

MADAM'S IDENTITIES SHOCKS THE ENTIRE CITY AGAIN Chapter 934

He thought that Miss Qiao would just try to not be in the last place, but who knew that she would step on Qi Lanyin?

She was like a dark horse, going from the last place to the first place step by step.

At this moment, Gu San felt a little dizzy, and his expression cracked a little. He took a deep breath and looked at Qin Si with certainty. "Ah, Miss Qiao didn't finish Mr. Huang's introductory book at breakfast. She told me herself that she didn't finish it."

She got first place before she finished reading it??

Qin Si was speechless.

Zhang Yang, who was behind him: "..."

The two of them turned to look at the calm man beside them at the same time. They couldn't help but think of how Ye Wangchuan had asked them to take care of Qiao Nian when she first came to Beijing.

— I have a sister coming from Rao City. She's timid and afraid of strangers. Take care of her.

She was a God!

The second round began very quickly. The enthusiasm in the stadium was completely ignited. In the past, the audience had already been sleepily waiting for Master Carlos' disciple to win the medicine competition. However, this year, because of the dark horse Qiao Nian, everyone was in high spirits. Their gazes were firmly fixed on the big screen, constantly paying attention to the change in points.

The cameras in the stadium were also very understanding. Basically, they were focused on Qi Lanyin and Qiao Nian. Jiang Xianrou's scenes were pitifully few.

Only when they accidentally took a big shot would they capture Jiang Xianrou. Other than that, she was nowhere to be seen.

The second round was a solo answering session.

Compared to Qi Lanyin, who was clearly more serious, Qiao Nian's expression was still indifferent. If Gu San didn't know that she had been reading seriously upstairs for the past week, he might have misunderstood that she did not care about this competition.

The judges read out the answers for the second round one by one. The rules were simple. Whoever answered first would get the points.

Of course, in order to prevent students from answering randomly, there would also be a deduction mechanism if one answered wrongly. Furthermore, if one answered wrongly three times in a row, they would be disqualified from the second round of the competition.

Therefore, unless they were confident, no one dared to rashly press the answer button.

As soon as the gunshots began, Qi Lanyin worked hard, ready to overtake Qiao Nian in the second round.

She was still thinking about the answer to the first question when Qiao Nian scored.

For the second question, she had already mobilized all her brain cells to try to speed up. Qiao Nian was still fighting to score.

The third question...

If everyone was doing papers in the first round, be it Qi Lanyin or Jiang Xianrou, they could still perform.

The second round of competition that put everyone together became Qiao Nian's personal show.

All the attention and cameras were focused on her. She was not wearing anything flashy—a long-sleeved T-shirt, jeans, and a pair of tall black canvas shoes. Her legs were wrapped under her jeans. They were long and straight, especially eye-catching.

Other than that, the cap slightly covered her exquisite face.

Qiao Nian didn't have much of an expression or movements. When the judges finished reading the questions, she was always one step faster than everyone else. She pressed the button and answered the questions.

Her seat was at the back of the stage, unlike Jiang Xianrou and Qi Lanyin who were in the first row. The cameras couldn't capture her well.

Qiao Nian's calm voice spread throughout the entire venue.

"This surgical catheter is inserted too deep, and it accidentally entered the main bronchus. The depth of the catheter insertion should be 4-5cm, and the tip of the catheter is 18-22cm away from the door."
