

Chapter 660 The Danger Of The Shares

Meanwhile, at the Shaw family's house, Mack was looking through the photos that Cerissa had sent.

"Damn it, Tyson! You deserve this," Mack said under his breath.

He suddenly had an idea of how Cerissa could make matters worse.

Besides, he wouldn't be involved or connected if the truth came out as this was a matter within the Kane family.

He was just an innocent bystander.

Back at the hospital, Celia woke up after the effects of the drug had worn off several hours later.

When she opened her eyes, she saw Tyson and Alec beside her in the ward.

They immediately rushed over to her to attend to her needs the moment they realized she was conscious.

Tyson was the first to come to her side.

Alec, to save his face, took a step back and addressed the doctor, "Doctor, what's her condition?"

The doctor replied, "Don't worry. It's not a big deal. She passed out because she had taken sleeping pills. She's fine now. I am certain that after a little more rest, she can safely be discharged."

Alec thanked the doctor and then turned to Celia. "Celia, I am so relieved you're fine. I've sent someone to investigate the matter right away."

Celia recalled that Alec was the one that had saved her. She remembered this before she fell into unconsciousness. Celia tried to hoist herself to sit upright and said, "Thank you so much, Mr. Wagner. If it hadn't been for you, I don't know how much trouble I would be in."

Alec stared at Celia's face. She reminded him a lot of Jenifer. For a moment, he was lost in thought, then he said, "Never mind. I'm just glad you're okay. I was really worried when you were unconscious."

Celia misunderstood Alec. With a blush, she averted her gaze from Alec's and turned to Tyson. She said, "Honey, I think I'm fine. I want to be discharged as soon as possible."

If Alec weren't there, Tyson would have asked Celia to stay in hospital a little longer, just to ensure she was really fine, but Alec's presence was upsetting him now. Besides, it didn't seem like Celia wanted to get along with Alec so he nodded and said, "Okay, I'll take you home."

Tyson went off right away to complete the discharge procedure. Once it was done, Tyson carried Celia into the car. Alec was present through all of this.

He didn't leave until Tyson and Celia had got in the car.

In the car, Celia was free to tell Tyson all that had happened. She was scared he would be angry so she explained in a hurry, "I didn't want to hide anything from you but I knew how stressed you've been about the project of Star Bay, so I didn't want to be a nuisance. I also didn't want you to prevent me from going. I just never expected Adrien would go so far as to drug me again!"

Celia felt sad as she thought about this. "I always thought that despite not being related by blood, we had a good relationship. I mean... we had been father and daughter for more than ten years. He was always kind to me. I thought some of that affection would remain... This was beyond what I could have imagined him capable of. Now, I know. He's a scumbag. I've been very stupid about this. I've presented him with chances to hurt me time and time again. I really..."

"Come on, honey." Tyson gave her a comforting pat on the shoulder. "It's not your fault. You just think that everyone else is as kind as you. This was his fault. Don't blame yourself. In the future, please tell me everything, because when you are in danger, I hope it is me who is with you, not anyone else."

Celia was touched at Tyson's words. She nodded and said, "I will, I will. I promise to keep nothing from you in the future. But I still feel sorry for you. I've caused you a lot of trouble."

"We are husband and wife. There's no need to feel bad. Besides, strictly speaking, I'm the one who got you into trouble."

Celia didn't follow. "Tyson, what do you mean?"

Tyson continued to explain, "My grandpa is going to give me some shares, which will certainly bring trouble to us."

Chapter 661 A Love Triangle

As Tyson had expected, the news had spread like wildfire and the next day it was the headlines across all the major media outlets.

The love triangle between Celia, Tyson and Alec was enthusiastically being discussed by everyone.

The topic of the May and December match between Celia and Alec was trending.

Rumor had it that Celia no longer liked Tyson because he was disfigured and that this was why she had hooked up with the CEO of Orchi.

Many were saying that Celia and Alec had been having an affair for a long time. This was why Semshy Group had hired her. The reason why Alec had chosen to cooperate with her in Hosworth had been to better her resume. These were some of the rumors making their rounds.

The most preposterous rumor was that Celia was a spy Alec sent to the Shaw family in order to get their assets.

Someone also mentioned that Tyson's mother was a mistress and Celia had had sex with someone on the day before her wedding, which brought about a lot of heated discussion.

Tyson didn't want Celia to see those for fear of them upsetting her.

"Honey, I'm worried that Hobson might withdraw his decision to give you shares if he hears about these rumors. I won't be able to live with myself if this affects your career."

Tyson was surprised at Celia's words. He wanted to protect her.

He held her comfortingly in his arms. "Try not to worry so much, honey. There is no evidence backing those rumors, so we have nothing to worry about. I'll have a word with Grandpa. He's a reasonable person, so I am sure he will understand."

Celia couldn't help worrying.

This time though, for Tyson's sake, she tried to seem in better spirits and said, "Okay, I'll try."

Tyson gave her a final kiss on her forehead before she set off for work.

Celia had imagined a crowd of reporters waiting to ambush her at the gate and was surprised to see no one there. As usual, she entered the company smoothly.

She didn't know that Tyson had had the reporters removed.

Although the lack of reporters made it easier for Celia, it didn't completely solve the problem.

The moment Celia entered the office, she could feel everyone's gaze following her.

Celia understood this. It was only natural. She would have been curious too if such a scandal had happened to someone else in the office.

After what felt like an age, Celia reached the safety of her workstation. Etta was already there, waiting for her with a cup of coffee.

Etta immediately began to comfort Celia before she could say anything.

"Cece, I hope you're paying no attention to what's being said online. I know you are not that kind of person. I'm sure everything will be made clear soon."

Celia was grateful for Etta's concern. She smiled and said, "I'm fine. Don't worry about me. I'll just keep my head down and keep myself busy with work. In the afternoon, I have to take the clothes to the master that Miss Graves recommended."

Despite those words, Celia was worried deep down.

What evidence was she expected to show to clear up the rumors?

What bothered her most was how these rumors would affect Tyson's life.

She was worried about people at the Shaw Group doubting Tyson. After all, Hobson was not the only stakeholder there.

With a sigh, Celia switched on the computer. Within minutes, an email popped up in the lower right corner of her desktop.

Upon opening it, she realized it was from Alec. He had set back the deadline for the task and told her to take it easy.

The email brought back to Celia's mind what had happened with Alec right before she'd fainted.

It was odd. Why was Alec treating her so well? They weren't relatives or friends...

He hadn't just saved her. He'd also waited in the ward by her side until she awoke.

There were only ever a few reasons why a man was good to woman...

Celia pushed the thought to the back of her mind.

She was worried that the more she thought about, the more trouble she would cause for Tyson.
