

Chapter 613 You Know Me So Well

After driving for two hours, Tyson finally returned home with Celia.

After getting off the car, Tyson smiled as he took Celia's hand and said warmly, "Wait a minute, my love, I have a surprise for you today."

Celia broke into a grin and asked excitedly, "Really? What is it?"

"You'll find out soon. Wait for me here," Tyson winked and said cheekily.

He let go of her hand and kissed her cheek lightly. Then, he walked around to the back of the car and took out a big cake from the trunk.

Watching as Celia widened her eyes in surprise, Tyson felt very pleased with himself. He walked over with the cake and said softly, "The food in the hospital seemed so bland. Since you were finally discharged, I specially bought this cake to celebrate your freedom! Also, I want to celebrate that the Star Bay project did not end up in Mack's hands."

Celia's eyes were glistening with joy. She hugged Tyson's arm lovingly and said, "You know, I was actually controlling my diet to maintain my figure by eating lesser sweets before I got hospitalized. But all these days spent in the hospital really made me crave sweets. I was even planning to get some on the way to work tomorrow. I didn't expect that you read my mind and bought it in advance! You know me so well, it's amazing."

Celia then took the cake from Tyson's hand and dragged him to their door.

Tyson was happy that she was excited. He didn't expect her to be in such a hurry to have the cake. He let out a small chuckle and followed her obediently.

As soon as Celia opened the door, she headed straight to the dining room and opened the cake box.

Beaming with ecstasy, she carefully took the cake out of the box and set it nicely on the table.

The overall design of the cake was rather feminine, and it looked thoughtfully prepared. It was shaped like a cute cat.

Celia's heart warmed up at the thought of Tyson planning the surprise for her. The corners of her lips curled upwards as she subconsciously sneaked a peak at him.

Although they were not rich, Tyson had always found ways to make her happy in his own clumsy but practical way.

Money can't buy happiness.

However, it could be obtained from receiving something from someone you love. No matter the value.

Celia went to a drawer and took out two forks. She passed one to Tyson and used the other one to taste the cake.

The cream was sweet but not greasy, and the sponge was soft and delicious. It was better than any cakes she had eaten before in terms of taste and texture.

More importantly, she could feel Tyson's sweet sentiments in it.

Tyson watched her quietly as she tasted the cake. When she swallowed it, he couldn't help but ask, "Honey, is it delicious?"

Celia nodded enthusiastically and said, "It's very good!"

Tyson looked relieved and said with a smile, "Great! I am glad you like it."

Celia gazed at Tyson's affectionate eyes and felt an indescribable feeling and an impulse surging through her heart.

Suddenly, she realized that Tyson was not eating any cake, so she asked, "Do you want some?"

"Yeah, why not?" he nodded as he replied with a smile.

Tyson didn't have a sweet tooth, but he didn't mind having some cake since Celia had asked.

"Let me feed you," Celia said with a sly smile.

She slid a piece of cake into her mouth. She then turned around and hugged him slowly, tiptoed, and pressed her soft, rosy lips onto his.

Tyson stiffened from the unexpected kiss but quickly regained his senses. He hugged her slender waist and took the lead from her, kissing her passionately until she was soft and her legs became weak.

Celia's face turned red from their long and passionate kiss. With her arms still wrapped around his neck, she asked seductively, "Is it sweet?"

Tyson nodded with a smile and buried his head into her neck. "Honey, let's make it even sweeter," he whispered.

He carried Celia into their bedroom and they made love for an hour. When they were done, they cuddled and she fell asleep in his arms. Suddenly, Tyson received a message from Briar.

"Mack sent someone to the company, asking if they can cooperate with the Semshy Group."

Tyson smirked as he read Briar's message.

So, the fish finally took the bait...

He replied to Briar immediately, "Find a small project for the cooperation with Mack first. We will use that to continue luring him in."

A good show was about to start, and Tyson would not let it end so easily. He was going to use Mack to bring down Danilo and the entire Shaw family.

Chapter 614 Important Client

It was a new day. Tyson was leaning against the bed, looking at Celia as she was waking up. "Honey, are you awake? What would you like for breakfast? I'll go and prepare it now," Tyson murmured soothingly.

Celia checked the time and jumped up in surprise. She must have missed her alarm, and now, there was not enough time for breakfast. She apologized to Tyson as she felt bad for rejecting his kind gesture, "I'm sorry, but I'm going to have to skip breakfast today. I don't want to be late for work. Don't worry about me. I'll buy breakfast on the way and have it in the office."

"You're going to work?" Tyson asked in concern. He knitted his brows and continued, "You haven't fully recovered yet. Don't go."

Celia knew that Tyson was concerned about her condition, but she didn't want to delay her work any longer. "I have to work. I still have lots of things to complete. If you don't let me go to the company, then I will work at home instead," she insisted.

Celia was worried that Tyson would stop her, so she shook his arm and said in a whiny tone, "Honey, let me go. I feel really bad for delaying my work..."

Tyson's heart softened when he saw Celia behaving in such a cute manner. He couldn't bear to say no to her, so he reluctantly agreed. However, he stated a condition. "I will let you go to work, but you have to call me at least three times throughout the day."

Celia was glad that Tyson agreed to let her work, so she nodded enthusiastically to his condition.

The two of them quickly got ready and departed for the company.

On the way to the company, Celia was staring out of the car window when she suddenly thought of Nolan. She then sent a text hurriedly to Brea. "Brea, can you take me to see Mr. Reyes today? I want to thank him for saving me the other day."

