

Chapter 97 A Jealous Man

Celia thought about it for a while and decided to reply truthfully.

"I'm having lunch with a male colleague today. I didn't get my meal card yesterday, so he treated me to lunch. Today, I will treat him to lunch because I don't want to owe him anything."

"Well done." Tyson's reply was very brief.

He even praised her.

But Celia still felt his jealousy in his words.

Tyson had teased her so many times already, so she suddenly wanted to tease him once. Thus, she edited a message and sent it to him.

"By the way, this male colleague is our department manager and also my senior in college. He used to be a big shot in school, and many female students had a crush on him. I had never seen him again after graduation, and I didn't expect to meet him in the company. It's really fate, don't you think?"

Tyson immediately replied, "Cece, don't eat with any man again in the future. You are so beautiful. What if these men have a crush on you? And after this meal, keep a distance from this male colleague, okay? If he keeps bothering you, just tell me. I'll solve it for you."

As soon as Celia read Tyson's reply, she knew that he was really jealous. And this time, his jealousy was stronger than ever.

Not knowing whether to laugh or to cry, she replied, "I'm not that charming."

"That's not true. You only lack self-confidence. But in my eyes, you are as beautiful as an angel."

Celia couldn't help smiling, amused by Tyson's words. Before she could reply, he sent another message.

"Brea was the one who hired you to work in Semsy Group, right? Why didn't you have lunch with her instead? She must also be there in the office."

Celia felt a little amused.

"Have you forgotten that Brea is a famous star? How can she possibly eat in the canteen with me?"

But Tyson just ignored her answer. Instead, he asked another question. "Do you prefer to have lunch with your senior in college?"

Celia knew that he was very jealous now, so she immediately comforted him, "You are such a jealous husband! Okay, I promise to never eat with any male colleague again. Don't be jealous now, okay? You are my husband. I only have you in my heart."

Her words effectively comforted Tyson because his tone softened when he replied, "I won't restrict your freedom to make friends. I only want you to be happy."

The corners of Celia's mouth raised into a smile, not knowing that Tyson did the same.

"Do you mean... You already allowed me to have lunch with him?"

Tyson replied with an ellipsis. Celia pictured his jealous look in her mind, and she couldn't help laughing.

Then she sent another message. "Don't worry, I will protect myself."

After the two of them finished texting each other, Celia continued to wait for her food to be served.

On the other hand, Tyson was very uncomfortable in his office after receiving her last message. He opened the company's employee database and looked for Derek's information. Then Derek's photo came into view.

He wasn't a top-notch handsome man, but he had good facial features, so he could be considered handsome.

Tyson couldn't help thinking of Derek and Celia having lunch together in the canteen, and jealousy overwhelmed his heart.

This time, he sent a message to Brea.

"Take Celia to the executive canteen for lunch now. And do this all the time from now on."

Brea was about to go out for lunch when she received Tyson's message. She was confused.

There were two canteens in the Semsy Group. One was the ordinary canteen, where all the ordinary employees ate.

The other was the executive canteen, where only senior executives and stars were allowed to dine.

She had already suppressed the desire to gossip. But because of Nolan's words, it ignited again.

She couldn't help sending him a message to ask the questions in her mind.

"Mr. Reyes, I hope you don't mind, but I have been wanting to ask you this. Who is Celia to you? Why do you care so much for her?"
