

Chapter 70 The Most Attractive Guy Ever Created

Brea was taken aback. Apparently, she had no idea she'd be called away so suddenly. "Ah, that's alright."

She turned to Celia and said, "Let me take you to visit Mr. Reyes so I can introduce you to him."

Celia was feeling a bit apprehensive. Then she recalled that she had promised Tyson not to meet Nolan until it was absolutely essential, so she waved her hand and said, "I don't believe I should accompany you. After all, I've only recently started working here. It's a bad idea. Aside from that, there will be many occasions in the future to meet with the CEO. Don't be rushed."

Brea grabbed her hand and said, "Let me take you there. Mr. Reyes will not mind."

Celia did not anticipate Brea's kindness towards her. It wasn't only the job that Brea helped her get, but also a chance to meet the CEO.

Brea had a reputation for being a sourpuss, but after spending time with her, Celia realized that she had been nothing but kind.

"The dress you altered that day was fantastic, to say the least. I've also made it to the hot searches list, and I've had a lot of positive feedback. Now I believe that you are my lucky charm. I'm hoping that with your aid, I can become famous."

Brea was quite open about what she was thinking. Celia had a better image of her since she was open and honest with her.

"I'll do odds and ends for your dress designs in the future. However, I used to be simply a nameless designer. As a result of my lack of familiarity with the current trends in the entertainment industry, I'm unsure whether I can pull it off."

Brea stroked Celia's hand on the back and murmured, "Don't worry. Just give it your all. You have my full confidence."

Celia was won over by her candor.

Thinking back on her talk with Tyson and Alita, she concluded that it was best not to see Nolan after all.

Brea's assistant, Kelley, reminded, "Miss Duffy, if I were you, I'd be in the CEO's office. Keep Mr. Reyes waiting as little as possible."

"I have to go right now."

Brea yanked Celia inside the elevator before she could react.

Worriedly, Celia inquired of Brea, "What's Mr. Reyes like? Is he compatible with others?"

Brea pondered for a moment before saying, "He is really quite eccentric, yet he is very attractive. If you don't believe me, just wait till you see him. Nevertheless, I must say that he is the most attractive guy ever created."

Celia couldn't come up with that in her mind.

Brea said, "However, he is not married at this age."

Then she gazed at Celia and squinted her eyes. "Why don't I introduce you to him? You have a wonderful physique. You seem to be his type."

Celia did not anticipate Brea's random matchmaking. "I'm married!" she said in disbelief. "My hubby is a wonderful man!"

Brea was taken aback by the revelation. She saw the diamond ring on Celia's ring finger as she lowered her gaze. "Do your husband and Wayne know each other?" she asked.

The relief on Celia's face was palpable. "My husband and Wayne are excellent friends," she said.

Brea nodded, immediately taking hold of Celia's hand, and taking a close look at the ring Tyson had given her.

"Your ring is really stunning. Is it a Graff pink diamond? Pink diamonds of this grade and purity are very hard to come by in today's market. Where did you bid it? How much money did you have to spend to win the bid?"

