful their equipment is.

But Caswell was also about to kidnap this set, everyone is musing about the capacity of powerful equipment with a fiery heart.

Just like super running on the road, it will never be able to release its full strength, but almost all men desire it. Powerful equipment will always give people a feeling of peace of mind, in case something unexpected happens, just use it?

Back in the computer room again, Caswell said nothing and greeted their engineers to start moving the data center. They wanted to move the data center back to the alloy warehouse to prove their sincerity.

After all, the temperature of the machine room is constant at 26 degrees, and it is a device with extremely low energy consumption.

No matter how diligent, it is not an exaggeration.

The employees of the network department were dumbfounded, only Yun Shi could understand that this group of foreigners longed for the cooling system developed by the Monster Heavy Industry.

Understanding comes from knowledge, and Yun Shi did not have a good face for this group of engineers.

"Go to help me get a cup of coffee."

Standing on the side to watch the lively Ye Qing's speech, the result was a very innocent question in Yun Shi's eyes: "Why do you want me to serve you coffee?"

Ye Qing remembered that this little girl, who had just joined the company a few days ago she did not know her identity. So, he raised his eyebrows at her: "You didn't realize the manager of the network department was very polite to speak to me?"

"No, I was busy. How can I notice what he said?" Yun Shi wrinkled his nose delicately: "The manager of the network department is very polite to you? No, he is the general manager of the department."

Yun Shi said in her heart that you didn't see the manager of the network department. He was polite to talk to me on the network before.

Hum ~

Even the president of our company was very polite when he sent me an email.

Yun Shi's thoughts were beautiful, if she was not restless by the hackers and the company behind her, she could be a deputy manager or a supervisor.

Of course, this would not always be the case. Yun Shi was prepared to spend the past year or two, waiting for those people forgot her before regaining her identity.

Yun Shi was looking forward to that day.

The manager of the network department and the president of the Monster Heavy Industry, after knowing her true identity, the expression should be very exciting.

"Then I must be better than him. Have you seen that nobody is directing me to work?"

"Greater than him?" Yun Shi nodded suddenly: "You must be a senior engineer or supervisor on the factory side. I heard that the factory side was very mysterious. All the technological products are developed in the factory."

"You don't know. Yesterday, I helped pack and ship the goods in the warehouse. The driver master who went to the factory to pull the goods kept saying that the factory is more advanced than the mechanical equipment in the Hollywood science fiction film."

Ye Qing wanted to introduce in detail. He was a big boss across the company and the factory. Yun Shi patted Ye Qing's arm lightly: "Okay, I'll take this cup of coffee to you."

Yun Shi waved her hand and left.

After a while, Casswell has moved back to the alloy storehouse again and ran to Ye Qing.

"Mr. Ye, do you have any dissatisfaction, please point it out and let us do it?" Caswell thumped his chest.

"Let's finish the server architecture before talking." Ye Qing's tone brought the meaning of what you saw before, just like the interviewer was asking Casswell a question.

But when Casswell listened to this, he was so excited that he wouldn't say anything, and just kept his head mad.

Because this means that as long as you perform well, there is hope for negotiations on cooling systems.

With the powerful and energy-efficient cooling system, their company will have the one and only product in the class of artifacts.

Chapter 362: Black off-road vehicle

This cup of coffee was waited for a long time, about ten minutes later, then it was brought over by Yun Shi. Not a cup, but a pot. It was a Renaissance-style ceramic coffee pot. Ye Qing remembered that this pot seemed to be purchased by the company and placed in the rest area to give the employees a fun time. There were also manual grinders, French pressure pots, and a wide variety of coffee beans.

"There is only instant coffee from the coffee machine in the warehouse area. This is the coffee that I use the company's bean grinder, and the coffee is now ground and taken to the warehouse area to cook."

Yun Shi also prepared a porcelain cup for herself: "I touched the coffee pot with my hand. The temperature of the coffee is just right, try it."

Yun Shi went specially to the company to grind the coffee beans. Even if Ye Qing is her boss, he should thank her very sincerely.

Just to be honest, Ye Qing did not like to drink freshly ground coffee. It's better to say he did not understand the mood, or he did not have a taste.

Anyway, Ye Qing had been drinking freshly brewed coffee several times including authentic Blue Mountain coffee, while feeling it was either slightly astringent or slightly sour. The coffee had a scent, but it was as unexaggerated as the others had said, and he could not experience the natural fragrance from the high mountains of Jamaica at all. It seemed that instant coffee tastes better, but some did not drink it, and Ye Qing will not be too picky.

After taking the porcelain cup, Ye Qing said "thank you" again, and then took a sip.

Umm...

Just when the coffee is at the right temperature the flavor is rich and good, Ye Qing has stopped his habit of drinking hot tea or coffee.

The taste was a little bitter, but this bitter taste, unlike the previous type, will not make you frown.

Without tasting too much, Ye Qing could feel the tip of the tongue is filled with a unique aroma and a slightly bitter but not astringent taste. The bitterness was just right, and the mellow was just right, neither thick nor light.

Long after taste.

It may be a little hypocritical to describe it this way, but this cup of coffee was indeed the most tasteful coffee that Ye Qing has ever tasted.

After taking a sip, Ye Qing felt almost perfect.

Before he thought that instant coffee was with good taste compared with this, he seemed to be seen the difference between Maotai and old wine from ten years.

But the company did not have those well-known coffee bean varieties at all, and the best was only Lavassa in Italy and a small brand of Sumatra.

This only showed Yun Shi not only had a good data cable but also makes good coffee.

Yun Shi looked at Ye Qing expectantly, his eyes flashing waiting for its praise: "Is the taste very good?"

"Great, much better than instant coffee."

Then Ye Qing wanted to drink a second cup. Yun Shi took the pot directly and ran, saying that Ye Qing didn't know the goods. It would be better to give it to some of her new colleagues.

Ye Qing laughed bitterly and went to find Ji Ke, to say him wait for the foreigners to install all the software that can be installed, and then bring them to the office to talk.

Waiting until five o'clock in the afternoon, Ji Ke led a nervous look at Caswell and entered Ye Qing's office.

The server architecture is sent in vain, and subsequent upgrades and maintenance are sent in vain.

Caswell contributed the source code of the software, and Ye Qing had to pay according to the contract. As a result, Caswell said that the company had regulations, which would get the first place in the server temperature test, would enjoy free Architecture and maintenance.

Since the Monster Heavy Industry won the first place, then this money can not be demanded.

A server architecture company with a global reputation was naturally impossible to engage in activities and promotions like those in supermarkets.

Caswell is seeking to kill this, and Ye Qing is not easy to refuse.

A system of this type of Monster Heavy Industry, 30 million yuan, only five sets per month. If you want to order extra, you have to increase the price by 20%, and it cannot exceed five sets per month.

Of course, for this system, they have the exclusive right to sell it outside of the China region.

The limited supply was because Ye Qing did not plan to focus on the server cooling system.

There were a lot of metal products that Monster Heavy Industry can produce, but it must have a development focus and maximize profits. At present, robots and ionization purifiers are the most profitable products.

After Caswell made two overseas calls, he bitterly told Ye Qing that they had ordered five sets first and changed the cooling system of their company's server room.

The company's legal department was responsible for signing the contract. Ye Qing sent away Caswell, turned to look at the heavy rain outside the window, and said with emotion: "No matter how powerful the software is, it must rely on hardware carriers to run."

"Well..."

It seems to start to relish Yun Shi's coffee.

Before leaving the company, Ye Qing asked the purchasing department to go to the market to purchase a set of high-end coffee-making tools and the well-known coffee bean brands and also to bring them back in his office.

Tomorrow, he could drink Yun Shi's coffee again. Ye Qing turned the car key and took the elevator to the underground parking lot in a happy mood.

