

Chapter 727 Tyson's Background

Celia hurried to the hospital right after leaving the office.

As soon as she stepped into the ward, she spotted Tyson standing on the balcony. She walked up to him and embraced him from behind, consoling him, "Cheer up. I'm here for you."

Tyson was taken aback. He spun around and gazed down at her. "What brings you here? I thought you were just joking."

"No way! How can I be sure that you are okay while you are by yourself? Work is not as important as you are. Right now, when you need my company the most, how can I let you stay alone?" Celia said softly, her eyes full of concern.

Tyson hugged Celia tightly, saying, "It's a real blessing to have you by my side."

Celia's presence had a positive effect on him, lifting his spirits from the bad mood he was in.

No matter what occurred, he still had the one he loved the most by his side.

Things hadn't reached their worst yet.

Tyson's phone rang at that moment.

He picked up the phone and saw that it was Briar calling.

He called Briar as soon as he discovered he wasn't a Shaw, inquiring him to look into what had taken place then.

Briar quickly discovered some information and informed him, "Sir, your mother traveled from Captern to Hosworth when she was expecting you, so your biological father is probably in Captern. That's all I've uncovered so far. I haven't found anything else yet."

Captern.

It was the capital of the country.

Tyson knew that if he wanted to know his background, he had to wait for Hobson to wake up.

The two stayed in the ward for a night.

Hobson awoke the next day. Upon hearing from the butler what had occurred during his coma, he hastily requested Tyson to summon Danilo, wanting to relate the whole story to him.

Danilo came from home soon, alone.

Hobson surveyed the people in front of him and then closed his eyes. Remembering what had transpired in the past, he opened them again and revealed to Tyson, "You are actually the offspring of the Shaw family from Captern. You have no connection to us. Your mother fell in love with a significant member of the Shaw family, but the Shaw family, due to her lower social standing, would not allow them to be together. In the end, they sought out a wealthy girl of equal social rank to be betrothed to your father."

He took a sip of water and paused for a moment before continuing, "The Shaw family had an ulterior motive behind this arranged marriage - not only to make a financial gain but also to make your mother think that your father was unfaithful. Your grandma also manipulated your father into believing that your mother had traded their love for money... Anyway, your mother left with you in grief."

Tyson asked, "So she came to Hosworth then, didn't she?"

Hobson answered, "It wasn't until your grandma drove your mother away that she found out she was pregnant. On the one hand, the old lady didn't want your mother to ruin her son's marriage, but on the other hand, she wanted her grandchild to remain in the family. So, she reached out to a relative in Hosworth, which was me, and gave you the chance to become part of our family. She also invested a large amount of money into the Shaw Group in Hosworth, which is why it has grown to its current scale. In fact, the Shaw Group in Captern is supporting the Shaw Group in Hosworth which was left to you by the old lady. That's why I gave it to you."

Upon hearing all the information, Tyson felt a complex mix of emotions.

He couldn't help but ask Hobson, "Does my biological father know my existence?"

Hobson shook his head and said, "He should be living his own life now; he doesn't know about you."

Tyson felt a little sad. "So... Was my mother's car accident related to the Shaw family from Captern?"

Chapter 728 The Cause Of Tyson's Mother's Death

Gazing at Tyson, Hobson uttered, "I don't know much about it. You should look into it yourself."

Tyson was lost deep in thought.

He had always suspected that Mack had something to do with his mother's death, but now it appeared that Mack was incapable of causing her any harm.

Hobson's inability to uncover the truth must be linked to the influential family in Captern.

Hobson sighed as he looked at Danilo and said, "Danilo, don't covet the company any more. Tyson has ownership of the Shaw Group. You haven't raised your son properly and it has caused Tyson a lot of troubles. Don't let it happen again."

Realizing that Hobson was blaming Mack, Danilo was unable to resist dropping to his knees at the head of his bed and admitting, "It's all my fault. Mack is my son and I've always believed that as long as I'm alive, I could protect him. I never thought he'd become so vicious due to my actions. I'm so sorry."

Hobson closed his eyes weakly and said, "Mack is my grandson, but I'm really disappointed in him. He has done so many wrong things. He can't just avoid being punished. Let him reflect on himself in the prison for the rest of his life."

Danilo had no choice but to nod, shamefully.

As soon as Hobson concluded speaking, he began to cough. Tyson, with a concerned expression, held his arm and rubbed his back. "Grandpa, take your time to rest. Don't fret over anything else."

Hearing that Tyson still called him Grandpa, Hobson was deeply touched. He couldn't help saying, "Tyson, even though we're not related by blood, I've always thought of you as my grandson. I was trying to protect you by not telling you about the truth because the Shaw family in Captern is not a friendly one. Even though your grandma has given us a lot of material support for you, she doesn't really care about you. You're better off not getting mixed up with them."

He patted Tyson's hand and continued, "I'm sure you can grow the Shaw Group in Hosworth. Once you're able to go toe-to-toe with them, it'll be less risky to look into your mother's passing. I don't want you to take any chances. I want you to stay safe and sound."

Hobson had already sent someone to investigate Tyson's mother's car accident and had found some clues.

He was certain that the Shaw family in Captern had exploited Mack in this matter.

He knew that if Tyson found out the truth, he would immediately rush to Captern to avenge his mother, and his special identity would make him a nuisance to many people, prompting them to get rid of him quickly.

Although Tyson was not his grandson, Hobson had been used to protecting Tyson for so many years. He really didn't want Tyson to be in danger.

Tyson seemed to have seen through Hobson's thoughts, so he said, "Grandpa, have a good rest. Cece and I have something to take care of."

Hobson nodded in acknowledgment and watched as the two departed.

Tyson and Celia drove back home together after leaving the ward.

With a heavy heart, Tyson kept thinking about his mother and the Shaw family in Captern. Celia comforted him, "If you really want to discover the truth about your mother's passing, you can take a chance. I'll stand by you no matter how tough things get."

Tyson was moved, but he reassured her, "Don't fret, my love. I'm going to take a measured approach and not act hastily."

He hugged Celia, then excused himself to go work in the study, and called Briar.

"See if my mother's car accident has any connection to the Shaw family in Captern."

"I'll take care of it," Briar responded. "But, sir, I have found out the identity of the name on the insurance policy. It is someone from the Shaw family in Captern."

He knew it!

Thinking for a while after hanging up the phone, Tyson came to the conclusion that Mack might know something.

He got in the car right away and went to visit Mack in prison.
