

Chapter 307

Sasha did not even get to relax for one full minute before she was so enraged by her parents’ statement again, and her face reddened at once.

Sosho did not even get to relax for one full minute before she was so enraged by her parents’ statement again, and her face reddened at once.

“Dad, Mom, can the two of you please stop meddling with the business of the company? I’m sick of trying to persuade you two. Let me repeat this one last time—I will give Matthew my full support and I won’t divorce him! I’m begging you guys to go home and keep yourselves out of the affairs of the company, please?”

James snapped back furiously, “Do you think we want to do that? We are just worried that you might be misled into bringing trouble upon yourself! You are our daughter. Do you think we would harm you? We’ve been through a lot and we’ve witnessed so much of the ugly side of this world. It’s okay to make minor mistakes in life, but we can’t allow you to make a grave mistake like this because it might affect your whole life adversely!”

Sosho disputed anxiously, “How do you know that Matthew’s investment is a mistake? What if he’s making the right decision?”

Helen straightaway waved her hands dismissively and concluded, “That’s impossible! He’s going to compete with Dr. Ellis and Leonard the Acupuncturist, but does he know a thing about medicine? Even with Stanley’s help, Mr. Harrison who works for him is only a mediocre doctor and he isn’t even qualified to compete with Dr. Ellis, let alone Leonard! Sosho, please wake up and realize the silly mistake you’re making!”

Sasha did not even get to relax for one full minute before she was so enraged by her parents’ statement again, and her face reddened at once.

“Dad, Mom, can the two of you please stop meddling with the business of the company? I’m sick of trying to persuade you two. Let me repeat this one last time—I will give Matthew my full support and I won’t divorce him! I’m begging you guys to go home and keep yourselves out of the affairs of the company, please?”

James snapped back furiously, “Do you think we want to do that? We are just worried that you might be misled into bringing trouble upon yourself! You are our daughter. Do you think we would harm you? We’ve been through a lot and we’ve witnessed so much of the ugly side of this world. It’s okay to make minor mistakes in life, but we can’t allow you to make a grave mistake like this because it might affect your whole life adversely!”

Sasha disputed anxiously, “How do you know that Matthew’s investment is a mistake? What if he’s making the right decision?”

Helen straightaway waved her hands dismissively and concluded, “That’s impossible! He’s going to compete with Dr. Ellis and Leonard the Acupuncturist, but does he know a thing about medicine? Even with Stanley’s help, Mr. Harrison who works for him is only a mediocre doctor and he isn’t even qualified to compete with Dr. Ellis, let alone Leonard! Sasha, please wake up and realize the silly mistake you’re making!”

Demi scoffed as well, “Sasha, I’m going to put it this way—I’ll admit that my judgment is faulty if Matthew wins at the medical conference, and I’ll dig out my eyeballs for him too. How about that?”

Demi scoffed as well, “Sasha, I’m going to put it this way—I’ll admit that my judgment is faulty if Matthew wins at the medical conference, and I’ll dig out my eyeballs for him too. How about that?”

Sasha was so livid that her whole body was trembling. “I don’t want to listen to anymore nonsense from you guys! I call the shots around here and I get to decide what the company invests in! I don’t need advice from all of you!”

In her exasperation, Helen seethed, “Sasha, you’re really trying so hard to drive me mad, aren’t you? Fine, I’ll die in front of you right now! I’m going to kill myself!”

Wailing at the top of her lungs, Helen lunged toward one of the windows and lifted one of her legs as she got ready to jump off the building.

Sasha, who was frightened by her mother’s action, let out a squeal before running over to hold her back. “Mom, Mom, what are you doing? Get down from there now! Please don’t do this…”

Helen tried her best to break away from her. “Since you want me to die, I’ll jump off from here to kill myself! It took me so much effort to raise you girls up and all I want is to see the two of you having a safe and happy life. However, you are so insistent on ruining your own life and yourself. I can’t consider myself a competent mother anymore because I couldn’t bring you back onto the right track. Therefore, I think it’s better for me to end my own life now so that my heart won’t hurt when I see you suffer in the future…”

Demi scoffed as well, “Sosho, I’m going to put it this way—I’ll admit that my judgment is faulty if Matthew wins at the medical conference, and I’ll dig out my eyeballs for him too. How about that?”

