

Chapter 266 Articles About Her All Over The Interne

Foley hesitated for a while before quickly trying to reassure her. "Please don't panic, Brea! I'll be discussing this with the client company later. Besides, they didn't say that they would terminate the contract. They only asked to stop shooting the commercial, so don't worry too much about it and rest back at the hotel first..."

Brea interrupted him in anger. "You don't need to discuss anything with them ever again! What's the difference between canceling the commercial and terminating the contract? Do you think I'm still a rookie in the entertainment industry even after all my years of struggle?"

It doesn't matter if the client company refuses to cooperate anymore. I never cared about this commercial, anyway. They're a small company and yet they're so arrogant, claiming that there's a lot of dirt about me online? I have always been surrounded by malicious gossip. It's not like they didn't do a background check on me in the beginning. Why didn't they say it before, then? Why are they only now using it as an excuse just as the shooting is about to start?!"

Foley hastily tried his best to pacify her. "Brea, please calm down first and get some sleep at the hotel for the moment. I'll handle the situation the best I can."

Brea let out a scoff and rolled her eyes in response even though she knew Foley couldn't see it.

"Sleep? You're telling me to just go to sleep? I've had more than enough sleep! Now that today's filming has been canceled, I will not be working with that company anymore. Blacklist them right away, because I will never shoot any of their commercials from now on!"

Foley nodded hurriedly, his body trembling in fear. He had no choice but to agree with her, promising that he would do as she said.

It took a long while before Brea finally calmed herself down. "But why did that company suddenly say that there's a lot of dirt about me online? Did something happen?"

"Well... about that... I'm not sure. Maybe they heard something recently? To be honest, I... I don't really know anything about it, Brea. I'm sorry..."

Foley was stammering the entire time, unable to give her a proper explanation.

Brea's anger which had finally subsided earlier quickly rose to the surface once again.

"If you don't want to tell me, then fine, don't! Forget about it."

She then hung up the phone without even waiting for his response. She didn't want to listen to him stammering an explanation and going around in circles.

However, she felt very upset about the entire situation. She couldn't understand why the client company suddenly cancelled the commercial filming. The news just came out of the blue. Honestly though, was there even anybody in the world who didn't know about her messy reputation? Wasn't everyone already aware of all the gossip surrounding her? Or perhaps they had already found a more suitable person for the job and simply used this as an excuse to drop her?

Countless possibilities were swirling inside Brea's head as she pondered deeply over the matter. However, no matter how much she mulled over it, she couldn't find any answers to her questions. Suddenly, at that moment, her phone vibrated with a new message.

Grabbing her phone, she took a look at the screen and saw that it was from Mr. Griffin of The One Jewelry.

Mr. Griffin had apparently obtained her phone number somewhere and he kept rambling nonsense in his text message before finally getting to the point.

"By the way, this is Mr. Griffin who had dinner with you yesterday. What happened, Miss Duffy? Why are there suddenly a lot of questionable articles about you on the internet today? The other senior executives of The One Jewelry were hesitating whether or not they should continue working together with you. It took me quite a while to finally calm them down and persuade them not to drop you. Anyway, make sure to put in a good word for me in front of Mr. Evans! "

Brea was staring at the screen, stunned on the spot. She quickly regained her bearings and went to check on today's trending searches.

After clicking on the entertainment category, what she saw next filled her with shock.

The entertainment category was full of news about her.

There were old news articles from many years ago as well as recent information about her. Some people had taken photos of her activities these past few years and posted them while some released new videos and pictures of her that they had apparently taken in secret.

Even the top stars in the entertainment circle weren't talked about so much like this. Her name was practically blowing up on the searches. If it weren't for the fact that all of the news concerning her was malicious, she would've thought that she had become popular and famous suddenly.

After closely inspecting the articles on the page, she realized that most of the news reports were actually about her and Wayne.

She didn't know what got into the news bloggers and reporters all of a sudden. They were now exclaiming that Wayne's real girlfriend was actually Keira and that Brea was the third party in their relationship.

There were some posts that contained photos of Keira and Wayne eating together, and there were also photos of Brea and Wayne fighting on the street yesterday. Not only that, but the titles of each article were getting more and more ridiculous as she scrolled down.

