

Chapter 616 Encouraging Her Rival To Pursue Her Husband

Celia's words immediately brought a smile to Alec's face, the expression making his eyes light up as he reached out and shook her hand. "I hope we will have a pleasant collaboration."

Celia grinned and extended her hand to clasp his in a friendly manner, sealing the deal.

The meeting came to a natural end and on their way out of the meeting room, Celia placed her hand on Nora's arm, stopping her. She glanced around sheepishly before asking, "Miss Aston, can I take some photos of you? It will be my source of inspiration when I start the designing process."

Nora surveyed her for a moment before nodding in agreement.

Initially, Celia had expected the supermodel to be stuck up and difficult to get along with. However, she was shocked when she found her to be quite easy-going. Relief flooded her body and with an exhale, she could feel herself relax a bit more.

Celia led the way to a room to take the pictures and when they stood in the spacious room, she cleared her throat and asked, "Can I trouble you to take off the outfit and leave only your underwear?"

Celia knew that her request was bordering on excessive but before she could even take it back, Nora just glanced around and complied with no complaints.

She took off her clothes with the speed of a professional and actually took off more clothes than Celia had initially requested her to. All the blood in Celia's body rushed to her inflamed cheeks as she stared at Nora with her mouth hanging ajar.

She stood naked in front of Celia!

"It's better to just be in my birthday suit." Nora smoothed her hands over her hips without an ounce of shyness. "What do you think?"

Nora's direct boldness made Celia's eyes widen in surprise.

However, as Nora stood there, unashful, Celia began to slowly appreciate her figure.

Her figure was not that of an ordinary model, in fact, it was incomparable. She was not extremely thin, but plump and light. Her breasts were perched up high but still were exactly the perfect size to fit in an adult male's grasp. The shape of her body was mature but youthful and gorgeous. Her waist and hips were perfect to the extreme. It was almost like Nora was not a human being with such perfect proportions. With all these features coupled with a pair of slender and long legs, even women couldn't help but fall for her.

Celia had seen so many famous figures and their glamorous bodies but they all had flaws to some extent. Nora was the first beauty on whom Celia couldn't name a single flaw from head to toe.

A memory of Brea saying that Nora was praised as the most charming lady in a magazine came to mind and Celia had to agree. Nora really deserved that title.

Celia stopped her thoughts and made herself focus on the task at hand. She carefully observed Nora and recorded her body's advantages.

Nora was quiet and cooperative. She changed her position when she was instructed to do so and even chatted with Celia while doing so. "Celia, right? How long have you been in Semshy Group? I think Miss Carter thinks highly of you."

Celia raised her head from the notebook and smiled politely before responding, "I haven't been in the company for too long, but the director has treated me very well and allowed me to pass the assessment period ahead of schedule."

Nora nodded slowly and praised with sincerity lacing her words, "You must be very capable. You haven't been in the company for long but you received such an important project."

Celia flushed and blinked at Nora's words. "I still have a lot to learn."

Nora just smiled knowingly and asked, "Have you met Mr. Reyes? What do you think of him?"

Celia thought of the news she had read about, and understanding Nora's intentions, she tried her best to put in a good word for Nolan. "I'm not qualified to see Mr. Reyes yet. But I've heard that he is very hardworking and professional."

Nora was intrigued by Celia's words as she even forgot to change her pose for a while. She leaned forward and asked conspiratorially, "Do you think Mr. Reyes will be attracted by women like me?"

Celia froze for a moment and cleared her throat before she said what was in her mind. "I have never had contact with Mr. Reyes, so I am not sure. But I think you're an excellent person, Miss Aston. You seem like you would be a perfect

She thought for a while, and continued, "Actually, I think that girls can take the initiative. Maybe Mr. Reyes likes girls like you? You will know it only if you take the initiative, right?"

Nora seldom heard someone tell the truth to her. When she heard Celia's words, her eyes showed more appreciation for Celia, softening around the edges. She answered with a smile, "I now know why you are so highly valued. Besides your outstanding workability, you are a sweet talker. I have a good impression of you, and I hope this collaboration will go well."

It was at that moment that Brea and Wayne approached the room.

They were about to go into the room and wait for Brea's assistant to deliver the outfit she would wear in the event later. However, they overheard the conversation between Celia and Nora.

Wayne was shocked at what he heard. He really didn't expect that Celia would encourage Nora to go after Nolan.

After all, Nolan was Tyson. Wasn't she encouraging her rival to pursue her husband?

Wayne didn't show the slightest concern with respect to what Tyson would be going through. On the contrary, he gloated.

This was because he couldn't wrap his head around Tyson lying to Celia for such a long time. On several occasions, Wayne tried to persuade him to come clean with her, but it was to no avail. Each time, he came up with an excuse.

Nora was a girl who wouldn't relent until she got whatever she wanted, and Wayne knew this about her.

She had a crush on Nolan. So she would do her best to make him hers. Meanwhile, Tyson would have to bear the pain that came with watching her do so.

"Why isn't my assistant here by this time?" Brea asked Wayne smilingly, after listening attentively. Clearly, her curiosity had been aroused. "I want to go in and rest for a while."

"Just give me a minute to call her," Wayne replied. Then he brought out his phone. "After that, we will go inside together."

"Did I just hear you say 'go inside together'? You've got to be kidding." Brea looked at him. "Don't you know that there are only women in there? Besides, I want to hear some gossip. That won't be possible if you go in with me."

"I didn't know that." Wayne smiled. "Very well then, I'll just leave."

"Alright." Brea patted his shoulder lightly. Then she knocked on the door and said, "Can I come in?"

Immediately Celia recognized her voice. She looked at Nora. "It's Brea. You have to put on your clothes quickly while I get the door."

Nora nodded her head in agreement. She took the clothes and walked to the fitting room. By the time she came out, Brea had already entered the room.

Without wasting any time, Celia introduced the women to each other.

A smile stretched Nora's lips as she looked at Brea up and down.

"Why are you here by this time?" Celia asked Brea while going through her notebook.

"I came by to get the dress for the cocktail party so that I can try it on," she replied.

All of a sudden, an idea popped into her mind. "By the way, Cece, do you want to come with me to the party?"

"Is it the cocktail party held by the Semshy Group?" Nora chipped in before Celia said a word.

Brea nodded in affirmation. Nora paused briefly. It seemed as if she thought of something quickly before saying excitedly, "Then I'll go with you."

She beamed with confidence while speaking. "Mr. Reyes will also be in attendance, right? I have to win him over this time."

Although her interest in him was very glaring, it was in no way annoying.

This made Celia look at her before asking Brea smilingly, "Are you sure Mr. Reyes will be in attendance?"

"Of course he will," Brea replied. "This is not just any party. It is Semshy Group's. So Mr. Reyes will definitely be present."

It was only when Celia heard those words that she was relieved. She decided to attend the party. It just so happened that she wanted to confirm whether or not Nolan was her one night stand partner.

The three of them chatted for a while. As expected, the women had a lot to gossip about. When it occurred to Celia that they had talked for a very long time, she stood up and escorted Nora out of the room, leaving Brea by herself.

After Nora had left, Celia went back to her desk and began to check the photos she had taken. She was trying to come up with new ideas.

This time, she had to be very creative with black pearls. These weren't very outstanding at a glance, but they were very difficult to work on.

Even after being lost in thoughts for a couple of minutes, she didn't come up with any ideas. Celia decided to temporarily clear her mind and see how Orchi's designers worked with themes and models in the past.

She went online and began to search for Orchi.

On clicking the homepage, she saw a logo that left her in a daze.