When he came to the underground parking lot, Ye Qing still felt a little emotional because that every time it rained, it was nothing good. But this time it seemed to be good. The cooling and heat dissipation system created by the giant heavy industry had made the foreigners impressed.

The silver-gray Lagonda rushed out of the rain curtain, Ye Qing closed the sunroof sun visor, listening to the melodious music while enjoying the poetic feeling of raindrops splashing on the glass. A black Toyota all-road vehicle quietly turned from the corner, keeping a distance of 200 meters from Ye Qing's car. The drifting heavy rain blocked the rearview mirror field of view. So, that Ye Qing couldn't see at a distance too far behind. In fact, even on a sunny day, Ye Qing will not focus her vision on the rear.

This black off-road vehicle has a temporary license plate, and it was exactly the same car that was parked at noon at the location of Huanhai Avenue.

"He's out." The driver on the black off-road vehicle dialed a number and whispered in the Bluetooth headset: "We follow him up first to confirm whether he returns to the factory."

"You get ready first."

"Understood, guys, I'm ready." There are some noisy sounds from the headphones: "I have observed hundreds of meters before and after the road, there is no monitoring. There are very few vehicles coming and going, and I didn't even see a car for five minutes. The car passed."

"OK, everything is done according to the original plan."

At the end of the call, the green light in front of Ye Qing lighted up, the Lagonda slightly accelerated the roar and the black all-road vehicle accelerated at the same time. After two blocks, the Lagonda turned right into the boulevard.

At the end of the boulevard is Huanhai Avenue. When he saw the Lagonda turned right into the boulevard, the driver on the black off-road vehicle slightly raised a proud corner of his mouth.

The phone number was dialed again, and the driver couldn't help but be excited: "This rain really helps me."

"That Lagonda is going back to the factory. You can prepare there. Keep talking. I will report his position at any time."

Chapter 363: Ambush on the road

Turning into Huanhai Avenue, the Lagonda has maintained an average speed of 80 kilometers/h. Inside the car, Ye Qing received a phone call from a machine tool dealer, saying that the second batch of five-axis machining center would be delivered to the Longxitan factory at 7 o'clock in the evening.

This batch of the five-axis machining center covers almost all types on the civilian market. The five-axis machining center is not a vertical machine tool in the traditional sense. But according to the different designs, it is divided into vertical, horizontal and gantry. Among them, according to the different types of processed parts, it is divided into more models.

The other side of industrial development is the high degree of meticulous division of labor. In addition to the black technology of the Monster Heavy Industry, there has not been a situation in the world where one machine tool can be used to pack the world.

After hanging up the phone, Ye Qing remembered the current factory had no more workshops to house these processing centers. A few sets are given to the company's newly established product research and development department, and the rest would be temporarily placed in the underground base of the factory.

Thinking of this, Ye Qing took out a phone call to the Master Craftsman and asked him to make a place in the underground base to temporarily accommodate the five-axis machining center.

At that time, technicians could install and debugged the equipment outside first, and in the dead of night when all was quiet, the angry miners could secretly move to the base.

It might be because of the rain. The signal became bad and the phone sound became weak. Ye Qing hung up the phone and as he passed through the building blocks, he noticed there is a van in the middle of the road in the rain. He could only vaguely see the body of the van, and the flashing hazard lighted and a warning sign placed on the ground.

Huanhai Avenue was a two-way six-lane road, not to mention a van lying on the road, there is enough space for Ye Qing to pass by. He did intend to go around from one side, but when he slowed down, he found that two figures were standing in the rain curtain and kept waving. When the two of them saw a car coming in the rain, they immediately stopped at the lane in front of the Lagonda just like they saw a savior.

The van was across the road, and Ye Qing couldn't see its license plate. But after approaching, Ye Qing could find the two guys who were planning to stop the car were both in their twenties. Wearing some old work clothes, at first glance looks like an ordinary worker. But he was wearing a black baseball cap that was very hip-hop.

This was not intuitive. Anyone who would look at it will feel a little bit wrong, but the two of them are close to the front of the car. Obviously Ye Qing could not get over them.

"Ouch ~"

The exaggerated cry came from the front of the car. The car was not yet stable. The man in the front of the car was as if he was worshiping God and used his forehead to knock on the engine hood of the Lagonda.

The hood of an ordinary vehicle is very soft, and it can be pressed by hand. Therefore, if you use your head for collision, you surely cause a shallow pit on the hood and won't feel too painful. It's just that the car in front of him was obviously not measurable by ordinary cars.

The young man in the acting, the moment, his forehead was in contact with the hood, its exaggerated cry stopped abruptly. A dull metallic sound came, and the man fell to the ground softly without even making a sound. After falling to the ground, a forehead quickly swelled with a large red swelling. When the companion next to him saw him, he clearly did not respond to the situation. After five or six seconds, he grabbed the companion's arm and dragged it to the side like a sack.

Ye Qing, who originally held the attitude of watching the drama, was also amazed. It should be reasonable to say that touch porcelain should not be left under the car, don't see the money and let go?

Why, after the reaction... He quickly dragged his companion away, was he afraid that the car would pass over him?

Different environments gave people different ways of thinking. If in China, a chaotic country where gunfire is more frequent than firecracker sounds, even if there was a strengthening company in front of it Ye Qing would have to rush through with a throttle.

But here is China, just when Ye Qing thought about what the other party intended to do.

In the rain curtain, there was a slight roar of a car engine. A black all-road vehicle quickly appeared in the rearview mirror and moved towards the Lagonda without concessions.

"Boom ~"

With a loud mountain bang, the black all-road vehicle broke through the rain and hit the rear of the Lagonda. Ye Qing felt that he had experienced a roller coaster, and the Lagonda was slammed forward by this force, unbiased and the front of the car hit the van sideways.

The seat belt firmly fixed Ye Qing on the seat. The impact speed of the rear car was about fifty kilometers/h. The other party obviously did not dare to increase the speed even more. It should be for their own safety considerations. After all, a luxury car that costs eight million yuan, its safety is already one of the top standards in civilian cars.

"Warning ~"

"Warning - if the vehicle is hit, the call for help will be made automatically 10 seconds later. If you are not injured, you can manually click the screen to cancel."

There were orange-yellow lights flashing in the car, Ye Qing rubbed his shoulder, which was painfully hurt by the seat belt and then clicked the cancel button on the screen, slowly raising his head.

A huge laborer with sunglasses and bulging explosive muscles and a Master Craftsman with knife eyes who is not strong but gives a sense of danger to cheetahs at any time have appeared on the back seat.

Juli the Monster laborer slowly raised his head toward Ye Qing.

Ye Qing is putting away the monster factory mobile phone also looked at the Master Craftsman.

It's no wonder that with such a large pen to plan this scene, it was no wonder that after pretending to be hit by the porcelain and forced Ye Qing to stop, he was quickly dragged by his companion to one side to the other side. The original design was already long prepared in advance, and another car would trap him back and forth.

Such a thing could happen, Ye Qing found that he had no fear. More than half a year ago, Ye Qing will alarm in alarm. This change in the mindset came from the confidence given by the monster factory on the one hand, and the change of status on the other hand, which has brought about improved vision.

In the past, this kind of thing was terrible. Now it seems a little funny. That being the case, Ye Qing would let the enemies who popped out of nowhere know what fear is!

"Clack, clack..." Almost when the collision ended, the doors of the pickup truck and the black all-road vehicle were opened at the same time. A total of eight youths wearing factory uniforms and baseball caps jumped out of the cars. Some of them wore ball caps, and some wore large sunglasses that covered half of their faces taking claw hammer, wrench, afterburner, crowbar. Without any hesitation, the eight young people did not say any words. The first thing to come up was to yank the door.