Brea's reply came immediately. "I'm sorry, Cece. I really can't help you. Mr. Reyes is recently busy with the Star Bay project. He may be away from the company for a long time. But if he comes back, I will definitely inform you."

Celia sighed and complained after she read the message, "I don't know why Mr. Reyes is always so mysterious. He's always not around when I want to see him."

Tyson was momentarily stunned, but he quickly regained his senses and pretended to be jealous. "Honey, I'm honestly jealous when you say that. Why do you care so much about Mr. Reyes?"

Celia didn't want Tyson to misunderstand, so she quickly explained, "No, I didn't mean that. I don't care about him in that way at all. I just want to show my gratitude. After all, he did give me a high salary and save my life, but I still don't know what he looks like. When my mother was still alive, she often said that we should show our thanks to the person who helped us and return the favor. Mr. Reyes helped me so many times, but I haven't even repaid him with anything. To be honest, I am always a little ashamed by this."

Seeing the guilt on Celia's face, Tyson said sympathetically, "I was just joking. I know how you feel. Don't worry too much and go to work."

Celia nodded and pecked him on the lips. She then opened the car door and said with a smile, "Don't worry. You're the only one I like. My only love."

With that, she got out of the car and ran to the company while blushing heavily.

As soon as Celia entered the building, she met Etta, who was waiting for the elevator.

Etta was so glad to see Celia. She looked at Celia from head to toe and asked worriedly, "Cece, how are you feeling? Are you okay now?"

Celia smiled and waved her hand as she said, "I'm fine. Don't be so worried."

They chatted for a while in the elevator and when the elevator doors opened, they were greeted by the sight of many strong men standing around the hallway. Curious about what was going on, Celia whispered to Etta, "Which department are these people from? I don't remember seeing them before."

Etta replied casually to put Celia at ease, "These are our new bodyguards. They are retired boxers. Mr. Reyes strengthened the security in the company after what happened to you. I guess he is afraid of similar accidents happening again."

Celia nodded understandingly, and the two continued chatting and joking on the way to their office. Soon, they arrived at the design department.

Derek was waiting at the door. He greeted Celia briefly when she and Etta arrived and informed them about a meeting that was about to start. "There will be a very important client in this meeting. Better put on your best behaviors later."

Chapter 615 Big Cooperation

Celia nodded and hurriedly went to her desk to prepare the documents needed for the meeting. She then rushed off to the VIP meeting room with Etta.

There were two men and one woman waiting for them in the room. Celia recognized two of them.

One of them was Alec, the older-looking man. She had met him before at the entrance of the Semshy Group. At that time, Alec said that he appreciated her talent and was interested in collaborating with her.

The other one was Nora, a famous model. Celia had seen her trending on the entertainment news two days ago for publicly confessing her love for Nolan. It caused a sensation online.

Celia really didn't expect to meet her here.

She couldn't help peeping at Nora as she was curious about how Nora looked like in real life.

Nora was more beautiful in real life than in the photos. She was sexily dressed and her make-up was very flattering on her. Her features were extremely exquisite, especially her eyes. They were so alluring that it was hard not to be captivated by her.

Celia couldn't help imagining pairing Nora's beautiful face with Nolan. They seemed like such a perfect match.

While Celia was distracted, Etta gently nudged her arm and signaled her to look at Alec.

Alec was glancing in her direction and nodded when their eyes met. Celia was surprised that he still remembered her. She hurriedly gave a nod in return before looking awkwardly away.

Celia didn't dare to think that Alec had specifically come to collaborate with her. She quickly took a seat in one of the empty chairs and waited for Shirley to begin the meeting.

Seeing that everyone was ready, Shirley began introducing the guests. She gestured at Alec and said, "This is Mr. Wagner, the CEO of Orchi. He came to our company today because he is fascinated by Celia's designs and wants her to design a series of outfits to complement their newly launched jewelry series."

Next, she moved on to Nora. "This is the latest ambassadress of Orchi, the famous model, Miss Nora Aston."

As soon as she finished speaking, everyone applauded.

Celia was quite surprised as she didn't expect that Alec would really collaborate with her.

After all, she was still relatively unknown as a designer, but Orchi's jewelry was very well-known in the industry. Their seasonal jewelry launches were always popular among young girls. Even Celia was quite fond of their jewelry during her school days.

Celia had never imagined that she would be able to collaborate with such a famous and international brand.

Just then, Alec stood up and greeted the crowd with a smile. He looked at Celia and said in a respectful tone, "I brought the main accessory for this season with me today."

He then signaled his assistant Darrion to open his briefcase and continued, "Please take a look. I'd like you to design a dress for Miss Aston. You should take into account the style of our jewelry series and Miss Aston's looks."

Darrion took the jewelry carefully out of the briefcase and showed it to everyone.

It was a black pearl necklace. The pearls were all natural. Each pearl was round and smooth, and it had an excellent sheen. Their outer layer was also almost flawless to the naked eye. Just the pearls alone were enough to enchant the people in the room. Pairing the pearls with the extraordinary cutting process of the diamond, the necklace was truly magnificent and unique.

No wonder the famous Orchi could endure a century-old competition. Its technology was so mature and out of the world.

Celia drew in a deep breath as she studied the mysterious and shiny black pearls carefully. Suddenly, she felt that the black pearls had qualities that were similar to Alec's. Both looked so deep and serious.

Suddenly, Alec interrupted Celia, who was deep in thought. "Do you accept our request?" he asked sincerely.

Celia came back to her senses and replied confidently with a smile, "Of course, no problem."

Although Celia found the jewelry to be unique and designing outfits to match the series would be challenging, she would still like to give it a shot. She was confident to come up with designs that could satisfy everyone.
