

Chapter 537 Picking Up Flavia From The Hospital

As soon as Celia picked up the phone, she heard Alita's excited voice. "Babe, I have some great news to tell you. Ronald and I are going to join the Semshy Group together soon! This means that you and I will be able to see each other more often. I'm so happy! He even let me be his personal assistant!"

Celia was surprised but recovered quickly. She laughed into the phone. "So fast? That's awesome! That means Ronald gave you a promotion, right? Congratulations! I'll treat you to dinner sometime to celebrate."

Alita's tone was ecstatic as she said, "Please, it's my treat! I'll treat you and your husband to dinner. You can't refuse. You know, I didn't expect Ronald to be so generous, though. He gave me a raise. This jerk actually did something good."

Celia was confused. "You called Ronald jerk before for not giving you a raise. Since he has now, there's no need to be so harsh on him! Anyway, after you come to work at the Semshy Group, we'll be able to meet up more often."

Alita smiled and said, "Yes, of course! I've missed you so much! Considering that I'll be able to see my dear Celia more often, I'll cut Ronald some slack. I have to go now, but we'll talk more another time. See you at Semshy, babe."

Celia said goodbye and hung up the phone. The conversation put her in a good mood. She went back to the workstation to get her things so she could leave. Tyson was waiting for her. She hurried out of the office and she and Tyson drove home together.

While they were in the car, Tyson asked, "How was your work today? Has anyone in the office made things difficult for you?"

At that, what happened in the meeting during the afternoon came to her mind. Celia shook her head to get rid of that thought. She didn't want to worry him, so she just smiled and answered, "Of course not! You have no idea how popular your wife is. Except for a colleague who had a little conflict with me earlier, everyone else is good to me. The director also takes good care of me."

Tyson didn't press her for more. Since it was his company, it didn't matter who messed with Celia. He would not let that person get away with it. No matter what.

Stopping at a red light, he turned and kissed her forehead. "I'm glad to hear that. But, Cece, please know that I will always stand behind you and support you no matter what. And I am here for you if you ever need me to lend an ear."

Celia's heart softened. She kissed him back.

When the light turned green, Tyson started the car again and said to Celia, "Tomorrow is the weekend. We should go pick Flavia up from the hospital. What do you think, babe?"

Celia was overjoyed. "Sounds great! Flavia is finally leaving the hospital! Let's help her move into the new place tomorrow, too."

Celia's good mood from her phone call with Anita was even better now. After dinner, she spent some quality time with Tyson and fell asleep with his arms around her waist.

The two of them got up early the next morning, freshened up, and had breakfast. After that, they bought some flowers to give to Flavia when they picked her up from the hospital.

They arrived at the hospital not much later. Flavia was delighted when she saw the large bouquet of flowers. "Aww! These are so pretty. You two are so thoughtful. Thank you. I appreciate it."

Celia handed the flowers to Flavia and said with a smile, "Everyone adores beautiful things. No woman of any age can refuse the charm of flowers, right? Plus, these flowers are as pretty as you."

Flavia was overjoyed by Celia's words and smiled widely.

Seeing her reaction, Celia added, "After you're discharged from the hospital, you can move into the house I rented before. We would love to take care of you."

Stunned, Flavia said hesitantly, "I don't want to bring you too much trouble."

Celia insisted, "Don't worry. You won't be troubling us. You're family. Besides, Abbott's gambling debts haven't been paid off yet, and the debt collectors come to your door from time to time. We're worried about your safety."