The door was locked, they tried not to pull it open twice, and suddenly a hammer hit the side window glass.

"Wow ~"

The glass was unscathed, and the one holding the hammer was shocked, almost unable to hold the hammer.

The man exclaimed: "Bulletproof glass?"

"Smash the car."

The deliberately lowered voice sounded, followed by the voices of various tools greeting the Lagonda.

Ye Qing glanced at the phone in a leisurely manner.

Temporarily out of the service area.

Um ~ no wonder the phone was half-called before, and there were signals of a very bad situation.

These people still have some technical content, and at least not rare but ordinary people could not get it, most of them must need a lot of time on signal shielding devices, they were also prepared.

Chapter 364: Don't let go

If you went to the side of the van, you would find the van did not have a license plate and if you went to the side of the black all-road vehicle you would find it had a temporary license plate which was also still relatively new, if you observed the front and rear metal crash bars, you would find that the surface was silver-white plated, with slight traces of flaking and weathering. Metal objects exposed to the natural environment for a long time would inevitably show this situation. The traffic card had only been available for one month at most, which showed this card was false.

A total of eight people, including Yan Feixin surrounded the Lagonda and hit it with different tools.

After planning for a few days, Yan Feixin finally planned a plan that he thought was appropriate. He spent 6,000 yuan to buy a yellow label van from a car scrapping plant that was considered good but he failed the environmental impact study. Which meant the plan could not keep up with the changes.

The car was canceled and scrapped, and all of the car number information was polished by Yan Feixin in a special repair shop. Hanging a few hundred pieces to buy fake cards, he took advantage of the early morning and quietly drove the van to Huanhai Avenue in Shanghai.

All along the way to Huanhai Avenue, Yan Feixin had driven on the rural road taken by navigation, in order to avoid being seen by Ye Qing to find the final destination. He didn't have too much courage to do anything important. He and his associates planned to wait for this Lagonda to return to the factory; they planned to overturn the van and hit the Lagonda with heavy blows.

After that, Yan Feixin planned to drive the car directly to the sea, and it's over. Anyway, the total cost was less than 10,000 yuan. He did not feel bad about it if he lost it.

But the Lagonda needed to replace the carbon fiber shell, which would cost a lot of money, rubbing a little bit more, scratching the rearview mirror, which meant over a million repair costs.

Yan Feixin thought the plan was perfect, and he didn't have the courage to go to the president of the Monster Heavy Industry. So, he planned to attack the Lagonda, and he had a change. He did not think was going to be different.

Yan Feixin did not expect his company's IT hosts to be overrun by people without knowing it when he became interested in one of the other party's documents by copying it and sending it back to his E-mail. The result was dozens of classy computer servers in his business have been hacked.

This information is nothing more than Yan Feixin's detailed plan for planning this act of revenge these days. From the driving route to the arrangement of the abandoned car plan to the route between the Monster Heavy Industry Company and the factory, and the information of the Lagonda, Yan Feixin recorded it in a comprehensive way.

Yan Feixin, who originally thought he would go to the detention center and squat for a fortnight. He was shocked to find the other party had proposed a bolder and more detailed plan and threatened that if this was not done, this information would appear in the official email of the Monster Heavy Industry.

Yan Feixin did not have much room to back down, nor did he intend to back down, so he is here now.

Somehow, Yan Feixin had always had a soft spot for the two words "carbon fibers".

Perhaps it was because the carbon fiber shell sounded particularly brittle. Yan Feixin always felt that it would be particularly cool to hit it hard with a hammer.

Today, finally letting him do what he wanted, Yan Feixin looked at the glass which did not want to break immediately raised his crowbar and slammed it against the front shell of the Lagonda.

Silver gray, super luxury car as smooth as a diamond, with the feeling of hitting it with a crowbar, Yan Feixin felt that there is no language to describe his supercool mood at the moment.

"Wow ~"

The loud metal noise came from the end of the crowbar to Yan Feixin who didn't experience this result before. There was a strong resilience, making him feel he was not hitting the carbon fiber shell, but the head of an alloy behemoth. The crowbar vibrated violently and Yan Feixin's palm felt being hit by 100,000 volts of high-voltage electricity.

Two seconds later, the numb palm quickly became extremely hot and seemed to be covered with hot oil.

He did not know where the crowbar flew. Yan Feixin clutched his hand and howled, and saw his crowbar fall.

The dimple of this girl like a shallow dent is a kind of secret magic method called time ebb.

Shallow dent, "Bo ~" to return to the original state, no trace can be found.

The other seven people suffered exactly the same, whether it was a hammer or a wrench. No matter where they hit the Lagonda, the feedback they got was not in their minds, the fragile carbon fiber shell should react in a proper way.

They hit it with a hammer or a wrench, just like if they hit their palms. The hammer or the wrench were directly fluttered, and the severe pain caused by the vibration made them cover their palms one by one and howl.

"What kind of shell is this?"

This was a strong question in everyone's mind, why is the shell of this super-luxury car had only a shallow dent under a hammer, instead of cracking like an eggshell?

"Why is there such a huge anti-seismic force?"

"Is it Edelman?" A guy who didn't even know his hat fell off, staring at the Lagonda, who had a silver and white dazzling shell, with a shitty look and stopped there quietly with his ghost eyes.

"Clack..."

To answer them, it was the sound of the Lagonda's rear door, being pushed open from the inside out. A cold-faced man in a black suit walked out of the car. He was not strong but just got off quietly.

The howling stopped abruptly. Eight people were drenched in the rain.

The howling came to an abrupt halt, and in the rain, eight cool-hearted persons were drenched. They couldn't believe looking at the cold man.

"Damn, how dare you get out of the car?" The ghost fire in Yan Feixin's heart almost broke through the Tianling cover. This Lagonda can't be smashed. The people out this car could also be smashed.

Resisting the pain, Yan Feixin picked up a wrench from the ground with the other hand. Pointing at the cold man, he said cruelly: "you ate the leopard..."

The eyes raised by the Master Craftsman made Yan Feixin's body suddenly dull, and he could not say a word. It was a pair of savage eyes, full of murderous eyes. At the moment when Yan Feixin came into contact with this kind of eye contact, he was like being in an extremely cold snow world.

"Don't be merciful, don't let one go."

In the rusty rain curtain, a peaceful voice came from the open car door with a majestic voice. Along with the voice, a thick and untrembling thigh walked out of the door and the crowbar in Yan Feixin's hand fell to the ground before the figure was completely out of the car.

If you forgive me before it's over, the cold man rushed towards him into a shadow that was hard to catch and Yan Feixin felt his ground had evaporated, and his eyes were dark. His body seemed to be a flying bird. The world was turning upside down.

When his back seemed to fall heavily on the side of the road, and his pain returned to his body, his hearing was already filled with a squawking noise from his associates.

Chapter 365: Take away to understand the situation

The group of people with the cattle business as the core thought they were able to do a big job by relying on a large number of people. Before thirty seconds, they were smashed to the ground by the Master Craftsman and Juli.

This time, Ye Qing showed no mercy.

Judging by the other party's use of signal blockers and the courage to drive in the car, we can see this group of people was not only daring to act but also almost lawless.

It's just that people with weak abilities are ridiculous. The Lagonda's overall shell had indeed become indestructible after two monster upgrades. However, the window glass was just ordinary bulletproof glass, which could resist the shooting of pistol bullets, but it did not mean the glass would be intact.

This group of people used a hammer wrench to smash for a long time, and even a small snowflake trace did not smash out.

Automobile glass is different from ordinary tempered glass in that it has a special sandwich structure inside, which can be used to block noise and has an excellent optical performance.

