

Madness 406

Son In Law Madness Chapter 406

Pay Up Before Jennifer could say anything, Donald refuted, "What kind of mother are you? Were you going to let him rape your daughter right in front of you?" Albert laughed aloud in response to that. "See that? Even your ex's mother is against you. What's the point of living a life where no one loves you? You might as well just drop dead." He snapped his fingers a moment later and ordered, "You know what? Let's not waste our breath. Men, break his legs right now." All the men came after Donald simultaneously. It was as though they were a zombie horde, and they were relentless. "Don't kill me! Please don't kill me! This has nothing to do with me. It's all Donald's fault!" screamed Kevin fearfully as he placed his hands on his head and cowered on the ground. Skylar shouted as well, "He's right!

do whatever you want. Break his legs if that is what you wish." Albert smiled evilly and made his way to the couple. "Jennifer is your ex-wife, but rumor has it that you've never slept with her. This is perfect. I will f*ck her right in front of you." He reached out once more to grab Jennifer. Jennifer turned pale and hugged Donald tightly. "It'll be fine," cooed Donald as he shook his or moaned in pain. Ethan seemed displeased. "Hmph! One punch and you punks are already rolling on the floor." Albert was stunned momentarily, but he snapped back to his senses immediately after. "Ethan, are you declaring war against us?" Albert wasn't scared of Ethan because he was certain that the latter had, at his pocket and called his father, who was also the head of the family. "Hey, Dad? I'm working on the issue at