Tyson was sitting on his chair, reprimanding Celia coldly, "You are here to work, not to run errands for others. I don't care why you are giving this to me. Just do what you're hired to do."

As soon as he finished scolding, he turned around and saw Nora at the door. He threw the gift to her and said emotionlessly, "Nora, I'll repeat again. I'm already in love with someone else. I will never love you. Just give up."

He paused and glanced at Celia before continuing, "You and Celia are good friends, aren't you? If you don't want your friend to lose her job, then stop doing such ridiculous things, you hear me?"

Contrary to his expectations, Nora stood firmly and glared at him. "Mr. Reyes, I understand what you're saying. I just want to know who your crush is. Is it Celia?" Nora demanded stubbornly.

Her question took everyone by surprise.

Tyson frowned.

He wanted to answer her proudly, but he also knew Celia treasured her friendship with Nora. He couldn't ruin their friendship.

He didn't answer directly. Instead, he said indifferently, "I want to protect her, so I won't tell anyone who she is. Anyway, that person will never be you. If you understand what I am saying, then stop bothering me."

His words stabbed right through Nora's heart.

Tyson was afraid that Nora would insist on knowing, so he said impatiently, "Both of you. Get out."

He then warned Celia purposefully, "Celia, don't act as you wish just because the company thinks highly of you. I am not joking around with you. I will fire you if you deliver someone's gift to me again."

Celia nodded respectfully and left Nolan's office, pulling Nora behind her.

Tears streamed down Nora's eyes as soon as they were out.

She felt so miserable that she began doubting herself. "Cece, am I really that unattractive? Why doesn't Nolan like me?" she sobbed.

Celia couldn't find the words to comfort her. She could only persuade her to give up. "Nora, love is difficult to understand. You might be better in every aspect compared to the person Mr. Reyes loves, but love is love. You can't force him to give up his love and love you back."

Nora shook her head and said willfully, "I still don't believe him. I won't give up until I see who the girl is. I must find out who Nolan likes."

Celia knew she couldn't talk Nora out of this.

Mabel heard the racket and immediately went to comfort her.

Cerissa threw herself into her mother's arms and complained with tears rolling down her cheeks, "Mother, I don't understand why Celia is so lucky. Everything good is happening to her while I'm stuck with nothing. Why won't any rich guys marry me? Why are Nolan and Alec both in love with her? Am I not as good as her?"

Mabel patted her back and comforted her, "Sweetie, you are better than her. It's just that you are not as lucky."

She pulled Cerissa into a tight embrace and said, while gritting her teeth, "You only have one last chance. Be a good girl and hold on tightly to Mack. Although the Kane family is completely crushed, you can still live a good life with Mack. As for your father and I... I will try my best not to let him ruin your chance at happiness. Your happiness is the only thing that matters to me now!"