The Lagonda's bulletproof glass was tested by Ye Qing, Master Craftsman, and Juli before they were installed. The test methods were similar, except that the hammers were used for violent percussion. At least Ye Qing used a hammer to hit the glass more than five times during the test, which could smash the glass into a snowflake crack. The glass has no cracks, and there was a crack in their bones.

The driving door opened slowly. Ye Qing walked out of the car with an umbrella and looked at the ground like an imitation. He brutally trampled the Tauren Chief to the few people who had been brutally trampled.

"Go and find out everything in the van." Ye Qing nodded to the Master Craftsman and then walked to Yan Feixin who looked like a leading goose.

The wailing people looked at him asking help, Ye Qing wanted to determine who was the leader it was very simple.

"Say, who instructed you to come?" Ye Qing kicked Yan Feixin with his foot. His half face was swollen like a pig's head, and his left arm was swollen and tall.

"I ... I ..." Yan Feixin's eyes were dull, and he was speechless on the one hand and did not expect the situation would be reversed as such, on the other hand.

The metal expert came quietly behind Ye Qing. He also took a router-like device with three small antennas in his hand. This was a mobile phone signal jammer, which can emit electromagnetic interference signals covering a range of 50 meters within the frequency range of the mobile phone. Ye Qing was not interested in this very low-level thing and directly shut down the evidence for retention, and then took out the phone to call the company's security captain Wu Yuexiang.

Ye Qing did not have much patience to interrogate this group of people and left it to the vigorous security staff. After making a phone call, Ye Qing asked Juli to work hard to clear the road, so as not to hinder the normal passage of others.

The people which was on the ground were thrown to the side of the road like sacks by Juli, and the black off-road vehicle and van were pushed to the side of the road with brute force. Crouched on the side of the road like quails they saw the van pushed away and they fell into an incomprehensible panic again.

Under the impact of a fifty kilometers/h speed, the front of the black off-road vehicle, the hood swelled exaggeratedly, and the front had been completely fragmented into a broken model that the designer could not recognize. The engine oil leaked to the ground.

But...

It was reasonable to see the stricken rear of the Lagonda. No matter how many of these people looked at their open eyes, no damage was found, and even a piece of paint did not fall off.

How can this be?

Ten minutes later, Wu Yuexiang came here with a gang of strong security guards.

On the phone, Ye Qing has already explained what happened.

Seeing the miserable behavior of the dear friends on the roadside, Wu Yuexiang smiled and shrunk his shoulders like a cormorant.

By the side of the president, but often he could see two unsmiling bodyguards and the two men were all peerless men who weighed three hundred pounds and could kill a cow with one fist.

Not to mention the eight skinny young monkey-like figures on the ground, Wu Yuexiang was sure that even ten like them are not able whether they will defeat the president's bodyguard.

This group of people also had the idea to fight the president, really...

Wu Yuexiang turned around twice and soon discovered that the group seemed familiar. After grabbing the hair of one of the uninjured faces and carefully observing his appearance, Wu Yuexiang suddenly realized. It turned out that these people were the same group of people who were detained in the security room a few days ago.

"Quickly, put them all in the van and leave two people to clean up the scene." Wu Yuexiang's experienced commanding security guards worked: "Is there any monitoring around the neighborhood? This group of people really ate leopard gall, even Phone blockers are used."

Ten minutes later, the Lagonda started to run with two vans and a black all-road vehicle heading towards the Longxitan factory.

Ye Qing did not choose to send the gang to the police first but first asked the security guards to ask for their detailed purpose and background.

This group of people could not do it, but the whole ambush plan was very old-fashionably. If it was not the Lagonda's defensive performance was better than armored vehicles, and there were monsters sitting, Ye Qing would be the one with the blue nose and swollen eyes this time.

The black all-road vehicle was broken and was all towed by another van from the security guards to the factory. The location of the interrogation was placed in the factory. And in the end, depending on the situation they entrusted, the guards would decide whether or not to hand them over to the police.

"Angkor, we finally have the opportunity to enter the legendary factory and have a good time." The van co-driver, Zhang Haoxuan, the deputy team leader of the security team, looked vigorously on both sides of the road.

In the minds of most people in the company, the factory had always been the most mysterious department.

For external recruitment, Zhang Haoxuan has never recruited employees to the factory. Although it belongs to the same enterprise, the factory responsible for product manufacturing is like another world to him.

Today, these busy security guards finally have the opportunity to see the most mysterious factory. Twenty minutes later, on the barren seashore, a huge rolling plant appeared.

Together with the security captain Wu Yuexiang, everyone opened their eyes wide and captured every detail here.

"You see Angkor. It seems to be a mine." Zhang Haoxuan pointed to a distance, a bell tower-style factory building more than 50 meters high shouted: "There were also Mechanical Colossus Type X, one, two, three..."

"My God, there are five Mechanical Colossus Type X in total."

As the security captain, Wu Yuexiang was trying his best to restrain his excitement. But he clasped the hands of the steering wheel and his trembling eyelids, betraying his excitement.

Not only the Mechanical Colossus Type X but also a stairway in the mining area, which extended from the pit to the top of the tower plant.

That was the mineral transmission device, it is simply two straight highways. Five Mechanical Colossus Type X double-arm buckets, as well as coal shoveling, constantly sent ore to the conveyor belt even unable to meet the throughput of the conveyor.

The equipment outside has been so shocked, what would the ore processing equipment inside look like?

Wu Yuexiang, who was shocked, could not help but guess.

But when he got to the parking lot and saw the full-automatic robotic arms that were comparable to those of the extern factory, Wu Yuexiang thought that those of the extern factory was nothing compared with this mining area.

The interrogation site was placed in an open sundry room in the transit warehouse. Then Wu Yuexiang and deputy captain Zhang Haoxuan patting the chest before placing the letter of the guarantee in front of the boss looked at the people in the corner and grinned dangerously.

Chapter 366: Will there be inner ghosts

Ye Qing was very confident in his security team. On the one hand, this confidence comes from the fact that they were all professional soldiers trained by the country at a great cost. On the other hand, it comes from the willpower of this group.

Indeed...

It was a shame; the muggers started to moan and confess in tears in the car.

The interrogation was not yet finished, and the last massive team of Volvo heavy trucks appeared for the last time in Shanghai under the citizen's eyes. This time, it was more than 200 units of a five-axis machining center.

The machine tool is the core of a factory. Usually, the processing technology of a factory is measured by what kind of equipment it has. Supposedly, two factories produce the same order and the quotation is the same. The one who ultimately gets the order must be the one who possesses the higher-tech machine tool. Even if the factory considers the price afterward from the cost, it is planned to use a better machine tool to place this order.

Counting the previously accumulated inventory, Ye Qing currently had more than 500 five-axis machining centers.

As far as Ye Qing knew, Shanghai's true five-axis machining center apart from Monster Heavy Industries was just ten of them, half of which were still in the hands of Chinese Heavy Industries.

Strictly speaking, the domestic five-axis CNC machine tool products that Ye Qing purchased before are different from this machining center.

The accuracy difference between them was too far, and the degree of automation was also amazing and could not be regarded as a machining center. Of course, in industrial processing, most of the parts were enough to use domestic machine tools.

The heavy industry of the Monster Heavy Industry, with the number of processing centers that she owned, is equivalent to the number of fifty Shanghai City.

This was also the core of Ye Qing's ability to mass-produce robots and mechanical engineering chairs. A five-axis machining center could complete a part, a complete set of processes from forging embryo to drilling and polishing. The result was as much as the number of machines was important the more the monsters are comfortable.

One set of five-axis machining centers were unloaded, and the accompanying technicians pulled the wires and debugged these devices directly in the warehouse.