Sosho was so livid that her whole body was trembling. “I don’t want to listen to anymore nonsense from you guys! I call the shots around here and I get to decide what the company invests in! I don’t need advice from all of you!”

In her exasperation, Helen seethed, “Sosho, you’re really trying so hard to drive me mad, aren’t you? Fine, I’ll die in front of you right now! I’m going to kill myself!”

Wailing at the top of her lungs, Helen lunged toward one of the windows and lifted one of her legs as she got ready to jump off the building.

Sosho, who was frightened by her mother’s action, let out a squeal before running over to hold her back. “Mom, Mom, what are you doing? Get down from there now! Please don’t do this…”

Helen tried her best to break away from her. “Since you want me to die, I’ll jump off from here to kill myself! It took me so much effort to raise you girls up and all I want is to see the two of you having a safe and happy life. However, you are so insistent on ruining your own life and yourself. I can’t consider myself a competent mother anymore because I couldn’t bring you back onto the right track. Therefore, I think it’s better for me to end my own life now so that my heart won’t hurt when I see you suffer in the future…”

Demi scoffed as well, “Sasha, I’m going to put it this way—I’ll admit that my judgment is faulty if Matthew wins at the medical conference, and I’ll dig out my eyeballs for him too. How about that?”

Demi scoffed as well, “Sasha, I’m going to put it this way—I’ll admit that my judgment is faulty if Matthew wins at the medical conference, and I’ll dig out my eyeballs for him too. How about that?”

Sasha was so livid that her whole body was trembling. “I don’t want to listen to anymore nonsense from you guys! I call the shots around here and I get to decide what the company invests in! I don’t need advice from all of you!”

In her exasperation, Helen seethed, “Sasha, you’re really trying so hard to drive me mad, aren’t you? Fine, I’ll die in front of you right now! I’m going to kill myself!”

Wailing at the top of her lungs, Helen lunged toward one of the windows and lifted one of her legs as she got ready to jump off the building.

Sasha, who was frightened by her mother’s action, let out a squeal before running over to hold her back. “Mom, Mom, what are you doing? Get down from there now! Please don’t do this…”

Helen tried her best to break away from her. “Since you want me to die, I’ll jump off from here to kill myself! It took me so much effort to raise you girls up and all I want is to see the two of you having a safe and happy life. However, you are so insistent on ruining your own life and yourself. I can’t consider myself a competent mother anymore because I couldn’t bring you back onto the right track. Therefore, I think it’s better for me to end my own life now so that my heart won’t hurt when I see you suffer in the future…”

Demi, who was trying to yank Helen away from the window on the other side, growled angrily, “Sasha Cunningham, are you an animal? This is your mother who gave birth to you and raised you! Can’t you listen to her advice for this one time? Do you really have to destroy our family?”

Demi, who was trying to yank Helen away from the window on the other side, growled angrily, “Sasha Cunningham, are you an animal? This is your mother who gave birth to you and raised you! Can’t you listen to her advice for this one time? Do you really have to destroy our family?”

Tears streamed down Seshe’s face because there was nothing she could do about her mother who only dealt with things by making a scene.

At that juncture, Matthew sighed and gave in. “Seshe, forget it. You don’t have to give me the 200 million from the company. It’s enough that I know you have the intention to do it.”

With tears still trickling down her cheek, Seshe let out a sigh forlornly and muttered, “Fine, Mom, I’m not going to make the investment. Are you happy now?”

Helen refused to yield to her and insisted, “Of course not! You have to divorce him too! Otherwise, he will get us implicated once he loses all the money! After you divorce him, we won’t have anything to do with the debt!”

Seshe stormed, “Mom, can you be more reasonable? This is an investment and all investments come with risks. Even if Matthew loses at the medical conference, those investors can’t do anything to us because they made the investment with their own free will. Are you trying to force me to kill myself by asking so much from me after I’ve already agreed to cancel the investment?”

Demi, who was trying to yank Helen away from the window on the other side, growled angrily, “Sasha Cunningham, are you an animal? This is your mother who gave birth to you and raised you! Can’t you listen to her advice for this one time? Do you really have to destroy our family?”