

Chapter 20 - Are You Deaf?

Everybody in James' class has become dumbfounded at this moment, as they stared at James, while James was also feeling confused.

'Are they calling my James?'

He glanced around him, only to be met by eyes staring deeply at his face unblinkingly.

[I think the host is in for some beating this morning!]

James instantly felt speechless when he heard the system's thoughtful voice.

'Why do you always love cursing me anyways?'

[I have never cursed the host, what I always did was say the fact.]

It sounded so obvious as if it wasn't saying nonsense.

James decided to ignore it for now, as he still has something more important to attend to at this moment.

"POOR AND BROKE BASTARD, DO YOU WANT ME TO INVITE YOU OUT MYSELF?"

James was already feeling irritated at this moment by this.

Although he does not want to believe that the other party was talking to him, he knew better that there is no other James apart from him in the class.

Though he felt this, he remained seated on his chair, with no intention of going to meet the owner of the voice.

'Would I not automatically be proclaiming myself as a bastard if I were to go out?'

[Who would have known that host's IQ is quite high?]

James felt like snapping out the system head in frustration at this moment if it has one.

'Why does it always love to ridicule and disdain me anyways?'

"James, I think you are being called."

One of James' classmates that has been waiting impatiently for James to go meet his caller finally couldn't wait anymore.

He told James, acting like a good person, while the truth is, he only couldn't wait to see the movie that would be playing out anymore.

"Yes... yes, would it not be rude if you do not meet that person calling you?"

"Or..... Are you perhaps scared?"

James instantly raised his head to glance at the person that just spoken.

Seeing who it was, he felt like it would be a waste of his time speaking with this Gambler.

"BASTARD... IF YOU DO NOT COME OUT THIS VERY MOMENT, DO NOT BLAME ME FOR WHAT I WOULD DO NEXT!!!"

The voice shouted again, but this time, angrily, like he is barely controlling himself at this moment.

The class became quiet, as everybody stared at James.

Their hearts began to palpitate in joy, as they couldn't wait to see the movie that would be played out.

At this moment, they began to hear noise and commotion coming from the outside.

Many of James' classmates also wants to go out right now, to go see what was going on there at this moment, but they were all scared.

Scared that they would be inviting unnecessary doom upon themselves.

'What if I was mistaken for James.'

This is the same question sounding in their minds at this moment.

They all began to regret why they had been classmates with James at this moment, and why they came to class them is very early in the first place.

If they could, they all would have immediately forced James out at this instant, but they are too scared of being mistakenly taken as his accomplices, so they sat partially on their sit.

Outside James' classroom, the place is already bustling with a crowd right now.

Many have begun to take out their cell phones, and cameras to start a live broadcast, showing what is currently happening.

The place has become so crowded at these moments that it felt like something interesting is going on.

All these people stood at the very back, surrounding some other bunch of people.

Gabs and Sarah stood at the forefront, while some gangsters stood behind them, looking around threatening like they couldn't wait to start causing havoc everywhere.

At this moment, Sarah has her head raised high up as she watched forward to how they would be trashing James later.

'How dare him, how dare him to use his connection to disgrace me?'

Her mind is literally and completely so black at this moment, with not even an ounce of goodwill in it anymore.

She has forgotten that she was clearly the one that begged James to send her away, and blacklist her yesterday by smacking him in the face.

She has also forgotten everything James has done for her in the past at the moment, and the only thing on her mind right now is nothing but revenge.

Wouldn't she be wasting her rich boyfriend's purposes if she did not let him take revenge on her behalf?

She glanced happily at the side, and she was suddenly hit by disgust, then it instantly disappeared, as if it has never been there.

To be honest, she did not love Gabs at all, even for a bit.

What she loved was the money, fame, and expensive things she would get by being together with him.

Unfortunately for her, she has long convinced herself that it is Gabs she loves, and not what she would get from being with him.

If her last self was to see her current self at this moment, she would not have made a second thought, but instantly cut off her life.

At this moment, she was still thinking of the sort of reward to give Gabs after he finished taking revenge for her when she suddenly began to hear what the crowd behind them was talking about.

"I heard the guy Lean advised yesterday went to some place to offend Gab's girlfriend."

A wild grin instantly formed on Sarah's face when she heard this. She raised her already highly raised head even higher.

"That's true, I heard he disgraced Gabs' girlfriend and spoke badly about Gabs."

"Why would he do that? Was he looking for death that bad?"

"Oh, no, no.... I heard from a friend of mine that happens to be that girl's friend, that the girl was his ex, and he only wanted to get back with her, which was why he did that."

A person that knows even more added thoughtfully.

The moment the crowd heard this, a look of understanding instantly descended on their faces.

"So she was the one that made the guy turn himself into something else these days."

"I think he looks pitiful.... He only wants his girlfriend back, why would they bring gangsters to beat him up."

Some of the people within the crowd began to feel deep compassion for

James right now when they remembered the videos they had seen about him the day before yesterday and yesterday.

"He must have loved her deeply, to do so much, and even almost get himself killed."

Tears began to fall oof some girls' eyes at this moment, as they remembered how James was kneeling heavily on a tarred road, and how he almost got killed by a car.

Thankfully, Lean was there who talk him out of it.

When Sarah whose head was still raised heard how things changed direction, she suddenly felt angry, and she couldn't wait to butcher the person that told them the truth.

"Which of my two best friends had dared to talk about me to their friends?"

She thought angrily.

Unknowingly, the head she raised has already returned to how it was supposed to be.

She glanced beside her, and finally sighed in relief when she saw that her boyfriend does not seem to notice a thing.

"you and you, go invite him out."

Gabs suddenly pointed at two of the people behind him, then he spat heavily.

He had never thought that James would be such a coward, and would not even dare show his face not respond.

'Since he knew that, why had he dared spoke evil about me to my girlfriend?'

"Yes, boss."

The two that were pointed out, part of the students in Dee university and a few of Gabs' underlings hurriedly nodded their heads heavily.

Then they rushed into James's classroom.

'Two dumbos,' Gabs thought angrily when he saw how this two behaved.

'Thankfully, young master Lean gave me better men, how would I teach that brat a lesson he would never forget with these men of mine..... I need to change them ASAP.'

He has forgotten how arrogant he used to feel in the past every time this underlines walked behind him because he saw the built men given by Lean

.....

The moment the two men entered James' classroom, everybody's heart began to palpitate.

They stared unblinkingly at them.

Apart from James, everybody in the class knew that these two were a few of Gab's underlying, so they stared with their eyes wide open at the two, waiting for what they would do.

The two boys walked arrogantly to James, all the docileness in them earlier completely dissipated.

"James, our boss wants you out right this moment."

James acted as if he does not hear them.

His heart also began to palpitate at this moment, as he could not understand when he offended anybody.

'Why would people go after me?'

He screamed in his heart, in fear.

'What should I do, what should I do?'

'Would I be beaten, or would I be silenced?'

He began to think of various things in fear.

[System does not want to get involved before, but who would have known that the host would be this dumb?]

James heard the system's taunting voice, but instead of becoming mad, he instantly felt relieved.

'Why have I forgotten I've got this guy.'

"Are you deaf? I said my boss wants you ASAP."

James Instantly gave the guy that spoke a cold look, before glancing away.

The guy that was looking by James suddenly felt his back drenched with cold, goosebumps began to crawl all over his skin as he stared at James a little doubtfully.

'Did I mistake that feeling just now?'

Chapter 20 - Are You Deaf?

"Let's go."

Everybody, "—"

They all literally stopped for a second, thinking they'd heard wrong.

big sale: 100 bonus free fou you get it