When Ye Qing received the delivery from the hotel, Wu Yuexiang also took a handwritten interrogation report and handed it to Ye Qing.

"Boss, we have adopted the way of a separate interrogation method. All along the way, the eight were under our guard, and there was no possibility of collusion. The details given by the eight people are basically the same, so we can be sure the report is true."

"Go back after eating and take the eight people to the company by the way. I will first look at the civil air defense project. I will read the report and decide whether to call the police."

Ye Qing patted Wu Yuexiang's shoulder and this last one said: "They are taken to the company to stay there while waiting." indicating there was a premeditated plan: "After the return, we must strengthen the security of the company. I will ask the engineers to design a new electric baton to use so that your combat efficiency is better."

"Boss, in fact, the electric baton is not as magical as it is in the movie."

Wu Yuexiang's stall: "the electric baton we used before, in fact, in autumn and winter does not wear the coat people wear at all. And the design of the electric stick is not suitable for fighting, and it can be broken into parts if it is hit hard."

The principle of the electric stick is very simple. The high voltage pulse transformer is used to amplify the voltage. Ye Qing can use a soldering iron to solder one out. So Ye Qing handed Wu Yuexiang a look that you will understand when the time comes: "The kind of things that fool people in the market will naturally not work. Our engineers will not design that kind of flower shelf products."

Wu Yuexiang left with expectation, and Ye Qing carefully read the interrogation record.

The cause of all this is ridiculous. The explosion in the sale of the ionization purifier has enabled Yan Feixin to realize the enormous commercial opportunity. He used his own spike software to successfully grab hundreds of ionization purifiers. As a result, this batch of ionization purifiers was canceled by the company and it is still a few days later the company's production capacity has increased by dozens of times, and he has lost more than one million yuan resale amounts of money has been lost.

He was young people, he thought that the money he earned based on their true skills suddenly disappeared. How can he accept this cruel fact?

As a result, his revenge plan was completely disrupted by an email. According to what he said, behind this email, there was likely a group of hackers organized.

Ye Qing is now unable to determine whether Yan Feixin was targeted or it was a coincidence that the group of hackers discovered the secret that Yan Feixin hid on his computer. But no matter what point, Ye Qing could be sure that this gang of hackers and the Monster Heavy Industry were in conflict.

Yan Feixin's email account and password have already been written by him in the same way. Ye Qing is now sitting in the office, frowning at the email.

Apart from the huge number of things that threatened Yan Feixin, the other contents of this email made Ye Qing realize that things were not as simple as he first thought. That content was the action plan planned by the other party to help Yan Feixin.

The detailed content of the plan makes people in astonishment from how to block the car and touch the hood to attract Ye Qing's attention, to the safety performance of the Lagonda car and the analysis of the distress function equipped, all of which are listed one by one. Even if a vehicle passes by chance and calls the police, the police will arrive in a few minutes, making an accurate guess.

If it wasn't for the end of the email: "I always tell you not to beat Ye Qing too hard."

It was a waste of time. It was just to smash Ye Qing's car and teach him a lesson.

"Send them directly to the police station to see if the police can track the sender of the mail." Ye Qing handed up the call to the security captain. Sitting on the mechanical engineering chair, closing his eyes and thinking about this group of people "who is it"?

There is no love for no reason and no hate for no reason in this world.

From Ye Qing's acquisition of the monster factory to the present, even if Ye Qing has been very friendly, avoiding launching similar products that have appeared on the market to squeeze out the domestic traditional manufacturing share.

However, the new product was more or less, it could not be completely avoided this kind of situation that Ye Qing did not want to appear.

There were so many markets, and sales increase, naturally there would be other companies' sales decline. In particular, the recently launched ionization purifier had a great impact on the traditional cosmetics industry. Many complaints from domestic cosmetics companies have been stored in the company's mailbox.

Is it the hands and feet of a large domestic cosmetics company, or the gangs of unscathed hackers before?

The competition involving monetary benefits has always been cruel, and Ye Qing is still afraid to draw conclusions easily.

But the other party could accurately find the company behind Yan Feixin, it was likely that the company has gone out of spirits and revealed to them the previous conflict with Yan Feixin.

At the time, Ye Qing hoped that a detective monster like Conan or Sherlock Holmes could be recruited into the monster factory to help him answer questions.

Ye Qing, who was not a detective and he has not figured out for a long time. He planned to give these problems to the police and the company network department to investigate.

Ye Qing was not in a good mood, but the new coffee maker was already purchased.

"When I go to the company tomorrow, I can make Yun Shi who is full of shock, come to make coffee for myself." Ye Qing could not help but grin.

Chapter 367: Interesting things

During that night, when the heavy rain continues raining, covering the entire Longxi beach with a misty mist. Two angry miners are carrying a five-axis machining center fixed by a metal platform, shuttling back and forth between the cave and the warehouse. As the searchlights on the top of the barren mountain were all turned off, and the rain screen and the night gave them the best cover.

"Give me a steady walk. These are precision machine tools. If you bump them, you have to readjust them." In the rain screen, a Master Craftsman was riding on the neck of the angry miner and shouted back and forth to command.

In the office, Ye Qing is designing a brand-new security electric baton with another Master Craftsman. It should have the good fighting ability, and the arc penetration should be strong, at least could penetrate through the winter clothing thickness.

This... It's too easy!

Basically students of the University of Electronic Science and Technology who were listening to the class a little seriously could do voltage amplifiers by hand.

To increase the power of the amplifier, and to add the original technical pulse in the attacking part of the electric baton and adding metal saw teeth that can pierce the clothing and can penetrate the winter clothing and can also reverse the soul of the criminals.

Electric pulses can disturb the motor nerves of muscles. As long as you take a note, your muscles will not tremble freely, causing pain like cramps.

The stick body uses high-strength elastic composite material, which is the kind of material used to make the protective layer of the robot's hands. Not to mention being a stick, no problem like a hammer.

Ye Qing gave the parameters, and the master craftsman made the design, which was useless for half an hour. The sketch of the new electric stick was drawn, and then the master craftsman made for small-batch manufacturing.

At this time, all the five-axis machining centers have been transferred to the underground base.

Ye Qing tilted Erlang's legs and hummed gently to check the ranking of Monster Factory.

With the addition of these batches of equipment. Today, Monster Factory had occupied the eleventh position in the manufacturing rankings.

As long as he goes ahead one more and will overtake the 10th China Pacific Steel Group, the Monster Heavy Industry will be promoted in the fifth stage.

China Pacific Steel Group is a well-known steel group in the whole country. The self-built thermal power station and warehouse terminal are the most basic. They also own multiple mining rights abroad and have an ocean-going fleet specialized in the transportation of minerals.

Now, the difference between the scores of the Monster Heavy Industry and its manufacturing industry is only more than 200,000 points.

Three days later, Ye Qing was confident to surpass it and upgrade successfully.

With the sound of rustling rain, Ye Qing returned to the company early the next day.

This time Ye Qing didn't drive by himself, but let a giant laborer who obtained a driver's license act as a driver. After returning to the company, the first thing is not to let Yun Shi come to make coffee but to ask the network manager Ji Ke and the security team leader to come to his office.

The heavy rain turned small, waiting for the two of them, Ye Qing looked quietly behind the window.

At present, the main part of the Monster Heavy Industry Building has been built on five floors. Although it was still very small compared to the buildings with twenty or thirty floors next to it, it won't take long. The own building in front of Ye Qing would be raised to the tallest building nearby, and finally, became the first in Shanghai.

The average cost of building a building was 30 million yuan a day. If we counted the raw materials and energy consumption of the factory, the giant heavy industry would have to spend hundreds of millions every day. This was just a fixed expenditure, and those that were not fixed were scarier.

