Chapter 133

After dinner, Wang Qian took Zhang Fan out with them. The summer evening in tea vegetable city is very beautiful. It's almost ten o'clock in the evening. The sun has just reached the foot of the mountain. The sunset glow, the breeze, the fragrance of flowers and birds, the laughter of their relatives, the world is so beautiful!

On one side is Jing Shu holding Zhang Fan's arm, on the other side is Shao Hua. The three walk on the wide road of the Development Zone, with fewer people and fewer cars. Listening to Jingshu's chirping words, Zhang Fan's heart is left with happiness.

For three days, after spending three days with my sister, the holiday ended. Received the transfer list from the medical department. Zhang Fan looked at Pediatrics! Hey, hell level department. Zhang Fan is also afraid of Pediatrics. Children can't express and communicate. They can't say where they are uncomfortable. Moreover, all organs are not yet developed and sound. There are many taboos to pay attention to.

China has a strong sense of family succession. If a DINK family, the pressure will come not only from the elderly relatives, but also from the surrounding neighbors and friends. Because having children has been upgraded to the level of responsibility and responsibility.

Children represent hope, future and prosperity. We all know how important children are, but in the medical field, it is the opposite. There is a great shortage of pediatricians in China.

There are many reasons. The most important reason is that it is difficult for pediatrics. Observing words and colors is particularly important in pediatrics. On this point, you can't learn it without seven or eight years.

Second, pediatric fatigue is not only physical fatigue, but also heart fatigue. Most of the departments in the hospital are quiet. If the voice of family members or patients is a little louder, the nurse will strictly stop them: "pay attention, others still have a rest! This is the hospital! " But in pediatrics, like a busy city, one after another, wow! WOW! WOW!

Third, the income is small, and the pediatric treatment medication is almost a quarter or less of that of adults.

Fourth, parents do not understand, the more attention, the more difficult it is to communicate. Pediatrics and emergency departments are like on the brink of war. If they are careless, war may break out. Children are sick and uncomfortable, and parents have become bloodthirsty. Sometimes just because of one look, it will cause a war.

When two strange doctors meet and chat, they will ask, "what subject do you do?"

"Emergency!"

"And you?"

"Pediatrics!"

Then they held their heads and cried!

This is the current situation of the medical industry. Few people take the initiative to do pediatrics. Most of them are forced to do pediatrics with tears.

There are two top three hospitals in the municipal hospital. One is the municipal hospital and the other is the hospital of traditional Chinese medicine. The hospital of traditional Chinese medicine is the top three only upgraded in the last year. His department is not perfect and there are no pediatrics and obstetrics!

Then there is the women's and children's hospital. Although it is a specialized hospital, once the child or woman's condition is a little serious, they will definitely transfer their families to the municipal hospital.

Therefore, at present, the Pediatrics Department of tea vegetable city is mainly in the city hospital, which is often overcrowded. In order to reflect the importance of the flowers of the motherland, the hospital has specially provided a three-story building and established a pediatrics department. Maybe it's too noisy!

Pediatrics is divided into three departments: newborn, pediatric emergency and general pediatrics.

Tang Lihong, the senior director, is a woman who is neither warm nor dry. At first glance, she feels a little serious, but when she faces a small patient, she really has the feeling of a kind-hearted female Bodhisattva.

She was the director of Pediatrics when she was 30 years old. When she studied pediatrics in Ruijin, the director of Pediatrics in the local training hospital must keep her. If her mother was not critically ill, she might have stayed in Shanghai!

More than ten years of director has made her famous in the local area, but she still works step by step every day and doesn't pursue a higher position. She is relieved to be a pediatric director. Over time, pediatrics has become a very characteristic Department of the hospital.

Director Tang's principle is not to use drugs if you can not use drugs, and try to use physical methods to solve patients. It's also strange. Put the crying child in her hand and let her hold it for a few times. Hi! Stop crying. And smile at her!

Doctors in three pediatric departments rotate every quarter. It's really a training department. Not only technology, but also patience!

When Zhang Fan entered pediatrics with a transfer form, it was like entering the encirclement of the enemy. There were shouts everywhere, wow! WOW! WOW!

The transferred doctor is no longer in the charge of director Tang. There is a doctor in charge of Pediatrics. She is not only responsible for the transferred doctor, but also for normal medical treatment. She takes the transfer form in Zhang Fan's hand and doesn't talk nonsense. She directly asks Zhang Fan to find the attending He Fang. He Fang is Zhang Fan's teaching doctor!

Attending He Fang, in her thirties, has just finished maternity leave, so she is in general pediatrics. Zhang Fan takes the transfer list to find He Fang. He Fang is eating extra meals. He often feels hungry because he wants to breastfeed his children.

"I'm really sorry, Dr. Zhang. You wait for me a little. I'll wash my hands. I just ate some cake!" After seeing Zhang Fan, He Fang was a little embarrassed. It's a little embarrassing to eat at work!

"It's all right! It's all right. " Zhang Fan smiled and sat on the stool waiting for He Fang. There are seven or eight doctors in general pediatrics, three male doctors, and the rest are female doctors. It's no different from other departments. It's busy.

"Head nurse, stop the medicine for eight beds. I forgot this morning!"

"Who has the test sheet? Give me some quickly. I don't have any!"

"Doctor, why is my child still coughing. Have been hospitalized for a day! "

People with poor psychological quality can run away from the noise of the day. No matter how much they have to see a doctor for children to deal with all kinds of parents!

After washing her hands, He Fang said to Zhang Fan, "Dr. Zhang, I'll trouble you this month, but I don't have many patients at present. We should both be busy, but I have to go home for an hour at noon every day. If you're on duty, you'll have to drive more. "

"It's all right. If there are no special circumstances, it should be no problem." Among Zhang Fan's several disciplines, pediatrics is the worst. So a little liver tremor! The answers are not very sharp! For two years, this is Zhang Fan's first hesitation in his work!

"It's all right. I'll tell the pediatric emergency doctor downstairs. Don't worry, you can adapt in a few days. "

Zhang Fan looks like a dry surgeon. He has a black face. Don't talk about seeing a doctor for his child. He can frighten him to cry if he didn't cry. He Fang goes home to feed her children every day, so she is very polite to Zhang Fan.

WOW! WOW! WOW! In the sound, Zhang fandu passed the first day of Pediatrics. At the end of the day, his ears are really buzzing. He works in a noisy environment for a long time and has to force his attention to observe the patients. Really, really! It's hard.

Zhang Fan was absent-minded. Shaohua asked strangely, "what's the matter. You feel very tired today! Are there too many operations? " Jing Shu also looked at her brother worried.

"No surgery!"

"What's the matter?"

"I transferred to pediatrics! Now the ears are still buzzing! "

"Well! Exaggerated. "

"What? I beg your pardon? I can't hear you! "

"Kill you!"

"Cough! Cough! Cough! "
