

Chapter 267 Anger

Brea read the news articles one by one. Many of them stated that Wayne and Keira had been together for a long time, and Brea still chose to be the other woman. They also said that yesterday, she wanted to be Wayne's real girlfriend, but she failed, so she had a fight with him on the street.

And to prove the authenticity of this matter, various pieces of evidence were attached to each article.

Brea read more than a dozen news articles from different media platforms, all of which had the same content. Obviously, they were written by the same person. Someone had written an article and then arranged for the media platforms to issue it together to throw mud at her.

She was so furious that she smashed her phone on the bed.

Brea didn't expect that things would turn out like this. She remembered clearly that the news last night was totally different.

Last night, the media said that she was Wayne's secret girlfriend. But today, Keira became his real girlfriend, and she became the other woman.

There was a drastic change in the content. Those damn reporters were really shameless.

Brea held back her anger and picked up her phone again to continue reading. And she was not surprised that almost all the netizens were now calling her "the other woman". Their words were sharp and unpleasant to the ears.

It must be her rival, Keira, who deliberately bought off the media to blacken her name. Keira wanted the netizens to believe that she was the other woman, so her reputation would be ruined. Then she couldn't get any resources anymore, and gradually, she would become a has-been.

As Brea continued to read, her anger grew. Especially when she saw Keira and Wayne's photo having dinner together, she got even more furious.

Were Wayne and Keira really dating?

Thinking of this possibility upset her even more.

Brea remembered that Wayne always said he didn't like her appearance and character. So she thought he had good taste. She didn't expect that he would only fall for someone like Keira.

Brea thought about it carefully, but she really couldn't figure out why Wayne liked Keira.

Keira's face, breasts, buttocks, and legs couldn't compare to hers.

In particular, Keira's face was extremely pale. She was not ugly, but she didn't stand out in the crowd, let alone in the entertainment industry, where there were many beautiful women.

How could Wayne fall in love with her? He must have been blinded.

Brea was burning with rage. She was about to throw her phone away again when she saw another message from Mr. Griffin, asking about the situation.

In addition, some brands who had worked with her also sent her messages questioning her.

She was so overwhelmed by the messages that she didn't want to open them anymore.

But when she thought that the most important endorsement for her at present was The One Jewelry, she restrained her temper and replied to Mr. Griffin's message.

"I'm sorry, Mr. Griffin. I just saw the news. I don't know what is going on yet. But I'm not the other woman. I'm just being misunderstood. I will clarify this matter as soon as possible."

Mr. Griffin was very quick to reply, "Miss Duffy, I believe that you can handle this matter well. I'm waiting for your good news. And also you and Mr. Evans' wedding date."

After reading the last sentence, Brea felt like crying without tears.

She was not Wayne's real girlfriend. How could she marry him?

Compared with her, Keira was more likely to marry him.

When she thought that Wayne and Keira might be in a relationship, she was upset again.

It was hard for her to accept that the woman Wayne liked was her rival.

He was a very handsome man. It was a pity that he fell in love with Keira. They were not matched at all.

Brea couldn't get rid of these two people in her mind, and she was about to explode with anger. She didn't want to, but she couldn't stop thinking about them.

She decided to take a cold shower to calm herself down. But when she was about to go to the bathroom, there was a sudden knock on the door.