The sales of ionizing purifiers and robots were so hot that Ye Qing had earned tens of billions of yuan in just half a month.

After all, it took Ye Qing only six months to catch up with the old industrial groups. It has gone for decades, or even for hundreds of years, without blood.

Sometimes Ye Qing was thinking about what it would be like to take out the money and learn those rich second-generation losers?

The knocking on the door interrupted Ye Qing's speculation. Ji Ke and Wu Yuexiang pushed the door in and reported to Ye Qing about the progress of the incident yesterday.

Yan Feixin and his associates have been sent to the Public Security Bureau by the security team, together with the signal blocker and their oral materials to the police.

"There is no news from the police for the time being. I have a comrade in the Criminal Police Team. He told me something like this. Without causing property damage, the few small characters would be shut down at most for a few months, up to one year. And the company behind the scenes with only one email may only be classified as unfair business competition, which must be based on finding out who the other party is."

"I also read the email." Ji Ke was quite helpless: "There is no clue in it, it is just a very ordinary 163 mailbox. We can't even determine whether this email was sent from a domestic or foreign."

"Last night I tried to use that guy's tone and sent an action report to the past, but I haven't received a reply so far."

"No clues are also expected things, don't be discouraged. As the company grows, it is normal to encounter these things." Ye Qing smiled disapprovingly and asked Ji Ke: "Can the server run? Are you going to make a rule?" In the future, all electronic data will be backed up every day and stored in a physically isolated database."

"It works very well." Speaking of the new server, Ji Ke renewed his confidence: "Boss, since our server is running, all robots have been successfully connected to the network and there are many robot customers. Have uploaded images of the images they took while using the robot."

"I previously compiled a small program in my computer that can display their approximate location on an electronic map based on the location of the robot. I looked at it last night and found a very interesting thing and very interesting people."

Interesting person?

Ye Qing asked Ji Ke to take a look at the software so that he could also infer which places were the main customer gathering areas of the company based on the location of the users.

Ji Ke rushed to the office to fetch the computer, but in less than a minute he returned again empty-handed and said embarrassedly: "Boss, the computer seems to have been pulled by me over the server room. I took it in the past."

After more than ten minutes, Ji Ke returned to the office with his silver-grey notebook.

After opening the small software, he wrote himself, after a short period of loading data, and an electronic map of China gradually appeared with red and green dots like sesame seeds in all regions of the country.

The red was the approximate location of the guardian robot. Each red dot had a corresponding thin line connected to another green dot. Those green dots were the position of the guardian robot's operating equipment. The interesting thing about this was the small dotted line connecting these two.

According to common sense, after buying robots. The users should naturally not let the robot be too far away from themselves, but these dotted lines indicate the opposite fact.

These distances between the guardian robot and its control equipment could be described by thousands of mountains and rivers.

Chapter 368: Don't buy a car, buy a robo

To date, the Monster Heavy Industry has sold more than 11,000 robots. At present, it has successfully connected the second server key for 9,000 robots in normal use. The rest should still be on the way to delivery, and all of these nine thousand robots appear on the PC screen, and the robot is far away from the control equipment.

Ye Qing could roughly estimate the distance between the control equipment and the robot, which was generally, they are more than one hundred kilometers. The furthest dots in the farthest line cross three-quarters of China's territory. The guardian robot was in the most southern part of China, and the controller was in the capital.

They buy a robot, but send it to a remote place, through the control equipment they operate the robot. What's happening here?

Some users have downloaded video material and Ji Ke, the interested person, said he has solved the mystery. The answer to this mystery had a very big relationship with Qiao Shengan, the first customer of the Guardian Robot. That's why almost all of these users were people who wanted to gain a broader space for development, stay away from other cities, work hard outside and set up families outside. While leaving parents in their hometown.

After reading Qiao Shengan's original news, a small group of people immediately bought some robots and mailed them to their parents in remote places. Since Qiao Shengan was a hundred miles away and he could protect his parents through the robot, so could they. Not only to protect the parents but also like Qiao Shengan let the robot became its own avatar.

Since Ye Qing rescued Qiao Shengan's parents, the professional film critic has acted as a free robot publicist, updating the video materials he shot on Weibo all day.

"Help your parents cook, wash their feet, help them sweep the floor, wash their clothes, help them massage their legs..."

Qiao Shengan opened a new world of robot usage on Weibo. This robot, in his hands, became another avatar of himself. When parents were bored, the robot could also call people to set up a game and play mahjong with them. Sometimes when the water pipes and wires in the house were broken the robot directly became to the maintenance staff. If he could not figure it out him, he called professionals to operate. The video with the highest click-through rate and the most comments.

Last week, Qiao Shengan posted a video with a heavy suspicion of advertising. The suspicion of advertising could be seen from the title.

- "Guardian Robot, my parents' personal doctor."

The video content was a picture of Qiao Shengan getting up with an online robot in the morning to help his parents make breakfast. As a result, Qiao Shengan's father while drinking porridge and talking to his son, said to the robot that his arm hurts. It may be that the last few robbers kicked the foot, and the old injury recurred.

Qiao Shengan controlled the robot and consulted his father's arm for a while. Waiting for noon, Qiao Shengan took the controller to a well-known hospital, hung up the orthopedic specialist clinic and asked the sitting specialist to help his father by seeing his arm. The picture was so funny that Qiao Shengan, who was holding the controller, even suggested to the orthopedic expert when he came to the clinic whether he should visit the neurology department or go to the heart clinic in front of the hospital and see his heart.

After talking a lot, Qiao Shengan brought VR glasses to the expert, the orthopedic expert almost jumped up from the chair.

"Well, this thing is amazing! You can see it can help your father undress." The orthopedic expert was surprised that even the local dialect popped up, like a child who got a limited-edition transformer and had a lot of fun.

The professional film critic Qiao Shengan was not only good at film reviews but also great at making videos. He used double pictures to show the expert excitedly making a gesture in the air, shooting himself with the robot in his hometown, and using a flexible and lightweight manipulator to help Qiao Shengan's father diagnose his arm.

As soon as the orthopedic expert did, it was amazing. He was really surprised. Just after a simple five-minute rehabilitation massage, Qiao Shengan's father shouted comfortably, and his arm didn't hurt him at all anymore. Then the expert controlled the robot again and helped Qiao Shengan's father paste a bone pain plaster that was always available at home.

Through the robot, the wonderful plot of going to the experts for diagnosis in the same place is over.

The following climax also followed.

The orthopedic expert showed a strong interest in robots. As a result, Qiao Shengan took out his mobile phone on the spot and showed the expert on how to log in to the flagship online store of Monster Heavy Industries and place an order to buy the robot.

This expert was also the owner of the man with the bulging the waistband. The 120,000 yuan did not frown its eyebrows, and he bought one on the spot.

It is also cheap to say they have rehabilitation equipment in their hospital which was worth hundreds of thousands.

After work, the expert was reluctant to let Qiao Shengan go and he was responsible for the follow-up massage rehabilitation of his father for free, in exchange for the one-hour control of the robot.

The expert in general surgery, cardiovascular department, respiratory medicine department, several departments were called by the orthopedic expert. These elderly experts almost fought for control of the robot.

In the end, Qiao Shengan's parents enjoyed a full range of control for free. Qiao Shengan also successfully helped the Monster Heavy Industry to sell more than ten guardian robots. Also instigating this group of experts, they could try to use this robot to study the feasibility of remote outpatient clinics or remote surgery.

Several experts gave him the expression that they intended, and the following comments were fully brushed up with more than 50,000. Almost all of them were praising Qiao Shengan. He should not be film critics anymore and went to apply for a sales manager at Monster Heavy Industry.

In the end, in all videos, Qiao Shengan would very sensibly describe how intimate this robot was. With this text, he encourages people. Peoples, you who are struggling in other countries don't buy a car buy one quickly. Give the robot to your parents.

