

Chapter 662 Mr. Reyes Shows You A Lot Of Attention

In order not to cause any trouble to Tyson, Celia replied to Alec professionally. "Mr. Wagner, thank you again for saving me. I feel a lot better now. The task will be completed on time. An extension won't be required. As a designer at Semshy Group, you can be assured of my professionalism."

Afterwards, Celia focused on her work.

That afternoon, Celia and Etta went to the studio of the master that Effie had recommended.

As soon as the two of them left Semshy Group, a car pulled up in front of them and out of this appeared three tall and strong-looking bodyguards. The moment they saw Celia, one of them asked, "Are you Celia?"

Etta subconsciously hid herself behind Celia in fear.

Celia was firm. "Yes, that's me. What's wrong?"

The bodyguard in the front said, "The CEO sent us to protect you. Please get in the car and we will take you to your destination."

Etta breathed a sigh of relief upon hearing this. She whispered to Celia, "Cece, Mr. Reyes really shows you a lot of attention. No one has ever received this sort of treatment in the company, not even Miss Carter!"

Celia knew that it was not normal that Nolan treated her so specially. She quickly thought of an excuse. "I think Mr.

Reyes' priority here is our productivity. How would we get anything done if we were surrounded by reporters everywhere we went?"

Etta seemed convinced by this answer. "Cece, you're right. You're so smart."

At this, both women climbed into the car and were taken to the studio with the bodyguards.

Celia explained the purpose of their visit to the receptionist at the studio. They were told to wait in the hall.

It was not long before the receptionist returned with an imposing woman in tow.

Celia was shocked. It was Annis!

The moment Annis saw Celia, she gave her a warm greeting. "Cece, I didn't know you worked at Semshy Group. It all makes sense now. No wonder you have a talent in designing! When you were at my stall, I wanted to poach you and wondered which company you worked for. It seems there's no chance of me poaching now that I know it's Semshy!"

Celia felt embarrassed by the compliment. "Thank you. You've surprised me too. I never expected that the person Miss Graves recommended was you! It must be fate!"

After this greeting, they went into the studio together.

Celia took out the confidential agreement from her bag and handed it over to Annis. "Annis, it's not that I don't trust you. It's a requirement for anyone who cooperates with Semshy Group and the Orchi to sign this agreement of confidentiality. I have already signed. I hope this is okay."

Annis took over the agreement and signed her name right away. She didn't even glance at the liquidated damages in the agreement. "Of course. I worked at a big company once. I understand the rules."

Once Annis had signed the agreement, Celia gave her design drawing to her.

Annis gave it one look before saying, "I can definitely do this."

With that, Annis wasted no time and picked up the scissors, switched on the sewing machine and began to work her magic.

Celia didn't dare disturb her. She looked very engrossed in her work.

In just an hour, the prototype had been made. The seams were smooth and neat. Annis was very skilled and her work was better than anyone Celia had seen at the Semshy Group.

Celia felt relieved, so she began to prepare the feathers with Etta.

After that, Celia took Etta out to buy some food for Annis and her colleagues.

Celia was in such a rush that she never noticed the familiar figure that she passed by on the way out. It was Livia!

Livia didn't see Celia either. Instead, the first person she saw when she entered the studio was Annis, who was serious at work.

Livia had worked several times with Annis. Whenever she wore an outfit designed by Annis, her popularity would soar, and she would appear on the top searches. She had wanted to employ her with a good pay so that Annis could only design clothes for her.

However, Annis preferred living a free and casual life. She even resigned from an international fashion company without asking for a large compensation. So, she was naturally uninterested in Livia's offer.

Livia had tried to persuade Annis to change her mind many times, but it was no use. As time went by, Livia gave up the idea. However, she still inquired about Annis' schedule frequently and made an appointment as soon as Annis was free.

After Livia's frequent visits, although the two of them hadn't become friends, they began to get along well.

Livia was a little curious to see Annis so engrossed in her work. She walked up to her desk and asked quizzically, "Annis, what are you busy with?"

Annis noticed Livia's footsteps and immediately covered the design draft, hiding it from Livia's view. Annis raised her head simultaneously and explained, "It's a design for another client. I can't show it to you. All I can say is this is the design draft of Celia Kane, a designer of the Semshy Group."

"Celia Kane?" Livia repeated, sounding irritated.

She gritted her teeth angrily and complained, "How can you work with that bitch? Did you know she embarrassed me to death? What's more, she worked with Vida to humiliate me!"

Annis had never heard of the saga before. She frowned and asked curiously, "What happened?"

Livia seized the opportunity to tell her grievances to Annis. However, Annis only frowned harder and replied righteously, "Celia did nothing wrong. She was just doing her job as a designer. But you, you were the one who accepted Kiley's idiotic idea. You're such a fool."

Livia crossed her arms and said reproachfully, "I know I'm a fool, but how could I have given up such a good opportunity? I'm sure Vida would have been more ruthless in my place!"

Seeing that Annis was not empathizing with her, Livia cried and acted like a spoiled child, "Annis, please help me. I haven't worked for a long time because of that. I even lost many fashion gigs and brand endorsements. I even got kicked out by my acting crew despite the signed contract. This is all Vida and Celia's fault!"

Annis looked pitifully at Livia, but she still refused, "I feel sorry for what you have been through. But I can't help you."

Livia wanted to continue begging, but she was stopped by Claire Hayes, who was working beside Annis. "Livia, come out with me. Don't bother Annis."

Claire and Livia were classmates in middle school. The two had entered the same high school and university and had been friends for more than ten years. It was Claire who introduced Annis to Livia.

Claire pulled Livia out of the studio, wiped her tears gently and said, "Livia, don't cry. It's no use begging Annis. She doesn't want to get involved in any trouble. She just does what she thinks is right. By the way, why didn't you tell me about Celia and Vida earlier? I would have found a way to help you sooner. You'd better leave now. Celia went out to buy food, and she may be back anytime."

Livia said tearfully, "You were so busy with your work I didn't want to disturb you. You'd better not be involved in this matter. You can't afford to offend the Semshy Group."

Claire waved her hands dismissively and assured her, "I will offend them even if I can't afford to. How can I watch them bully you? Let me take care of it. Leave now."

Livia knew that she couldn't do anything once Claire had made up her mind. All she could do now was to take her advice and leave hurriedly.

Seeing Livia leave, Claire returned to the studio, pretending nothing had happened and continued working.

Soon, Celia came back with some bento boxes. After everyone had their meals, they got back to work and started preparing the materials required for the dress.

After that, the workers began to sew the feathers on the dress and dye them.

Several hours later, the dress was finally finished.

Although it was urgently done, every detail was done well, and the final product was amazing.

At last, it was time to iron the dress. Claire found this process the most tedious as one had to be extremely careful when handling the ironing machine.

Suddenly, a light bulb lit in her mind. If she wanted to avenge Livia, this would be the best time to make an "unintentional" mistake.

It was already late at night when all the work was done. The workers gently wrapped the dress and put it neatly in a box.

Celia carried the box ecstatically and expressed her thanks to Annis repeatedly before she left with Etta.

A happy thought was passing through Celia's mind as she left the building with the dress. She wanted to improve her reputation, realize her dream, and protect what she had with Tyson with the release of her design.
