

Chapter 243 Tyson's Pas

The message left Tyson unsure of how he should feel.

"Why don't you bring you wife home for dinner, Tyson? Even though you've been married for some time now, she still hasn't met all of your relatives. Doesn't it seem a bit far-fetched?"

As you know, Grandpa missed out on the wedding. In other words, he has not yet met your wife. Shouldn't you bring her home so that Grandpa can meet her?"

Tyson looked at the two texts and answered, "Isn't Grandfather abroad?"

Mack's response came sooner than Tyson had anticipated as if Mack had been holding his phone waiting for a response.

"Grandfather returned the day before yesterday, and he already knows that you got married. He requested you to bring her home to meet him. Do you have any qualms about coming home?"

After reading Mack's inflammatory message, Tyson grimaced.

Their granddad was Hobson Shaw. He was really elderly and had been away from home for a while. It had been a long time since Tyson had last seen his grandpa.

At this moment, flashes of memories filled his mind.

He was still living with the Shaws even after his grandpa moved overseas.

Danilo and Mack never liked him because of his unique status as an illegitimate kid. The rest of Tyson's family did the same thing and looked down on him. His grandpa was the only person in his life who treated him well and looked out for him. His mother was likewise treated well by his granddad.

His existence in the Shaw family was not ideal, but because of his grandpa's protection, it wasn't terrible, either.

However, when his grandpa went away, Mack brazenly plotted the deaths of Tyson and his mother by staging a car accident.

Despite the good fortune that allowed Tyson to live, his mother did not make it out of the vehicle crash alive.

Tyson's disposition had shifted significantly since then. He pretended to be an ill and scarred car accident victim on purpose. Wearing a mask, Tyson convinced Mack that he was defenseless against him and that he posed no more threat.

As it turned out, this ploy was successful. For a long time, Mack had ceased making plans to harm Tyson. However, Danilo's loathing for Tyson was much greater.

In spite of the fact that Danilo was married, he was unable to refrain from having sexual relations with Tyson's mother. For several years into her relationship with Danilo, Tyson's mother remained blissfully unaware of his marriage. Then she discovered that Danilo was the next in line to lead the city's most influential family, the Shaws.

Tyson's mom wanted to end things with Danilo, but she was pregnant at the time. The boy's name was Tyson, and he was the illegitimate heir of a wealthy family. He recalled his mother's warning that it was impossible for a guy worth hundreds of millions of dollars not to play about with women.

Tyson blamed Danilo's neglect and apathy for his mother's death, and he held a deep animosity for the guy who brought him to the world.

Danilo thought that Tyson had brought shame upon the Shaw family when he was disfigured in a car accident, therefore he set out to exclude Tyson from the family. Tyson decided to leave the Shaw family and forge his own path outside, all the while keeping his power a secret and waiting for the right opportunity to take revenge.

Despite the passage of time, Tyson's resentment against the Shaws had not abated. In contrast, it just became stronger and more powerful.

Because they had colluded to bring about the death of his mother, each and every one of them deserved to be put to death.

He didn't disagree with his granddad, however. Only his grandpa mattered to him among the Shaws.

Tyson came back to reality, glanced over the messages, and debated whether or not to respond.

In fact, he had serious intentions of bringing Celia to meet his grandpa. He had no doubt that his grandpa would approve of his lovely and intelligent granddaughter-in-law.

However, he worried that if he went there with Celia, Mack would hurt her.

Even though Tyson was simply a disfavored illegitimate kid back then, Mack was concerned that he posed a threat to his role as the Shaw family's heir. So Mack plotted to murder Tyson by causing a vehicle accident that ended up killing Tyson's mother.

The likelihood that Mack would intentionally harm Celia was hard to predict.

Mack was a potentially vicious individual. Though Tyson could think of no good reason for Mack to harm Celia, he was still worried.

Upon contemplating this, he reached out and stroked Celia's face affectionately while sighing.

He had been unfeeling and uncaring for so long. What was it about this girl that made him so vulnerable?