Qiao Shengan had more than 5 million followers many people are right and wrong, some people scold Qiao Shengan, saying he took the advertising expenses of Monster Heavy Industry behind him.

Every so often, Qiao Shengan would always say: "Monster Heavy Industry saved my parents' life, and Lao Tzu's advertisement is going to be a lifetime."

The followers applaud and quickly praised Qiao Shengan as a great filial son.

Now...

Qiao Shengan's fans have nearly surpassed 10 million. Many people said that watching robot videos every day was more enjoyable than watching movies.

"I also watched the videos uploaded by these viewers. Only then did I know that Qiao Shengan, who was crying in the control room, was so famous on the Internet. Almost half of the posts are advertising for us. "

"This man is too old to grasp the audience's heart. Almost every video can arouse the audience's desire to buy."

"Ashamed and ashamed, he even helped us sell so many products." Ye Qing was equally embarrassed because he didn't pay for advertising.

"Send ten robots and ten ionization purifiers to him. In the future, if a new version of the robot is released, you will have to send one to him for free. If his robot is broken, we will send a new one for free."

Ji Ke and Wu Yuexiang nodded about each other, such a good person, it was not too much to send gold bars.

After the emotion, Ye Qing stood up from the chair and stretched his waist. He pretended to have a mysterious smile and said, "Oh, don't go, you two, I invite you to have a cup of coffee."

"Coffee?" Ji Ke had long discovered that Ye Qing's office had an extra set of coffee tools.

Did the boss still make coffee?

"Yes!" Ye Qing snapped his fingers: "let you enjoy the good coffee."

Chapter 369: Who Moved My Computer

The boss suggested for them to drink coffee together, the two naturally agreed quickly. They thought Ye Qing was going to show his hands but Ye Qing called Yang Lily the manager of the propaganda department and asked her to call Yun Shi to his office.

Yang Lily said: "Yun Shi was checking the order in the underground warehouse opposite.". So, she called her to let her come.

Ji Ke and Wu Yuexiang sat down, one took out his mobile phone to see the circle of friends, and the other tapped on his laptop.

Wu Yuexiang glanced at everything, and it seemed that he was giving the computer a mess of software upgrades that made him feel dizzy just by looking at the name.

"By the way, by the account of the manager, I saw a lot of foreign blockbusters. When the spies invaded some well-guarded companies. They just used a jammer and put it on the camera side and could make the camera picture standstill or keep Replay. In reality, does such a thing really exist? "

Wu Yuexiang was also bored. Ji Ke inquired about what seemed to be very high-tech and said that he might not be able to see it in the future.

At present, the office is mainly located in the Blue-Sky Building. When the company moves into the Monster Industrial Building belonging to the company in the future, the security department will be responsible for the security of the entire building. For that, this task makes people full of blood when they think about it.

Wu Yuexiang naturally had to study a lot, like those electronic detection products, there were no hidden security risks in the movies.

"Fake." Ji Ke grinned, keeping his hands away from the keyboard: "The picture must not be moving, or the picture should be done back, and there must be a signal source that continuously inputs the video signal. The video signal is not like the old-style optical disc. If you lose data, you will be stuck. If there is no signal, the screen will be blank."

"No matter how powerful the jammer is, it is impossible to send a wireless video signal. Let the camera without a wireless receiver receive it?"

"The interference can only interfere with the black screen, as long as there is a black or blue screen of the monitoring device, someone will be sent to check it immediately."

"Then I can rest assured..."

"Wait..."

In the plan of playing with the computer, suddenly Ji Ke said: "who moved my computer?"

"What secrets can you keep on your computer?" Wu Yuexiang leaned his head away.

On the computer screen, an English software with a concise screen was appearing. Wu Yuexiang, a security captain who knew some English, barely recognized a few words.

Start, hard drive, test, update...

"Someone wrote an algorithm in my disk detection software." Ji Ke looked at the command panel obscurely. "This is a hard disk detection software that can automatically detect the bad sectors of the hard disk. Evaluate hard drive performance based on write and read speed."

"There is a window in the software where commands can be written, allowing users to write appropriate detection commands according to the characteristics of the hard disk."

"Just now..."

"There is one more command in it, but I'm sure I haven't written any commands."

"I don't think you are programming every day?" Wu Yuexiang was unclear: "Or... you mean, your computer was hacked?"

"Not at all." Ji Ke took a deep breath: "It's this algorithm command, too much... It's too subtle."

Ji Ke narrowed his eyes and moved his finger to the arrow keys to make the cursor start with the first letter and jump with his gaze line by line.

This command, as a whole, seemed obscure and difficult to understand but it could be analyzed and understood line by line and the meaning inside could be slowly understood. He found that this algorithm was like a sharp knife, in the most direct and efficient way, to combine multiple hard drives data information for calculation.

The algorithm is the core of all detection software.

This hit actually contained an item that Ji Ke had never seen before, but after careful analysis in his mind, he simply took the case for an incredible algorithm.

The more he watched, the more his eyebrows rose, and his fingers shook.

In any profession, there are some people who cannot do it themselves, but they do not hinder knowledgeable people. They can see at a glance what is extraordinary and amazing.

Ji Ke was astonished by this algorithmic command now. He felt that these things, composed entirely of alphabetic symbols, were more beautiful than fairies and he could not help himself.

It was impossible for a hacker to hack into his computer because this laptop was not connected to the Internet in most cases.

Besides, how could a hacker touch his computer and do nothing bad, but leave a profound algorithm that could inspire him so that he could be embarrassed by a brilliant algorithm?

"Who wrote this algorithm in the end?" Ji Ke grabbed his hair. This notebook had been placed in the computer room before and was responsible for debugging the new server. In theory, everyone might have touched his computer.

"Boss, I'm going first. I have to figure this out." Without thinking, Ji Ke hurriedly hugged the computer and left.

Wu Yuexiang was embarrassed to stay alone, and he also got up and said, to think about it what loopholes in the company's security.

Ye Qing nodded in agreement and when the two left, Ye Qing suddenly remembered that day Yun Shi seemed to have moved that computer.

When Yun Shi was coming, he would ask her.

Without mentioning Yun Shi, Ye Qing almost forgot. Why hasn't she arrived yet in the past ten minutes?

In fact, Yun Shi has arrived.

It's just that she was standing outside the office lobby, a little overwhelmed...

Ten minutes ago, Yun Shi, who was helping in the underground warehouse, received a piece of news that surprised her very much, the president asked her to go to the office.

The president of Monster Heavy Industry only heard that was, but didn't.

Yun Shi only heard that the president of the Monster Heavy Industry was very young, but she never saw its photos.

Mainly because she was assigned to the tenth-floor office area, and the president's office was on the ninth floor, which was the innermost position.

If she hasn't seen his photo, that doesn't mean that no intersection has occurred. So, why did the president call her and let her come alone to his office?

Before that, without an in-depth understanding of the Monster Heavy Industry, the two people emailed each other on the Internet Yun Shi did not think the president of the company was so different at all.

When chatting with him, Yun Shi felt that the other party was very funny. a group of hackers stunned him, for that he had to ask her for help. However, when she really joined the Monster Heavy Industry after a short understanding, only to discover how extraordinary the Monster Heavy Industry is.

Those idol dramas that opened hotels, catering chains and the heroes of listed companies have nothing to compare with the Monster Heavy Industry. The extraordinariness of the Monster Heavy Industry was reflected in its unmatched industrial capabilities.

In the drama of idols, do these government officials dare to play to attract favors from the company for the first rank? Dare they play, aren't they in the biggest scale of a city or in the best industrial groups in a province, one by one to attract the favors of the main companies of actors? In other words, it's almost the same to flatter them.

