

Chapter 242

In the end, Matthew was thrown out of the office by James and Helen. At the basement parking lot, Tiger was there waiting for him.

“Matthew, everything has been arranged as you instructed. However, Master Newman said that he could make the Jacksons shut their trap if you wanted to!” Tiger said.

Matthew waved his hand. “Thank Mr. Newman for me and tell him that I’ll handle this myself!”

Tiger’s face brimmed with admiration; by rejecting Billy’s personal offer to help, that showed that Matthew truly had a bold spirit. But still, his heart was filled with agitation at the thought of Matthew’s plan. If everything went according as scheduled, not only Matthew, but even himself would rise a level above!

“By the way, Timothy Wayne called as well asking if we need any assistance!” he informed Matthew.

Chuckling, Matthew replied, “Thank him just the same, and tell him he can send some people over tonight to watch the show.”

“I got it!” Tiger answered with a nod.

After leaving Cunningham Pharmaceuticals, Matthew didn’t go to work and went straight to Lakeside Garden to take a break instead.

Natalie was still unconscious and he spoke gently to her at her bedside, “Nat, it won’t take long for me to heal you. In fact, I promise you that I’ll get back everything that our family had lost!”

Not much time had passed since Matthew returned home before he suddenly received a call from Helen, asking him to return to the company immediately. Puzzled, he rushed there and heard Liam’s exaggerated tone of voice at the door when he reached.

“Dad, Mom, there’s no doubt about it. This is definitely the work of that b*stard, Matthew! Last night, someone witnessed him kidnap Young Master Jackson. It was him who brought Young Master Jackson to the mountains, and then he died there. There’s a witness and the tools he used for the crime. It’s the end for that b*stard this time!” Liam said, painting the picture for the rest of them with a gleeful look on his face.

Sneering, Demi added, “You may know everything about a person, but not what’s in his heart! Look at this guy, who may have an appearance of an honest chap, going about in his wimpy ways. Nobody would have thought that he could do something so cruel secretly! Luckily, we discovered this early. Otherwise, he’ll remain as a ticking bomb in our home!”

Her statement received the nods of approval from her parents with shocked looks on their faces. Furious, Sasha asked, “Haven’t you guys said enough yet? Are you not done? Liam, don’t throw accusations at my husband based on hearsays.”

Liam cast her a look and said leisurely, “Sasha, those are not hearsays. I asked my friend who’s a policeman, and he told me that they have solid evidence.”

Demi scorned, “Did you hear that? This is the evidence from the officials! Sasha, my husband may accuse Matthew, but will the officials do it?”

Nodding, James and Helen agreed, “That’s right, Sasha. It’s impossible for the police to simply accuse him.”

Before she could rebut them, Matthew entered the room and cast Liam a look before asking in a low growl, “Liam, are you sure this is the evidence that the police have?”

Seeing Matthew, Liam was a little unsettled, but he squared his jaw and replied, “Yes, I’m absolutely sure!”

Glaring at him, Demi said, “You came at the right timing, Matthew. Sign these divorce papers quickly. From now on, it’s over between you and my sister! You’re a murderer, so don’t implicate my sister. You got that?”

Without giving two hoots about her, Matthew continued to ask, “Liam, don’t you think that your words are illogical? Since the police have such solid evidence, then why did they release me in the first place?”

With that, Liam was caught tongue-tied with his eyes widened, unable to rebut anything for a long while.
