

Chapter 468 New Repor

Upon hearing the news, Celia was overjoyed. "Really? That's wonderful news! Flavia is getting out of the hospital!"

Tyson nodded. "Flavia's kidney transplant operation was successful and she has recovered well."

Celia felt a wave of relief wash over her.

She became so excited that she started to tear up.

"Flavia's surgery went so smoothly thanks to you and Mr. Evans."

Celia was lost in thought for a little while. Then she said, "Babe, when Flavia gets discharged from the hospital, I want to pick her up. I'd like to take her to the place I rented. It would provide her with a very good living environment. What do you think?"

She was a little worried at Tyson's reaction. Tyson and Flavia hadn't known each other for long so she wasn't sure if he would object to her decision to take care of Flavia.

She looked at her husband, awaiting his response expectantly.

Without any hesitation, Tyson nodded. He said with a smile, "Of course, babe, I think it's a lovely idea. I'll take you to pick up Flavia. She'll be happy to see us."

Celia felt very grateful in that moment for Tyson. She hugged him and showered him with praise. "You are the best husband in the world."

Tyson patted her head. "Okay, baby. Calm down and eat some more. Flavia might think that I'm not taking good care of you if she sees that you've lost weight."

Celia nodded and served up more food for the both of them. "Honey, you should eat more too. By the way, I ordered some supplements online. They are good for you. You will remember to take them, won't you?"

Tyson was surprised. He couldn't help asking, "Baby, what are the supplements for?"

Celia looked at him. She said, "I checked your physical examination report again. You are not in good health. As your wife, it's my responsibility to do something about it."

Tyson acknowledged her with tenderness in his eyes. In his heart, he was scolding Wayne for being such a fool.

How could he make up such a ridiculous medical report when it was so important? It seemed that he needed to be taught a lesson.

Tyson pushed these thoughts to the back of his mind and said to Celia, "Honey, don't worry. Wayne made a mistake in the report and he sent me a new one. I have no serious health problems, and my heart issue will heal in time."

Tyson had been afraid to cause worry to Celia. He had secretly asked Wayne to redo the report. He was looking for a chance to show it to Celia and now that she had brought it up herself, he took the opportunity to resolve the misunderstanding.

Hearing this explanation, Celia asked, "Where is the report? I'd like to see it."

She had been worrying ever since she'd seen the last report.

Now, she couldn't wait to know his actual physical condition.

Tyson found the digital copy of the report in his phone to show Celia.

Many data had been revised. Although the main problems were still there, it didn't look as serious now. He didn't look like he was about to drop dead.

Celia compared each item in the new report with the old one. She was relieved. It seemed Tyson was not in such bad shape after all.

Only God knew how scared she had been.

She'd thought about taking up some part-time jobs to save more money and taking Tyson abroad for treatment.

But now she'd found out that he was in a stable condition and she felt at ease.

She wasn't going to lose Tyson!