But where is Monster Heavy Industries?

Yun Shi was in the Propaganda Department, and the Propaganda Department was responsible for the company's communication and customer service. The most common thing she was doing every day is to call and send emails one by one, find the company that comes to their door and sends one of five sentences gently and politely.

- Very sorry!

Sorry, our company has no such idea at the moment.

Sorry, our company cannot cooperate with you.

Sorry, our company does not need this technology.

Sorry, our company has sufficient funds.

What are the companies gently rejected?

It was all kind of these more responsible companies than the hero of the idol drama.

They wrote out countless articles. In the eyes of the layman Yun Shi, they all felt very silly and lost money, but in the end, they were very sorry.

Now, the president, who refused to cooperate with countless well-known companies let her come along to the office.

After a long time of inner entanglement, Yun Shi was unable to summon up courage and sent him a sentence "I'm sorry.". With seven points of panic and three points of curiosity.

She was curious about the president who chatted with her in the email, what is it like, curious about why the president asked her to go to the office?

Chapter 370: The Senior of the Blood Book

After hesitating for a long time, Yun Shi had to push the fan away, representing the most powerful door in the company which should be open.

"Toc toc..."

"Come in."

A calm answer came from inside, and Yun Shi felt that this sound seemed to be familiar to him. But at this time, she was so nervous that her fingers were trembling, how come she knows that voice?

She pushed the door open and walked nervously by half a body.

The office in front of her was an office with a very high-tech style, a suspension in transparent crystal crystal silver-white composite bookcase and a metal tea machine with cold light. The old-fashioned handmade carpets, crystal chandeliers, mahogany bookcases, and solid wood decorations like luxury bags were not visible here.

The modernization is the style of this office, and it is also synonymous with youth. The young man sitting on the mechanical engineering chair of the Monster Heavy Industry fist product, looking down at the report...

Seeing his face clearly, Yun Shi seemed to be struck by a bolt of lightning, stopped stiffly at the door. It was none other than the boy she met in the elevator when she interviewed.

Yun Shi was so surprised she came here with a tense mentality but unexpectedly saw Ye Qing: "Why are you here?"

"Because I am the boss here."

Ye Qing looked up and smiled at Yun Shi: "I wanted to tell you last time, but you think I am an engineer on the other side of the factory."

"You turned out to be the president here?"

Yun Shi's expression was fixed, and in her confused eyes, there was an incredible flash. This young man is the president of the Monster Heavy Industry who used to chat with her by email?

It was saying Monster Heavy Industry has a young president, but Yun Shi never expected to be young like this.

Known as the second Bill Gates, is the founder of the largest social platform abroad not young?

In the past years, Xiao Zhang in his thirties is known as the youngest self-employed billionaire in the world.

He is of course, young because the major industry giants with him are all gray-haired, old men with grandchildren. Compared with these people, Xiao Zhang is almost young to the limit. And those people, basically no more than fifty years old, are automatically assumed to be young and rich.

Yun Shi began to believe that most of their presidents were younger than those of domestic industry giants, but their actual age must be more than thirty.

Unexpectedly, he was even a few years older than her.

Thinking of this, the tension in Yun Shi's heart dissipated a bit. After all, Ye Qing gave her a picture of a young man who got along well. Speaking of which Yun Shi still treats him as a friend in the company, otherwise, she will not go far to help him make coffee.

"Unexpectedly, really unexpectedly." Yun Shi gently closed the door and shook his head: "I actually knew the president of our company long ago, and I never thought the company president would be so young. I admit that, basically, the bosses I know are all uncle-level."

Ye Qing stands up and beckons Yun Shi to get closer: "then guess, why I call you to come here."

"Purpose?"

There was this cloud haze, some people didn't know where to look, so she had to look through the cloud haze. She has just discovered the brand-new set of coffee making tools shelved in the display cabinet.

"Mr. Ye, you will not ask me to come to..."

Twenty minutes later, Ye Qing sat comfortably on the mechanical engineering chair. Yun Shi sat opposite him, the restraint on her face relaxed a lot, she smiled bitterly at the two cups of coffee in front of her. Yesterday, she was saying this guy did not know how to taste coffee. Today, this guy set up a set of exquisite and complete coffee to let her make him coffee. That's a president!

"I don't know much about coffee. I can't tell how good it is. It's good to drink anyway." Ye Qing picked up the second cup and gave Yun Shi a thumb up: "Pity that you cannot open a cafe."

"Actually, I think I am more suitable to open the calligraphy and painting shop." Yun Shi shrugged her nose exquisitely.

"Oh, there is one more thing to ask you." Ye Qing took a sip of coffee: "The former network manager Ji Ke said that someone had entered a command in his hard disk detection software."

Ye Qing gave Yun Shi surprise at the moment and said it seemed to see you also lost a piece of content on the computer.

"Not me!" Yun Shi subconsciously rejected.

Who else Yun Shi?

Just like a proficient literati in calligraphy, seeing the finest pine ink and the finest rice paper, he cannot help but grab the pen to lay the paper and leave his proud works on it.

In the computer room that day, Yun Shi saw super servers and data storage arrays worth more than 100 million yuan that she couldn't dream of. She was suffering from similar sufferings. She connected the storage array well. At that moment, Yun Shi has already forgotten the idea of hiding himself and typed in his favorite command code to pick out the defective hard drive that drags down the speed in the storage array. It is Yun Shi's most comfortable thing to let the storage array reach the highest level.

"No... no, I mean that command code is the skill I was taught by a senior in school."

Yun Shi quickly wrote the reason for his behavior in his mind: "You know, I majored in computer information security at University. My Dean is very strict. I didn't know how to write my thesis when I was about to graduate. One of my seniors sent me the command code he had figured out by himself and asked me to add it to my thesis. Yes, that's right. He said there was a very powerful algorithm in this command code, and this is the reason why I can recite that command code. In the end, the thesis really passed, but the senior suddenly cut off all contact with me for unknown reasons later."

Now was Ye Qing's turn to be dumbfounded, looking at the fuss of the plan, he knew the command and the algorithm was amazing.

In order to get a girl, this senior is really bloody!

"That's a shame. If he contacts you later, remember to ask him if he is interested in coming to work in our company." Ye Qing is in urgent need of high-end network talents especially after the completion of the new server room, he always feels there is no technology bull sitting in the town, just like going out without a wallet and mobile phone and he has no sense of security.

The Real Eye disappeared, and he couldn't reply to the email, so Ye Qing had to retreat.

Yun Shi secretly breathed a sigh of relief and said, "Mr. Ye, if there is nothing else, I'm going to work first?"

"Will the tea be cooked?"

Yun Shi nodded hard. The art of tea was one of the most representative traditional arts in China. She learned this art from her father who liked to be elegant and loved the traditional culture. Yun Shi was also very good at the art of tea.

Sure enough... This young president, who would enjoy himself, unexpectedly asked Yun Shi: "Which tea set is needed to have tea art to be more stylish?"

Unlike imported coffee in the West, tea art has developed a very systematic and very advanced knowledge after thousands of years of development.

This spot can be seen from the price of thousands of kinds of teas at a glance.

Yun Shi patiently introduced several kinds of tea products that she considered to be very unique and explained what tea set to match with to taste.

When asked about the price, Yun Shi captured an expression from the young president's face.

She was no stranger to this kind of expression. When she takes ordinary rice paper to let her dad show calligraphy, this expression will appear.

Sure enough, Yun Shi followed several tea products that were available in the market, but the price reached 10,000 yuan or so and after the names of famous tea wares that were rushed by countless collectors as treasures.

The young president smiled with satisfaction and even said that these are good so that they can better appreciate the essence of tea culture.