

Chapter 803 Recounting The Past

Tyson's words sent everyone's emotions into a frenzy. He produced a piece of evidence that revealed Faye's sordid past before marriage, stating that Faye's motive for approaching Jenifer was to enable her plan to marry into the Carter family. The plan involved seducing Lamont after he consumed alcohol. It was all part of an elaborate scheme! The reason why she brutally killed Jenifer was that Jenifer had uncovered her true nature. And when Rosita was devastated by Jenifer's death, she adopted a child who was actually her own flesh and blood!

Almost everyone was taken aback by the shocking truth that was revealed.

But Aubrey refused to accept it and denied vehemently, "No, it can't be true! Absolutely not! There's no way I'm her illegitimate child! I'm not!"

She was on the verge of a breakdown and refused to face the reality.

Tyson presented the DNA test results as evidence and said, "Here's the proof. You have to accept it whether you like it or not."

Lamont was not only surprised but also furious. He didn't give Faye a chance to defend herself and ordered the servants to take her to the police station immediately.

After the incident, Lamont dismissed the guests.

Lamont was concerned about Rosita's well-being and sent her back to her room to rest, while he stayed behind to deal with the aftermath.

He wanted to question Alec about what had happened in the past.

Alec recounted his story of meeting Jenifer, falling in love with her, and their eventual separation, word for word, in front of Celia and Tyson.

Celia was deeply touched by Alec's ability to remember his past with Jenifer in such great detail.

It was evident that he had never forgotten her mother and had always loved her.

She couldn't help but think that if her mother were still alive, she wouldn't hold anything against him.

After he heard Alec's story about his past with Jenifer, Lamont's animosity towards him lessened slightly, but he still disliked him. He said coldly, "Regardless, if it weren't for you, every bad thing that had happened wouldn't have occurred. So you bear responsibility for my sister's death, and I won't forgive you."

After that, he looked at Celia affectionately and asked, "Cece, would you be willing to return to the Carter family? Everything that belongs to the Carters is yours, and I will treat you as my daughter."

Although Celia appreciated Lamont's offer, she politely declined. "I already have my own place, so I don't want to go back to the Carter family or the Wagner family. I want to stay with Tyson."

Lamont asked nervously, "Do you have a negative opinion of the Carter family because of your mother? Do you detest us?"

Celia shook her head and assured him, "We may not have known each other for long, but you've been very kind to me. My mother's death resulted from Faye's actions, so I hold no ill will towards you. Tyson and I have made a home together. The Carter family will have my back from now on, and I'll stand by you through thick and thin."

Lamont sighed with relief when he heard what she said. "It's a good thing you don't despise the Carter family. The Carter family will always be your home, and you are welcome to return anytime."

Aubrey was upset by the affectionate moment between the two, but she was aware of her precarious predicament. She knew that leaving the Carter family was not an option for her, as she believed that she would be left with nothing without them.

She respectfully approached Lamont and said in a charming voice, "Father, I had no idea what had transpired. Could you please let me stay?"
