

Chapter 11 - Honey, I Was Disgraced And Humiliated Today!

“Sarah... did you not say that the boy is nothing, how could he be the manager's boss of this place?”

Outside Mcdonalds’ building, six girls dressed in revealing clothes stood embarrassed at the side, waiting for the cabs they ordered to arrive.

At this moment, confusion was written all over their faces as they waited impatiently for Sarah's explanation.

They did not know that Sarah is as confused as them right now.

After Sarah was dragged out, she finally has enough time to think through what just happened.

Although she does not believe that James is the boss of that woman called manager, she knew he must be related to her somehow, or else, she wouldn't have fought for him.

As for him being the boss, she found it ridiculous.

‘With everything he has gone through in the past, how could he be the boss of this place, and I would not know?’

Although she was busy thinking of this, she does not want anything to show on her face to her friend, or else they would start looking down on her.

“I don’t give a fuck for whatever, or whoever he is, as for daring to embarrass me like this, I would make sure he and that woman regret this day till eternity,” she swore not only to her friends but also to herself.

Someone might think she would have regretted or felt remorse for everything she has done for James in the past, unfortunately, that was a lie.

Not only does she not feel regret and remorse, but the fact is that she has already begun to plan how she would deal with James, and make his life miserable at this moment.

If the Sarah of the past was to see how corrupted the current her is, she would have done everything she could to kill herself.

....

Not knowing that his ex was busy planning how to deal with him, James is currently seated on Ayra's office chair at this moment.

He found this feeling so great.

The owner of the chair is standing respectfully before him, while he, an outsider was seated comfortably in her chair which is in her office.

Ayra was feeling a little grateful at this moment that what happened earlier happened, or else she wouldn't have known how to face this new boss right now.

Every time she remembered how she had acted, she would feel embarrassed.

“Do you need anything to eat, or to quench your thirst, sir?” She asked carefully and respectfully.

James thought for a while and finally choose to decline.

‘I’m one of the owners here anyways, so I can do and eat anything I want later,’ he thought to himself happily.

“Where are the documents I need to sign?”

Ayra immediately walked to a glossy cabinet a few distances away.

She pressed the passcode and pulled the door open, then she brought out a sealed folder from within, which she took respectfully to James.

“You can unseal it, sir, the documents are inside.”

James did as told, he unsealed the folder and brought out a stack of documents.

He instantly became stunned.

“Do I need to read through all this?”

Ayra, “ _ ”

“Oh... I was just joking, I know I would read them,” James answered his question awkwardly when he saw Ayra looking at him blankly.

‘He looks so cute!!!!’

She stared at the already busy James who was focused on reading the contents of the document in his hands

‘To be honest, this person is young and handsome, apart from the fact that he looked malnourished.’ she thought.

‘If he could take a little care of himself, would he not turn out to be a dashing young man that would get girls dying for him?’ she blushed, her gaze fully focused on James.

‘I seem to have discovered a rare gem,’ her eyes suddenly widen as she thought of something terrifying

‘This person is so rich, yet, he looked like someone that is extremely poor...’

‘Perhaps, he is doing that intentionally...’

As if she just made a great discovery, Ayra suddenly covered her mouth in shock.

James abruptly sensed a feeling of being stared at, thanks to his sixth sense. He instantly raised his head to glance at Ayra who also shifted her gaze away, making James confused.

‘Why is this girl standing and gazing at me like that?’

[Is the host getting shy for being stared at by a beautiful girl?]

James decided to ignore this strange system of his.

“You can have your seat, Ms. Ayra,” James pointed at the chairs before him and said carefully.

“Oh... thank you, sir,” Ayra finally walked to the sit and sat.

She placed her hands on her lap, and her head bowed, feeling embarrassed for being caught staring at her boss.

James finally turned his attention back to the document that is already giving him a strong headache.

He does not understand the things written in them at all.

It’s like they were written in an alien language even though the language is the normal English he knows.

[Host does need to read the document.]

‘Hun????!’

James become confused when he heard the system's voice.

[System already knows the contents in them, so host can directly sign and fill the necessary form, nothing in the documents is disadvantageous to the host.]

James instantly felt like pulling the system apart.

‘You should have told me this earlier, I wouldn’t have wasted my precious time, trying to understand these things’

[Host does not ask, so how would the system knows that he does not understand what he was reading?]

James instantly felt speechless at this shameless system of his.

He knew what it was saying was rubbish.

How would it not know he does not understand what he was reading?

That’s clearly a lie.

‘The thing it loves doing best is spying on my thought!’

[Hahaha... host knows the system the best.]

James decided to ignore it again.

He took out a blue pen from his pants pocket and turned the documents to the last page.

“Bo... boss, aren’t you going to check further to see if there is any clause or terms you don’t like?”

Ayra instantly became startled when she saw what James just did.

“No need, I trust this organization,” James replied dismissively, making Ayra short of words to say.

James filled in the necessary information into the documents, such as his full name, age, bank account, and so on.

After he was done, he gave the documents and folder back to Ayra, who in turn put them into a new folder and sealed it off, she then returned it to where she took it earlier.

After that, James stood up and decided to leave.

“You are leaving already?” She asked, shocking herself.

Thankfully, James does not think much about it.

“Yes, I will come by again anytime from now, of cause to dine.”

“Okay sir, I should escort you out.”

“No need, you can go back to your work,” James said and walked out.

He has completely forgotten at this moment that he still needs to come for his class monitor's birthday tomorrow.

Ayra finally sighed after James left.

She felt a little sad for not being able to get James' attention.

It's not that she has gotten interested in him, rather, she got curious about him, and intended to get on his good side.

Not knowing a thing, James finally left the place and took a taxi to Stomach empire.

He decided to go meet that father and daughter, also, to eat there.

....

At this moment, Sarah has already returned alone to her apartment, she is currently speaking on the phone with Gabs while sobbing

“Honey, I was disgraced and humiliated today!”

She cried into the phone, shocking Gabs that was currently busy enjoying a massage from a beautiful masseur.

Gabs hurriedly sat up straight, stunning the masseur that was busy applying oil to his fat body.

“What do you mean,” he questioned his girlfriend. “who was it that dares to humiliate my girlfriend ”

The moment Sarah heard the anger in Gabs' voice, she became excited.

This is exactly what she was waiting for.

She hurriedly explained everything that happened, including slapping James. But she changed the reason why she did that.

She lied and told Gabs that James called him an ugly fat boy which was why she slapped him.

The moment Gabs who has long been breathing out fire heard Sarah, he pushed everything in his sight away angrily, scaring off the masseur.

“I will kill that bastard, I must kill that bastard!”

Gabs had gone mad at this moment, making Sarah turn crazy with joy.

“where are you?” Gabs queried.

“in my apartment.”

“Wait for me, I’m coming this moment.”

Gabs instantly stood up and wiped away all the oil on his body, he put on his clothes and ran out of the massage parlor.

He knew he would not rest until he deals with James now.

James who knew nothing is going on finally arrived at the Stomach empire.

The moment he entered, his stomach began to rumble and protest, making him remember that he has not eaten anything today.

When he was in Mcdonalds', he does not feel this way, perhaps, it might be because the only thing they make there are junk foods, but here, they make real food.

James walked towards the cashier, and was met with a queue that was much longer than yesterday's, he sighed helplessly and joined it.

If not because he wanted to ask for that father and daughter duo he brought here yesterday, he would have found his way himself, that’s not all, he remembered he still does not know if the card given by the system would work.

[Does the host still not believe in the system?]

James became embarrassed when he heard the metallic voice.

He scratched his head and decided not to answer.