

Chapter 64

“What?” Sasha was dumbfounded. She wondered why her parents suddenly became so confident after coming back from their walk.

James said, “One more thing. From tomorrow onward, Liam will be your personal secretary and driver!”

“No!” Sasha instantly refused.

“You have to agree no matter what!” Helen said angrily. “Sasha, Liam is thoughtful and detailed and he’s part of our family. We feel rest assured with him staying by your side to help. How could you manage such a big company by yourself?”

Sasha was infuriated. “I’ve already told you no. If he must come to the company, I’ll sell the company tomorrow!”

“You…” Helen was stunned as she never thought Sasha would resist so strongly. “Enough. It’s just a small matter,” James said as he waved his hand. “Will you agree to give Liam some company projects?”

Hearing this, Sasha turned to look at Matthew. After seeing that he didn’t object, she let out a sigh of relief and said, “Only small projects.”

With that, James and Helen muttered to themselves as they returned to their room.

After they left, Matthew walked over and hugged Sasha from behind. Then, he whispered, “Thank you, Sasha!”

When Sasha felt the warmth from Matthew’s body, she felt her body relax.

“You really are fearless! Who allowed you to hug me, huh?”

Sasha glared at Matthew but she was the first to burst into laughter.

That night, Matthew continued to sleep on his small bed. However, he had a feeling that it shouldn’t take long before he could sleep with Sasha.

The next morning, Matthew received a call from Mr. Harrison and heard that Mr. Graham had recovered.

Specifically, Mr. Graham was able to have sex with his wife last night. After Mr. Graham came back from Orleans, he hadn’t been able to do so for a long time. Even though his wound had not healed yet, his body had a reaction last night and he was so overjoyed, he almost passed out.

However, Matthew already guessed Mr. Graham would have this result.

He asked Mr. Harrison to come retrieve a mini Rejuvenating pill from him to hand to Mr. Graham. At the same time, he also asked Mr. Harrison to tell Mr. Graham there was a banquet at noon that he needed to attend.

Matthew remembered that Mr. Harrison mentioned that Graham had tremendous power in the banking industry in Eastcliff, and even the whole Eastshire.

Would Bart’s power be able to compare with Mr. Graham’s?

Meanwhile, Francis was sitting in Bart’s office at the bank.

“It seems that the b*tch’s loser husband is planning to come to you for help.”

Bart sneered, “He’s planning to treat me to a meal? Do I look like the kind person that will easily accept invitations? If I agree to have a meal with that loser, my reputation will be ruined!”

Francis smiled and waved his hand. “Uncle Bart, you should at least give people a chance. Since they invited you to a meal, you should accept it. You can also grab the opportunity to make them completely give up. Am I right?”

There was a flicker in Bart’s eyes. “Are you saying that I should accept his invitation and embarrass him in front of everyone?”

“Yes!” Francis nodded and said. “That b*tch Sasha is still hopeful. This time, I want her to feel complete despair and let her know that no one else in the world can help her except me! This way, she will kneel before me obediently!”

Hearing this, Bart burst into laughter. “Francis, you really have a lot of devilish ideas. Fine, I’ll do as you say. This afternoon, I will completely humiliate Matthew!”

